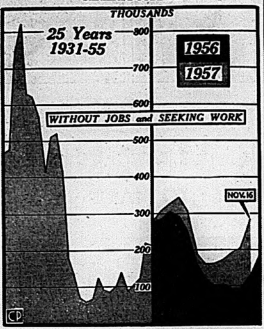
BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 16, 1958

CANADA'S JOBLESS



Unemployment in Canada appears to be heading towards its highest level since the depression of the 1930s.

The graph at right shows the monthly fluctuation in the number of those without jobs and seeking work as reported in the labor force survey of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics during 1956-57.

At the last date for which figures are available, last Nov. 16, a total of 292,000 were reported jobless.

Labor Minister Starr said in the House of Commons last week that 698,153 persons were registered for work with the National Employment Service at Dec. 26. An unknown percentage of these applicants, however, is people employed but looking for different jobs.

The graph at left traces unemployment from 1931. It is based on labor force surveys in late May or early June for the years 1946 to 1955 and on census material for years prior to 1946.

It shows Canada's highest total of unemployment at 817,000 in 1933 with the jobless figure dropping to 62,000, its lowest level, in the wartime year 1944. (CP Newsmap.)

Slowdown of Construction, Heavy Winter Layoffs Given As Cause of Unemployment

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada is experiencing its worst unemployment since the hungry '30s.

The roll of jobless probably has more than doubled since mid-November.

Federal statistics for that month showd 352,044 Canadians registered for new jobs at National Employment Service offices. Of those 292,000 were out of work.

REPORT TO COMMONS

At Jan. 2, Labor Minister Starr reported to the Commons, 754,610 were registered. The number actually unemployed was not announced. If the proportion was the same as in November, Canada had at least 625,000 unemployed at the New Year.

Canada's worst previous winter for unemployment since the end of the war was 1954-55. Unemployment reached 363,000 by March that season.

At the peak of the depression, in 1933, unemployment stood at 817,000—7.8 per cent of the population, then 11,381,000.

Unemployment of 625,000 this winter is about 3.7 per cent of the population, now estimated at almost 17,000,000.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows all provinces seriously affected by mounting unemployment.

The Salvation Army and other welfare organizations report increased applications for assistance in some areas. Mission houses are full in many cities.

CONSTRUCTION SLOWDOWN

Slowdown of construction, hit by credit restrictions and the usual winter layoffs, is given by many officials as a main cause of unemployment. It also is listed by most as the industry expected to provide first jobs in the spring.

A slump in the market for wood products and reduction of agricultural employment have added to the lists of jobless in some provinces, particularly Newfoundland and British Columbia.

Some officials say increased immigration during 1957 is partly responsible for this winter's high unemployment total. An estimated 280,000 immigrants came to Canada in the 12 months to Dec. 31.

Others disagree. A spokesman for the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor in Quebec said: "The present state of unemployment is not due to mass immigration. Many thousands of the immigrants are dependents who do not affect the working force at all." He blamed credit restrictions, industrial production in excess of demand, foreign competition for Canadian markets and increased automation.

U.S. PARALLEL

The Canadian unemployment picture is parallelled in the United States. Unemployment for December was estimated at somewhere between 3,500,000 and 4,000,000. Signs point to the job situation getting much worse.

In his Commons statement Jan. 13, Labor Minister Starr said the average rate of increase in the number registered for work seemed to be levelling off. In the week ended Jan. 2 the increase was 56,487 compared with an average increase of 65,900 since Dec. 1.

"This levelling off to 56,487 this week gives us reason to hope and indeed anticipate the weekly rate of climb may be tapering off," he said.

Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said in an interview a few days earlier that unemployment is "without doubt the most urgent problem we face in Canada." He said his riginal estimate, last fall, of 500,000 unemployed by the end of winter would prove considerably below actuality.

Here is a province-by-province glance at unemployment in Canada, provided by Canadian Press reporters:

NEWFOUNDLAND

Unemployment usually hits its peak in March. It has already climbed higher than any previous peak since Newfoundland entered Confederation. The Unemployment Insurance Commission expects the jobless total in the St. John's area to reach an all-time high of 20,000 before spring. It was 16,186 at Dec. 22. due to the fact fishermen this winter for the first time could file insurance claims.

The province's total unemployment at Dec. 22—23,373—was 5.6 per cent of the population compared with 3.2 per cent the previous year.

NOVA SCOTIA

R. P Hartley, regional Atlantic employment director, declined to estimate total unemployment but said "there's more . . . than last year."

Poor market conditions in the woods industry, a decrease in construction and slack waterfront activity are blamed for ment. However, at the year-end welfare workers in Halifax reported no increase in applications for assistance.

There have been fewer jobs for women in the Atlantic region, partly because of layoffs in textile mills and slower retail trade.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

This is normally a slack season for farm employment. However, large construction projects in Charlottetown and Summerside have kept most building-trades workers on the job. Low prices for the potato crop are having a depressing effect on retail trade.

NEW BRUNSWICK

Mr. Hartley, whose office is in Moncton, N.B., said unemployment is worse than it has been for years but that the doubling of registrations for unemployment benefits at Dec. 19 from a year earlier makes the situation "look far worse" than it is." Registrations in New Brunswick at Dec. 19 were 33,361 compared with 17,615.

He said broadening of insurance regulations to include fishermen and the earlier provisions of some supplementary benefits caused part of the increase.

Unplaced applicants for woods work were up 50 per cent from 1956 and fishing conditions had deteriorated. Mining and manufacturing were fairly steady.

The NES estimate of 33,361 seeking work is about six per cent of the population.

QUEBEC

Unusually large seasonal layoffs in pulpwood, logging, mining, textiles, iron and steel mills and transportation equipment plants have contributed to Quebec's unemployment total — already 98,743 or 2.1 per cent of the population at Nov. 16, compared with .21 per cent in the late autumn of 1956. A total of 239,274 were registered for work at Jan 2.

A drop in construction activity is blamed for most of Montreal's unemployment. At Dec. 19 there were 44,855 Montreal men and 16,507 unemployed women in greater Montreal. The figures for a year earlier were 25,433 and 10,050.

L. E. Duquette, Quebec regional employment officer, said the number of women without work is not increasing as quickly as the number of men. He said unemployment in the province is general, with no particular area hit exceptionally hard by the slump.

"Unemployment is the worst it has been in 10 years," said a spokesman for the CCCL. "It will reach its peak (in Quebec) at the end of February and ease slightly with spring building projects."

ONTARIO

Bruce MacDonald, NES statistician, says "the percentage of unemployed is up all across the province, but the increase seems to be in proportion throughout."

Latest figures show 219,894 registered for work at Jan. 2, compared with 125,868 last year.

George Buckley, supervisor of general placement for Ontario, says Windsor is suffering more intensely than other places due to production cutbacks in the auto industry. This also affects feeder points like Oakville.

"Construction is down, due mostly to the tight-money policy," Mr. Buckley says. Fewer homes are being built and this affects the steel industry.

"Bush workers are hit. Newsprint demand is down. There is less export lumber going out."

At the beginning of the year, Ontario had 4.6 per cent of its population registered for jobs compared with 2.3 per cent a year before. But 12.4 per cent of population was registered for work in 1934.

MANITOBA

William Darracott, manager of the Winnipeg office of NES—it covers the area from Portage la Prairie east to the Ontario border—says 21,084 were out of work at Dec. 26 compared with 14,387 in 1956.

He said at the year-end there is nothing unusual in the employment pattern in his district and no places where unemployment was exceptionally bad. He said retail stores and manufacturers will be close behind the construction industry in providing jobs in the spring.

"It snowballs. One group opens up and starts a payroll, money becomes available and others open up."

However, government and labor men said they expect heavy unemployment to continue until late February or early March. Welfare officials said missions and shelters are filled, an indication unemployment is higher.

SASKATCHEWAN

At the end of the year, the provincial labor department put the number of unemployed at 20,102—2.3 per cent of the population compared with 1.4 per cent a year earlier.

Agriculture and construction have contributed most to Saskatchewan's unemployment. Neither is expected to pick up until March.

ALBERTA

J. F. Kristjansen, regional employment officer, said employment opportunities are low but manufacturing plants are working at capacity and there are some vacancies for skilled labor.

Unemployment has risen all year in Alberta. The labor department says it is simply a case of the available working force outstripping the number of jobs.

"Unemployment will increase until March," says J. E. Oberholtzer, deputy labor minister. "If the winter is mild, it might not be a heavy increase. If bitter, there will be a marked increase."

He forecast a much better employment year in 1958.

Maj. A. P. Simester of the Salvation Army in Edmonton said this is "one of the worst seasons we have on record."

Labor spokesmen said construction, including low - cost housing, is expected to open up jobs in the spring.

At Nov. 17, latest figures available, Alberta had 22,448 jobless —about 1.9 per cent of the population—compared with 10,160 in 1956.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

A significant change is reported in the pattern of B.C. unemployment this year. Says Rev. Russell Ross of Vancouver, whose United Church welfare bureau helped three times as many persons in December as a year earlier:

"In past years 90 per cent of the men were drifters. This year half of them were steady, reliable working men."

Depressed market conditions for lumber and a long strike in pulp and paper have disrupted employment in the forest industry, B.C.'s biggest. Kitimat, near Prince Rupert on the northern coast, is hard hit by construction layoffs on aluminum smelter jobs. Prince Rupert and Powell River have had high unemployment since Nov. 14 when the province-wide pulp and paper strike began.

At Jan. 2, 93,939 persons were registered for work with the National Employment Service in the Pacific region. This is about [illegible] per cent of the population of about 1,500,000, almost twice as many as were registered at the same time last year.

CNR Orders 151 Diesel Units

MONTREAL (CP)—The CNR has placed orders amounting to $27,500,000 for 151 diesel-electric locomotive units, it was announced Wednesday. General Motors Diesel, London, Ont., and Montreal Locomotive Works have been awarded contracts for the units due for delivery later this year.

General Motors will build 81 units.

Issues in Thorneycroft's Resignation Fairly Clear

LONDON (CP)—The issues in Britain's "resignations crisis" now seem fairly clear.

Two main points emerge from Tuesday night's speech by Peter Thorneycroft explaining why he resigned as chancellor of the exchequer.

One is that fresh fireworks can be expected within the next few weeks. These will come when the government tables supplementary estimates totalling some £200,000,000 ($560,000,000 covering extra expenditure in 1957-58.

The other is that defence outlays played as big a part in the financial dispute as did social services. In trying to prune government expenditure, Thorneycroft obviously fought two losing battles—the first against Defence Minister Duncan Sandys, the second on the issue of such welfare services as family allowances.

Originally, the point at issue in the resignation of Thorneycroft and his two chief treasury officials, Enoch Powell and Nigel Birch, was said to be a mere matter of £50,000,000.

The figure covered certain social services. Thorneycroft was portrayed as intent on slashing an item which some regard as politically untouchable, while a majority in the cabinet favored a more flexible policy.

From Thorneycroft's speech, and hints dropped by political commentators, it seems apparent that the motivating factors in the three-ply resignations were broader than first suggested.

Some insiders suggest that the first deadlock occurred over defence, with Sandys threatening to resign if his estimates were pared down. When a similar impasse developed on social services, Thorneycroft and his treasury aides felt they were isolated in the cabinet, and that they could no longer pursue the tough financial policies they inaugurated last September.

The next round in the "resignations crisis" will occur next month. Publication of the supplementary estimates will disclose extra sums to cover higher pensions, compensation for Egyptian refugees and deficiency payments to farmers.

These supplementary estimates can be described as the submerged part of the monetary iceberg on which the Thorneycroft bark really foundered.

"I don't know what the future may hold for me, but I thank God I had the strength to make the decision I did make," Thorneycroft said Tuesday night to constituents at Newport, Monmouthshire.

He disowned any idea of leading a revolt in the Conservative party. The significance of his speech is probably that it will lead to a growing debate on the broad question of whether the government is really in earnest about strengthening the pound, or prefers to let things drift.

Demand Made to Investigate Activities of Union Adviser

OTTAWA (CP)—A demand was made in the Commons today for a government investigation into the personal finances and activities of Hal C. Banks, adviser to the Seafarer's International Union.

During discussion of immigration department estimates, H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) called for deportation of the union leader, a United States citizen now applying for Canadian citizenship.

Mr. Herridge also urged the government to take action on the shipping situation to relieve unemploymtnt among seamen and to take steps to return the ships of the Canadian National Steamships to Canadian registry.

The company should make an effort to resume negotiations with the elected officers of the SIU and the government should take the lead to bring the CNS strike to an end, he said.

The company has transferred the ships registry to Trinidad.

Mr. Herridge quoted individuals he described as reliable sources of information as saying Banks owns SIU office buildings in Saint John, N.B., Toronto, Fort William, Thorold, and Montreal. He said he could not divulge tht names of his informants.

The CCF member said his informants told him the titles of a number of SIU properties had been transferred to Banks. He added that land registry offices in Vancouver and Montrtal show Banks has title to buildings and lots in the two cities valued at about $163,000.

Acting Immigration Minister Davie Fulton told the committee it would be highly improper for him to express an attitude on the matter, btcause an application by Banks for Canadian citizenship now is before the courts.

A judgment is expected shortly and the whole matter would be referred to him for an ultimate decision, he added.

Mr. Fulton said it would be quite impossible for the government to act on information given by anonymous informants. He expressed the hope they would go to court to provide the necessary information.

Mr. Herridge said there is an atmosphege of fear among SIU members. Many sailors are afraid of being put on the "do not ship list" which would make it virtually impossible for them to get jobs.

Mortgage Money May Be Easier Next Season

TORONTO (CP) — Stewart Bates, president of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, predicted Wednesday that mortgage money should be easier to obtain this year than in 1957.

But he told the National House Builders Association while the shortage of mortgage money will vary from year, it "will be with you as long as you live."

"This is a problem of a young country growing up. With all its frontiers, there is just not enough capital."

Mr. Bates appealed to Canadian builders not to build "class" communities where everyone is in the same wage bracket. New subdivisions should include rich and poor alike.

"There will be no good community unless there are a couple of bums in it," he said.

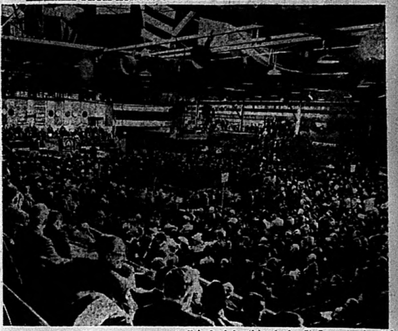
The CMHC head contended that unless Toronto took some action to control its growth, it would develop into another Los Angeles in 15 years.

If housing subdivisions continued to "fasten on to the present conglomeration," there will be "continuous subdivision from here (Toronto's downtown area) for 50 miles around."

BEGINS SERVICE

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto hospitals today begin a free blood transfusion service which will continue as long as the city's citizens donate 1,500 to 2,000 pints of blood weekly. Until now patients have had to pay $25 a pint for blood or replace each pint with two pints. Now there will be only a $5 charge.

LIBERALS FROM ACROSS COUNTRY GATHER TO PICK LEADER



Radio and television apparatus were at all convenient spots in the Liberal convention hall in Ottawa. The meeting enthusiastically applauded retiring leader St. Laurent, who said he was leaving the party in good hands no matter which candidate the convention chose.

Proposal That No Changes Be Made in Liberal Federation Constitution Brings Protest

OTTAWA (CP) — The grass roots have put the boots to the brass at the national Liberal convention.

A rank-and-file uprising Wednesday night forced party organizers to refer back to committee a report on political organization.

The report called for urgent mobilization of party workers for an "imminent" election but proposed that no changes be made in the National Liberal Federation's constitution.

This was too much for some delegates, already restive following complaints that too much time was being devoted to formal speeches from the rostrum and not enough to floor discussion of resolutions.

Irving Keith of Winnipeg, former vice-president of the national federation, proposed that members of Parliament and senators "be not qualified to be officers in our association."

He said it was "an insult to all delegations" that they had been summoned to Ottawa and just handed mimeographed copies of the report of the political organization committee.

"This is typical of what's been going on for a number of years and it's time we had a change," Mr. Keith declared.

Parliamentarians had their own "clubrooms" on Parliament Hill. They could stay in them instead of moving to convention headquarters and calling themselves the National Liberal Federation.

"If our party is so poverty-stricken in laymen that it hasn't enough to form a federation then it is not fit to form a government," he said.

J. J. Green of Renfrew moved that majority representation at party conventions be from organizations at the constituency level.

"It is singular," he said, "that the politician who cries most loudly for grass-roots representation is the politician who when in power neglects the grass roots."

The revolt could hardly be described as spontaneous, however. A mimeographed schedule for the evening's events, issued in advance by convention organizers, listed "Report of committee on political organization" and, next, "Objections to report from floor," in each case naming those prepared to speak.

Senator C. G. (Chubby) Power of Quebec who presented the report, recommended that the committee reconvene today to reconsider it in light of Mr. Keith's and Mr. Green's amendments.

Leadership candidate Paul Martin in his nomination speech made an oblique attempt to capitalize on rank-and-file discontent.

He said the leadership decision could not be imposed on the convention but must come from the rank and file.

On Tuesday night, Mr. Martin's committee charged that the Liberal "brass" is trying to tell delegates how to vote tonight in the leadership contest. The implication was that the brass favors Lester B. Pearson, Mr. Martin's principal opponent.

Earlier Wednesday, a group of young Liberals took a verbal cut at the Liberal hierarchy.

Allan Cantor of Winnipeg, president of the Manitoba Young Liberals Federation, maintained that an individual delegate "can't get himself heard without going through a lot of red tape."

"And so far, there appears to be reluctance from those in central control to allow people to come out and say what they want to say," he added.

Mr. Cantor made his remarks to reporters after he had attempted, without success, to change the convention's order of business so that floor discussion of resolutions would precede set speeches from Liberal leaders.

Therese Giroday of Winnipeg, in seconding a resolution on free trade, complained she was getting scant attention.

Then Mrs. Nellie Burke, 65-year - old Regina grandmother, seized a floor microphone and demanded attention for the young Liberals.

"I was forced to speak," she told reporters afterwards. "I was so angry."

Great Increase In Scholarship Funds Is Urged

TORONTO (CP) — A great increase in scholarship, bursary and loan funds for Canadian university students is a real necessity, says a report issued Wednesday by the Industrial Foundation on Education.

As an interim measure the report suggests industry and commerce establish a loan fund; and that a scholarship fund be set up on a national competitive basis.

The 77-page report, entitled The Case for Increasing Student Aid, states that much more information is required, but gives the following figures from the foundation's studies:

Undergraduate costs for the 1957-1958 term will be about $97,000,000, which will be supplied as follows:

Student earnings (including summer and part-time work and savings) $58,500,000; family aid $31,000,000; scholarships $5,000,000; loans available through educational channels $2,000,000.

This means students finance about 60 per cent of their own expenses and family aid finances 32.5 per cent.

A total of 27,427 graduates and undergraduates are assisted.

A total $7,459,950 in scholarships and fellowships is provided as follows:

Government $4,464,050; industry and commerce $1,009,300; private individuals $787,060; universities $368,850; institutions (including fraternal societies, religious groups, women's and men's clubs and professional societies) $364,850; alumni $57,850; other $407,990.

In its conclusions the report says that a major consideration is whether or not it is reasonable to expect students to provide over 60 per cent of their income themselves, and adds:

"A cursory examination indicates that it is not. About 46 per cent is provided in the United States from student earnings and savings. Many plans now are being formulated which will, no doubt, reduce this still further.

"As an interim measure it is suggested that industry and commerce establish a loan fund which could be centralized under the control of the Industrial Foundation on Education, and from which all properly-qualified educational institutions in Canada could draw when it was established that a need existed, and that talent would be wasted if the need were not satisfied.

"Loans would be interest-free until the student graduates and then bear interest at a rate to pay only for the administration of the fund—possibly three per cent.

"Experience in Canada and the United States confirms that the largest percentage of loans are recovered."

Sues Wife, Lawyers, Magistrate, Police, Jailer Over Vagrancy Case

OWEN SOUND (CP)—William Lyle Kennedy, Arran Township farmer, has brought a civil action against his wife and eight other defendants arising out of the sale of farm property and his arrest last May on a charge of vagrancy.

The action, opening in Ontario Supreme Court here Monday, is against Isabel Kennedy, his wife; William Rae Tomlinson, Port Elgin lawyer; Edward Chappell of Saugeen Township, Mrs. Kennedy's father; provincial police Constable Ivan D. Wade; Magistrate O. C. McClevis; Arthur E. Brown and John St. Ellis, justices of the peace; Archie Ferguson, Bruce County jailer, and J. W. Freeborn, crown attorney.

The first part of the action is a claim by Kennedy against his wife, her father and Tomlinson for a sum of money paid to Mrs. Kennedy out of the sale of farm property.

The second part, against the other six defendants, all residents of Walkerton, is for damages for malicious prosecution, false arrest, false imprisonment, false conviction, libel and pain and suffering arising out of a prosecution under the Criminal Code last year in Walkerton, 30 miles south of here.

Kennedy was charged last May 30 under the vagrancy section of the Criminal Code, "a section designed to deal with loiterers and vagrants."

He was remanded to jail for a week without bail and later committed to an Ontario mental hospital for examination. He was returned to the jurisdiction of the court with the report there was no indication of mental illness or mental deficiency.

He appeared before Magistrate McClevis July 4, was given suspended sentence and bound over to keep the peace.

Kennedy later sought an order quashing his conviction, but on Oct. 1, Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson of the Ontario Supreme Court rejected his application.

At this hearing, Crown counsel objected to the court hearing affidavits by a lawyer and others that Kennedy pleaded not guilty to the vagrancy charge. The record of the magistrate's court was that Kennedy pleaded guilty and that his counsel requested no evidence be taken.

The Ontario Court of Appeal subsequently upheld Mr. Justice Wilson's rejection of Kennedy's application, holding that in Ontario "the record may not be contradicted."

An application to the Supreme Court of Canada was dismissed Nov. 11.

Kennedy's lawyer, Lewis Duncan of Toronto, complained about the disposal of the case in a 2,000-word letter to Justice Minister Fulton.

2nd Thurlow

SECOND THURLOW — Mr. and Mrs. Archie Greatrix were recent afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Smith of Eastwood Park Drive, Belleville.

Recent callers of Mrs. Dan Whalen were: Mrs. T. V. Corrigan, Read, Mrs. R. Parkman, Hamilton, Mrs. Cecil Keene, Mrs. J. Hilton and Mrs. Douglas Atkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Manley Mitchell and family were recent supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atkins.

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. William Donaldson in the death of a loving husband, Mr. William Donaldson of Belleville; also to the grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Manley Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mitchell and to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mitchell. A large number of friends and relatives attended the funeral on Thursday afternoon.

The bearers were: the two grandsons, Messrs. Manley and Donald Mitchell; Mr. Fred Mitchell, Messrs Harry Grills, Vernon Weir and Douglas Atkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mitchell, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Atkins, attended the social evening and presentation to Mr. and Mrs. O. Dalrymple, agriculture representative of Hastings county on Thursday night at Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thomson were Tuesday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Bryson Leslie, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atkins were Saturday night visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Peoples.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Ray and family visited with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ray, Front Road, last week.

The young folks are taking advantage of the ice and colder weather these days and enjoying skating and hockey.

BOY AND GIRL BY ROUSON

(ADVT.)

"HAVE YOU NOTICED HOW WELL INFORMED CLARA IS?"

"Yes, indeed! Anytime we meet for Bridge or Tea, Clara's conversation is always worth listening to. She seems so thoroughly well-informed on so many subjects."

"I know her secret—she told me she is an avid reader of the Toronto Daily Star."

"Ah! Now I understand why she is so well versed on current events. See—this Star is so complete with its NEWS and Pictures of what's going on at home and abroad."

"Yes, and see this section containing a wealth of information every woman wants to have about fashions, home management, child care, movies and such."

"I notice that Clara so often mentions what some of the Star's special writers are commenting upon. She says the Star's writers are brilliant in their particular spheres!"

"Yes, my husband has mentioned them. He says that for information, education and entertainment the Toronto Daily Star is a positive Treasure Chest."

"Seems to me I've heard that expression before somewhere. I know everyone in my family wants some part of the Toronto Daily Star."

Monarch TEA-BISK Meat Roll

ECONOMICAL, TASTY, AND SO EASY TO MAKE

CANADA'S FINEST

FRENCH MEAT ROLL

Oven Temperature 425°

TEA-BISK CRUST
- 2 cups MONARCH Tea-Bisk
- 1 teaspoon parsley flakes
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- ⅓ cup less 2 tablespoons water

MEAT FILLING—Combine and mix well together—
- ¾ lb. minced beef
- ½ cup chopped celery
- 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 1 teaspoon parsley flakes
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 2 unbeaten eggs
- ¼ cup catsup
- ¼ cup fine PURITY Rolled Oats or bread crumbs
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper

To 2 cups MONARCH Tea-Bisk add parsley flakes and mustard. Mix well together. Add water and mix lightly. On floured canvas or baking board, knead dough gently 8 to 10 times. Roll into a rectangle approximately 12" x 9". Spread on meat filling within ½" of border. Roll up like jelly roll, starting from the long side of rectangle. Dampen edges and seal, tucking ends of roll under. Place on greased cookie sheet and bake 425°F 30-35 minutes. Serve with sauce made from undiluted tomato or celery soup, or beef gravy and sliced mushrooms.

The beauty of this TEA-BISK Meat Roll is that it looks and tastes like a real party dish, yet it actually stretches your food budget. There's plenty of it to satisfy the family's demands for more, and it costs mere pennies a serving. Do save the recipe. It's one of the best in a long time.

Rates on Papers, Periodicals May Be Amended

OTTAWA (CP) — Auditor-General Watson Sellar believes Parliament should have a new look at post office mailing rates on newspapers and periodicals.

Although last amended in 1954, he said in his blue book on the public accounts of Canada tabled Wednesday in the Commons, this section of the Post Office Act is "to a material degree legislation of the 19th century."

Mr. Sellar said postal revenue from newspapers and periodicals averages about $5,000,000 annually. The post office estimated the cost of handling is about $24,000,000.

"It has never been legislative policy to fix rates to result in a self-supporting service, the aim being to encourage the dissemination of news, with some categories of newspapers and periodicals charged lower rates than others.

"Whether the $18,000,000 estimated difference between revenue and cost now benefits, in particular, the publisher, advertiser or subscriber is an imponderable.

REVIEW USEFUL

"However, a review of practices causes the view to be entertained that the text of Section 11 of the Post Office Act covering newspapers and periodicals might usefully be re-examined due to changes that have taken place over the years in publishing practices and in the fields of distribution and communication."

Mr. Sellar's audit of the public accounts for the fiscal year ending last March 31 was tabled by Finance Minister Donald Fleming.

Mr. Sellar said a newspaper or periodical to qualify for rates in Section 11 must be one that "is known and recognized as a newspaper or periodical and consists wholly or in great part of political or other news or of articles relative thereto and to other current topics."

Mr. Sellar said that in 1908, government law officers were asked to define the meaning of "in great part." They had concluded that news content should be at least 40 per cent, "but without explaining how the percentage was established."

"NO PROBLEM THEN"

Mr. Sellar continued:

"No problem then existed because news content 50 years ago was often 60 per cent or more. Today the situation is that many publications often exceed 60 per cent in advertising content although, because of their larger size, actual news content in columns of space is generally greater than it was a half-century ago.

"Parliament has taken notice of this, so far as the large dailies are concerned, by fixing one rate for advertising content and another for news."

Veteran Halifax Newspaper Man Given High Post

OTTAWA (CP) — Robert James (Bob) Rankin, 61, a veteran Halifax newspaper man, was appointed vice-chairman of the National Harbors Board Wednesday.

A native of Chatham, Ont., Mr. Rankin joined the Halifax Herald as a reporter in 1921. He has been with that publishing organization ever since and is now vice-president (public relations) of the Halifax Herald Limited.

He is honorary president of The Canadian Press, of which he is the immediate past president.

Mr. Rankin, who will now sever his connections with The Herald company and move permanently to Ottawa, takes over his new duties Feb. 1.

He succeeds Brig. Maurice Archer, 47, of Quebec who moves up to chairman of the board, a position vacated recently by the appointment of the former chairman, B. J. Roberts, to presidency of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority.

Other members of the board are Ernest J. Alton, 55, a traffic expert from Vancouver and C. H. Malcolm, 60, grain expert from Winnipeg.

WILL GET $15,000

Under authority of the National Harbors Board Act, appointments to the board are made by order-in-council for a 10-year period. Salary of the chairman is $17,500 annually and of the vice-chairman and members $15,000.

The act became effective Nov. 1, 1936, bringing under one central jurisdiction the harbors of Halifax, Saint John, N.B., Chicoutimi, Que., Quebec City, Trois-Rivieres, Que., Montreal, Churchill, Man., and Vancouver.

Announcement of the appointment was made from the office of Transport Minister George Hees.

The announcement said Mr. Rankin had experience in harbor management through having completed five years as chairman of the Port of Halifax Commission, of which he is at present a member.

It referred also to his prominent role in economic development of the Maritime provinces as president of the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council. He is a member of the board of directors of the Halifax Infirmary and a member of the council of the Halifax board of trade.

WOUNDED IN FRANCE

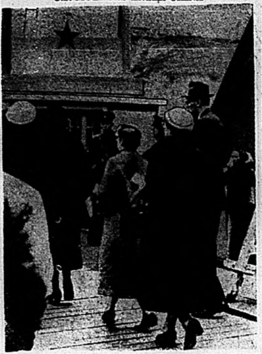
Mr. Rankin, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rankin of Chatham, received his education there. He served overseas with the 1st Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force, and was wounded in France.

He was married in 1924 to the former Constance Marguerite Buckler of Annapolis Royal, N.S. They have two sons.

MINISTER RESIGNS

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Alfonso de Laferrere has resigned as Argentina's foreign minister, the provisional government announced Monday. A government source said Laferrere resigned because he was not consulted on a proposed trade mission to Iron Curtain countries.

U.S. MOTHERS ENTER CHINA



Three U.S. mothers, happily awaiting a reunion with their sons, held in Red Chinese prisons, are shown after crossing the border at Hong Kong, where a Communist Red Star marks the checkpoint where they were cleared. Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

We do not like to pick on the little guy with so much on his mind and on the eve of the Great Hockey Adventure, but we would so appreciate Wren Blair being a little more consistent in his statements.

Last November when the McFarlands sent the Dunlops home with their tails dragging a 4-1 defeat, La Blair promptly stated to all and sundry, "Belleville will win the group title this year—and perhaps the Allan Cup."

In his Oshawa column yesterday, the little man probably gushing huge sighs of relief after the Dunlops staged a superhuman third period effort to score three goals to tie Kingston, and then go on and win it in the overtime, stated, "Kingston will win the group title."

And he asked the Pembroke Lumber Kings if they were listening.

And just in case you're interested, it is passing strange that the maestro of the Dunlops would bypass the club that has whipped his Dunlops three times and tied them once, in favor of a team that has bowed to the Dunlops seven times in eight starts.

And in his chameleonic manner, we suppose, he will pay the same compliment, or repeat it, to the McFarlands should they beat, tie or come close, in the game with the Dunlops here tomorrow night. Oh, well, it makes good copy.

Blair claims, and rightly so, that the Dunlops were travel-weary previous to their games with Pembroke and the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens last weekend. The champions had played three nights in a row besides the long haul from the home pastures to the cold grey atmosphere of Ottawa and Pembroke. However, he did blame Long John Henderson for the loss to Pembroke when talking to an Ottawa sports editor, but in his column he attaches the guilt to "too much hockey."

And there are rumors out of Bytown that Mr. Blair and an Ottawa sports columnist argued long and bitterly over something or other, and the verbal blasts from both sides would not make either combatant eligible for a Nobel Peace Prize.

However, speaking of travel-weary teams, Mr. Blair should not forget that not a few of the Dunlops' victories on home ice could have been given a great big assist by Joe Travel, insofar as the Cornwall and Pembroke teams are concerned. Yet the Lumber Kings, finishing one periodic "round-the-horn" circuit in Whitby walloped the Dunlops 5-4. Travel fatigue is no respecter of hockey clubs, but when the typewriters are down it all depends on whose ox is being gored.

However the Dunlops have a tough schedule yet to finish before they see the Statue of Liberty fade in the distance on January 28. Yet the boys should be able to get their normal share of sleep for starting Friday all executive and playing personnel finish work, and start on a two-months leave-of-absence.

After their joust here with the Macs tomorrow night, the Dunnies take on the Cornwall Chevies in Whitby and on Sunday they tangle with the Bulldogs in Windsor. Following that game they hit the road, travel all day Monday and meet the American world hockey club in Hibbing, Minnesota, Tuesday night. The following night they clash again with the Americans in St. Paul. Thursday they are due in the Soo to play the Greyhounds, on Friday they play in Sudbury and wind up the week at home to Windsor.

All-in-all the Dunnies will have some seventy-plus games under their belts by the time they step on the gangplank of the Queen Lizzy or whatever liner they take from New York. They should be in shape for whatever Europe holds in store for them.

Anyway they are here tomorrow night to do league battle with the Macs. Win, lose or draw they are Canada's national champions and Belleville fandom should turn out en masse if only to wish the boys "bon voyage" and send them away with the city's best wishes for success in the forthcoming world hockey tournament. More power to their puck-pickin' elbows — except against the McFarlands.

Opinion Difference Hinted Between Blues' Coach, Boss; Worsley Will Play Tonight

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Irrepressible Lorne (Gump) Worsley has bounced back into the National Hockey League and his return may indicate a slight difference of opinion between the general manager and the coach of New York Rangers.

The little netminder with the impish grain was recalled Wednesday from Providence Reds of the American Hockey League for tonight's game against Boston Bruins and significantly the announcement was made by general manager Muzz Patrick.

Coach Phil Watson, who rarely goes back on an ultimatum, said Sunday that Marcel Paille, who replaced Worsley when he pulled a leg muscle after 10 games this session, would stay with Rangers despite their 9-3 and 3-2 losses during the weekend.

Thursday Watson had announced Paille must produce in the two games or pack his bags.

FEARS PRESSURE HURTING

Patrick said he considers Paille an outstanding prospect but thinks the heavy pressure in the NHL might keep him from developing. Moreover, he said he has received excellent reports on Worsley from "neutral observers."

Paille, something of a butterball at five - foot-eight and 175 pounds, was outstanding when he broke into the league and widely-regarded as a rookie-of-the-year prospect.

But his goals-against average slumped to 3.10 as the Rangers dropped from second to third place and some of his shine began to fade. It was said he was bad going to his right, slow clearing and smothering the puck and prone to let chest-high shots rebound.

The 26-year-old Worsley was booted down to the Western Hockey League after winning the Calder Trophy as the NHL's best rookie in the 1952-53 season and has never been allowed to grow complacent since coming back in the 1954-55 season.

WORSLEY ANSWERS BACK

Watson, who says the little netminder needs constant needling, may be shy of him because of past collisions. The outspoken coach is not accustomed to replies from players he dresses down, and Worsley has never been bashful.

Last spring Watson said his netminder was a "beer-belly." Asked for comment Worsley replied that his coach was "full of baloney."

The Bruins have called up forward Gerry Ehman from Springfield Indians to replace Leo Labine, in bed with a temperature. Ehman is only scheduled to play one game.

Montreal Canadiens, who need help as much as Alberta needs more oil, tonight welcome back big Jean Beliveau, out since Dec. 12 with a rib separation. Toronto Maple Leafs have the unwanted task of trying to stop the Habs on their home ice.

In a third game Detroit Red Wings, on a hot streak under new coach Sid Abel, try to maintain their one-point edge over Rangers while playing host to last-place Chicago Black Hawks.

B.C. SEEKS SERVICEMEN

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions will be heavy in former United States military personnel next football season because college boys are getting too tough to deal with, says line coach Vic Lindskog. Back home after a scouting trip through the United States, Lindskog said most college players "all think they can make the National Football League and they are a little wishy-washy in their thinking."

FOGGY IN BLIGHTY

LIVERPOOL, Eng (Reuters)—England beat Scotland 3-1 in an "under 23" soccer international here Wednesday night in fog so thick with players here visible to spectators only when play was near the sidelines.

Irish Whip Marlboros 4-2; Biltmores Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Biltmores, Ontario Hockey Association Junior A champions last season, have crept into a tie for the league's sixth and last playoff spot this season.

They did it at the expense of the slipping Barrie Flyers, beating them 3-1 in Barrie Wednesday night to gain a share of sixth spot with their hosts.

In Toronto, St. Michael's College Majors outscored their cross city rivals, Toronto Marlboros, 4-2 to gain a fourth-place tie with Peterborough Petes.

At Barrie the Flyers and the Biltmores both scored first-period goals then fought through a scoreless second period. In the third Biltmores, who outshot Barrie 35-23, broke loose for two goals and the win.

Rod Gilbert, Leon Rochfort and George Usitalo scored for Guelph and Rod Gilbert picked up Flyers' lone goal.

St. Michael's were led by centre Dave Keon's pair of goals. Keon scored one in the second after a scoreless first period and added his other in the third, it was the only goal of the period. Wingers Gino Ubriaco and Lou Angotti banged in the other St. Michael's goals. Jack McMaster and Carl Brewer scored for Marlboros.

Tonight Hamilton Cubs are host to St. Catharines Teepees and Marlboros are in Peterborough.

Rademacher to Fight Patterson, So Pete Says

By TOM KINNEY

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—Pete Rademacher is going to fight Floyd Patterson for the world's heavyweight championship again.

That is, unless he gets bumped off by some unknown fighter during his European boxing tour, in February and March.

"These fights, slated for my tour, are real fights," said Rademacher.

"I want to prove to myself that I can go 10 rounds. I believe I can and I'm confident of beating any man in the world, including Floyd Patterson."

The 1957 Olympic champion said he didn't mean to be critical of the men who took charge of his training for the title fight which he lost to Patterson last Aug. 22 at Seattle, Wash. "They trained me according to the way they do professionals, but I knew better than anyone in my camp what I needed to do before that fight. They wouldn't let me . . ."

DISAGREED WITH ORDERS

Rademacher contended he wanted to box and do road work until the day before the fight but trainers (he had no manager insisted that he lay off three days procedding the title go because they feared he'd go stale.

"Next time I'll know better," the 28-year-old boxer said at a local gymnasium where he's been training for more than a month.

Does Pete Rademacher really believe that he'll fight Patterson again?

"I sure do," replied the 215-pound former army lieutenant who was boxing instructor at Fort Benning, near here, until his discharge early last year. "In fact, Cus D'Amato, manager of Patterson, has already promised me a return fight with the champon and Floyd and I shook hands on it."

Nine Clubs Seek Franchises in Intercounty

KITCHENER (CP) — Despite several years of financial difficulties and league-splits, the Ontario Intercounty Senior Baseball League appears assured of lively competition this season.

Nine clubs have applied for franchises and with the league's annual meeting called for tonight all but two—Galt Terriers and Guelph Plymouths seem sure starters.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen Brantford Red Sox, Hamilton Beavers, Listowel Legionnaires, London Majors, St. Thomas Elgins and Oakville Oaks appear financially sound.

The Beavers, Red Sox and Majors are refugees from the short-lived Great Lakes-Niagara District League, which folded last year after one season. The three teams formed the Great Lakes half of the set-up.

Brantford and London, former members of the Intercounty League, have already forwarded their $50 entry fee to league headquarters and have been accepted.

TWO DIVISIONS POSSIBLE

Opposition to the Hamilton entry may come from Listowel because of the distance between the two centres and as a result it is reported the league may form two divisions.

Jim Allard, newly-appointed to the executive of the Terriers, is not optimistic about his team's chances of entering. Allard says the team still carries a heavy deficit from the years when the Terriers employed high - priced help.

However, the club stands to collect $200 as its share of the pool for teams which did not make the playoffs.

The delegates are also expected to discuss raising the league's share of playoff gate receipts to 10 per cent. In the past it collected 12 per cent but five per cent went to the pool.

The host club, Kitchener-Waterloo, last year's champion is all set for the new season, club president Peter Stewart and manager Johnny Kumornik report.

The Hamilton entry will be piloted by Dan Lewandowski, their manager last year. He is a veteran pitcher with some major league experience with St. Louis Cardinals.

CRU On Spot

New Independent Grid Group Could Emerge From Meeting

By STAN McCABE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—Nine major professional football teams could emerge from meetings this weekend [illegible] a new independent group, [illegible] the control of the venerable Canadian Rugby Union which now governs all football in the country.

The eastern Big Four league, and two clubs in the five-team Western Interprovincial Football Union already have indicated they are in favor of seccession from the CRU.

The two leagues and their own policy-making body, the Canadian Football Council, will hold annual meetings here Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Commissioner G. Sydney Halter of the WIFU said a break with the CRU is likely to be discussed.

BOMBERS OPPOSED

Only Winnipeg Blue Bombers have announced they will try to hold the line against any hasty breakaway from the CRU. Calgary Stampeders and British Columbia Lions are on record in fa[illegible] seccession.

[illegible]ph Parliament, president of the Blue Bombers, has said the CRU should be given a chance but changes should be made to give the professionals voting control on major issues.

Under the present voting setup, the professional leagues have three votes apiece, the Ontario Rugby Football Union two and the Quebec Rugby Football Union and the Intercollegiate Union one each. The other leagues can beat the professionals on the percentage vote required on constitutional amendments.

BIG JOB FOR HALTER

The Big Four at a meeting in Toronto Jan. 4 proposed that Halter be appointed commissioner for both leagues with an assistant to supervise Big Four operations.

The Blue Bombers and Edmonton Eskimos both favor the idea b[illegible]e WIFU commissioner hims[illegible]ad no comment.

Delegates at the meetings are expected to consider rule changes, the matter of an interlocking schedule between the two big leagues, the WIFU schedule for 1958, and restrictions on imports of American players.

Although there has been no forecast of a discussion on television the WIFU annual meeting may do some talking about the subject since CBC-TV is expected to extend across the whole area covered by the league by the time the season starts.

DISAGREE ON IMPORTS

Suggestions may come for both a reduction and an increase in the number of imports allowed. Some clubs are expected to plug for retention of the rule in effect in 1957.

A proposal to allow all backfi[illegible]s to block 10 yards beyond th[illegible]e of scrimmage in the professional leagues will likely be approved.

Backs now may block only up to the line of scrimmage unless they line up outside the ends. Linemen and no more than two backs lined up as flankers may block 10 yards.

Western teams have favored more blocking for the backfielders for years and the Big Four now has agreed that it wants the change.

'Slingin' Sam Offered Post as Saskys Coach

[illegible]LENE, Tex. (AP)—Sammy B[illegible], former passing great and now head coach at Hardin-Simmons University, was quoted Wednesday night as saying he has been offered the job of head coach of Saskatchewan Roughriders of Canada's Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Baugh told the Abilene Reporter-News the Roughriders offered him a three-year contract "for the most money I'll ever be offered in coaching." He did not give exact salary terms.

Baugh said he would give his answer Saturday morning after meeting with the athletic council at Hardin-Simmons.

Baugh is being sought for the job vacated by Frank Filchock, head coach at Regina for the past five years.

Baugh has been at Hardin-Simmons as assistant and head coach since retiring from 16 years of professional football with the Washington Redskins five years ago. He has two years remaining on a five - year contr[illegible]

SHROPSHIRE DROPPED

HAMILTON (CP) — Coach Jerry Brown of Hamilton Cubs announced Wednesday the release of leftwinger Jim Shropshire, 19. He said Shropshire was "not producing" in the club's OHA Junior A play. Shropshire came to Hamilton last season from Weston's Junior B team via Toronto Marlboros.

Jimmy Foxx Reported Broke Without Job

BOSTON (AP) — The former manager of Jimmy Foxx said Wednesday night the old home run slugger is broke and without a job.

James A. Silin, a Boston advertising man, disclosed Foxx' financial plight to Boston baseball writers who immediately invited Foxx to their annual dinner Jan. 22.

Silin said the 50-year-old Foxx told him that he became ill and lost his job with a "transfer company" just before Christmas.

Silin said Foxx misses out on baseball's player pension plan by one year. He also recalled Foxx has lost huge sums in various ventures.

Foxx won the American League's most-valuable - player award three times while with Philadelphia and Boston. His 534 second to Babe Ruth.

SPORT IN BRIEF

TWO FOR ARSENAL

LONDON (CP) — Two stars of Hereford United's spectacular Football Association Cup run got their reward Wednesday — a move to a First Division Club. Ronnie Clayton, 20, and Freddie Jones, 19, the right-wing pair who carried non-league Hereford to the third round of soccer's premier competition, were signed by Arsenal. The transfer fee was reported to be about £6,000.

HANKS WON $113,0

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Sam Hanks of Pacific Palisades, Calif. winner of last year's Indianapolis 500-mile classic, topped United States racing drivers in 1957 by taking $113,055 in prize money. The U.S. auto club said drivers in its 131 sanctioned events won purses totalling $1,091,096 last year.

EXPAND TV USE

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankees, taking full advantage of the west coast shift by the Giants and Dodgers, have announced they will televise 140 games in 1958—all 77 at home and 63 on the road. In 1957, the American League champions telecast all home games and only 12 out-of-town contests.

Ted Kluszewski Is Confident Of Comeback

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Big Ted Kluszewski, Pittsburgh Pirates' "calculated risk," said Wednesday his back isn't giving him the miseries anymore. He's confident he can become a real asset to Pittsburgh.

Kluszewski, obtained recently from Cincinnati Redlegs in a trade for first baseman Dee Fondy, looked the picture of health as he talked with newspaper men at a press luncheon. But he said he will have to play some baseball to determine whether he has recovered from the back ailment which handicapped him the last 18 months.

Big Klu is scheduled to receive a physical examination today.

"At least now I know that I have a slipped disc," Kluszewski said. "When I first started having pains in my back I had several examinations and as many different explanations of what was wrong with me. Someone even said my troubles might be psychological and, at first, there may have been something to that theory."

Britain May Have Four Clubs In World Soccer

LONDON (AP)—Britain Wednesday qualified a third team for the world soccer cup in Sweden next June and took a big step toward putting a fourth in the 16-country final.

Northern Ireland advanced over Italy 2-1 in a Belfast game that was completed peaceably, although an Italian player was ejected in the second half. It was in marked contrast to the teams Dec. 4.

In Tel Aviv, Wales agained a 2-0 decision over Israel and needs only to gain a draw in the second leg at Cardiff Feb. 5.

The Belfast result brought some angry protest from the Italians over the action of Hungarian referee Istvan Zsolt in expelling Italian winger Alcide Ghiggia. There also were rumbles of discontent over the apparent trend to turn the World Cup competition into a sort of British Empire possession. The Italians had needed only a tie to advance.

Italian soccer chief Dr. Ottorino Barassi gave notice he will campaign at the International Federation of Football Associations for a maximum of two British teams to qualify in future tournaments.

England and Scotland already had won through to the final. Northern Ireland was the third British team to qualify and Wales is almost certain to be the fourth.

South America has only three finalists—Argentina, Brazil and Paraguay. Mexico represents Central America. The other eight teams are Russia, Hungary, Austria, Czechoslovakia, France, Yugoslavia, West Germany and Sweden.

Barons Whittle Hershey Lead With 4-2 Win

CLEVELAND (AP)—The second-place Cleveland Barons defeated Hershey Bears 4-2 Wednesday night to cut the Bears' lead in the American Hockey League to two games.

Trailing 2-0 early in the second period on goals by Arnie Kullman and Ed Panagabko, the Barons tied the score on goals by Boris (Bo) Elik and Don Hogan. Jimmy Moore sank the winner in the third period. Cleveland's final goal came with four seconds of play remaining, when defenceman Steve Kraftcheck sailed the puck into an empty Hershey net.

Referee Frank Udvari ejected Willie Marshall, the Bears' star centre, in the second period when Marshall declined to retire to the penalty box on a 10-minute misconduct sentence.

Bob Satterfield Chuck Spieser To Quit Ring

NEW YORK (AP)—Two boxers quit the ring Wednesday for entirely different reasons. The end of the trail for heavyweight Bob Satterfield was caused by an injury; light heavyweight Chuck Spieser retired after failing to win backing for a bout with Archie Moore, champion of the division.

Satterfield, 34, had been scheduled for a Jan. 29 feature bout in Chicago against Wayne Bethea of New York. But an eye specialist told him to never fight again after discovering the boxer was in danger of losing the sight in his left eye.

Satterfield, eighth - ranked heavyweight, has been told to undergo surgery for a detached retina.

Spieser, 28-year - old seventh-ranked light heavyweight, will become a salesman for a Detroit paper company. His retirement followed weeks of frustration in attempts to line up a title bout with Moore.

Chuck and his brother-manager Joe, corraled $55,000 of a proposed $100,000 guarantee for Moore, but couldn't sell television rights.

Both blamed the television failure to pressure on networks and sponsors by the International Boxing Club. The IBC denied any pressure.

Spieser had been scheduled to fight Bobby Layne of Miami in Detroit Feb. 1. It would have been his first bout since he suffered his first knockout—by Tony Anthony last April. The loss knocked Spieser out of his No. 1 challenger ranking and got Anthony a shot at Moore's title. Anthony was knocked insensible in the seventh round in September.

CAT MUTILATES TOT

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—A cat is believed to have chewed three fingers from the hand of three-year-old Jacqueline Merrill as she played in a barn Monday. The parents, working in the barn, heard the child's screams and found the index, middle and ring finger of her right hand chewed down to the palm.

Martinez Decisions Turner Meets Logart in Title Bout

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It will be Vince Martinez against Cuba's Isaac Logart for the vacated welterweight championship—National Boxing Association version.

Martinez became eligible for the fight to determine a successor to Carmen Basilio as welterweight king by outpointing Philadelphia's Gil Turner in a 12-round bout Wednesday night. Basilio gave up the title after winning the middleweight crown from Ray Robinson.

Martinez from Paterson, N.J., received only a split decision from the officials but he established a clear superiority over Turner with a sharp punching exhibition, especially in the final three rounds.

Referee Pete Pantaleo scored Martinez the winner by a single point under the Pennsylvania five - point maximum system, 54-53. Judge Jimmy Mina voted for Martinez 56-54. Judge Nate Lopinson saw it a 55-55 draw.

59th VICTORY

As a result of his 59th victory against only five defeats, Martinez qualified for the title test with Logart. The NBA said last week that the winner of the Martinez-Turner bout should meet Logart, who earned a final berth in the welterweight elimination tournament by defeating Gaspar Ortega last month.

If and when Martinez and Logart meet, they still face the problem of non - recognition in some areas. The world boxing championship committee, headed by Julius Helfand of the New York State athletic commission, has declared it will not recognize a 147-pound champion until Virgil Akins of St. Louis and George Barnes of Australia are eliminated in the ring. Massachusetts, which recently seceded from the NBA, has declared Akins the champion.

Turner, who was knocked out five years ago in a welterweight title fight with Kid Gavilan, was the aggressor Wednesday. But Martinez, a clever boxer, kept him off with a sharp left jab and hard overhand right.

Curling Brothers May Be Ruled Professionals

TORONTO (CP) — A special meeting of the Ontario Curling Association Friday may discuss whether Don and Garnet Campbell, two members of the famed curling clan from Avonlea, Sask., should be ruled professional and ineligible to compete in OCA events.

The Campbell brothers are both members of the rink which represented Saskatchewan in the Canadian curling championship last March.

R. K. Metcalf of the Royal Canadian Curling Club hired Don as a curling instructor for this season. And this season Garnet has made a tour of various clubs in Ontario, giving lessons.

Aussie Golfer Can Defend British Title

LONDON (AP)—The way was cleared Wednesday for Arthur Walker of South Africa to defend the controversial English amateur golf title he won last year.

The English Amateur, as opposed to the British Amateur, is open only to Englishmen. An exception was made in Walker's case last year because his father is English.

After his victory there was widespread discussion in England that the rules would be changed to bear all except native-born Englishmen.

"Nothing has been done about the rule change," said George Folkard, secretary of the English Golfing Union. "Walker lends color to the championship. We welcome competitors."

Chevies Blank Pembroke 3-0 Maroons Ditto Dutchies 2-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chatham Maroons proved Wednesday night that attack isn't all-important in winning games—providing you've got a top-line goaltender.

Maroons fired a mere 16 shots at Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen's Boat Hurley, while the OHA-NOHA Senior A series leaders peppered Don Head in the Chatham goal with 38. Maroons won—2-0.

Head, in tremendous form, shut out the Kitchener forwards who have piled up 172 goals in 41 games this season.

While Dutchmen were losing, Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds, in first place until they were displaced by Kitchener three weeks ago, started climbing back towards the top. They defeated Windsor Bulldogs 5-2.

DEVANEY STOPS KINGS

In the Ontario Hockey Association Eastern Senior A series another goaltender stepped into the limelight.

Jerry Devaney of Cornwall Chevies faced Pembroke Lumber Kings — weekend conquerors of Whitby Dunlops — and kept the Kings scoreless as Cornwall won their first game away from home this season 3-0.

The Kitchener-Chatham game was delayed 10 minutes in the first period when a fight broke out after Dutchmen's centre Billy Graham crashed into Head. Chatham defenceman Bob Wilson, who recently served a six-game suspension, came off the bench during the melee and picked up a misconduct.

Jim Connelly and Jack Kane scored the goals which snapped Kitchener's win streak at seven straight.

HOUNDS FINISH FAST

Greyhounds, ahead 2-1 at the end of the second period against Windsor, outscored the Bulldogs 3-1 in the final.

Tom Walker paced Soo, scoring twice. Their other goals came from John Bailey, Nelly Podolski and John Offidani. Walter Pawlyshyn and Elmer Skov scored for Windsor.

Rene St. Hilaire, Neil Burke and Ray Labelle were the scorers for Cornwall against Pembroke.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was watching pop smoke the 2nd half of his ferst cigar, and I said, Hay pop, what did you want to be away back before anybody knew you? Did you want to be anything special? I said.

Yes indeed, something quite special, pop said. I wanted to be sutch a famous generel that Alexander the Grate would take 2nd place in the histery books. Posterity would know the 2 of us as William the Grate and Alexander the 2nd Grate. I'd go around conkering right and left and to and fro until there wasn't a country left that wasn't either in my invincible grip or under my iron heel, he said. I said, G, then you would of been the dictater of the werld.

That's the very title I picked out for myself, pop said. But I was going to wear my crown modestly, slightly over one ear, as if it didn't meen any more to me than a straw hat, he said, and I said, But instead of that you married ma, and then I came along. Were you serprized, pop? I said.

I was delighted, pop said. I realized it was the best thing for the rest of the werld and probably not even a bad thing for me, he said, and I said, G, it would be funny if it werks just the opposite with me.

Are you planning to be the dictater of the werld? pop said, and I said, No sir, I'm planning to marry a bewty looking gerl like ma, and have a boy like me only twice as smart. So if I serprize myself by never even meeting the bewty looking gerl, and becoming the dictater of the werld instead of you, wouldn't it be funny? I said.

Millions of peeple wouldn't laff, pop said.

Which they probably wouldn't.

Aussie Kids Continue to Smash Records

SYDNEY (AP) — Australia's amazing swimming youngsters continue to smash world records.

John Monckton, 19, easily surpassed the world backstroke standard for 200 metres and for 220 yards Wednesday night. He clipped 1.4 seconds off the 200-metre mark and broke the 220-yard record by 2.2 seconds.

And 15-year-old John Konrads, the Latvian native, shattered the 400-metre and 440-yard freestyle records in the New South Wales Last Saturday Konrads bettered the world marks for 800 metres and 880 yards.

At Melbourne, Ilse Konrads, 13, John's sister, became the first woman swimmer to break five minutes on three successive 400-yard freestyle events. Her time Wednesday night in the 440 was four minutes and 59.9 seconds in the Victorian championships.

Minor Leagues Get No Promise Of Govt. Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spokesmen for baseball's minor leagues took their case against major league television to the U.S. justice department Wednesday but got no promise of government help.

Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, and Frank Horton, president of Rochester Red Wings in that league, called on Robert A. Bicks, No. 2 man in the department's anti-trust division.

Non-committal statements that followed supported the current belief that official Washington will not intervene to halt plans of six major league clubs to televise a Sunday "game of the week" into minor league territory this season.

All the justice department would say was that "an exchange of views on the broadcasting issue" had taken place.

CABBIE'S LAST RITES

WARSAW (Reuters) — A thousand taxis drove in slow procession through the city centre Tuesday behind a coffin containing the body of a murdered Warsaw taxi driver. It was the traditional cabbies' funeral for Tadeusz Szydlowicz, 40, third taxi driver murdered here in three months.

GETS $9,000 MONTHLY

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The widow of Louis B. Mayer has accepted a $9,000 monthly allowance from the film producer's $10,000,000 estate. Mrs. Lorena Danker Mayer, 50, had requested $15,000. She was left the family home, personal effects and $750,000 in Mayer's will.

Minor Hockey

Seven games were played in the Belleville Minor Hockey Association at Memorial Arena last night with high scores in the squirt division and ties in the midget section.

MIDGET

Northern Electric and Home and School fought to a 4-4 deadlock. D. Sinclair scored two goals for H. and S., with E. Keller getting the other pair. J. MacKeen and Archer had assists. B. Hill paced Northern with a goal and two assists while B. Ethier had a goal and assist. B. Lattimer and J. Sheridan also scored.

Big "A" and Elliott Motors also battled to a tie, this one ending with a 5-5 score. H. Pointer had a pair of goals for Big "A" with Larry Rowbotham getting a goal and assist. Larry Hull and T. Thompson also scored while B. Morton, L. Scott and R. Cameron had single assists. Stu Muirhead scored two goals for Elliott's with G. Scott earning three assists. L. Mavety had one and one while D. Dafoe and B. Durrant each scored once.

Booth Radio - TV's picked up the lone midget victory, edging the TPT's 3-2. T. Hook scored twice, including the deciding goal, for Booth's. McMillan had one goal and J. Boulter two assists. M. Hunter and D. Moore were the TPT marksmen, both unassisted.

SQUIRT

Black Hawks whipped the Rangers 10-2. Don Muldoon had the three-goal hat trick with Mike Fahey adding a pair. Singletons went to Ross McDougal, Mike Smith, Doug Hunt, Rodney Carter and Mike Brennan. Ross Drysdale and Paul Armstrong were the Ranger marksmen.

Barons took a 7-3 victory over the Browns with Gary Lucas pacing the attack. Lucas scored five of his club's goals with Jan Morris getting the other pair. Rickey Wilkinson, Wally Marner and Mike Sharland tallied for the Browns.

David Emerson scored three times as the Maple Leafs downed the Canadiens 4-2. Harold Bawden added the other Leaf goal while Stephen White and Warren Wolfenden scored for Canadiens.

Red Wings shaded the Bruins 3-2 with Charles Kyd getting a pair and John Pringle the other Wing goal. John Doran scored both Bruin goals.

Coach Suggests Line to Curb Board Checking

BOSTON (AP)—Cooney Weiland, the former National Hockey League star and coach, suggested Wednesday that a line three feet from the boards be painted around the ice surface to curb board checking in college hockey.

Welland, now hockey coach of Harvard University, said such a line would aid officials in calling board checking penalties. Under college rules, a player may body-check an opponent on the boards only if he is within three feet of the boards.

AT THE PARK — Brian Donlevy is trapped by two men from outer space when he comes across a plant in Britain that they have taken over. "Enemy From Space", a United Artists science-fiction drama, will open tonight at the Park Theatre. On the same program "Gunsight Ridge", starring Joel McCrea, Mark Stevens and Joan Weldon. Both attractions are first Belleville showings.

AT THE McCARTHY — Cary Grant seems to be trying to make up his mind between Jayne Mansfield and Suzy Parker in this scene from Twentieth Century-Fox's CinemaScope comedy "Kiss Them For Me", which opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Cary, Jayne and Suzy spend four crazy days in San Francisco during a wartime leave in the Jerry Wald-produced, Stanley Donen directed, film.

AT THE BELLE — Robert Wagner plays a young intelligence agent who encounters a gang of International spies in Japan, in Twentieth Century-Fox's CinemaScope De Luxe Color thriller, "Stopover Toyko", co-satrring Joan Collins and Edmond O'Brien.

Sez Who? Should Have Trial On Television Says Writer

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Apparently the most difficult recorded voice to recognize is your own—or your wife's or husband's.

This is one of the conclusions drawn by William Cooper, executive producer of "Sez Who?—which every Sunday evening defies a panel on CBS radio to identify a great variety of recorded voices.

For example, Joey Adams, a fairly regular panellist on the program moderated by Henry Morgan, failed to recognize himself singing opera. (The recording was taken from a commercial he made years ago.) And he and panellist Eloise McElhone failed to recognize the voices of their respective spouses in a love scene, recorded especially for Sez Who?

GUESS TOUGH ONES

On the other hand, the panel has had little difficulty in tracing down such obscure voices as Dan Beard, one of the founders of the Boy Scout movement, talking about birds and bees; Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig doing a corny vaudeville routine; the voice of Santa Claus in a New York department store.

From a great variety of obscure places Sez Who? has drawn an amazing range of recorded voices. Here are some of them:

Amos and Andy as a harmonizing duet in the long ago when they called themselves Sam and Henry. Gayelord Hauser lovingly describing the virtues and versatility of bananas. The Dionne quintuplets singing together.

VALENTINO'S SOLO

Thomas A. Edison telling what he obviously thought was a funny story. (It wasn't.) Rudolph Valentino singing The Kashmiri Song. (After this Valentino wisely made only one more recording.) The voice and bugle call of Bugler Lansbury, who sounded the notes that caused the light brigade to charge in the Crimea. (Edison recorded it.)

Helen Hayes singing. (Her only known recording taken from a 1932 movie, The Sun Daughter.) O. Henry discussing writing. (A rare collector's item.)

Cooper said that Sez Who? has found a wealth of material in the private recording collection of a New York lawyer named Jay Schneider who, strictly as a hobby, has collected about 400,000 recordings — enough to fill two freight cars.

MANY COLLECTIONS

The program also has discovered that collecting obscure recordings is quite the rage with numerous persons. A favorite collector's item are the voices of various presidents of the United States, Cooper said. Nearly every collector seems to think he has the only collection of presidential voices—and nearly all have the same.

Two voices that the program will not use because they are indisguisable and so well known are those of Sir Winston Churchill and the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Cooper currently is searching for a recording of Churchill singing.

Sez Who? is an entertaining radio program—sez me—and it's surprising that it hasn't had a trial on television.

TORONTO GIRL OUT

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP)—Barbara Fullwood of Coral Gables eliminated Ann Sparling of Toronto 6-2, 6-1 in the third round of the Coral Gables-University at Miami tennis tournament Wednesday.

Red Sanders Going to See Football Show Is Correct

By BOB THOMS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Red Sanders, actor.

That's the billing for UCLA's great grid coach tonight as he appears in the case of "the 80-yard run" over television's Playhouse 90. How does he feel about it?

"Me an actor? I've never acted in ym life. I didn't even appear in a play when I was in school, and I didn't think much of those who did."

Then why is he turning thespian at this late date?

"The same reason the others in the cast are doing it—money," was his honest reply.

BRIGHT YOUNG CAST

Sanders joins a cast headed by Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward, two bright and intense young players of the Actor's Studio school.

I hinted that perhaps he does a little acting before his teams prior to the games and during the halves.

"Are you kidding?" he replied. "You just can't get away with that pep - talk stuff any more. Why, if I tried it, my players would laugh at me.

"Football players are a lot different nowadays from what they used to be. The academic standards at UCLA are getting higher all the time. Many of my boys are brilliant students who could hold their own with the best minds. I couldn't possibly fool them with a pep talk."

FILL UP ON DATA

Sanders said his method of preparing his men for battle [illegible] to give them all the infor[illegible]n they need for victory. [illegible]at means reports from the spotters, scouts and other observers.

He gets $1,500 for tonight's show, partly as actor and partly as technical adviser.

"I've never seen a movie or TV show about football yet that was technically correct," he remarked. "This one is going to be."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, January 16

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Today you have within easy reach the letters and data from remote parts of the world, or from out of town that will be most helpful. It is up to you to make decisions quickly and see th[illegible] they are the right ones.

[illegible]rus (April 20 to May 20)— Se[illegible]ingly out of the blue comes the inspiration how to best co-operate and deal with regular pals and associates for best results. Start operating on them immediately. Don't procrastinate or sleep on it.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)— This is the right psychological time to get in touch with associates and discuss the rudiments of your plans and efforts for the future. Show your ace in the hole, co-operate, and cement long-term relations.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)— Procrastination has been your downfall for some time. Let this not be another of those days or evenings. Get into action now, whether it be with personal or business affairs, motors, horses, etc. Action!

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — There is rare pleasure in store for you today if you will only plan the day and follow through with plans. Show how affectionate, talented you are. Tonight then is even more wonderful for enjoyment, filling soul with joy.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)— Don't wait another moment. Scrutinize those affairs, situations at home. You are mentally and physically strong now to c[illegible] with them and bring to most satisfactory solution in this vital sphere. Be clever.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Step out early and make those calls on trade, friends, relatives, with whom you want real understanding, friendship, success. Good day for errands, also, and study. But don't neglect your paper first!

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)— Don't dream today. Wake up to all the opportunities about you and you can make money plentifully. Get a better financial plan set up, a more lenient one. Generosity and bigger ideas will work wonders soon.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Here is your kind of day at last! There is so much you want to do, accomplish. Get right out and succeed now, but take care you do not drive others too forcibly, ruin things at the last moment.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — All those secret anglings that so please you — you can enjoy yourself thoroughly today at them. But think more magnanimously. Plan time in which to contact powerful persons. Speak their language and pull yourself up.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Your desires are closer to fruition than you anticipate, so refrain from wasting time with great numbers of persons whom you believe to be worthwhile and important, while neglecting the truly fine and real.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)— This is the day to repair immediately to that influential person who can and will give you the valuables, support, prestige you need. Be specific with your desires, plans and win out. Also, be grateful, show courtesy merited.

If your child is born today . . . The child born today is the dynamic tot who will require much attention given to him or her attention given to his or her activities, so plan sports, games, etc., cleverly or your youngster will wear you out completely. Thereby, the habit of constructive work, thinking will be formed early and then life's patterns can be worked out easily and naturally. Here we have the master of his own ship, and the wife of the diplomat, especially.

STOPS WHILE WINNING

LITTLE FALLS, N.J. (AP)—Fred Pulson, 87-year-old salesman who has driven a total of 300,000 accident-free miles since 1910, has declined a renewal of his driver's licence. "I've never had an accident, and rather than spoil my record with all those crazy drivers on the road, I'm returning the application," he wrote the state bureau of motor vehicles.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was up in my room using the little kitchin scizzers to stab holes in a peece of cardboard for something, and one of the points accidently broke off, and I thought, Heck, I better go and put them back in the kitchin draw where they belong.

Which I started to do, and ma was in the kitchin pealing potatoes, and I thought, Heck, I better tell her, or elts she's libel to think she broke it herself and get a gilty conscience over it.

And I said, Here's your kitchin scizzers, ma.

Oh, I was looking for them, ma said, and I said, Did you miss them, ma?

Quite the contrary, ma said. In fact I was hoping they were lost for good. They wont even cut paper. They are a constant aggervation and I dont know why I was silly enough to put up with them as long as I did, she said, and I said, Gosh, ma, do you meen you are sorry they're back?

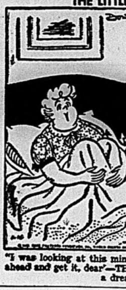
I couldn't be less concerned, because I've been using my 2nd best sewing scizzers in their place, much to my infinite relief, ma said, and I said, Well then jimminies, ma, can I keep this old pair to stab holes with, or anything I want?

Yes, yes, take them out of here, ma said.

Which I quick started to yelling, Hurraw for me, and ma said, Well, I'm glad they're making somebody happy.

Which they were, and proving there's no use giving peeple bad news when they dont want any kind of news.

THE LITTLE WOMAN



"I was looking at this mink coat, and you said, 'Go ahead and get it, dear'—THAT'S when I knew it was a dream!"

Centenary

CENTENARY — Mr. B. Harder attended the Stokely field men's convention at Guelph last week.

Several children and young people have been enjoying skating near the new highway.

Pleased to report Mr. Wilbur Coon is much improved following an attack of 'flu.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Pearson and children and Mr. and Mrs. O. Pearson spent Thursday in Kingston visiting Mrs. Pearson's mother, Mrs. Berry.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hoskings spent the supper hour on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Nobes.

On Monday evening the Young People's Union enjoyed an hour's skating, later going to the church hall for their meeting which was in charge of Mr. Roy Nobes.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hancock spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Egerton Hancock of Orono, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hamilton called on Mr. and Mrs. G. Sills on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Roy Thrasher spent Monday afternoon with Mrs Blanche Roblin, of Belleville who is at present confined to her home with sciatica.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hart had supper on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Harder.

There was a good attendance at communion service in Centenary United Church on Sunday. The Rev. A. C. McCallum, supervising minister in charge was assisted by Mr. R. Percival, student minister.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Nobes and family enjoyed an oyster dinner at the home of Mrs. Nobes' father, Mr. Roy Harry, Johnstown, on Sunday.

CHARTING FIRE COURSE

scientists set fire to this house near Cornwall, Ont., in one of a series of tests to determin what happens after fire starts in a house or building. Eight such abandoned structures along the St. Lawrence Seaway power projects are to be destroyed in the tests. The council hopes its findings will help develop building echniques which will retard the spread of house fires. (CP Photo).

TELLS OF EXCHANGE OF RUSS - U.S. LETTERS

James Hagerty, right, press secretary to President Eisenhower, tells to newsmen at the White House of the president's letter to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin. The chief executive proposed a pact with Russia to renounce the use of outer space for military purposes but rejected the Soviet call for an immediate "summit" conference. The proposal was sent in a 4,000 word letter to Bulganin, replying to a Dec, 10 note note from the Russian leader. The president pinned full responsibility for the cold war on the Soviet Union and assured Bulganin it would be "impossible" for the U.S. to ever launch aggressive war against Russia.

REVOLT AGAINST

He would reform the party and steer a course toward international peace and full employment if he became leader.

He attacked the Progressive Conservative government for "fumbling" with trade policy and causing great unemployment in Canada.

But the 1957 Nobel Peace Prize winner said it was in the field of peace that he could do the greatest good as leader. He could do "more for this great cause than I could hope to do in any other capacity."

"The struggle for peace through international co-operation if we lose here, we lose everything."

Attacking the government, he said Canada's prosperity is threatened "as it has not been since the Tories were last in power during the hungry thirties."

JOBLESS, TRADE

There were already 750,000 out of work, trade figures were declining and for agriculture the government had "only palliatives and words instead of the price security and fair share of income to which the farmer is entitled."

Mr. Martin, speaking with a campaigner's sense of drama and emotion, said that as leader he could win the next election whenever the Diefenbaker government dared its life.

He emphasized the leadership should not be imposed on the convention. It must come from the rank and file.

The 50-year-old Mr. Henderson, a Presbyterian minister, said he had offered himself for the leadership because Canada is poised at the crossroads in the atomic era.

NEEDS LEADERSHIP

The country needed strong, moral and dynamic leadership. But he conceded that not he but one of the other two would be elected leader.

As the speech-making started before an audience of more than 5,000 persons in Ottawa's Coliseum, the reception appeared topheavy in Mr. Pearson's favor.

Banners and placards, declaring "Win with Mike" and "En avant Canada avec Pearson" (Forward, Canada, with Pearson) appeared all over the hall.

There was tremendous applause and chanting of "We want Mike."

Mr. Martin slipped in through a side entrance. His supporters carried seven large photographs of the Windsor lawyer. A nine-piece band began a floor march minutes after he appeared on the platform.

NOT ON LANGUAGE

The former health minister, a bilingual Catholic of French descent, urged delegates not to base their leadership decision on language or race.

(It has been Liberal party tradition to alternate its leaders among French-speaking Roman Catholics and English-speaking Protestants. The retiring leader, Louis S. St. Laurent, is a Quebec Catholic. Mr. Pearson is an Ontario Protestant.)

The top post must be open to any Canadian, Mr. Martin argued. He pledged he would wage an unrelenting battle against the Conservatives if he won and he pledged to abide by Liberal principles.

"I tell you frankly that I will battle energetically, tirelessly, relentlessly to bring the true message of Liberalism to the people of Canada."

Repeated cheering interrupted his speech as well as that of Mr. Pearson.

STRIKES FREEDOM NOTE

If he became leader, Mr. Pearson said, he would everlastingly insist on the freedom of the individual against the state.

But "we must also recognize the fact that this freedom will be dust and ashes if the individual does not have social security.".

Mr. Pearson opened his appeal with a special word for one of his opponents—Mr. Martin, his friend for more than 30 years.

"I know—as well as anyone—how devotedly and how effectively he has served in government and Parliament, over so many years. If I said anything more about Paul Martin it would look as if I were asking you to support him—which is not exactly my purpose at this time."

He asked the convention to make its own choice on the basis of true Liberalism—"I ask nothing else of you."

But he emphasized that he had acquired a "unique opportunity" to learn of Canada's problems during almost 30 years of civil and political service.

Wooler

WOOLER — Messrs. Jack Dorland and David McColl took charge of the church service on Sunday morning, David giving an interesting report on Boys' Parliament held at Albert College, during the Christmas week.

The W.M.S. held their regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the parsonage with Mrs. Newman as president.

Mr. and Mrs. Don White of Peterborough spent Sunday with her father, Mr. Elgin McMartin, and visited her mother in Trenton hospital in the afternoon.

Mrs. Charles Jarvis returned home on Sunday from Burlington after spending two weeks with relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cope, also Mr. and Mrs. Theron Blair, of Burlington, returned with her for the day.

Mrs. Way, of Brighton, spent the weekend with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dorland.

Sympathy of the community goes out to the family and relatives of Mrs. Emma Bentley who passed away on January 11 in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Harold Thrower is a patient in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Claude Thompson, of Brighton, on the safe arrival of a baby girl on January 7th.

Sympathy of the community goes out to the family of Mr. Malcolm Waite, who passed away on Monday morning at Kingston hospital, January 13.

Mrs. Elgin McMaster is a patient in Trenton Memorial Hospital. All wish her a speedy recovery.

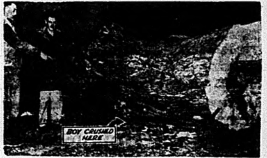
FALLEN TREE CAUSES BOY'S DEATH



Huge tree trunk caused the death of Paul Tracey, 11, of Etobicoke, Ont. The tree had been cut and one end was resting on loose brush and it is believed the trunk shifted when the boy crawled under it. He was dead when a winch lifted the heavy weight off his body.

PEARSON SEES EARLY VICTORY AT POLLS

Rebels In Cuba, Led By Castro, Stage Bold Raid

Retreat to Mountains After Bloody Battle

HAVANA (AP) — Rebels reported to have been led by Fidel Castro himself swept into the farm town of Veguitas Thursday, fought a bloody battle with Cuban government forces and retreated to their mountain hideouts.

It was the second bold rebel raid in three days in eastern Cuba. Castro's forces blockaded the sugar port of Manzanillo, 20 miles west of Veguitas, all day Tuesday.

The rebels also have been burning sugar cane fields and farm buildings in an effort to cripple President Fulgencio Batista's economic program.

Residents of Veguitas said Castro himself led the raid there. Many rebels were reported killed and wounded and about 20 to 30 government troops were slain. The rebels held the town of 8,000 residents for two hours.

200 IN RAID FORCE

An estimated 200 rebels moved into Veguitas before dawn, spraying buildings with machine-gun and rifle fire. No civilian casualties were reported.

As civilians hid, the rebels killed or wounded most of the dozen army guards in the town.

When government reinforcements rushed to Veguitas from nearby Bayamo, the rebels ambushed a number of armored cars at a bridge. Most of the government iasualties were said to have occurred there.

With the government troops in pursuit, Castro's men divided into three or four groups and dashed back to their mountain hiding places.

Justice Makes No Comment On Acquittal

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — A Supreme Court jury Thursday night acquitted Lyle Hart, 31, of Elliot Lake of murder in the strangling of James William Taylor last September.

Hart was released immediately. Mr. Justice Leo Landreville made no comment on the acquittal, returned after four hours of deliberation.

After the foreman announced the decision the Crown asked for a poll of the jurors. Each answered, "Not guilty."

Taylor, a 41-year-old draughtsman at Algom-Quirke Mines in the Blind River Uranium-mining area, was strangled on Highway 17 between Blind River and Elliot Lake.

Crown witnesses testified Taylor was killed in a struggle after accepting a ride with five men in a car.

A statement taken by police after Hart's arrest in Montreal last October was read to the court. It said there had been an argument with Taylor over money to pay for gas and Taylor had been put out of the car. It said Hart didn't know who asked Taylor for the money and that he thought all four of his companions joined in the struggle.

Diefenbaker Congratulates L.B. Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has sent his "warmest congratulations" to Lester B. Pearson on his election as new leader of the Liberal party.

The office of the prime minister, who is confined to his home with a back ailment, today issued the text of a telegram he sent to Mr. Pearson. It said:

"My warmest congratulations are extended to you on the achievement of the highest honor your party can offer, which carries with it the great responsibility of leader of Her Majesty's loyal Opposition in Parliament. With all good wishes for continued health and happiness."

Morris, Jacobs Still in Halifax

HALIFAX (CP)—An immigration department spokesman said today Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morris and Len Jacobs, former Toronto residents ordered departed, are still in Halifax.

He said there is no indication they plan going to Toronto to turn over their assets to creditors.

The immgration department has said they may travel to Toronto under escort to clear up any debts. There has been no word on the deportation order.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Little change in the current weather is anticipated for today. Light snow will continue this morning in Eastern Ontario and will probably extend back as far as the Toronto - Hamilton district. Elsewhere throughout the lower lakes region cloudy skies with an occasional flurry of snow is expected. Partly cloudy skies with scattered snowflurries are forecast for Northern Ontario.

Urges Margaret Be Made Queen Of Scotland

EDINBURGH Scotland (AP)—Scottish nationalists suggested Thursday night that Princess Margaret be made queen of Scotland.

"It might be the happy way out of a rather difficult situation," said Miss Wendy Wood, a veteran nationalist who heads the Scottish Patriot Movement.

"I mean no disrespect to the present sovereign. Queen Elizabeth is the Queen that England wants.

"She has the characteristics that English people like, but it is not possible to have characteristics which both the Scots and the English appreciate."

Miss Wood said Princess Margaret was born in Scotland and "is young enough to come here and learn our ways."

REMOVE EYES OF HANGED MAN FOR BLIND PERSON

Willis Laplante, 22, Dies on Gallows

WELLAND (CP) — Hamilton laborer Thomas Leplante, 22, was hanged for murder at 12.05 a.m. today and within an hour his eyes were removed, as he had willed, for the use of a blind person.

Laplante was executed in Welland County jail for the slaying of Edwin Jones, 30-year-old steel rigger and father of four children. Jones was beaten and stabbed on a deserted sideroad last July 11.

Seventeen minutes after the trap was sprung Laplante was pronounced dead. Then his body was taken to the prison laundry room for the operation by an eye doctor.

The eyes were placed in a cannister of dry ice and a waiting police cruiser rushed them to a hospital in an undisclosed Ontario centre. They were to be used in a corneal transplant sometime today.

The murdered man was abducted by car after he entered a Hamilton drug store while it was being robbed. No motive for the killing was disclosed in court.

Laplante was later arrested for hitch-hiking in Ohio and returned here after he confessed to the murder.

Twelve hours before the hanging Laplante was told the federal cabinet had refused to commute his sentence to life imprisonment.

His appeal to the Ontario Court of Appeal was unanimously dismissed and the Supreme Court of Canada last Dec. 20 refused a hearing.

Laplante, who had grown a well-developed beard since he was sentenced Sept. 28 went to the gallows quietly, said Sheriff J. R. Harris.

Laplante declined ot see a clergyman.

Canadian Note Says Oil Trade Is Jeopardized

OTTAWA (CP) —Canada has suggested to the United States government that its action in asking voluntary restriction of oil imports, including Canadian crude, is jeopardizing oil trade between the two countries.

In a strongly-worded protest note sent to Washington and tabled today in the Commons, the Canadian administration said that Canada's imports of American oil in 1956 exceeded $100,000,000 worth.

"Surely it is unwise," the note added, "to jeopardize this two-way trade which works to the benefit of both countries."

Experiments by Young Rocketeers Give Safety Experts New Headache

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some of the youngsters now experimenting with rockets may one day accomplish major scientific achievements. But their activities now are worrying some safety-minded people.

The National Fire Protection Association and the American Rocket Society, for example, are calling for a national program of proper supervision and safe launching sites for young experimenters in what they call an "extremely dangerous" field.

Nobody denies that the kids are getting valuable science knowledge out of building rockets. But amateur launching efforts have been responsible for numerous accidents and some deaths in recent months.

Lt.-Col. Charles M. Parkin, guided missile co-ordinator for the U.S. Army's research and development laboratory at Fort Belvoir, Va. has been taking youngsters to army firing ranges to help them test rockets with proper guidance and equipment.

And through the American Rocket Society, he has made a plea to the defence department for a national program to direct the activities of amateur rocket enthusiasts with proper supervision and a set of safety rules.

Parkin has these suggestions for young rocket builders:

1. Get intelligent adult guidance and supervision. Don't go into the basement or attic to experiment on your own.

2. Become familiar with—and obey — rules and regulations where laws are in effect concerning handling of rocket propellents and explosive materials.

3. And "most important"—don't use potassium chlorate and perchlorates, high explosives or blasting caps. Stay away from the picrate family, the fulminates and iodate compounds and the dust of metals such as magnesium.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A federal explosives inspector has ordered an "immediate stop" to building and firing of home-made rockets in B.C.

William B. Paton, explosives inspector for Western Canada, said Thursday: "If it isn't stopped at once there will be prosecutions. Amateur rockets are illegal under the Explosives Act."

A conviction under the Explosives Act carries a $500 fine or up to six months in prison, or both.

New Liberal Chieftain

Lester B. Pearson takes over the reins of leadership of the Liberal party with the comforting knowledge that no other leader in the party's history has ever entered upon his task with such overwhelming support amongst the party members. Despite a vigorous campaign by his chief rival for the leadership, Paul Martin, Mr. Pearson was the most lopsided winner of any convention-chosen Liberal leader. He rolled up almost 500 votes more than necessary for election, more than tripling Martin's total.

International Space Control Ought to Start Now--Dulles

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — A plea for international control of outer space for peaceful purposes was made Thursday by State Secretary Dulles.

He said that the Soviet Union should "jump at the chance" of instituting international supervision through a commission which, he suggested, could be set up, "presumably under the auspices of the United Nations."

Dulles told the National Press Club that the time to start on space control is now, while space vehicles can be detected easily.

The secretary made these other main statements in handling a shower of questions after the luncheon:

1. Communist China should be barred from any summit meeting because it is not an "indispensable or proper" authority to discuss world problems. The United States has no reason to change its policy of refusing diplomatic recognition to the Peiping regime but would not hesitate to meet with its representatives if it would serve peace.

2. U.S. prestige "stands higher than ever before" with Allied governments but he "can't say the same for public opinion . . . which is somewhat misled."

3. The United States is ready to join European countries in giving emergency financial aid to France provided it "gets its house in order at home."

4. The Hungarian revolt demonstrated communism's "fatal defect"—an inability to blot out man's yearning for freedom even under dictatorship. This would lead to "the undoing" of communism "in a decade or more," perhaps sooner.

Dulles, who has spoken frequently of dangers of negotiations with the Russians, sought to put his position in a positive light. He said:

"President Eisenhower's letter to chairman Bulganin (sent Sunday) should dissipate once and fr all any impression that the United States does not want to negotiate, or is afraid to negotiate with Soviet rulers.

"The truth is quite the contrary. We do want a summit meeting, provided the proper conditions obtain."

Bulganin is chairman of the Soviet council of ministers.

First Problem for Pearson Whether to Force Election

OTTAWA (CP) — Lester B. Pearson, newly - chosen Liberal leader, faces the immediate problem of organizing his party's attitude toward trying to force a general election.

It is believed Mr. Pearson, elected leader Thursday night, is of the opinion that the Opposition should set out to defeat the minority Progressive Conservative government as swiftly as possible and force an election.

It is known, however, that many of his colleagues and important party members, possibly including Paul Martin, favor a waiting policy, aiming at a June date.

Mr. Pearson told reporters Thursday night that was something to be decided in caucus and that the caucus would be very soon.

It is understood the party's seasoned veterans and many of its younger circle believe that to force an election now would be to play into the government's hands.

They are believed to feel that to force an election would enable the government to go to the people with a complaint that it was not given an opportunity to put its program into action. It also would relieve the government of bringing down a budget and of completing fiscal negotiations with the provinces.

Those favoring efforts to force an immediate election argue that such action is the Opposition's duty and responsibility.

They also feel that the high and rising unemployment figures might be effective ammunition right now whereas the economic situation might be greatly improved by June. Also that, given time, the Progressive Conservatives in some way might manage a vote-getting budget.

Snow and Rain Rake Maritimes, Floods Reported

HALIFAX (CP) — Snow and rain raked the Maritimes today for the third successive day.

Flooding was reported from many low-lying areas in Nova Scotia, particularly along the southern seacoast. Twenty inches of snow fell on Campbellton, N.B., in the last 48 hours. It was still snowing in many areas of northern Nwe Brunswick.

The weather office predicted heavy rain here would become intermittent tonight and winds would drop to 15 miles an hour. Gusts in the city area reached 60 miles an hour Thursday night.

SHIPS CAN'T DOCK

Six ships were anchored off Halifax harbor, delayed from docking by strong winds. One was the Cunard liner Britannic, scheduled to disembark 125 of her 600 passengers here before proceeding to New York.

Expected tonight is the Cunard liner Saxonia from New York. She will add about 750 passengers here to the 100 taken aboard in New York.

Romps To Win Over Martin, Then Hits With Blunt Fury At Record Of Conservatives

Forecasts Early Win

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A new political personality has emerged from the national Liberal convention, a man skilled in international diplomacy who has suddenly turned blunt fury on his domestic opponents.

Lester B. Pearson, who won the 1957 Nobel peace prize, demonstrated Thursday night that he will pull no punches against the Progressive Conservative government.

The newly - elected Liberal leader, acknowledging a first-ballot landslide vote in his favor, came out fighting. He charged the Conservatives with "political infanticide" and pledged he will return the Liberals to power "soon."

EIGHT MAIN AIMS

Summing up his own brand of Liberalism, the new leader outlined eight main objectives and beliefs:

1. A Canada united, but not in narrow nationalism.
2. Full employment, striving to end recessions.
3. Increased social security.
4. Trade expansion, not diversion.
5. Fair sharing of Canada's wealth with less-developed regions and primary producers.
6. Expansion of share - the-wealth equalization payments to the provinces.
7. NATO strengthening, and support of the United Nations as the cornerstone of Canada's foreign policy.
8. Termination of the Progressive Conservative "pause" in Canada's expansion, restoring confidence at home and abroad in her future.

A jammed convention Coliseum showed beyond a doubt, by vote and by choice, it wanted the 60-year-old former external affairs minister to lead the party out of its current crisis.

GIVEN 1,074 VOTES

The delegates gave him 1,074 out of 1,380 leadership ballots, turning only 305 over to contestant Paul Martin, former health minister, and only one to Mayor H. Lloyd Henderson of Portage la Prairie, Man.

The audience of more than 5,000 persons gavt Mr. Pearson a tremendous, prolonged cheer as he prepared to deliver his acceptance address, a speech studded with charges against the Conservatives and full of hope for the Liberals' future.

At a press conference afterwards, he was asked whether he would occupy Stornoway, the official home of the Commons Opposition leader.

"Oh, I have not thought about that at all. Perhaps that will take a little thinking because I would not want to move twice," replied Mr. Pearson in an apparent expression of confidence on the outcome of the next general election, expected this year.

His Margin Is Record

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberals have a new leader and a shined-up platform today, but it is still a toss-up whether they will attempt to force the Progressive Conservative government into a quick election.

Lester B. (Mike) Pearson, one-time semi-pro baseball player, threw nothing but curves at reporters late Thursday night when they tried to sound him out on the prospect after his election as party leader to succeed retiring Louis S. St. Laurent.

"The duty of an opposition is to act like one," the 60-year-old former external affairs minister said cryptically when reporters asked about his personal views on an early election following his overwhelming win at the national Liberal convention.

MATTER FOR CAUCUS

Asked point-blank whether Liberals would accept an expected chance to topple the minority Diefenbaker government early next week, he said that would have to be discussed at a caucus of the parliamentary Liberal group.

The decision would have to be made "very soon—and I mean very soon."

Political events are crowding up, he said at a press conference and he did not think the new party leader would have much time for the customary rest after a leadership campaign.

But that was all he left reporters to chew on, apart from saying he intends to start travelling to the West late next week, which might indicate a lack of intention to push Prime Minister Diefenbaker's minority government into an immediate defeat in the Commons.

LOPSIDED VICTORY

Meanwhile, Mr. Pearson stood as the most lopsided winner of any convention - chosen Liberal leader in the history of the party.

In Thursday night's balloting, he rolled up 1,074 votes against 305 for Paul Martin, 54, his long-time pal and former health minister, and a single vote for Rev. H. Lloyd Henderson, 50, mayor of Portage la Prairie, Man.

Mr. St. Laurent polled 848 in 1948 against 323 for former agriculture minister James G. Gardiner and 56 for former air minister (now Senator) C. G. (Chubby) Power.

The three-day national convention that ended Thursday night cast 1,380 total votes against 1,227 in 1948. Mr. Pearson more than tripled the vote of his nearest opponent and had almost 500 to spare over the necessary 691 needed for a first-ballot win.

The late Mackenzie King won narrowly as a dark horse in 1919. Previous leaders were chosen by the top party advisers.

Mr. Pearson got quick unanimity from the convention on his selection, at Mr. Martin's motion, and his former colleague pledged full support.

Platform Revamped

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Something old, something new and something borrowed.

That sums up the Liberal party's revamped political platform with which newly - elected leader Lester B. (Mike) Pearson today sets out to win the country's confidence.

The old: Continued federal equalization payments to the provinces; selective immigration and voluntary integration of Indians into full Canadian citizenship.

The new: A pension plan financed by government-employer-employee contributions, scholarships coupled with interest-free loans to university students, and an undefined "exclusively Canadian flag."

The borrowed: The voluntary revocable checkoff of union dues, long advocated by the CCF; "deficiency payments" — or farm subsidies—urged in the past by the Social Credit and CCF parties, and "improved" cash advances on farm-stored Prairie grain, a principle long rejected by the former Liberal government but recently implemented by the new Progressive Conservative government.

THREE-DAY JOB

Those and other platform planks were hammered out by the national Liberal convention's resolutions committee, with several assists from the floor, during the last three days.

Mr. Pearson, in his acceptance speech after his election as party leader, said they "outline responsible and imaginative policies."

"But, above all, they promise only what we can, and should, perform. At ths critical time government is more than a give-away program or a national lottery."

The refurbished Liberal platform has something for everybody:

Coverage for major medical, surgical and dental expenses in addition to hospital insurance and unemployment insurance to the sick.

Payment of storage costs for farm-stored grain and participation in provincial crop-insurance plans.

A minimum wage and standard working hours for workers under federal jurisdiction, with no compulsory arbitration of disputes.

Improved war veterans benefits as needs arise.

Efforts toward disarmament and planning for a permanent United Nations police force to maintain peace. Weapons development, especially for North American defence.

TRUNK ROAD PROGRAM

Moves towards a federal-provincial - municipal program of building trunk highways and development roads to the north.

U.S. Is Reluctant to Give Up Base As Site for Capital of West Indies

LONDON (Reuters)—A warning that the new West Indies Federation is running into severe "squalls and storms" which threaten its existence comes today from the London Times.

"The United States government is reluctant to release the site of the Chaguaramas base (in Trinidad) which the West Indies want for a federal capital," this independent daily points out, because "the development of missile warfare makes this base even more important than it was in the last war."

"But it is not easy to see where else in Trinidad the West Indians can put their capital. This disagreement ranks as a squall. In settling it the Americans should reflect that they have to do with the birth of a nation and that missile-racking bases will not be of much use in a faction-torn Caribbean such as is likely to develop if the federation plan falls through."

"Far worse news" comes from Jamaica, The Times notes. There, Norman Manley, the chief minister, has announced his decision not to stand for the federal premiership, although he would appear to be sure of election if he were a candidate.

"Under these conditions it is hard to see how the federation can work," says The Times.

"Jamaica is geographically peripheral and is the only island large enough to stand on its own. Therefore the temptation to drift out of a federation whose weight is in the eastern Caribbean will be great.

"The federation without Jamaica would be meaningless. The surest, probably the only means of firmly meshing it into the federation is to ensure that the first federal prime minister is Jamaican."

Corby Library Board Holds Regular Meeting

The January meeting of the Library Board was held Tuesday evening. Acting chairman, D. T. Marrocco, welcomed Mayor Hyde to the meeting and the new member of the Library Board, C. L. Hyde.

The mayor, in a brief address, said he is aware of the crowded condition at the library necessitating more accommodation, and asked if an addition were provided whether a space could be found in the building for a museum section to house the antique furniture and valuable oil paintings given to the city by the late Mrs. Anne Salaman of the Isle of Wight. Mrs. Anne Docter Salaman spent her girlhood in this city.

The librarian's report for December 1957 showed an increased circulation of 1,151 adult books and 1,729 juvenile books over that of December 1956. The grand total for the month was 11,938 books, 88 periodicals and nine maps borrowed last month from the Corby Public Library.

The break-down of circulation figures for adult books showed: Main, 6,275 and East Hill, 142; for juvenile books, Main, 1,340, East Hill, 1,179, King George 676, Sir Winston Churchill 1,589 and Queen Mary School, 737.

The steady increase in circulation of books in the branches since last September necessitated the ordering of more juvenile books. At Sir Winston Churchill School, where juvenile circulation has been highest, there have not been enough books to go around, the board was informed.

Seventy-five adult city members and 18 non-residents were enrolled at the library last month. Sixty-two boys and girls also registered.

Requests for projectors and films were heavy last month, with 242 films being checked out to borrowers and the two projectors loaned for 38 showings. The popularity of the film library was particularly evident around Christmas time when bookings were received from Colborne, Trenton, Tweed, Madoc and Deseronto, in addition to local industries, churches and service clubs.

As a public service, film council loaned, free of charge, film equipment and films to the Salvation Army for showings to the inmates of the county jail and the crippled children's tree. Twenty-two long-playing records were also circulated to borrowers last month.

The Saturday morning story hour period has been popular with the youngsters, and has an average attendance of not less than 50 boys and girls. A popular guest artist last month was Barry Simpson and his puppets, who presented two plays for the youngsters.

The wear and tear on books has been great, and last month over 200 were mended, Miss Moore reported.

The board expressed sorrow at the recent death of one of their members, Dr. J.W. Kinnear. Interested in the various phases of library service, Dr. Kinnear served on the board for the past 16 years and seldom missed a meeting. He was appointed to the board by city council in 1941, and served as chairman in 1943 and 1945, as well as being a member of many committees.

Desk receipts included: fines, $50.54; duplicate pay, $10.76; non-resident, $20.; reserves, .92; and membership, $3.35; making a total of $85.57. Receipts from music library amounted to $4.50.

The report was submitted by librarian Olive Delaney.

Members of the board present: J. E. Bateman, C. L Frederick, C. L. Hyde, M. M. Hackett, L. A. Kells, D. T. Marrocco, vice-chairman, presided in absence of L. D. Read, chairman.

'Call of Sea' Travelogue Enjoyed by Large Audience

A capacity crowd gathered at B.C.I.V.S. last night to see and hear Col. John D. Craig's presentation of "Call of the Sea" at the Kiwanis Club's fourth program of the World Travel and Adventure series.

Col. Craig, a World War II air corps officer in charge of the filming by Americans of most theatres of action; took his arm chair tourists on an exciting underwater trip along the floor of the South Pacific, the Pacific Ocean off California, and the Gulf of Mexico. A brief visit was made to Tahiti where many of the world's best surf boarders gather annually to compete in about the most dangerous sea sport — the riding of 35-foot breakers while standing precariously on wooden surf boards. Many surf boarders have lost their lives in this spectacular sport, but most manage to survive to return another day to do the same thing again.

The colonel directs the filming of a few underwater television programs that are seen in the Quinte district on American channels. His occupation is not without its hazards, for diving 300 feet below the surface of an ocean, equipped with underwater breathing aparatus, is no weakling's job. There on the ocean floor cameramen mingle with all kinds of creatures from giant manta rays with spikes at the root of their tails to beautiful tropical fishes smaller than the palm of the hand.

Col. Craig is a pioneer in underwater swimming In 1935 he developed equipment which would have allowed divers to reach the sunken Lusitania in the Atlantic, but the war broke out before the equipment could be put into use.

The most humorous point in the colonel's film came during the scene of two of his party fishing with light tackle in the Atlantic south of Florida aboard a small outboard motor boat. The men caught and landed seven marlin and sailfish in about five hours.

The world's oceans abound in many strange and wonderful things. Off California divers can play with porpoises or sneak up on sharks without too much fear of being attacked. Of the 300 species of sharks in the world, Col. Craig said only three are man-eaters.

The ocean floor is a world apart from anything people see above. Plants grow well over 100 feet tall, a cousin of the fresh water bass takes on mammoth size (650 pounds), below 20 feet the only color divers can identify is blue; clams grow to gigantic size and are capable of snapping closed on a diver's leg; three-ton sea elephants curiously nudge cameramen. The topography of the ocean floor is not unlike that of land above. There are mountains, valleys and plains below the surface of the ocean just as there are in North America. Sunken ships and World War II aircraft dot some areas of the oceans. Coral reefs grow majestically to provide careless divers with one more peril — their razor-sharp prongs resembling the antlers of deer.

Mostly, though, life on the ocean floor is uneventful. Like animals on land, creatures of the deep fulfill nature's demand of only the strong survive. There where whales play and sharks and barracuda cruise, man has invaded a privacy on equal terms where its natural inhabitants dwell. Men are now able to dive deep without any need for cumbersome diving suits with air hoses attached and heavy lead weights trapped on.

A trip aboard a tuna boat out into the Pacific soon proved that the tuna bought at the corner store were not caught without an element of risk to fishermen. The film showed 30 men catch 360 tons of tuna during four or five weeks at sea. These fish are caught with barbless hooks while a man stands above the fisherman throwing live bait among the school of tuna.

MARVELOUS PRECISION

The precision and team work displayed by these tuna fishermen was marvelous. After hooking a 30 or 40-pound tuna, the fisherman simply heaves it over his left shoulder into a bin up and behind him. The fish flops off the barbless hook of its own accord and in the next second the hook and line are back among the tuna with a second strike coming almost instantly.

Col. Craig explained that tuna strike at baitless hooks thinking they are shiny little fishes that are being thrown to them. Portuguese fishermen will not kill porpoises because it is believed those playful fish lead fishermen to the schools of tuna.

After two hours of "swimming" in the ocean, Col. Craig's audience was understandably somewhat adverse to surfacing.

The next film will be presented February 6 when Karl Robinson shows his film, "Portugal and the Azores."

Hunch Pays Off Arrest Youth For Car Theft

Playing out of a hunch paid off Thursday afternoon for Detective Harold Reid of the city police department and resulted in the recovery of a stolen auto and the apprehension of a local youth on a charge of auto theft.

The youth, Fred Curtis, 17, of Bay Street, appeared in city magistrate's court this morning and was remanded one week.

Over the weekend a car was stolen from the J. B. Boyce used car lot on Pinnacle street and the same night a car bearing the same licence number pulled in to a district gasoline station and then drove away without the driver paying for the gasoline.

Wednesday night provincial police spotted the car on Foxboro Road and gave chase but the trail was lost on West Moira Street.

Yesterday Detective Reid investigated a hunch that the car might have been abandoned in the Frank Street area and sure enough, found the vehicle near the C.N.R. tracks.

Later investigation led to the arrest of the youth on the auto theft charge.

Slippery Roads Cause Accidents

Slippery roadways were said contributory causes to a number of minor auto accidents which occurred in the city and district this morning.

Most serious of the mishaps was at the corner of Bridge and Coleman streets where damage of approximately $250 was caused to a car driven by Thomas P. Hanrahan.

Police said that Mr. Hanrahan was eastbound when his vehicle was in collision with an army truck driven by Michael E. Shannon of Picton.

Provincial police reported two vehicles sliding off the highway, one at Milltown on No. 2 highway and the other at Halloway. At Milltown a car driven by Mrs. Lena Carter of that centre slid off the highway, while near Halloway a car driven by Joseph Dennison of Pembroke went off the road on a curve and slid into a hydro pole. The pole was not damaged and damage to the car amounted to only about $75.

New Pipe Organ Will Be Dedicated

The small harmonium which has rendered yoeman service at St. Margaret's on-the-Hill for the past six years is to be replaced by a new pipe organ.

The new organ which is to be dedicated on Sunday was built and installed by Wm Hill & Son and Norman & Beard Ltd., of Hornsey, England, the same firm which built and installed the present pipe organs in St. Thomas' and Christ Church.

The specification was drawn up by Herbert Norman in collaboration with the organ committee. The two-manual nine stop organ was designed to match musically the building and contain the essential tonal resources for accompanying the Anglican service.

The instrument is installed behind the grill cloth of the mezzanine at the west end of the church and is played from a console placed on the left side of the chancel directly behind the pulpit. It was installed by L. Maycock and H. Barnard and was voiced by G. E. Croft and O. Dunn.

The rector will be in charge of the service and the act of dedication will be performed by the Rev. K. F. Blachford, rector of Trenton, who will also preach the sermon.

EX-KINGS MEET

CULLY, Switzerland (AP)—A pair of ex-kings of Egypt got together Thursday. It was the sixth birthday of Prince Fuad, who nominally was King Fuad II in absentia for a brief time after the 1952 Egyptian revolution unseated and exiled his father, ex-king Farouk. Farouk, now 38, brought a load of presents to the closely guarded party for Fuad.

Obituary

SYLVESTER HOLDEN

STIRLING — The funeral of another pioneer, Sylvester Holden, formerly of the Carmel community, was held at the Duffin Funeral Home, Stirling, on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. A. Packman of St. Paul's-Carmel officiated.

The bearers were Messrs Joseph Grills, Everett Grills, George Carlisle, Ernest Carlisle, Charles Johnston and Milton Hagerman.

Interment was in Stirling cemetery.

REV. W. J. H. SMYTH

(Saskatoon)

Word has been received in the city of the death on Wednesday, Jan. 15th. of Rev. W. J. H. Smyth in Victoria, B.C., brother of Jane H. Smyth, retired school teacher of this city.

Mr. Smyth was the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Smyth of Belfast, Northern Ireland, coming to Canada at an early age and was educated at Omemee, and at Toronto University.

For many years he ministered in the Bay of Quinte Conference with charges at Hilton, Dunsford, Seabright, Wellington, Orono, Port Perry, Blenheim, Parkhill and Kitchener.

Two years ago he was appointed associate secretary of the Missionary and Maintenance Department of the United Church in Canada and in January, 1957, was appointed as the Western secretary of the same department with headquarters at Saskatoon.

The body will rest at the Trull Funeral Home, Yonge St., Toronto, from Saturday noon with service Sunday afternoon, then to Omemee for service Monday at 2 p.m. Interment will be in Emily Cemetery, Omemee.

Clarence Burley New Preceptor Of King Baldwin

With the full traditional ceremonial of the order, dating back to the days of ancient chivalry, Em. Kt. Clarence Burley was installed as Presiding Preceptor of King Baldwin Preceptory of Knights Templar for the ensuing year. The ceremony was carried out under the efficient direction of Rt. Em. Kt. H. J. Andrews, assisted by the following distinguished Knights: Rt. Em. Kts. T. W. Solmes, G. E. Dobbs and Sid Sandham; Very Em. Kts. W. H. F. Ketcheson and M. H. Hancock; Em. Kts. L. E. Vaughn, Bram Humphreys and Ross Neal.

The following officers will control the destinies of the Preceptory during 1958:

Presiding Preceptor, Em. Kt. C. E. Burley; Preceptor, Em. Kt. John Lewis; constable, Sir Kt. Paul Foster; marshal, Sir Kt. Tom Lloyd; chaplain, Em. Kt. L. E. Vaughn; registrar, V. Em. Kt. M. H. Hancock; treasurer, Rt. Em. Kt. G. E. Dobbs; sub-marshal, Sir Kt. Frank Hodgen; captain general, Rt. Em. Kt. W. P. Youdale; almoner, Sir Kt. H. Young; first standard bearer, Sir Kt. Hugh Sullivan; second standard bearer, Sir Kt. Earl Grey; organist, Sir Kt. C. R. Churchill, OM; guard, Sir Kt. Harry Huis.

In a few well chosen words Rt. Em. Kt. Youdale presented the retiring Presiding Preceptor with the appropriate jewel, and the recipient, Em. Kt. John Lewis, replied.

The new presiding officer brings with him the experience of offices held in Hastings Lodge and in St. Mark's Chapter, where he was First Principal a few years ago and membership in the High Priesthood of Ontario.

The whole proceedings were conducted with the smoothest precision witnessed for many years and reflect great credit upon the installing officer in particular.

A social hour followed, during which the usual toasts were honored. This Preceptory is marking the beginning of its 97th year in operation.

William Watson Elected Fellow By Architects

William A. Watson, senior partner in the local firm of Watson and Wiegand, Architects, has recently been elected as a Fellow of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada. The honor is conferred for meritorious service to the profession.

In addition to being elected as a Fellow, Mr. Watson has had the distinction of being re-appointed to the Registration Board of the Ontario Association of Architects. The appointment is for a three-year period.

The registration board is comprised of five architects who meet monthly in Toronto to pass on registrations to the association and decide on other board matters.

Get Complaints About Salesman Of Magazines

City police and the Chamber of Commerce have received a number of complaints recently about one or more door-to-door salesmen operating in Belleville and soliciting magazine subscriptions.

Robert Hamilton, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, today urged Bellevillians to ask all door-to-door magazine salesmen for identification cards proving they are bonded by Canadian Central Registry or are representatives of responsible publishing houses.

If the salesmen refuse to produce identification, householders are asked to notify the Chamber of Commerce at WO 2-2847 or the police department at WO 2-3456.

Receipts given subscribers by legitimate salesmen are customarily on forms provided by the magazine company. The receipts given out by this man or men are similar to those purchased in any stationery store.

An agreement between Canadian Central Registry and some magazine companies and their distributors stipulates that the salesmen will report to Chambers of Commerce before soliciting. However, not all magazine companies share in this agreement.

IN MEMORIAM

McLEOD. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Robert McLeod, who passed away January 17th, 1957.

A wonderful husband, so kind and dear.
I often wish you were sitting here;
Alone, unseen, you stand by my side
And whisper, don't grieve dear, death cannot divide.
For deep in my heart your memory is kept,
Of one I still love and shall never forget.

—Sadly missed by wife Annie and sons.

Boating in January
This is the season when the boating enthusiast begins to think about his next building project . . . and now it's easier and quicker than ever.
Molded plywood hulls have taken the work out of boatbuilding! These are not boat "kits" in the usual sense, but completely constructed "Paceship" hulls. Just add the transom, varnish or paint, and your boat is virtually completed.
These genuine "Paceship" hulls are constructed by highly-trained craftsmen of one-piece molded select birch veneers. There is never any warping, rotting or fouling.
Through mass production the prices are lower than you would expect, starting at $139. At Booth Radio and Television, 170 Front Street, Belleville, you can buy one with no money down and payments on generous terms. Get yours soon and make boat building a family project. They're on display at Booth's main store, opposite the City Hall. — (ADVT.) J8-9-13-15-17

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market turned to the downside, snapping a three-session advance. Trading during the morning was active, although not quite as fast as Thursday.

Sales at 11 a.m. totalled 850,000 shares compared with 892,000 at the same time Thursday. Several low-priced mining stocks had large volumes.

Industrials led the decline and their index showed a loss of more than 1¾ points. Western oils were down three-quarters of a point on index and base metals one-half point. Golds eased a few decimal points.

Union Gas had the biggest loss on the board, down 1¼ points to 73. Imperial Oil, General Dynamics, Ford A, Dominion Stores, CPR, Canadian Oil, B-A Oil and Algoma Steel were down major fractions. Calgary Power and Trans Mountain each added ½ points.

Senior base metals, high-priced golds and senior uraniums were generally lower on a fractional basis. Low-priced uraniums lost ground, led by Northspan's 30-cent loss to $3.25. There were few gains of more than five cents among the cheaper mining stocks.

Canadian Husky eased ½ to 11 and Central Del Rio was off 20 cents to $6.65 among western oils. Other changes were narrow.

Barg made the gadget out of a light, transparent plastic.

Rocket Tested By U.S. Navy

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States Navy launched a Polaris test vehicle today, and for the first time identified it as such.

The rocket took off vertically and streaked away to an undisclosed target down the air force missile test range

The Lockheed missile was launched at 8 a.m., less than an hour after sunrise, into a cloudless blue sky.

Watchers in the chill morning air saw it whoosh upward with a considerably greater rate of acceleration than that of other big ballistic missiles launched here recently. The Polaris is noted for its fantastic speed.

It left a long white wake high out across toward the southeast.

It is known that a number of Polaris test devices have been fired from this centre within the last 12 months. However, in each case those launchings that were confirmed were described merely as test vehicles, without associating them with Polaris.

Polaris, named after the north star, is the navy's 1,500-mile intermediate range ballistic missile (IRBM). It was designed for launching from submarines above or below water, as well as from aboard ships.

Polaris is smaller and lighter than the other IRBMs—the air force Thor and the army Jupiter—in the U.S. arsenal.

HEADS SAFETY LEAGUE

Mr. Ira G. Needles of Kitchener, president of B. F. Goodrich Canada Limited, has been elected president of the Ontario Safety League by a unanimous vote of the executive committee. Mr. Needles succeeds Mr. George H. Jackson, vice-president Sales and Advertising of the Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited, who served as president of the Safety League during 1956 and 1957.

Well-known editorially as an outspoken leader of Canadian industry, Mr. Needles is president of the Rubber Association of Canada, treasurer of the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, chairman of Waterloo College Associate Faculties, Board of Governors, and serves in executive capacities in other educational, cultural and industrial groups Mr. Needles pledged the League to "continually promote an educational concept of safety, emphasizing the Ontario Safety League's efforts to deevlop school patrols, high school driver education and community safety councils." He commented on the growing awareness of the public of the need for reducing traffic toll. "We must inspire the public to act and drive in a safety-conscious manner. A safer attitude of the driving public is our greatest opportunity for traffic safety."

Hamilton Man Convicted of Wife's Murder

HAMILTON (CP)—John Willis, 38, who lunched with his three children while the hammer-beaten body of his wife lay in an adjoining room, is to be hanged April 11. He was convicted Thursday of his wife's murder.

Elsie Muriel Willis, 33, was killed with four hammer blows Dec. 3 as she lay in bed. Her body was later washed, clothed in a clean nightgown and left in a freshly-changed bed.

A letter, written by Willis on the day of the murder, described the killing and his intention to commit suicide. It said in part:

"I am fully to blame that we are in deep debt owing to my gambling."

ASKS SISTER TO ACT

The letter, to his sister, Mrs. A. J. Duffield of London, England, asked her to take care of the children, aged 13, 11, and 10.

An application for order for interim custody of the children has been made by Hamilton Children's Aid Society and was to be heard before a family court judge today. They now are being cared for by a friend of the family.

A Supreme Court jury deliberated six hours and returned three times for direction from Mr. Justice Rene A. Danis before delivering its verdict.

Willis had nothing to say before sentence. And he received the sentence without any apparent emotion.

THREE RETURN TRIPS

The jury retired after a 90-minute address from Mr. Justice Danis, but returned two hours later to ask the definition of culpable homicide (murder) and non-culpable homicide (manslaughter).

The jurors returned an hour later for a redefinition of the charge of murder and were read section 206 of the Criminal Code, which defines it as killing a human being with intent to cause death.

After the jurors again retired, defence counsel asked that they be called back and given a redefinition of the terms under which a murder charge may be reduced to manslaughter.

Pearson Starts Today Preparing For Election

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A meeting today launches what Lester B. Pearson calls the Liberal party's "first job"—the strengthening of its organization for the next election.

He was scheduled to meet top executives in the Liberal high command within 24 hours of his election as the new leader.

"Strengthening a political organization can't be done overnight, but it's going to be started overnight," he said in an acceptance speech which sounded as though he had paid attention to repeated demands from the convention floor that the party "grass roots" not be stifled by the brass.

He said the party will have "at once a strong, decentralized organization based on our constituency associations."

TO TRAVEL WIDELY

"To see that we have it I am prepared to travel widely across the length and breadth of this country."

One of the men Mr. Pearson confers with today is Duncan K. MacTavish, who has been president of the National Liberal Federation since 1952.

Under grass-roots prodding, the conventions political organization committee agreed Thursday to change its original report, inserting a recommendation that "wherever practicable, the office of president be rotated among the provinces."

Another committee recommendation resulting from pressure from the convention floor was that a national policy conference be called "at least every four years and wherever practicable, such conferences be rotated among the provinces."

Need Bold, Practical Steps To Solve Shortage of Water

TRENTON — The problem of summer water shortage was discussed at length at the regular meeting of the Public Utilities Commission in the board room of the PUC building yesterday morning.

The commission felt the matter of adequate water supply the year around was one of deep concern and a problem which would take "bold and practical" steps to solve.

In speaking on the matter, C. B. Campbell, PUC manager, told the meeting the commission is awaiting a report on a survey conducted by the Ontario Water Resources Commission which should be considered before taking any steps in relieving the water situation.

Mayor Ross Burtt suggested the commission should keep pressing to Ontario group for a report.

The possibility of blending river and spring water was brought up. Cliff Baker, chairman of the local commission, said he felt it might be carried out for around $50,000.

In explaining the mixing of the water Mr. Baker suggested that river water could be pumped into the spring pond and blended with the spring water, then pumped into the town wells where it would be blended again. This would result in water which would be 75 percent spring water and 25 percent surface water.

He felt this would be good water and could be turned on or off as the situation at the time required.

"There is money in selling water," he said, "and we lost a lot of money last July and August because we had no water to sell."

Attending the meeting were Mayor Ross Burtt; PUC chairman C. A. Baker; chairman-elect Albert E. Atkinson; commission manager C. B. Campbell and his successor J. H. Page. Mr. Page, who will be taking over at the end of January, was brought up-to-date on the current problems facing the commission and general policies.

DONATE $500

TRENTON — The Central Bridge Company of Trenton sent a cheque for $500 to the local branch of the Canadian Legion with the explanation it was a donation towards the building of their new hall. The company had received the contract for supplying and erecting all structural steel in the new building.

TO TELEVISE OPENING

Word has just been received by the local branch of the Canadian Legion that a TV station's crew will be on hand to film the official opening of the new Legion Hall here. The films will be shown the following day on a news telecast. In addition two radio stations will record on tape the entire proceedings of the official opening. One of these will be CJBQ in Trenton with the equipment being handled by Ted Snider, manager of the local station. CJBQ will also broadcast some of the program live.

SCOUT LEADERS MEET

Plans for the annual Scouts Own, to mark the birthday of the founder of Scouting, were made at the regular meeting of the Trenton Boy Scout Local Association. The meeting was held in the town hall with president James E. Parker in the chair. Plans were also discussed concerning a hobby show to be held during the month of February. Highlighting the meeting was the presentation of a Scout scarf to Sam Mowbray in honor of his ten years service with the association.

LIGHT SNOW

A light snow, but the heaviest this winter, turned Trenton streets icy and was blamed for the only accident reported to town police officials last night. The mishap occurred on the intersection of King and Division Streets at around 8.30 p.m. A car being driven by Gordon Graham of 31 Fairview Crescent, was damaged slightly when a car being driven by John J. O'Brien of Frankford, was unable to stop due to road conditions and slammed into the rear of it. Damage to both cars was estimated at $75.

Kiwanians Hear Annual Report By President

TRENTON — The annual report, presented by the immediate past president of the Kiwanis, Al Weaver, was the highlight of their dinner meeting held in the Gilbert Hotel last night.

The report, which took the better part of an hour, recalled the many projects the club had undertaken successfully last year. Their projects included: support of churches; work with boys and girls in sending them to camps, safety programs and banquets; work with underprivileged children which included the spending of $750 to send 55 of these boys and girls to a summer camp.

The club also took an interest in agriculture and conservation and had many agriculturists speak at their meetings during the year.

In inter-club relations members had travelled a total of 3,120 man-miles in visiting other clubs and attending special conventions. In public and business affairs the club played an important role in local affairs by promoting other projects they felt would be beneficial to the town.

Under this, they bought a pair of corrective shoes for a needy Trenton woman. Sponsored various shows and tours. Heard many special speakers on various subjects such as the work of the Hastings County T. B. Association, the Canadian Arthritic and Rheumatism Association, the Victorian Order of Nurses, Indianapolis Speedway, Investment, public relations, Royal Canadian Air Force and industry and business.

The president's report was given a standing ovation by the club members.

During the short business session of the meeting members were reminded of the father-and-son banquet to be held next Thursday in place of the regular dinner meeting. The banquet will be held in Wooler.

Special guests attending were Councillor Jim MacDonald and Hugh McNeil, both of Trenton.

During the supper, Capt. Bill Brown of the Salvation Army, a member of the club, led in a sing-song.

SAYS U. S. MISSILE NOW IN PRODUCTION

Before a U.S. senate committee, Secretary of Defence Neil McElroy had some cheering news in the revelation that the 1,500-mile-range Polaris missile is now in production. This missile can be fired from a submerged submarine. McElroy called it one of the West's most promising missiles and said it is "relatively invulnerable" and could reach "most of our significant target objectives."

Twenty Injured In Montreal Snow Storm

MONTREAL (CP) — More than seven inches of snow have fallen on the city in the last two days and three more are expected today before snow gives way to drizzle tonight.

From 4 a.m. Wednesday to 8 a.m., today 7.2 inches had fallen, the Dominion public weather office reported. A mild 35 degrees above zero was forecast for mid-afternoon.

An army of 1,850 men and 650 pieces of equipment worked through the night clearing main streets in time for the morning rush.

Twenty persons were injured at the storm's height, as winds of up to 35 miles an hour tore at pedestrians.

Liquor Advertising Change Said Unlikely

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says it has learned provincial cabinet views make any change in Ontario's beer and liquor advertising regulations "highly unlikely."

Wednesday a delegation of Ontario United Church ministers and laymen presented a brief to Premier Frost urging the government to introduce further legislation and restrictions on the sale and advertising of beer, spirits and wines in the province.

Representatives of the Ontario and Canadian Temperance Federations were included in the delegation.

Is Serious Lack Of Lay Leaders, Catholics Told

OTTAWA (CP)—A serious lack of lay leaders in the Roman Catholic Church has resulted from "unjust charges of clerical domination in secular affairs," Rev. F. J. Smyth, director of the social action department of the Canadian Catholic Conference, said Thursday.

In a lecture at St. Patrick's college, Father Smyth said the church is not just the Pope, bishops and priests but also the laity.

"The church's primary function is to teach religious doctrines," he said. "It is the business of Catholic laymen to study and learn these doctrines so that when they are faced with concrete moral problems they will know how to apply these teachings."

He said on many occasions laymen did not know their doctrines and failed in their role as leaders. To safeguard the moral order of the church, the clergy had to step in and make decisions for the laymen.

"This has resulted in unjust charges of clerical domination in secular affairs. It's not up to the church to jump into every little dogfight."

Bombing Scare At Little Rock Is False Alarm

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A bomb scare sent armed national guardsmen swarming through Central High School here Thursday night, but a search of the huge brick building—centre of a race integration dispute last fall—apparently uncovered no explosive.

The militia troops found "no indication of any evidence" of a bombing, a spokesman for the Arkansas military district said. Other guard officers insisted the surprise manoeuvre was merely "a practice alert."

About an hour before the soldiers arrived at the four-square-block campus, military authorities, Little Rock police headquarters and a newspaper had received anonymous telephone calls that "something was going to happen to Central High School."

"They're from out of town; they're going to blow up the school," a woman caller shouted almost hysterically into a reporter's ear.

At 9 p.m., two jeeps and a bus carrying an estimated 36 guardsmen reached the campus. The rumors that "something was going on" brought hundreds of onlookers to the school in their automobiles.

The troops, under command of an unidentified colonel, dashed into the dark building. Flashlights then were seen moving from room to room.

LIBERALS HAVE A NEW LEADER

The Liberals have placed the future of their party in the hands of Lester B. Pearson. This is a decision of importance to all Canadians, not merely to Liberals. In opposition or in office, the Liberal party has a vital role to play if Canadians are to enjoy the best government of which the country's parliamentary system is capable.

Liberal delegates, gathering at Ottawa, were certainly more interested in deciding which of the candidates for leadership would be most likely to guide the party to an early victory at the polls.

In selecting Mr. Pearson they have chosen a man whom most Canadians, of whatever political party, admire and whose past services to the country will be denied by few. It is true that Mr. Pearson made his reputation in the field of foreign affairs, but there is no reason to doubt that he has a firm grasp of domestic issues, too, and a keen interest in these problems. No man can properly represent a country's interests in international conferences unless he has an adequate grasp of the needs and desires of the nation he serves.

While the delegates at Ottawa were thinking of the future, many Canadians will now speculate as to what effect the choice of a leader will have on the Liberals' present role, as the official opposition in the House of Commons.

Here we find a division of opinion as to what that role should be, but this difference could not have been a factor in the choice of a leader for the split was not between Pearson and Martin but between, in the words of the Toronto Telegram, "the brass and the grass roots." Both Mr. Pearson and Mr. Martin were on record, at the start of the convention, as believing that the Liberals should seek to defeat the Diefenbaker Government and force an election as early as possible. Two of the Telegram's staff reporters, Peter Dempson and Ed Mahoney, reported from Ottawa early this week that "the party's grass roots claim it (an early election) would be a slaughter." The Telegram cannot be considered entirely without bias and one wonders whether an element of wishful thinking perhaps entered this report. That the Telegram is convinced that such would be the result we do not doubt. It has been urging Prime Minister Diefenbaker to hold an early election. However, Mr. Pearson and Mr. Martin, and other Liberal "brass" such as James Sinclair, who want an early election, might be just as shrewd in judging the political atmosphere of the country as is the Telegram.

If the rank and file of the Liberal party does actually believe that the Progressive Conservatives would "slaughter" the Liberals in an election at this time, the unbiased observer may perhaps wonder why they are so pessimistic about their chances. The Liberals were not "slaughtered" last June. It is true that the Diefenbaker Government has enhanced its prestige immensely by its performance in the past months, but partially offsetting this there is the sharp rise in the number of unemployed. To argue that the Progressive Conservatives are in no wise responsible for this situation is one thing; to suggest that, for this reason, the unemployment situation would have no effect on the voting in an election at this time is to expect jobless people to be far more objective about their plight than could be expected of mere humans.

Incidentally, by favoring postponing an election as long as possible, "grass roots" Liberals would seem to be indicating a conviction that the Diefenbaker Government has made few mistakes to date, but will err later

On the other hand, Pearson, Martin and other Liberal "brass" eager for an early vote would appear to believe that present conditions, almost certainly with much stress on present unemployment, make this the best time to appeal to the people, but that given sufficient time the Diefenbaker government can establish itself firmly in the affections of the voters.

We would infer from this that the Liberal "brass" expects the unemployment and trade situations to improve, possibly vastly and probably in the comparatively near future.

$600 WELL SPENT

Ten billion dollars is the sum total of capital investment in Canadian manufacturing industry in the twelve years since the end of World War Two. "Industry," published by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, calls this an "unimaginable sum."

Maybe so. But "Industry" helps us to imagine it when it breaks it down as representing "$600 for every man, woman and child in Canada today."

Are we alone in finding it surprising that a capital investment of $600 apiece has been sufficient to produce all the extra goods which Canadians today enjoy?

CHEER UP

Cheer up! There's time for gladness.
There's lots of time for fun
When all the cares and sadness
That now we know have gone.

Cheer up! The skies will brighten
And turn again to blue.
And heavy hearts will lighten
And we shall smile anew.

Cheer up! Through all our grieving
The rays of hope shall shine.
Let us press on believing
The days will soon be fine.

New Saw Cuts Diamonds

BBC London Letter

The craft of polishing gem stones to bring out their beauty is over seven thousand years old but the twentieth century has introduced a new science to this ancient industry — an electrically driven machine that can saw a diamond in half. When Audrey Russell visited one of the most important diamond manufacturers in London to report on the process for a BBC program "Everybody's Business," she saw a battery of these wafer-thin circular saws grinding through rough stones that were held in miniature clamps.

The old saying "diamond cut diamond" is no idle one, and she noticed that frequent applications of diamond dust mixed with oil were being made to the blades of the small cutters. It can take as long as three weeks to cut a large stone, and the purpose of the new machine is not primarily to save time, but to make it possible to saw right through the grain of the jewel — for diamonds are grained rather like pieces of coal or wood. "Eighty per cent of diamonds used in modern jewellery are cut by this method," said Miss Russell, "and the remaining twenty per cent are fashioned by the old craft of cleaving along the natural lines of the stone."

Long before a stone reaches the circular saw or the craftsman's bench, the all important decision has to be taken as to how and where the stone shall be sawn or cleaved. Mr. S. Briefel, the senior partner of the firm — who had to take that decision with the precious pink diamond found in Tanganyika and presented to the Queen as a wedding present — sometimes spends several days on a single stone, deciding where cutting will ensure the least wastage and eliminate the greatest number of flaws. The natural structure of most diamonds, he explained, is in the shape of an octahedron, or double pyramid. Therefore, there are four possible ways of cleaving a diamond, and sawing across the grain is known in the industry as "the fifth way." When the correct line of the fine grain is found the stone will divide naturally when cleaved by a craftsman.

When the cleaver has finished, a girdler cuts off square edges and shapes a complete circle — or girdle — around the top edge of the stone, which is embedded in soft cement in the centre of a revolving flywheel. Then comes polishing — precision work which includes the making of fifty-eight facets to each stone, cut at a precise angle of forty-one degrees. "Each worker is a specialist in polishing a particular kind of facet," said Miss Russell. "The first — a crossworker — makes the first four cross polishes, or facets, on the girdle of the stone. This is the pattern of the angle for all the others. If a cross worker goes wrong in his measurements much of the following work can be thrown out of line, and many surfaces have to be re-polished with the inevitable loss in the size of the stone. Then there are groups of craftsmen called "brillandeurs" who cut facets and half-facets, sometimes so small that they cannot be seen without magnification. Diamonds have never sparkled so brilliantly or with so much fire as in modern times," said Miss Russell. "The reason is the mathematical requirment of forty-one degrees for light rays to reflect from one facet to the other."

This Man Read Own Obituary

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Lowell M. Lumpus was a reporter on The New York Daily News for more than 30 years, and a short time ago, knowing that he was dying, he wrote his own obituary. He did it because he did not want any flowery language, or any praise that he did not deserve; because he was "just a fairly honest and well-meaning guy," who had tried to do his job as best he could. Obituary reports are inclined to exaggerate the good points of a man, and to overlook the bad—if he has any. But newspapers follow the precept of not speaking ill of the dead. Which is a good thing for some people.

Few people ever read their own obituaries, unless one is printed through a misunderstanding, or a premature report of their passing. In our newspaper career we have come across a few people who want to read what the paper will say about them.

The most extraordinary case of that kind happened to us in regard to a St. Thomas man, who, as we knew from experience, loved to get his name in the paper, and resorted to all kinds of devices to obtain publicity. He was quite wealthy, and once managed to get a donation to a public cause acknowledged three days in succession.

One evening he called us down to his house. He had a great many clippings and papers in front of him on a table. "I'll be passing on one of these days," he said, "and I thought you would like to get a few facts about me while I am here to give them."

For two hours the two of us sifted these clippings and we gathered a bookful of notes. "Now when you have time," said he, "write that up and then show it to me." We duly did so to his complete satisfaction.

"What sort of a heading will there be on it?" he asked. We showed him a double-column heading, and he nodded approval. "Will it be on the front page?" he asked, and we told him it would start on the front page and carry over to an inside page.

"What about my photograph on the front page?" was his query. We gave him an assurance that his picture would catch the eye of the people of St. Thomas right where he wanted it.

"Now," he continued, "I guess there will be an editorial about me as well. Will you write it soon and show me what you have written?"

Again we complied, and when all this tribute to his vanity was completed, he leaned back in his chair with a self-satisfied smile and said: "I guess that will make the people of St. Thomas take notice."

We would mention again who he was, but we would not give his spirit the satisfaction of knowing his name was in the paper again 20 years after his death.

Some Mixed Metaphors

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

Over the years in Parliament members have displayed skill of a sort with the mixed metaphor. Perhaps the most famous mixed metaphor on record in the commons is one that came along some years ago when an MP declared indignantly:

"If the government persists in ramming this thing down our throats they will have a long and rocky road to travel."

Then there was the parliamentarian who congratulated his political opponent in the words:

"I am glad to see the old warhorse back in the saddle."

The late Humphrey Mitchell, former minister of labor, rolled up a high score in parliamentary mixed metaphor department. One of his best:

"When it comes to digging down and working out a solution, he can carry the ball faster than anyone I know."

These and other parliamentarians will now have to give place to a newcomer to Parliament, A. DeB McPhillips, Progressive Conservative MP for Victoria. In a speech the other day he led off with this one:

"Where is the old mailed fist? Has it gone down the drain?"

A few minutes later he moved on to this:

"Why go to work and foul our nest with a mess of pottage?"

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

PONDER—WITH ANXIETY

We are not only living in the greatest age humanity has ever known; we are also living in one of the most bewildering ages.

Physically and scientifically we are advancing at a rate that almost defies measurement. Morally we are going backward with an acceleration that few people realize. Morals in many fields are better than they once were. We have a deeper appreciation of social responsibility than ever before. Business is, on the whole, more honest than in many previous generations if, for no other reason, than the fact there are restrictions and regulations which keep the business man's feet pretty consistently on the straight and narrow.

But look at drug addiction. Observe the mounting consumption of liquor. Ask the young people what goes on as the result of adjournment of those social customs which in past ages have done a pretty good job keeping the rank and file fairly decent. Ponder the mounting divorce rate. There is nothing spectacular about these circumstances. We have come to the place where we take them as part of our national life. But these things are doing us more injury than a devastating bomb attack.

With the nation and world going ahead physically and regressing morally a situation of appalling seriousness is created.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 17th., 1938

The members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church choir held their annual dinner and business meeting last night. A delicious chicken dinner was served by the ladies of Mrs. Bateman's group. The usual choir practice was later conducted under the baton of the genial Mr. Hodgins.

One of the most successful dances in recent years at the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School was held by the student body last evening. A large number of scholars, graduates and friends throughout the district attended. The gymnasium, where dancing took place, was transformed by clever arches into a Spanish hacienda and the Spanish motif was repeated in the decorations behind the orchestra stand. The guests were received by principal, Mr. P. C. MacLaurin and Mrs. MacLaurin, Miss Una K. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ferguson. A delightful dance program was enjoyed. At midnight supper was served in the adjoining gymnasium. The committee in charge of the enjoyable function included Miss Ashe, Miss Grout, Miss Wollen, Mr. Homer Thomas; Mr. Harold Williamson, Mr. Tom Carruthers and Mr. Jack Dickens.

When Mr. James A. Moore of Elzevir township takes his seat at the inaugural meeting of the county council in Shire Hall tomorrow afternoon it will mark his 27th consecutive year as a member of the council of county fathers. Most of his elections have been by acclamation and this year was the same.

30 YEARS AGO

Mr. Harold Barragar of Napanee spent yesterday here with friends.

Mr. John Wallbridge, Queen Street, has left to resume his studies at Queen's University, Kingston.

Mr. W. W. Kingston of Prescott was renewing acquaintances, in town yesterday.

Mr. Harry Canning motored to Napanee yesterday to visit friends.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Thompson motored to Port Hope yesterday.

The city has purchased the Greatrix property on Pinnacle Street adjoining the market square. (Note 1958: The weigh scales are now on part of the property.)

Dr. M. E. Branscombe has returned home from Boston, Mass., where he spent several days.

40 YEARS AGO

January 17th., 1918

On the evening of January 7th., over 80 friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spencer met at their home in the 6th concession of Thurlow township and spent a social evening with them prior to their departure to take up residence in Prince Edward County. During the evening an address of appreciation was read to Mr. and Mrs. Spencer by Mr. A. F. Huffman and was signed on behalf of those present by Mr. F. W. Baicanquel and Mr. Clarence Hall. At the conclusion of the address six handsome dining room chairs were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Spencer.

A new moving picture machine has been installed in Griffin's Theatre; it is the very latest.

50 YEARS AGO

January 17th., 1908

The last session of the Men's Club in connection with Bridge Street Methodist Church for this year took the form of a Mock Parliament and was most interesting. The bill before the house was the enfranchisement of women and it was considered so important by the government that the Prime Minister, the Hon. Karl Conger, took it in charge himself. He was ably assisted by the Hon. Ern Wallace, the minister of Public Works, the Hon. Bert McCoy, the Minister of State, and the Hon. Brent Moore, the Minister of the Interior. In the Opposition the Government found a foe worthy of its steel and in fact in point of debate and in skillful parliamentary tactics, its equal in every respect. Led by the Hon. Blake Chown and supported by the Hon. Ed D. O'Flynn and Messrs. Bid Sills and Harry Wallace, the Opposition assaulted the position of the Government again and again with such clever Napoleonic skill and force as to almost drive it from its position. In the committee as a whole both sides displayed parliamentary genius, skillful debate and quick repartee, making the evening one to be pleasantly long remembered.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

RETREATS

It is natural for each one of us to dream of a retreat for ourselves where we can temporarily seek peace and a personal appraisal. It may be no more than a quiet library where we can lose ourselves in books, or some quiet place in nature to look into ourselves and self examine for spiritual gain.

Marcus Aurelius suggested that we retreat into ourselves. He said: "I affirm that tranquillity is nothing else than the good ordering of the mind." If people would dismiss all personal fears and worries and surrender to God there would be an immediate arrival of peace of mind and heart. One's entire world would seem to have changed!

We wrap ourselves in too many petty hindrances, and wonder why we do not gain the happiness that well might be ours. The occasional retreat to somewhere in nature, to an out-of-the-way place with a friend, or to some selected solitary place for prayer. The retreat itself may not be too important. It's the purpose that counts most.

At the inception of the New Year is a most appropriate time to get a new grip on oneself. That retreat to ourself. New resolves. New decisions. New resolutions, organized within the heart. Alone with our better self. Our own personal revival. How significant can such a retreat become!

Entire self-renewal — What a happy change! We can retreat from mere possessions. We can fathom the soul we own, and rise above all troubles and disappointments. We can become alive to new opportunities within us and grow unconsciously enriched.

Some Are Wasted

Kingston Whig - Standard

A good many school children should be either in some technical institution or at work. There is no virtue in keeping them at academic work where they only clutter up the schoolrooms and hold back pupils who want to get on.

The school-leaving age of 16 is is not a divine law—it is merely an arbitrarily chosen figure.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

The Melancholy Days Are Come

In a large series of cases, records show that a woman who expects her first child when she is forty may expect a normal delivery, if she has kept fairly fit by regular general excercise—and the best general excercise for any woman, twenty, forty, or sixty, is a daily walk of from one to six miles. In fact, this is the best way for any expectant mother to train for a normal delivery.

Some women are physiologically as old at 30 or 33 as others are at 40 or 43. This is putting it mildly. Dr. Osler made no bones saying a man of 29 may have the arteries of a man of 60. In any case it is well to remember that it is one's physiological age, not anatomical nor chronological age, that matters.

A person who enjoys good health, naturally, doesn't want to be deprived of his enjoyment by a narcotic, even for a little while. That's what alcohol is, a narcotic. If you "need" or crave a drink, it is of course only to make you forget for a while how miserable, guilty, wretched, dishonest, cowardly, shameful, weak, unfaithful, inferior or unfit you are. I suppose it is possible that a person who enjoys excellent health may deliberately indulge in morphine, cocaine, heroin or alcohol "just for the kick" or something equally irrational; but it is hard to conceive of an individual in perfect health being such an imbecile.

Millions of women around forty, whether married or unmarried, are far more conscious than they should be that the melancholy days are come. For this or that fancied reason or for no apparent reason at all, they drift into a melancholy state which, to their friends, is so different from their former cheerful disposition. Any woman with the brains God gives a goose should know by now that "change of life" is for the birds.

But the melancholic tendency we're talking about here does not depend particularly on sex (indeed men sometimes have it) nor an age. It is merely a manifestation of iodin deficiency.

Khrushchev Vs. Kennan

Christian Science Monitor

The foreign policy questions raised by George Kennan are crucial and irrepressible. The alternatives he poses should be fully weighed. For sooner or later all talk of negotiation comes round to the central proposal for a neutralized Germany.

The free nations must be ready always to negotiate with Moscow. They must keep the door open for every possible exploration of disarmament agreements. But the public should know that nine-tenths of the disarmament talk is propaganda. Few men who have dug into the subject have any hope for more than token limitation on arms. And the possibility now most intensely discussed is limitation in the form of demilitarized zones — especially in Central Europe.

Mr. Kennan, prime fashioner of the United States' original "containment" policy, is only the latest advocate of trying "disengagement." As we understand it, he urges consideration of a withdrawal of NATO forces from West Germany and of American troops from the Continent, eventually even from Britain. In exchange the Soviet Union would withdraw its forces from East Germany and other satellites. A reunited Germany would maintain forces sufficient only for internal security and be committed to a neutral policy.

Mr. Kennan says he would not dismantle NATO. Indeed, he would have the United States still guarantee Germany. He believes, apparently, that policy must become more supple and that demilitarizing Germany would not injure the West's military position. The idea is that the ultimate threat of nuclear war would still be a protection for Europe. The hope would be for an easing of tensions and more chance for satellites to work toward freedom.

This is a beguiling vista. But before moving far on the path toward it one encounters several vast uncertainties. What safeguards, if any, would accompany troop withdrawals? Would reunification of Germany be on Moscow's terms? Would Germany not be exposed to the same conditions in which the Allies left Eastern Europe after the war — conditions which produced the Kremlin's satellite empire? Under what conditions would an American guarantee of Germany take effect?

Can defence of the West be reasonably or safely left to the ultimate threat of retaliation—and world war? Would a repetition of Hungary? Or Soviet intervention in a civil war in Poland? Can the lines be drawn so clearly that restraints will become fully understood and automatic? Or will the situation become fuzzier, with more chance for division and uncertainty in the West?

Is long-range bombing by mis planes or missiles the only weight in the balance of power? Isn't it more probable that a stalemate in that field will give new importance to conventional forces and their employment in aggressive nibbling?

Nikita Khrushchev has shown himself quite aware of the possibilities of both divide-and-conquer and nibbling tactics. He is the principal advocate of demilitarizing Central Europe. His ultimate aims and Mr. Kennan's are wholly contrary. Which one is mistaken as to means?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the Pullman chair car yesterday I sat next to an elderly man, obviously a prosperous businessman, who astonished me by sitting carefully reading all the want ads in the paper. You cannot help but observe your neighbors in chair cars, even if you are not a newspaperman. I had seen him go through the news and editorial pages with various reactions of interest. Then he came to the want ad pages, and he shook the paper out and went to it systematically. He appeared to read every item. He took the most absorbed interest in the help wanted, jobs wanted; in the articles for sale, and articles wanted. He went on right to the personals.

No man in the chair appeared to want a job or need any articles less than he. There is no mistaking an old man of wealth.

When he had finished reading, he turned his chair to me and pleasantly opened conversation. It was not long before I was asking him about his obvious interest in the want ads.

He flushed slightly and pulled his chin while he reflected on how to reply to me. Finally, in an embarrassed way, he said:

"Well, I'll tell you, young feller. I've noticed in recent years that as I grow older, I grow a little smug, a little comfortable. I find that if I read the want ads, especially the jobs wanted, and the articles for sale, and articles wanted, I get a sort of intimate picture of how a lot of people are doing in life. It makes me more aware of my own good fortune. It inclines me to be a little more interested in people I might otherwise forget.

Liberal Chieftain Will Have To Acquire More Knowledge Of Many Domestic Problems

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Mike Pearson, at 60, has a lot of homework in front of him.

Now that he's Liberal chieftain, he will have to acquire more than passing acquaintenance with such matters as interim pay-freight rates, egg prices, tolls on the St. Lawrence seaway and distribution of boxcars.

This is not to say that Lester Bowles Pearson is ignorant of these topics, which crop up day after day in the House of Commons.

But neither can it be said that he is a specialist in these fields.

For 30 years, Mr. Pearson has been an acknowledged professional on foreign policy. He joined the external affairs department in 1928 and became the cabinet minister responsible for it in 1958.

WORLD MENDER

Mr. Pearson became a world trouble-shooter both by design and accident.

The design was that he felt he could offer a talent to Canada in the field of international diplomacy and he worked toward that end.

The accident was that he came on the scene as Canada began to assume a role in world affairs and could employ his talent.

The voice of Canada in world affairs for nine years became, by and large, the voice of Mr. Pearson.

In opposition he has continued to speak out on world affairs. Indeed, his comments receive more attention in the world press than those of Prime Minister Diefenbaker or External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith.

This has been especially true since Mr. Pearson won the 1957 Nobel peace prize. The award was announced Oct. 14.

His voice in world affairs likely will become even stronger now that he is Liberal leader.

FAMED FOR UN FORCE

Mr. Pearson probably gained his greatest world renown in November, 1956. The world was shocked by the Suez crisis and seemingly did not know which way to turn to stop the fighting quickly to prevent the fire spreading.

Mr. Pearson attended a cabinet meeting here, then flew to New York where he set before the United Nations his plan for an emergency force to be placed between the combatants in Egypt. The UN seized on his scheme.

Mr. Pearson has worked tirelessly for years for a permanent UN force. He has not yet seen his goal achieved because the force in Egypt was established on a temporary basis only.

Mr. Pearson's foreign policy has comprised three basic factors: Canadian support for the UN; Canadian participation in a regional defence alliance (NATO) to any "yes-man" role for Canada, either toward Britain or the United States.

SEES ALL SIDES

Mr. Pearson came to exercise, while external affairs minister, an influence in world affairs far beyond anything comparable to Canada's strength and population. He accomplished this by being able to see all sides of a question.

Because he came to be regarded as a superb conciliator—the word is not to be confused with appeaser—his has become the best-known political name outside Canada.

In some ways, his outward appearance belies his inner toughness. He is a well-built man of 60, of medium height, with a ready grin and witting tongue. He has a predilection for bow ties. Some might take him for a big-time salesman—though a salesman would never be seen wearing clothes in such need of pressing.

But Mr. Pearson is no gladhander. He is a fighter for what he believes to be right. And he is not afraid to talk back, either to the U.S. or Britain.

He has never liked air travel. But he has travelled thousands of miles by air in the cause of world peace. He may well have helped to save the peace more than once.

Mr. Pearson was born at Toronto April 23, 1897, the son and grandson of Methodist ministers. He was brought up mostly in rural Ontario and was graduated from the University of Toronto.

It was during the First World War, in which he served in a hospital unit, that he picked up the nickname "Mike." Mr. Pearson himself is not clear on how he acquired this name. It was apparently attached to him on the basis that no soldier should have a first name like Lester.

After the war, Mr. Pearson began to earn his living as a clerk in a Chicago meat-packing firm. But he had little stomach for business and went to Oxford University. He returned to the University of Toronto in 1923 as a lecturer in history. In 1925 he married Maryon Moody of Winnipeg. They have two children.

For a short time, Mr. Pearson played semi-professional baseball at Guelph as an outfielder. He has remained a baseball fan and sometimes uses baseball terms in his speeches.

SKELTON RECRUITED HIM

Mr. Pearson was doing research work in Ottawa in 1928 when the late Dr. O. D. Skelton, undersecretary of state for external affairs, persuaded him to join the department.

By 1941, Mr. Pearson was assistant undersecretary. He was posted to Washington the next year and became minister and later ambassador there.

He became undersecretary in 1946 after playing a key part in the writing of the UN charter at San Francisco.

The West wanted Mr. Pearson as the first secretary-general of the UN but the Russians didn't and Trygve Lie of Norway was chosen. Mr. Pearson could have become secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization if he had wished.

ALGOMA EAST MP

Mr. Pearson was taken into the cabinet Sept. 10, 1948, as secretary of state for external affairs. He was elected to the Commons as Liberal member for Northern Ontario's Algoma East Oct. 25, 1948, and still represents that riding.

As a public speaker before a large audience he is not impressive, partly because of his high-pitched, youthful voice. But before small groups, such as press conferences, he excels.

Mr. Pearson apparently had little interest in politics as such before joining the cabinet. On the day he was sworn in as a cabinet minister, he was asked when he had become a Liberal. "Today," he replied.

"Jest a Second"

"It's as I told Miss Smith: 'What was good enought for my father is good enough for me'!"

Leadership Vote Withheld for 35 Minutes

OTTAWA (CP)—Result of the Liberal leadership vote was withheld by party convention officials for about 35 minutes—in the face of protests from the press—until after the convention went on television at 9 p.m. EST Thursday.

Despite official secrecy, news wires and radio broadcasts carried news of Lester B. Pearson's election some seven minutes before Mr. Pearson, platform dignitaries and thousands of delegates and spectators heard his victory announced from the convention platform in the Coliseum.

Duncan R. MacTavish of Ottawa, convention chairman and president of the National Liberal Federation, said the decision to withhold announcement of the vote result was to fit in with convention program arrangements, not to accommodate a TV schedule.

However, Charles Stenning of Toronto, the official in charge of convention press and communications, said to reporters: "Why shouldn't we hold it up—we are aiming at an audience of 5,000,000."

Mr. Pearson and Paul Martin, the runner-up, said after the convention that they had not known the result was being held back but they would not comment on the procedure.

The Canadian Press made a formal protest to Mr. MacTavish saying that news is the property of the public and that public officials everywhere recognize that dissemination of news should not be delayed artificially.

Victor Mackie, president of the Parliamentary Press Gallery and Ottawa correspondent of the Winnipeg Free Press, made a protest to Mr. MacTavish before voting started.

To all protests Mr. MacTavish replied that the arrangements had been made and could not be altered.

The counting was in a carefully guarded room on the second floor and obvious efforts were made to prevent any leak of information.

However, reporters were on the job outside the counting room and at 9:05 p.m. the CP flashed Mr. Pearson's election. The figures for all three candidates were flashed at 9:06 p.m.

The announcement was made by Mr. MacTavish from the convention platform at 9:12 p.m.

Some scrutineers, on emerging from the counting room, said the count was finished about 8:30 p.m.

The usual procedure at conventions in the past has been for the announcement to be made as soon as the count is concluded. The platform proceedings are interrupted for that purpose.

From the time voting was completed at 7:44 until 9 o'clock the convention was occupied by speeches from prominent Liberals and some routine business.

It had been intended to have the vote announced at 9:05 but the scrutineers, led by a piper in Highland costume, had such a hard time getting through the crowds that it was not until 9:12 that the result was placed in the hands of chairman MacTavish.

During the waiting period, the convention adopted a resolution expressing its "deep appreciation and sincere gratitude" to representatives of press, radio, film and television services for coverage of the proceedings.

Mr. MacTavish, 52, has been federation president since 1952. He is senior member of one of Ottawa's largest law firms.

He campaigned for the late Mackenzie King when the former Liberal leader sought a seat in Toronto's North York in 1926. In 1930, he became president of the 20th Century Liberal Club. In 1935, he campaigned for Liberal candidates in Eastern Ontario ridings and in 1940 helped George McIlraith, MP, in Ottawa West.

Sunday School Lesson

Communal, Not Communistic

By ROY L. SMITH

It has been one of the tendencies of all reformers to claim the sanction of Jesus some of them going so far as to say that the Galilean was "the world's first socialist," "our first real radical", or "the original advocate of civil rights."

As a matter of fact, Jesus never allied himself with any political party, and he denied all political labels. He was interested in producing a change in human society, but he did not commit himself to any party or social doctrine.

ALL THINGS IN COMMON

There have been those small groups among Christians who have insisted that it was a part of their Christian duty to share all their possessions— to own nothing as an individual but to own all things socially. In making this claim, and in following this practice, they have pointed to the experience of the Christian Church during those first few months following the resurrection and ascension of Jesus.

But it should be said that this was not a manner of life peculiar to the Christains. The revelations that have come to light with the discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls indicate that the custom of owning all things in common—the communal system—was a more or less common practice among the Jewish sects.

There is distinct evidence to the effect that the original band of disciples who went about with Jesus lived in some such communal fashion, for we know that Judas was the treasurer and that some few individuals were made responsible for the buying for the band.

Even among the non-Jewish inhabitants of that ancient world there were those sects and groups who lived communally rather than individually.

It should be said, however, that none of these communal groups seems to have made any effort to impose the communal idea on society as a whole. As a matter of fact, they had no social theories because they had few social concepts.

> The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for January 19: "Fellowship of the Church", Acts 2:42-47; Romans 15:1-9; Ephesians 4:17-32; Philippians 1:3-11

The Essenes were a political group inside of Judaism in Jesus' day and they lived apart in colonies that practised the communal system. They also sent their missionaries about throughout the land pleading with the people to abandon their sinful ways and with the governments to change their sinful administrations. But they did not make any effort, so far as we can discover, to persuade all mankind or any states to set up universal system of communal life. They practised the system among themselves, but made no effort to impose it upon their neighbors.

COMMUNALISM AND COMMUNISM

The communal system under which the early Church operated was a matter of convenience, and not the product of any social theory.

It was the aim of the Church to produce a fellowship among the believers, and because they were able to do so, the communal system became a working possibility.

As a matter of fact, when the true Christian spirit has been achieved, it makes it possible for men to work together under almost any political system. But it is important to remember that it is the spirit in which we live which makes us acceptable, and not the political system under which we live.

Wedding

BELCOUR REYNOLDS

Two tall decorated Christmas trees and yellow chrysanthemums formed a lovely setting in St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, at high noon, Saturday, December 28th, when Janet Dorothea, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward George Reynolds, of Stirling, became the bride of Mr. Kenneth Glenn Belcour, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Charles Belcour, of Belleville. Small sprays of evergreen and red satin bows designated the guest pews. The Reverend Arthur Packman officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Miss Grace Pitman presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. William Reynolds, uncle of the bride, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "Where'er You Walk" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was beautifully gowned in ballerina-length white nylon over tulle and satin, having a lace bodice with bateau neckline and short sleeves. Matching lace gloves ending in points over the hands were worn. A lace panel circling the full skirt dipped slightly on either side and in the back and front. A pillbox style hat of lace, sequins and rhinestones held her shoulder-length fell of tulle and she carried a white Bible crested with red Sweetheart roses and white satin streamers knotted with red rosebuds.

The two bridesmaids were Miss Carolyn Belcour, Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Ellen Mitz, of Ivanhoe, cousin of the bride. Both were attired alike in ballerina-length powder blue lace over satin with three-quarter length sleeves and rounded, scalloped necklines. They wore powder blue feather headdresses, white gloves and carried cresent shaped bouquets of pink carnations.

Linda Dafoe, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl, dressed in pink nylon with matching headdress and gloves and carried a basket of red and white chrysanthemums.

Mr. Robert Reynolds, brother of the bride, was ring-bearer, carrying the rings on a white satin cushion.

Mr. Larry Mitz, Ivanhoe, cousin of the bride, was groomsman, while Mr. Gerald Irvine, Holloway, and Mr. Bob Thompson Brighton were ushers.

The wedding reception held in the Church Parlors, was catered to by St. Paul's W. A. The bride's table was centred with the three-tier wedding cake, topped with a tiny basket of pink roses and misted about the base with pink tulle. Pink and white tapers and the bridal bouquets added a nuptial accent.

The guests were received by the bride's mother in royal blue Trilon crepe with winter-white accessories and corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother in soft brown, brocaded satin with beige accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip to points west, the bride wore a brown mohair coat over a light green dress and beige and white accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Belcour are now residing at Picton, Ontario.

Guests were present from Barrie, Belleville, Brighton, Holloway, Ivanhoe and Stirling.

The girls of the Bank of Montreal, Belleville, held a miscellaneous shower prior to the bride's departure and the neighbors of the bride presented her with a portable food mixer.

St. Peter's WMS Headed by Miss Van Kluck

MADOC — St. Peter's W.M.S. held its last meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. Walter Brett. The president, Miss Van Kleeck, opened the meeting with prayer, which was followed by a business period.

The president conducted a short memorial service for their late minister, the Rev. M. W. Heslip.

The devotional service was taken from the "Glad Tidings" In her closing remarks the president told of the new study book for the coming year, which is on "Japan."

A solo, "There is a Song in the Air," was sung by Mrs. Harold Brett. Mrs. Charles Spencer gave a reading out of the Presbyterian Record.

A candle lighting ceremony was conducted by the president, with Mrs. J. Bailey, Mrs. F. Allen, Mrs. Kernohan, Mrs. J. Armstrong and Mrs. D. Blakely lighting candles.

Light refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

OFFICERS

The slate of officers for 1958 is as follows:

President, Miss Van Kleeck; first vice-president, Mrs. John Bailey; second vice-president, Mrs. Charles Spencer; secretary, Mrs. David Blakely; treasurer, Mrs. David Kernohan; recording secretary, Mrs. Charles Spencer; supply secretary, Mrs. John Armstrong; welcome and welfare, Mrs. Ben Miller and Mrs. Donahue; "Glad Tidings" secretary, Mrs. Walter Brett; press secretary, Miss E. Heslip; assistant press secretary, Mrs. Cecil Woods; pianist, Mrs. W. Brett; music committee, Mrs. Russell Lewis and Mrs. George Alvey.

Mrs. M. Pearson Never Doubted Win for Mike

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Mrs. Maryon Pearson wore "an old hat I found in the cupboard" to the national Liberal convention that chose her husband as its new leader.

The white hat, worn with a blue, scoop-neck silk dress, was of ostrich tips.

"I don't think I really doubted my husband's winning," said tall, black-haired Mrs. Pearson.

Asked whether she would move into Stornoway, official residence of the Commons Opposition leader and now unoccupied, she quickly replied:

"Certainly not. It would be awfully silly to move twice." It was more important that she get her husband off on a holiday before March 1, she said.

SEES VICTORY SOON

The Pearsons now live in an Ottawa apartment. But Mrs. Pearson predicted a Liberal victory within one, or possibly two elections.

Mrs. Pearson moved to the front of the platform, beside her husband, only when delegates' shouts insisted after Mr. Pearson had delivered his speech of acceptance.

She did not speak, although she said she was prepared to say, "Thank you"

"Wives of Liberal leaders don't make speeches, a tradition which I wholeheartedly endorse," she said.

She sat beside her daughter Patricia, Mrs. Walter Hanna of Toronto, on the platform. Mrs. Pearson said they had kept watching a television monitor set, hoping Patricia's husband, a Toronto doctor, would see them.

A son, Geoffrey, is with the external affairs department.

MARRIED HER TEACHER

A former University of Toronto arts student who married her history professor, Mrs. Pearson said it never occurred to her that she would become a party leader's wife.

Would she have married the lecturer wearing the bowtie had she known what would happen 32 years later?

"I wonder," replied the Winnipeg-born woman with a laugh.

Add An Egg To Your Cooking

Add an egg to your cooking for flavor, nutrition and extra appeal. Yes, an egg added to some of your recipes adds a bonus of flavor and valuable protein, vitamins and minerals, without adding too many extra calories. Home conomist Dorothy Batcheller offers a few suggestions for getting that extra plus value into your winter meals.

GELATINE WHIP

Prepare a package of gelatine dessert according to manufacturer's directions. Let cool until thick and syrupy, then add a whole egg and beat rapidly with either an electric or rotary beater until mixture is light and fluffy and increased in volume. Chopped fresh or canned fruits and nuts may be folded in if desired. Pour into individual or one large mould rinsed in cold water, and chill until firm. Serve with cream or custard sauce.

The egg gives a light texture and creamy flavor to the gelatine dessert. For variation beat in only the egg white and make a soft custard with the yolk.

MEAT LOAF

Add an egg to the meat loaf mixture and extra bread crumbs or cereal may be added to extend the meat. The egg binds the meat and crumbs together, producing a loaf that will slice well.

CREAM SAUCE FOR VEGETABLES

Add an egg to cream sauce to be used on vegetables for a smooth, rich texture and flavor. The richer sauce turns a vegetable into a main course dish, for example, creamed peas sprinkled with cheese make a nice supper dish with a salad.

A LA KINGS

Add an egg to a la King sauce to be served with eggs, chicken or meat. It rounds out the flavor.

FRUIT COBBLER

Add an egg and one of two tablespoons of sugar to a recipe for tea biscuits before adding liquid, makes a tasty topping for fruit. Drop dough on hot fruit such as canned cherries or plums, etc., and bake in a hot oven until dough is cooked, about fifteen minutes at 425 F.

MACARONI AND CHEESE

Add a hard cooked, sliced egg for every two servings when making macaroni and cheese, placing the eggs in layers with the macaroni. The eggs add top protein at low cost to this favorite supper dish.

SAUCE FOR FISH:

Add a coarsely chopped hard-cooked egg for each half cup of well seasoned cream sauce for a delicious accompaniment for fried or boiled fish.

EGG FRENCH DRESSING:

Add a chopped hard-cooked egg for each quarter cup of French dressing to serve on chopped. cooked beet or head lettuce salad.

POTATO CROQUETTES:

Add an egg for each two cups of seasoned, mashed potatoes to make fluffy potato croquettes or potato puff. Form potato in balls, roll in crumbs, brush with melted butter and bake in a moderate oven until golden brown or pan fry in a little hot fat; or place potato in greased casserole, sprinkel with grated cheese and bake in a moderate oven until hot and browned on top.

POTATO SALAD:

Add one chopped or sliced hard-cooked egg for each 1½ cups diced, cooked potato in making a potato salad. For a well-flavored potato salad Home Economist Dorothy Batcheller suggests making the salad at least one hour (or longer) before serving time and refrigerate. This allows the flavor to blend into the potato.

TO HARD COOK EGGS

Eggs are one of the easiest and quickest of the protein foods to cook and serve. Unfortunately, many times they are not as delicious to eat as they might be because they are cooked at too high a temperature and develop a tough texture.

A cookbook of over 100 years ago gives one of the methods for cooking eggs in the shell advocated by most good cooks today, says the Poultry Products Institute. Place eggs in cold water to cover, bring quickly to the boiling point, cover pan and set off heat. Let stand 3 to 5 minutes depending upon the degree of softness of yolk leave 15 to 20 minutes.)
15 to 20 minutes.)

To have the egg reach the table at the right stage of doneness remove from pan, plunge quckly in and out of cold water, and serve.

How little does electricity really cost?

Most things you buy today have gone up in price—an average of 80% between 1940 and 1956 according to the Consumer Price Index.

But in Ontario during these same years, the average price of ELECTRICITY used in the home and on the farm has actually gone down 4%.

The average cost of a day's cooking for a family of four is only 5.3 cents.

Electricity is one of the most important things in your daily life. Your home is safer . . . easier to keep clean . . . brighter . . . more comfortable than ever before.

Household tasks, and farm tasks too, are done more quickly, more easily, more economically and the world of entertainment is yours at the flick of a switch . . . all for only a few cents a day.

Crippled Children Society Planning Provincial Centre

By MARY FRAN BURKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—To meet expanding needs, the Ontario Society for Crippled Children is planning to establish a provincial centre for the special treatment and training of crippled youngsters.

The Ontario Crippled Children Centre, to be located near Sunnybrook Hospital in northeast Toronto, will be built on a 10-acre property, says Bud McAlister, the society's public relations supervisor.

"Plans are in the final stages and it is anticipated that the official opening of the centre will take place in 1959," Mr. McAlister said.

Serving 300 out-patients who need particular attention, the centre will also have facilities for treatment of victims of cerebral spina bifida, and muscular dystrophy. The rehabilitation centre will also be open to youngsters suffering from severe accidents.

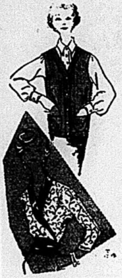
Provision has been made for complete service in special departments of physiotherapy, occupational therapy, hydrotherapy, speech therapy, play and academic school, aids to daily living and parental instruction. The society's head office and central district nursing home will also be housed in the centre.

New features will be incorporated such as a recreational swimming pool, which will be available to blind swimmers, a motel for out-of-town guests and facilities for parent groups to meet. There will be accommodation for the patients of the two present Toronto cerebral palsy clinics.

One section will be given over to doctors to carry on research in methods of attack on conditions that produce handicaps in children.

At present several research projects are under way guided by the society's medical committee of outstanding specialists. Every possible effort is being devoted to the better understanding and prevention of many causes of crippling that are presently obscure.

New Tops



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

New sweaters, blouses and blousons offer a bewildering variety of styles from which to choose, from novelties to new versions of the perennials. One of the new looks in sweaters is this Italian design, a cardigan in tangerine wool. It is lined in white silk to match the white silk classic blouse with which it is paired. Printed velveteen — black on white, green or red ground — make a top of distinction, with a black rayon satin collar and cummerbunds. The latter is optional and can be removed at will.

QUESTION:

. . . I have looked all through my books and am unable to find a recipe for orange twists. They are a doughnut which I get when I go to . . . . . for coffee after doing shopping. They have an orange flavor to them and are glazed with some mixture which has small pieces of orange peel in it. They are lovely . . . When I wrote before I said I had a simply made Date and Nut Cake. So finally here it is .

DATE AND NUT CAKE:

(Courtesy Mrs. F. M.) Take 1 cup dates chopped, 1 teaspoon soda and ¾ cup boiling water. Let stand while you mix other ingredients — 1 egg, ¾ cup brown sugar, 1-3 cup butter. Beat together and add date mixture, also ½ cup chopped walnuts. Add 1¾ cups sifted flour and 1 teaspoon vanilla and mix. Bake 25-35 minutes 350 deg. Fahr . . . Mrs. F. M.

FRIDAY

Fruit Cup; Salmon a la King on Toast Points; Potato Pancakes; Broccoli; Hot Gingerbread with Applesauce; Coffee.

ANSWER:

Thank you Mrs. F. M. for what looks like a welcome and quick recipe.

ORANGE TWISTS (CRULLERS):

One-half cup lukewarm milk, ½ cup lukewarm water, ¼ cup butter plus 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 package granular yeast, 1 egg, ¼ cup soft shortening, 3½-3¾ cups all-purpose flour. To the ½ cup lukewarm water add the 1 teaspoon sugar and sprinkle yeast over and allow to stand 10 minutes, then stir. In large bowl mix together lukewarm milk, ½ cup sugar, salt and soft shortening. Mix well and add beaten egg. Stir in foamy yeast liquid. Then mix in the flour, using spoon at first, then hand. Knead on floured board 60 turns and firm pushes. Let rise covered in warm place until double. Punch dough down Turn over. Cover. Let rise again. To shape crullers, roll dough ½" thick. Cut in strips ¾" wide, 10" long. Shape into twists. Let rise uncovered on floured bake board about 45 minutes. Drop into deep hot fat (375 deg. Fahr.) Turn doughnuts as they rise to surface and show a little color. Fry about 3 minutes to completely brown on both sides.

ORANGE GLAZE:

Two and one-half tablespoons each boiling water and orange juice, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, 1 cup icing sugar. Bring boiling water, orange juice and rind to boil. Remove from heat and add icing sugar. Mix well. Using a long 2-pronged fork, dip warm doughnuts into warm glaze, and drain on cake rack.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

ATTENTION . . . WOMAN GUEST AND GIRL GUEST AT CHURCH WEDDING

When you attend a wedding in a church . . . a church of any denomination . . . you should wear some kind of head-covering. Not to do this shows that you are lacking in good sense and right feeling, lacking in a proper understanding of the reverence due for any ceremony performed in a church. And this rule means you . . . whether you are a woman or a teen-age girl.

INSERTING WEDDING INVITATIONS IN ENVELOPES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our wedding invitations are being engraved on the small, one-fold sheets that fit into the envelopes with no other folding. I have already received the two sets of envelopes, inner (no gum on flap) and outer. I have begun to address these, will stamp the outer envelopes, and have everything ready to insert the engraved invitations when they arrive. Will you please answer 3 questions for me?

1. Is there a special way I should insert the invitations in the inner envelopes?

2. And is there a special way I should insert these inner envelopes in the outer envelopes?

3. I will also have reception cards. In these one-fold invitations, where are the reception cards inserted? — Bride-to-be

1. Yes, there is a special way to do this. Insert this one-fold sheet in the inner envelope with the engraved page facing the flap of the envelope.

2. Yes, a special way to do this also. Insert the inner envelope with its flap side inside the flap side of the outer envelope.

3. In this small size invitation, the reception card is inserted inside the single fold.

NEVER CORRECT . . . SEMI-COLON AFTER LETTER-SALUTATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

"A" says it is never correct to use a semi-colon after the salutation in a letter. For example: Dear Miss Brown;. "B" says a semi-colon is just as correct as a colon or a comma. Who is right about this? — A and B

"A" is right . . . never use a semi-colon after the salutation. You may use a colon after the salutation (formal or somewhat formal), or informally, a comma.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

HECTOR S. — My daughter has turned against my wife.

Loretta S. — Everyone holds a grudege against me.

• • •

Hector S. — I was a widower for three years until I recently remarried a widow with two small sons. I have a daughter of 13 and I thought we'd make one big, happy family.

My daughter, Loretta, was very thrilled about my marriage and had often told me she was crazy about my wife, Maureen. My wife did everything to win Loretta's affection — bought her clothes, helped her with her schoolwork, spoke up for her when I wouldn't let her wear makeup.

Now that we are married, Loretta seems to have turned against Maureen. She is fresh and disobedient. She doesn't help out with the chores. Maureen is terribly upset and at her wits' end about how to handle her.

• • •

Loretta S. — All the blame gets put on me, no matter what happens. I know I'm often in the wrong. I have a terrible temper. I just don't seem to know how to control it. Things come out of me before I know what I'm saying or doing. I'm sorry later, but everyone holds a grudge against me.

My father always takes Maureen's part, never even listening to my side of the story. Sometimes Maureen is very unfair and bossy. She'll ask me to do the dishes, even though I have lots of homework.

I know that Maureen and my father are very disappointed in me, but they didn't even give me a chance. They got disgusted with me the first time I lost my temper and have never forgiven me.

• • •

The Council: Hector and Maureen should recognize that their problems with Loretta are not at all unusual. If Maureen were Loretta's real mother, she would be facing very similar problems with her at this time.

It is unfortunate that they have taken Loretta's outbursts so seriously because the girl genuinely feels unwanted and disliked by her father and stepmother. Even if she were easily forgiven, she would probably nurse such feelings — to a lesser extent. It is rather hard for her to adjust to a new mother after a brief period of being her father's only girl.

Loretta, of course, does not realize that Maureen's apparent "grudge" comes out of a sense of failure in dealing with her. Maureen should not be so easily discouraged. She should be willing to accept the fact that this child can't always be sweetness and light, no matter how much love is shown her. She must rebel at times. It is inevitable that she'll have attacks of jealously anl irritability.

Maureen can easily win back Loretta's love by playing up the woman-to-woman angle. She should show that she and Loretta have a very special kind of closeness that excludes others in the family. She should show how pleased and proud she is to have a teenaged daughter. She should show that she understands Loretta's feelings and can easily forgive a mistake.

Hector, too, should go out of his way to show Loretta that she has not entirely been replaced. She still occupies the very special position of his daughter — and there can be no substitute for that.

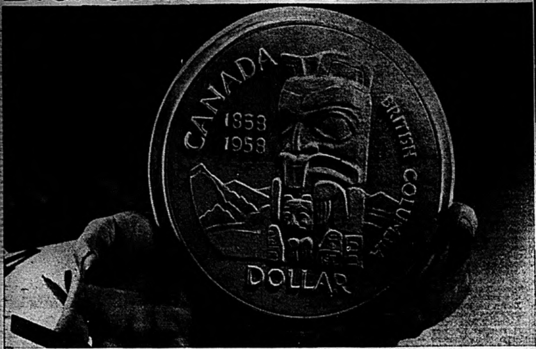
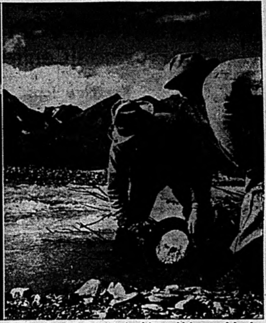
B.C. Celebrates Centennial



1958 will be a time of gala activities in British Columbia for Canada's West Coast province will celebrate not only her 100th birthday, but also the 100th anniversary since the famous Gold Rush of 1858. To commemorate this double centenary the Canadian Mint has issued a bright new silver dollar. Plaster mold of the award-winning design is shown above; it features a dramatic totem pole against a stylized background of B.C.'s Rocky Mountains.

The totem motif was a logical choice for B.C.'s commemorative dollar, for these carvings by British Columbia's Indians have become synonymous with Canada's West Coast. Above, tourists in Vancouver's Stanley Park.



B.C.'s colourful Gold Rush of '58, which started in the Cariboo area of the Fraser river, attracted prospectors by the thousands and first opened the interior of the country to settlement. Placer gold is still mined today.

One hundred years ago the beautiful city of Victoria was the busy hub of activities for miners setting out on the feverish quest for gold. Its natural harbour, easily accessible and ice-free the year round made it a popular point of entry for prospectors, and the town, which previously had depended largely on the fur trade, now became the base of operations for the thousands who trekked northwards in search of gold.

Mr. Stephen Trenka of Thornhill, Ont. whose design for the B.C. Silver Dollar was selected from some 150 entries, was born in Budapest where he studied at the Royal School of Design. He came to Canada in 1929 and continued his studies at the Ontario College of Art. Since then his works have won acclaim at many national and international exhibitions.

Surgery Aids Babies Born With Heart Disease

By John D. Keith, M.D.

Associate Professor of Medicine University of Alberta, President, Alberta Heart Foundation.

ARTICLE 2

Two-year-old Sherry is a normal, healthy little prairie girl thanks to a special Christmas present she received in Edmonton's University Hospital a year ago.

The "present" was a small plastic patch inserted over a hole between the left and right sides of her heart and the removal of thick muscle which was obstructing the blood flow into the pulmonary artery. Sherry was born a "blue baby" and the operation to make her "pink" involved stopping her heart for more than half an hour, while the functions of her heart and lungs were assumed by a mechanical pump and the heart was laid open by a surgeon's knife.

Each year in Canada some two thousand babies like Sherry are born with defective hearts that severely limit their activities and often mean an early death. New developments that make open heart surgery possible are giving these youngsters a new lease on life.

No one is able to say exactly why the walls, valves, or vessels to and from the heart do not develop properly in these children. We only know that some influence retarded normal development many months before birth. There is a rigid timetable for formation of all parts of the body and if delay occurs during the time at which the heart is being formed the result may be a permanent abnormality in its structure.

Doctors agree that there is no reason why a mother who has had one child with a congenital heart should not have further children who are perfectly normal.

It is often thought that a child with congenital heart disease is a blue baby. However, just as many children born with heart disease are not blue.

Discovery of an abnormal heart is often made by the family doctor in the first year of life. In some cases there may be little evidence at this time and the difficulty does not become apparent until the child becomes more active. Quite often these children may only have feeding problems and be subject to more than the usual number of chest colds. They may not grow as well as their sisters and brothers and often tire more easily. In children who are blue babies, the blueness may appear in the first few weeks of life or may be delayed. It always becomes worse with crying and exercise.

EARLY DIAGNOSIS

Before surgery can be considered, an accurate diagnosis must be made. This often involves special tests in addition to careful examination by the doctor. By these tests it is possible to determine not only the site of the abnormality but also the effect which it is having on the heart.

Surgical treatment varies from the simple tying of abnormal vessels to complicated procedures requiring a mechanical pump to carry on circulation while the heart is stopped. The surgeon is now able to work inside the open and stopped heart for as long as an hour while the child's circulation is carried on by the "heart-lung" pump. This makes it possible for him to apply plastic patches to cover holes in the inner walls of the heart or to work on malformed valves.

Before the development of "open - heart surgery" three years ago, patients could not be completely cured of complicated lesions. Older types of operations for these complicated lesions often improved but did not completely cure the patient. With the help of "open - heart surgery' it is now possible to completely repair many of even the most complicated heart defects.

A child, for example, with a hole in one of the inner walls of the heart, with one valve narrower than normal, and with a shunting of "stale" blood into the general circulation, may enter the hospital quite blue and with very limited exercise ability.

SPECIAL TESTS

During his stay in hospital, special tests are performed and an accurate diagnosis is arrived at by a medical diagnostic team. Before his operation, blood must be obtained in large quantities, demanding the contributions of approximately twenty donors, each of whose blood has been matched against the child's. These people must donate their blood early in the morning on the day of operation since the blood used in the operation cannot be stored.

The surgical team then takes over and the operating room is prepared. The "heart-lung pump" is set up and filled with blood. The child is then brought up to the operating room and the surgery begins. In the room at this time there are the surgeon and two assistants, one or more medical consultants, the pump team of two or more technicians, the anaesthetist, four or more nurses and one technician looking after the ther complex machines necessary for this operation. The operation, itself may last as long as six hours. The child then returns to the recovery room where nurses, specially trained in this work, help insure the success of the operation.

If all goes well, the child who leaves the hospital will have good color, be full of energy and can look forward to a normal life.

It is only through years of research and experiments with animals that these methods of curing children with congenital heart disease have been developed. It will only be through years of further research that even better ways will be found.

More important still is the investigation being carried on now into the fundamental causes of congenital heart disease. At present many children with abnormal hearts can now have a hopeful future through corrective surgery. In the future there is hope that these abnormalities may even be prevented entirely.

Break From CRU Main Item At Grid Leagues' Meetings

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's two major professional leagues [illegible] at separate annual meet[illegible]day to talk over problems common to both. In about 72 hours the air should be cleared on a variety of subjects, some business.

As usual, since the game has grown in the last 10 years from small budgets and fun and games to hard-headed big business, East and West can't see eye to eye on some points. There's even difference of opinion within the respective unions—the Big Four and the Western Interprovincial.

By far the most contentious issue up for discussion centres around a much - talked about break from the grand-pappy of them all, the Canadian Rugby Union. Others deal with playing rules; an East-West interlocking schedule, partial or full; import quotas; and appointment of a commissioner for East-West football.

[illegible] IN CAMERA

[illegible]egates aren't talking much. They're saving discussion for this morning's meeting with their own organization, the Canadian Football Council, and their own two-day annual sessions before Sunday's final get-together with the CFC when decisions will be announced. All meetings are in camera.

The CRU, formed in 1882 to govern amateur football, is in the middle. The union has embraced the pro leagues for years, handled the registration of players, had the say on Grey Cup final arrangements and rule changes and helped develop minor football. Its future rests with the professionals.

Now, say the pros, the time has come to take a good look at the voting structure, matters concerning the Grey Cup final including distribution of tickets, and also the CRU's power to ac[illegible]r reject rule changes pro[illegible] by the professionals. They want some changes made or a break from the union is inevitable.

NEED TWO-THIRDS MAJORITY

The Big Four and WIFU each has three of the 10 votes in the CRU, not enough to make constitution changes which require a two-thirds majority. They don't like the idea of having to go to the CRU whenever rule changes are contemplated and they say Cup final ticket distribution is away out of line.

Under the present setup, the CRU, Big Four and WIFU each receives 30 per cent of the tickets with the other 10 per cent going to the Ontario Rugby Football Union, out of the playoff picture since 1955. The pros believe the Big Four and WIFU should receive a much larger share to satis[illegible]in some measure the de[illegible] of their season subscribers.

But East and West aren't entirely agreed that a bolt from the CRU is necessary. The Big Four and two of the five WIFU clubs are solid for a break now but Edmonton Eskimos and Winnipeg Blue Bombers are against the move while Saskatchewan Roughriders have adopted a go-slow attitude. The Eskimos, Bombers and Roughriders believe a compromise can be reached.

PARTIAL THIS YEAR

On the subject of an interlocking schedule, some members of the Big Four want one on a partial basis in 1958 with the idea of trying to sell a national company or companies—television rights, and a full schedule with the West in 1959. Others say an interlocking schedule on any basis is out un[illegible] 1959. The West is lukewarm o[illegible]ything this year.

On import quotas, the East favors carrying 13 Americans after the third game of the schedule but playing only 12 in any game. Last season 12 could be dressed but the teams were allowed to carry as many as they wished and make 14 changes from the third games until Oct. 18 when they had to name 12 for the remainder of the seasonm

The West has various versions on the import question. Calgary Stampeders want an increase, but they don't say by how many. Bombers don't want a change from 1957. Edmonton is content with the 1957 limit but probably would agree to a cut. Saskatchewan favors a cut to eight and British Columbia Lions, possibly the richest club in the country, favors an increase to 14.

The East's idea of appointing Syd Halter of Winnipeg as national commissioner and referee-in-chief with power over both leagues, is enthusiastically endorsed by the WIFU. But Halter himself says he doesn't know whether he would take it or not.

"I'd have to find out just what the East has in mind; what the powers of a commissioner would be," he said Thursday. He probably will be told before Sunday.

Should Give Weaker Countries Chance to Win

LONDON (CP) — The world amateur hockey championship rules should be changed to give weaker countries a chance to win something, says J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, president of the International Ice Hockey Association.

Commenting Thursday on a report that 10 countries have entered the 1958 championship to be held in Oslo Feb. 28-March 9, he said:

"That is a good post-war average, but the present rules should be changed to attract more of the 'no-hopers' in future years.

"At present too many of the w[illegible]er ice hockey nations do not c[illegible]te because they have got n[illegible]chance against the 'Big Five'."

The big five are Sweden, Canada, Russia, Czechoslovakia and the United States.

"I would like to see the rules changed so that the championships became three competitions. The 'Big Five' would form one class and the lesser ice hockey states would be in two categories of their own."

The "Big Five" are entered in the 1958 championships, along with Finland, East Germany, Poland, France and Norway.

Fort Francis Whips American World Club

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP)—Fort Frances Canadians defeated the United States national hockey team 4-3 Thursday night to sweep a two-game series with the club that will represent the U.S. in the world championships this year.

The Canadians, a senior club with some players remaining from the Dominion championship squad of 1952, drew three penalties to the Americans' one. The game was played under International rules.

A crowd of 2,500, about half of them residents of neighboring U.S. communities, saw Canadians take a 1-0 lead in the first period and make it 2-1 by the end of the second.

Fort Frances scorers were Ed Kliner with two goals, Jimmy Johnston and Bill Borlase. For the American team, it was Ginny Christian, with two and Ed Zifcak.

GRAIN DIET

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP)—A buffalo calf in the wild animal park here had to be put on a diet of grain when its mother was killed in a fall off a 100-foot cliff. Buffalo calves usually nurse from eight to nine months.

Tijuana Open Starts Today

TIJUANA, Mex. (AP) — The $15,000 Tijuana Open golf tournament, which years ago listed such legendary figures as Gene Sarazen, Henry Picard and other greats of the game, gets under way today.

Heading the field of 153 players was former U.S. National Open champion Ed Furgol, who won the event last year after two holes of a playoff with Al Besselink.

The tournament was revived in 1956 after an absence from the tournament slate for two decades. Mike Souchak won the 1956 top money and is also back for another try at the first prize of $2,000.

Most of the big names of golf were entered, including the current U.S. Open champion, Dick Mayer, and Canada's top money winner, Al Balding of Toronto.

The PGA meanwhile, disclosed it had fined seven professionals $100 apiece for failure to turn in score cards at the Crosby tournament. They were Bill Hanger, Howard Capps, Harold McSpaden, Ralph Arnold, Shelley Mayfield, Ed Hogan and Jimmy Hines.

TRADING CENTRE

Abomy, a walled city in West Africa, has an extensive trade in palm oil, gold and ivory.

Golden Bears Ask for Two Rules Changes

SARNIA (CP) — Sarnia Golden Bears of the Ontario Rugby Football Union will ask for two rule changes for the 1958 season.

President Jim MacPherson said Thursday he will put the proposals before the ORFU annual meeting in Toronto Saturday and Sunday.

Bears, he said, favor unlimited blocking on punt returns and pass interceptions. They also wish to have 10-yard blocking from the line of scrimmage extended to all players.

At present, no blocking is allowed on punt returns or pass interceptions. Two backfielders flanking the ends, and all linemen, now can block 10 yards past the line of scrimmage on a running play. Other backs can block one yard past the scrimmage line.

DOWER IN COMEBACK

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (AP)—Dai Dower, former contender for the world flyweight championship, made his comeback Thursday night in the bantamweight class, outpointing Eric Britt in an eight-round bout. Dower, former British and Empire flyweight champion, weighed 117¾ for his first fight as a bantamweight. Britt weighed 120½.

Johnson Meets Bert Whitehurst

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) Harold Johnson, a man leery of oranges, battles Bert Whitehurst tonight in a televised heavyweight bout. Johnson, 29-year-old veteran slugger from Philadelphia, won a split decision over Whitehurst in a previous match.

Johnson is remembered by viewers for an incident in a televised fight two years ago when he failed to answer the third-round bell after biting into a doped orange in Philadelphia. An investigation by the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission cleared him of complicity.

The 26 - year - old Whitehurst, from Baltimore, has also been the subject of official investigation. In Hartford, Conn., last year he lost a split decision to Wayne Bethea of New York. The decision drew boos from the ringside crowd and prompted a special session by the Connecticut board, which upheld Bethea.

Johnson is a classic - style fighter who has scored 56 victories in 64 fights over 11 years. Among his 25 knockout victims is light - heavyweight champion Archie Moore. In a championship bout two years ago Moore retaliated by knocking out Johnson.

Whitehurst has a 24-11-2 record and has dropped 12 of his opponents.

TYPES OF FEEDING STATIONS

A feeding station can be as simple or as elaborate as you desire. You can make them yourself or you can buy them. Here are a few of the most popular feeding stations. But remember, once you start to feed the birds, don't stop!

SUET RACK

WINDOW CAFETERIA

WALL or POST HOPPER

SWIVEL-WINDVANE FEEDING SHELTER

SUET LOG

FOODS OUR WINTER BIRDS LIKE

These foods are sure to attract your favourite winter birds to your feeding station: Millet Seed • Mixed Grain Crushed Raw Peanuts • Sunflower Seeds • Corn Remember! Once you have begun to feed the birds, make it a point to replenish your feeding station daily.

Lumley, Worsley Back In Old Spots; 'Gump' Goal Better Than 'Lum'

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It all depends on which side you bet your money on, but trying to figure out if a club that wins two in a row is "up" and the opposition is beginning to slump, is like trying to determine the hoary old "which came first, the hen or the egg."

Take the case of the Cornwall Chevies. Any change in Ray Miron's team's performance would have to be for the better since they dropped nine decisions in a row. They abruptly terminated the loss-string when they took their first decision in ten starts from our side and Wednesday night, of all things and in all places, the Chevies duck-egged Wally Lenser's Pembroke Lumber Kings right in Harry Moore's home town. And in case you do not know the genial ex-newspaperman and dean of the Ottawa Valley baseball authorities and executives, he gets his mail in Pembroke.

However, the Chevies seem to have hit some sort of stride as dunking the Kings in their own courtyard is no mean feat, although Kingston started the system a couple of weeks ago. The Chevies, unwittingly gave the Macs a "standing assist," since the Kings did not improve their "three-points-in-arrears" stance. As matters stand now, the Macs can lose to Whitby tomorrow night, and the Kings take Kingston, and the Hildebranders would still have a point advantage over the northerners.

However, the picture from a Belleville point of view, would be much more attractive if the Macs could set back the Dunlops and the CKLC's take the measure of the Lumber Kings. That would give the Moira crew a five-point lead over the Kings, and if Cornwall defeated Ottawa last night, it would mean the Macs would take over official second place. Okay, Okay, there's no harm in wishful thinking.

Frank Orr, the crusading columnist of the Cornwall paper, takes this department to task for daring to accuse his beloved Chevies of committing anything that does not coincide with the rules.

Tsk, tsk, tsk. Among other jibes he writes:

"Mr Carver goes on to talk about Rooster Muir 'deliberately high-sticking' Turk Barclay, who took over for Bell. George also calls this a vicious attack. If George had been here he would have witnessed the incident and seen how it really happened. Barclay fell on a puck during a scramble around the net and Muir, who was standing by the crease, took a poke at the puck which was under Barclay's glove. That is nothing new. Immediately Barclay took a punch at Rooster and the battle was on. Barclay put his stick up in the air and a whole group of players joined the fray. Muir shed his gloves and started swinging. Lionel Botley of Belleville leaped into the fray with his stick. As for it being a deliberate attack, well that is good chuckle. It seems that Barclay has picked up a chip on shoulder sitting on the bench."

Assuming this tirade has a scintilla of truth, there must be something new in officiating circles. The one thing Mr. Orr omitted to say, and which was partly omitted from the summary of the game in the local paper, is that "Rooster" Muir was handed two majors and a misconduct by Referee Louis LeCompte. The first major was for fighting, the second for "deliberate high sticking." The misconduct was automatic.

These penalties were duly recorded on a copy of the official referee's report as forwarded to this office by Bill Campbell, the "official" scorer of the Chevies, a guy who calls them as they are, and as he sees them.

Knowing Louie as we do, it seems passing strange he would hand out a major for "deliberate high sticking" when the poor, defenceless Muir was merely protecting himself with his bare fists from the ruthless attack on the demon Barclay. And howcome the Turk emerged with a six-stitch slash in his noggin' Was he scratching it too hard?

Meanwhile, tonight is "farewell night" for the Whitby Dunlops in Belleville. Fandom should be out in force to wish Wren Blair and his Canadian champions all the best in their quest for the world hockey title. How about it? . . . . . .

Hockey's Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal's Dickie Moore and Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard each collected three points Thursday night to pull further ahead of the pack in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Moore scored twice and picked up an assist boosting his point total to 54 on 23 goals and 31 assists. Richard scored his 20th goal and earned two assists to remain two points behind.

The leaders:

Broadway Blues Nip Bruins As Red Wings Shade Hawks; Canadiens Trounce Leafs 5-2

By BILL MacDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Two veteran goaltenders faced each other Thursday night as they tried to prove they still belong in the National Hockey League.

In one sense, neither outshone the other—both made 26 stops—but the New York Rangers in front of Gump Worsley scored one more goal than Boston Bruin to win 3-2.

Rangers took advantage of defensive lapses for two of their goals against Harry Lumley, a onetime familiar face in the NHL.

Lumley first stepped on NHL ice 14 years ago, playing two games with Detroit Red Wings in 1943-44 and landing a permanent job there the next season. He stayed with Wings for six seasons, spent two with Chicago Black Hawks, then moved to Toronto Maple Leafs where he had the best seasons of his career. In 1953-54 he captured the Vezina Trophy, awarded to the player with least goals against.

PAILLE GOES DOWN

At the other end of the rink Worsley was taking over from Marcel Paille, whose initial lustre apparently had worn off. Paille returned to take Worsley's place with Providence Reds of the American League.

Two other games were played. Montreal Canadiens maintained their league-leading pace with a 5-2 victory over Toronto while Detroit continued to atone for their early-season slump, edging Chicago 3-2. Wings now have 43 points one ahead of Rangers and 18 behind Canadiens. Bruins and Leafs are tied for fourth with 37, three ahead of last-place Hawks.

Larry Popein scored his seventh goal of the season late in the final period to give Bruins their margin. Earlier, Red Sullivan picked up a loose puck in front of the Boston net and sent a 10-footer home and Andy Bathgate got his 14th goal of the season after Jerry Toppazzini lost the puck while trying to kill a penalty.

Boston got their goals in the second period, Gerry Ehman and Flem Mackell doing the honors. The game was Ehman's first in the NHL.

FAMILIAR ROLE

Dickie Moore was a star at Montreal in his familiar role as Toronto's nemesis. He got two goals, his 22nd and 23rd of the season and his 99th and 100th in six seasons of NHL play. Another Montreal big gun, Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion got the 199th goal of his career. Henri Richard and Andre Pronovost also contributed to the Montreal total while George Armstrong and Barry Cullen hit pay-dirt for Leafs.

Alex Delvecchio's two goals were the big factor in Detroit as the Wings marked their fifth straight victory. And he did it the hard way—setting up both his own goals by stealing the puck from Chicago players in their own zone and then beating goalie Glenn Hall.

Norm Ullman made good a 10-foot backhander for Wings' other ongoal. Pierre Pilote and Ron Murphy were the Hawks' marksmen.

TORONTO (CP)—Roy Thomas Worters, former star goaltender in the National Hockey League and later a Toronto hotel owner, left an estate valued at $207,591, when he died last Nov. 7.

His will, probated Wednesday, left net income from the residuary estate to his widow, Alice, for life. In the event of her death the estate is directed to his daughter, Joyce Mackin.

Worters, 57 when he died, was the first NHL goalie to win both the Vezina and Hart trophies. He was awarded the Hart as the league's most valuable player in 1929 while with the old New York Americans and the Vezina as the goaltender with the fwest number of goals scored against him in 1931.

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals and Trois-Rivieres Lions, a couple of Quebec Hockey League teams who have found points hard to come by this season, showed Thursday night they're not to be discounted yet.

Lions, paced by Al Clearly's two-goal performance, upset the front-running Chicoutimi Sagueneens 5-3 while Royals whipped the second-place Shawinigan Fall Cataracts 7-4, sparked by Kelly Burnett's three games.

For Montreal and Trois-Rivieres, what made the victories even more encouraging was that both were earned in road games.

The night's play left Chicoutimi with 51 points, a 10-point first-place bulge. Quebec Aces, who were idle, are third with 36 points, one more than Montreal and three more than Trois-Rivieres.

Cubs Trounce Teepees 8-5; Marlies Beaten

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Cubs, second in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A race, Thursday night settled an old score with the leading St. Catharines Teepees.

In the six previous Hamilton-St. Catharines games Teepees wound up winners every time.

Thursday night, Cubs, tied 5-5 at the end of the second period, banged in three unanswered goals in the final to win 8-5.

The win put them a point ahead of Toronto Marlboros, who lost 5-3 to Peterborough Petes, and 12 points behind Teepees.

TEMPERS FLARE

Tempers flared in the game at Hamilton and 27 penalties wert called, including two majors and two misconducts.

Murray Oliver, Ed Cooke, Dave Amadio, Gerry Sullivan, Stu McNeill, Don Blackburn, Brian Smith and Lloyd Haddon scored for Cubs. Ed Hoekstra, with two, Chico Maki, Matt Ravlich and John McKenzie replied for St. Catharines.

Peterborough's victory over Marlboros left St. Michael's behind in the race for fourth place. Petes now have 31 points, St. Michael's 29.

Bill Mahoney scored two for Petes, Guy Black, Tom Thurlby and Wayne Connelly adding singles. Jack McMaster, Sonny Osborne and Doug Riseley scored for Marlboros.

Will Honor Whitby Dunlops During Tonight's Hockey Game

The Belleville McFarlands, the Macs Booster Club and, it is hoped, a packed Memorial Arena, will give the Whitby Dunlops, Canada's representatives at the World Hockey Tournament, a fitting send-off tonight.

It is the last visit of the Dunlops here in Eastern senior league competition and arrangements have been completed to express the best wishes of this city, district and its hockey representatives to the national champions.

The Dunlops leave New York via the Queen Elizabeth for Europe on January 28, and will carry with them the fond hopes of the nation which gave hockey birth in their quest for the world title.

When the Dunnies step on the ice in Memorial Arena tonight, they will be greeted by a large banner placed high over the ice surface which conveys the best wishes of city and district fandom.

Between the second and third periods, the teams will line up on their respective bluelines. The Dunlops will be presented with a large floral horseshoe bearing the inscription, "Good Luck, Dunnies".

The presentation will be made by the Belleville Boosters Club president Dick Beare to Wren Blair, dynamic manager of the Dunlops. It is likely Manager Blair will speak to Belleville fans.

A large delegation of members of the Whitby Booster Club will be on hand and the familiar chant of "Go, Dunnies, Go" will echo in the arena. It should have plenty of opposition from the Macs Boosters with their "More, Macs, More" battle cry.

Following the game there will be a social get-together for members of both Booster Clubs, the McFarlands team, and, if possible, members of the Allan Cup winners. The function is being held in the Elks Hall, Front Street, and Booster Club members only will be admitted on showing their card. There will be dancing and refreshments. No minor members of the Booster Club will be admitted.

Chicago Records Prove Jinx Basilio's Crown May Shift

CHICAGO (AP)—It should be with considerable wariness that Carmen Basilio puts his middleweight title on the line in a re-[illegible] with Sugar Ray Robinson [illegible] for March 25 at Chicago Stadium.

The big arena, which will be scaled for an indoor record gate of $500,000 based on a 22,000 attendance, is the scene of some of Robinson's most dramatic triumphs.

It was there on Feb. 24, 1951, that he stopped Jake Lamotta in the 11th round to win the 160-pound crown.

It was there on April 16, 1952, that he defended it by chilling Rocky Graziano in the third round before more than 23,000 fans.

It was there he climaxed a comeback on Dec. 9, 1955, by knocking out Bobo Olson in the fifth round to regain the title.

It was there that he again regained it on May 1, 1957, with a fifth round kayo of Gene Fullmer.

Basilio dethroned the 37-year-old Robinson last Sept. 23 in Yankee Stadium and vacated his welterweight title.

It was a bruising 15-rounder with Basilio getting a split decision but Robinson proved he still could go at top speed for the full distance.

The two will sign fight contracts Thursday in Chicago.

Jim Norris, International Boxing Club president, said that "we were guaranteed $275,000 from theatre-TV and we expect it to go much higher than that."

The fighters each will receive 30 per cent of the proceeds from the gate, television, radio and motion picture rights. In their last meeting, Robinson took 45 per cent and Basilio 20. The proceeds totaled $739,000.

There will be no theatre-TV in Chicago but the fight will be broadcast.

Baby Habs Whip Chevies 8-4; Trappers Dump Bulldogs 6-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

North Bay Trappers, who have been battling most of the season to stay out of the OHA-NOHA Senior A cellar, pulled an upset, rough-house win over a third-place team Thursday night. But action in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A eastern division ran true to form.

North Bay dumped Windsor Bulldogs 6-3 to jump into a fourth place tie with Chatham. They now are four points ahead of last place Sudbury. Kitchener and Sault Ste. Marie are in first and second place by comfortable margins.

In the only other senior game, the cellar - dwelling Cornwall Chevies were trounced 8-4 by Ot[illegible]-Hull Junior Canadiens. Ot[illegible]a, ineligible for the playoffs, holds second-spot in the series with 38 points. The Allan Cup champion Whitby Dunlops are way out in front by 15 points. Belleville, Pembroke and Kingston are bunched for third, fourth and fifth.

At North Bay, George Gosselin and Johnny Bobenic each fired two goals for Trappers to pace the rough-and-tumble win. A total of 15 penalties were called, including two majors and a misconduct. Windsor drew nine and North Bay six.

Bobby Barlow and Gerry Cabana scored the other North Bay goals. Lou Bendo, Frank Bathgate and Andy Milne were the Windsor marksmen.

At Cornwall, John Annable scored three goals for Ottawa-Hull. Ralph Blackstrom scored two, Claude Richard, Bob Rousseau and Bob Boucher got the others.

Cornwall scorers were Neil Burke, Don Labelle, Rene St. Hilaire and Guy Henri.

Harold Rake of Snowden, in the Montreal Junior League, filled in for Canadiens' regular goalie Eric Reid, who is in hospital for a check-up. Rake handled 30 shots. Gerry Devaney faced 39 in the Cornwall net.

One-Ring Circus Bout Ends When Boxer Falls Off Stool

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The scheduled main attraction was relegatet to virtual obscurity at Olympia Auditorium Thursday night when 4,200 fans went daffy over the preposterous goings-on in tse 10-round semi-main event.

[illegible] was this latter engagement [illegible] produced these items:

1. One fighter was decked between sounds.
2. At one point, both combatants were on the floor simoltaneously.
3. The referee was attacked in the ring by a spectator.
4. The matchmaker eventoally got into the ring himself—to protect the referee.
5. The fight ended when one of the participants fell off his stool.

ONE-RING CIRCUS

The gladiators in this one-ring circus were Senor Alvaro Gutierrez of Mexico and L. C. Morgan of Youngstown, Ohio.

It started out like a fair scrap. Morgan, 140, and Gutierrez, 144½, exchanged some nice deliveries, and the only irregular incident in [illegible] early going occurred when [illegible]rgan hit Gutierrez low by accident.

The first hint that this was no ordinary affair came in the fourth, when Morgan delivered a right that left Gutierrez in a horizontal posture. As Morgan stepped back to admire his work, he tripped over his own feet and fell backward to the deck.

The fighters got up, almost simultaneously, just before the bell that ended the round. The crowd was going looney.

Seconds after the fourth round ended, Morgan stumbled across the ring and let Gutierrez have it with a right to the chin. Gutierrez didn't go down. But the exhausted Morgan did, and had to be carried to his corner.

FANS OBJECTED

Morgan came back and managed to score two knockdowns in the fifth, but he was badly spent.

The many Mexican fans were enraged at what he'd done to their hero before the fifth round [illegible]ted. As the sound and fury [illegible]ented, a burly Latin, unidentified, charged into the ring and started hammering on referee John Thomas. Several ringsiders hopped to the official's defense, and matchmaker George Parnassus joined them.

Debris was flying through the arena when the bell for round six sounded.

But it was all over. Morgan tried to get off his stool, but collapsed before he could take a step. It was a technical knockout for Gutierrez.

Paul Anka, Singer-Writer At 16, Moves Into Big Time

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SINGING STAR

Paul Anka of Ottawa, 16-year-old singer - writer, has already written 21 songs, nine of which have been released. He wrote and recorded "Diana" and jumped into prominence in 1957, now receiving 500 fan letters a week. His popularity extends to the United States and United Kingdom where his recards are top sellers. (CP Photo) 1958.

OTTAWA (CP) — Paul Anka, 16-year-old Ottawa singer-writer, has come a long way from the day he sang in neighbors' homes "for dimes and qaurters," but he is not too concerned with being a celebrity.

Whirled to fame in less than a year by Diana, a song he wrote in 20 minutes, Paul is too busy and modest to be impressed.

"It's all a jumble," the youngster said in an interview before starting a two-week tour of the United Kingdom. He had just finished a 110-day swing through Canada and the United States.

"But I love every minute of it," he confessed. "There's so much to do."

FULL SCHEDULE

The little singer—he's five feet four inches tall and weighs 150 pounds—now is so busy in the entertainment world that he had to quit school in grade 10.

"We'll have to get him a private tutor," said his father, Andy Anka, owner of a well-known Ottawa restaurant. Paul wasn't to go to a private school later.

After his U.K. tour he was scheduled for a two-week run at New York's Paramount Theatre, and another two-week tour of the U.S. Then it's off to Hollywood, where he will take screen tests for a movie tentatively entitled Going Steady. Paul is to write songs for it, too.

"We've lost him in a sense," said Mr. Anka, "but we're trying to keep the family relationship as much as we can."

Paul gets home to visit his parents, and sister Marian, 17, and brother Andy Jr., 7, as often as possible betwetn tours and television appearances.

NATURAL TALENT

The chubby youngster crashed into the big time through sheer determination, says his dad.

"He's always been interested in music. At six he used to go around singing to the neighbors. They'd pay him a dime or a quarter."

Later, he joined a church choir where he met Diana Ayoub, 18, for whom he wrote Diana. The recording sold more than 2,000,000 copies last year, bringing him fame and fortune.

But there's no romantic interest there. However, the boy who says he's "kind of young to think of girls" gets hundreds of letters asking for advice about romance. His 500 fan letters a week are answered by two secretaries, although Paul answers "the cute ones," and his parents answer a few.

Turning point in Paul's life came last June when his father, after weeks of argument, finally gave him $100 and 10 days to go to New York and either sell his songs or give up the idea.

HITS JACKPOT

Paul had made a name for himself locally with a small singing group and was convinced he couldn't go further without trying his luck in New York.

Five days after Paul left, Andy Anka received a telephone call from ABC-Paramount recording studios. They wanted to know if Paul really wrote the songs he had shown them. A few days later a contract was signed.

Paul has written 21 songs. About nine have been released and the others will be coming out in a few months.

My Destiny, his latest recording, "has violins and everything," enthused the boy who took only 10 months of piano lessons.

Writing words and music of songs seems to come naturally to Paul and he shrugs it off. He wrote I Love You Baby in half an hour during a drive from Boston to New York.

Paul, who likes comic books and chocolate bars, carries only about $3 or $4 in his pockets most of the time. His money is kept in a trust fund in New York and can't be touched without both his and his father's signatures. His earnings from recordings and personal appearances are expected to reach $100,000 by May.

'Lil Mo' Collects Damages Cheque For $110,734

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) —Former tennis queen Maureen (Little Mo) Connolly gets a cheque for $110,734 today.

Lawyers said it was final settlement of the amount due on a $95,000 Superior Court award in 1956 for injuries suffered when a horse she was riding became frightened and brushed her against a concrete mixer truck in 1954.

She is also getting interest and court costs, the lawyers said.

Now, Mrs. Norman Brinker, 23, she sued the concrete company, charging the truck driver with negligence in failing to stop and let the horse pass. Her leg was broken. She said the injury ended her tennis playing career. The settlement follows a state Supreme Court decision upholding the jury award.

Marlene Just Made It in Tampa Open

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto shot a nine-over-par 82 Thursday in the first round of the Tampa Women's Open golf tournament to barely stay among the first 20 players.

Winds up to 25 miles an hour and chilly weather around the 50-degree mark raised the scores of several other pre - tournament favorites besides Mrs. Streit, the Canadian and former U.S. amateur women's champion.

Ruth Jessen of Seattle took a two-stroke lead with a one-over-par 74. Defending champion Betsy Rawls shot 76 to tie for second place with Patty Berg, another former winner here, and Beverly Hanson.

Little Band of Independents Will Make 12 Movies in '58

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—At a time when some major studios are planning few or no movies, a tough little band of independents named Hecht-Hill-Lancaster has announced 12 for 1958.

The firm consists of an acrobat-turned-actor, Burt Lancaster, his former agent, Harold Hecht, and James Hill, who started as an NBC usher. These hard-working creators have made a success in the film industry at a time when the business is shrinking.

Hecht, first - named in the company, operates from a luxurious office decorated with original oils by Corot, Gris, Rouault and other greats. After displaying them fondly, he talked about the movie business.

MANY FILMS READY

"I'm not saying we'll release 12 films in 1958," he explained, "but we've got that many projects ready to go. We're shooting 'Separate Tables' now, then we will do a Burt Lancaster western. After that, we've got four others ready to go, back to back."

How have they been able to maintain a steady schedule while some major studios have been floundering?

"Maybe it's because we pick our subjects carefully. They are things that we earnestly believe in.

"And we plan a special campaign on each picture. We travel around the country to keep in touch with theatre men and learn how to sell our pictures in today's market."

The H-H-L selling technique is a proven commodity. It worked wonders with Marty. The company spent two or three times the cost of the picture to exploit it and won oscars as well as a $3,000,000 gross, about 10 times the film's cost.

Another case was Trapeze. About $1,000,000 was spent on exploitation. Hecht reported the world-wide gross at $16,000,000. Of the 15 movies they have made, only one failed to turn a profit.

"I guess we're entitled to one mistake," Hecht smiled rather grimly. "That was Sweet Smell of Success. It will lose about $300,000.

"We went wrong on that one. We got into it before we had a finished script, and we just could not lick the story. It was a big disappointment, and we can't recoup much overseas. There is too much talk in it for foreign audiences.

"But we learned our lesson. Now I'm having each script analyzed by experts in the foreign field to test their appeal overseas. Run Silent, Run Deep (Lancaster, Clark Gable) is figured to be a natural for foreign audiences. Separate Tables is less so, but the stars (Lancaster, Deborah Kerr, Rita Hayworth, David Niven) can be expected to help."

Senor Al Lopez Says White Sox Will Win Flag

CHICAGO (CP) — Chicago White Sox manager Al Lopez, pleased with some off - season deals, says "with the club I have now I think the White Sox will win the American League pennant this year."

He told reporters at a press conference Thursday he is eager to toss off the bridesmaid Mantle. Lopez finished second with the Sox last season and previously his Cleveland Indians were runners-up five times, winning the pennant only in 1954.

Lopez said that the White Sox would have the best pitchig staff in the league. He said the team jelled into championship calibre with two December deals that brought outfielder Al Smith and pitcher Early Wynn from Cleveland and pitcher Ray Moore, infielder Billy Goodman and outfielder Tito Francona from Baltimore Orioles.

"The Yankees were ready to be taken last year, but we didn't do it because they beat us in crucial series when we had a chance to move into a decisive lead," Lopez said.

"We gave up our best distance hitters (Minnie Minoso and Larry Doby) but now we have the best pitching in the league, an improved defence and perhaps more speed."

He said Wynn could be a 15 to 20-game winner (he had a 14-17 record for Cleveland last year but struck out 184) and be one of six potential starters. The others are Billy Pierce (20-12), Dick Donovan (16-1), Bob Keegan, (10-8), Jim Wilson (15-8), and Bill Fischer (7-8), with Moore and Gerry Staley the first-line relievers.

Strange, Wonderful Breed Are Doctors in Far Lands

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—"They're a dedicated people, a strange and wonderful breed of man. They'd never come home and work down at the corner. By comparison they make you yourself feel like a pretty shabby person."

A writer named Lou Hazam, was talking. The "strange and wonderful breed" he was discussing are American physicians—both missionaries and others—he met in obscure places on a round-the-world trip with a television camera crew.

The television audience can meet some of these physicians and view their extraordinary work next Thursday (Jan. 23) when March of Medicine presents MD International on NBC-TV.

With David Lowe, the producer-director of the program, and five technicians, Hazam visited Korea, Hong Kong, Burma, Nepal, Lebanon, Ethiopia and India. The 81-day 34,000-mile world-circling expedition travelled by every means from airliner to foot. With and without interpreters they worked in 13 languages.

Hazam wrote and filmed in the Belgian Congo the excellent Monganga program for March of Medicine last year.

"I believe that American doctors are our greatest unofficial ambassadors abroad," he says. "To hundreds of thousands of people in far parts of the world the word 'American' means only one thing: a little man working in a little hospital who saves and brings health to the sick."

Not all these ambassadors are men. Hazam recalled a small hospital operated by the Markknoll Sisters in Pusan, Korea—"Five or ten pristine little angels who run a clinic that is said to have the longest waiting line in the world." The gates of the clinic open at 8 a.m., but the line of patients begins to form about midnight.

FATE OF LEPERS

In Hong Kong, a Lutheran medical missionary named Dr. Olaf Skinsea of Chicago who has founded a leprosarium told him how lepers were treated until a few years ago:

"In a town not far from here they herded the lepers together and took them out to sea in a boat and then set fire to it. To make sure that none escaped, they surrounded the boat and pushed under water all those who tried to swim."

In remote Nepal "we climbed for two days up a steep mountain to a little village called Tausen where a little guy from Reading, Pa., named Dr. Friedrichs Carl has set up a hospital and is doing remarkable work."

"The life there is so primitive that the people know not the wheel — perhaps because the mountain is so steep that the wheel would do them no good."

Wherever Hazam, Lowe and their crew went they found wonderful stories of humans living under stress. Their greatest problem was not in finding material but in trying to compress it into an hour of television.

AT THE PARK — Mark Stevens plays the enigmatic "Velvet", an outlaw with a flair for classical music and an air of gentility, in United Artists' "Gunsight Ridge", at the Park Theatre today and Saturday. Joel McCrea co-stars in this Robert Bassler production. On the same program "Enemy from Space" starring Brian Donlevy. Both features are first Belleville showings. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

AT THE PARK — Beautiful and competent WAC secretary who helps Richard Widmark in a pre-court-martial investigation portrayed by Dolores Michaels. The United Artists release, "Time Limit", will open Monday at the Park Theatre for its first Belleville and district showings. On the same program not since "The Quiet Man", such a happy-go-lovely story in Technicolor "The March Hare" in color and CinemaScope starring Peggy Cummins and Terrence Morgan, photographed in the picturesque Irish country side.

AT THE McCARTHY — Jayne Mansfield stars in Twentieth Century-Fox's "Kiss Them For Me", a CinemaScope, De Luxe Color production starring Cary Grant and Suzy Parker with Leif Erickson. The film based on Frederic Wakeman's novel, "Shore Leave", now showing at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE BELLE — Murder and International intrigue are what lies ahead for Ken Scott, Joan Collins and Robert Wagner, who are starred along with Edmond O'Brien in Twentieth Century-Fox's CinemaScope production of John P. Marquand's great romantic suspense story of postwar Japan — excitingly filmed in Deluxe Color in exotic Tokyo. The production is continuing tonight and Saturday.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, January 17

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Thoughts of home and family are eminently important today. Attend to outside duties quickly, then devote as much of the day as possible to own family and hobbies, finances, welfare, etc. Set everything to rights.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Take time in early morning to give your countenance a scrutinizing, analytical look. Are you at your very best? If not, make repairs, changes quickly. Then display your gifts, abilities to right persons. Do it now!

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — The day is here in which to be practical concerning all financial, property matters, using the greatest wisdom. Get credit at its very best, collect what is owing you, look into recent investments. P. M. be happy with mate.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—It is possible to come to greater understanding with associate, also put matters in a more hazardous condition with all others by showing co-operation and appreciation. Be practical. Attend to civic matters.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Splendid day to stop procrastinating on vital labors that must be performed. Fix your wardrobe, take health treatments, work faster and more precisely. Clear desk of letters, then have fun with fellow workers.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Use spare time today to get expert work done on hair, nails, etc. Be at your best and achieve that immaculate look. P. M. clean up necessary labors in order that you can dash out to favorite sport, recreation.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Don't gamble unwisely today on anything. Just stick to tried and true course and labors that will increase your abundance and give you that sense of security which your nature requires for satisfactory living.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—A fine day to discuss at length with those persons, be they associates in business or just relatives and neighbors, whatever does not suit to a T and arrive at satisfactory conclusions, working agreements. P.M. shop.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Show other people today how adept you are at practical, business affairs, that you know where to save and where to spend wisely. Make repairs to property, add conveniences. Then give your throat attention. Be fundamental.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Other days it would be unwise, but today you can dress beautifully and then contact those persons who have it in their power to extend you just about any favor you desire. Be honest, specific and you get what you want.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — This is not the day to indulge in those magnanimous thoughts which others would term fantastic. Get down to the practical level of others, put all your affairs in order quickly and get their respect. It is necessary.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—If you make it your business to be with sensible, industrious, serious comrades today, you come much closer to real success. But be specific about what you need and desire, they will help. Don't be taciturn.

If your child is born today . . . The child born today is the type who will have his or her greatest charm in the serious mien which he or she adopts, but which is actually a sure sign of deep thought and absolute practicality. Yours is the duty to inculcate the spiritual side to this nature for this finite mind. Train early and wisely and bring forth a wonderful minister, teacher, logician, scientist.

HIS MARGIN

Mr. Martin, who had waged an intensive fight for the leadership, met the convention verdict with a smile and said to the delegates:

"You have just elected the next prime minister of Canada."

The former health minister's supporters had based much of their campaign on the contention that he had appeal for the "grass roots" as opposed to the party brass supposedly supporting Mr. Pearson.

Former agriculture minister Gardiner was the only former cabinet colleague to back Mr. Martin publicly, partly because of an expressed belief that Mr. Martin is the best vote-catcher in the country.

Mr. St. Laurent maintained an air of outward neutrality, but it was reported he favored Mr. Pearson, his successor as external affairs minister.

TAKES OVER MONDAY

Later, it was announced that Mr. St. Laurent—at the new leader's request — will remain as House Opposition leader until Monday, when Mr. Pearson will take over.

The new leader, who has sat in the Commons for Northern Ontario's Algoma East mining constituency since 1948, will carry into the next election virtually a brand new platform from the one with which the Liberals went down to defeat last June 10 after 22 years of uninterrupted power.

It emphasizes full employment and international peace. Indications at the three-day convention were that the Pearson role in international affairs and growing unemployment since the election will be key factors in Liberal election campaigning.

Apart from trying to cash in on these two elements, the Liberals will otherwise have a platform that has been refurbished from top to bottom.

It was completely rewritten at the convention and, while the party hung on to basic tenets and many of the specific policies it clung to while in office, it did a quick change on others in the anticipation of an early election. There was something for just about everybody in the many thousands of words that went into the platform resolutions adopted by the convention.

There was more assistance for the elderly in pensions, a plan of university scholarships financed by the federal treasury, enlargement of the hospital insurance plan to which the Liberals were wedded before the election, extension of family allowances beyond what the Liberals would do while in office, and a new declaration of support for some form of farm parity prices that the Liberals previously had skirted around.

The Liberals also would "improve" cash advances on farm-stored Prairie grain, rejected by the former Liberal government and then put into effect by the Conservatives. Also, there would be payment of storage costs to Western farmers holding such grain.

ABOUT-FACE ON LABOR

The Liberals also did a right-about-face on some major legislation sought by labor groups for several years during their regime but consistently turned down by them.

These included their new endorsation of legislation to provide the voluntary revocable checkoff of union dues for all industry under the federal jurisdiction, and of minimum wage and standard working hours for the same type of workers.

Party standing in the 265-seat House: Progressive Conservatives 113; Liberals 106; CCF 25; Social Credit 19; Independents 2.

FORECASTS

In his acceptance speech he emphasized the need for an immediate return of the Liberals because allegedly the Conservatives had brought trade problems and unemployment to Canada.

RIDICULES CONSERVATIVES

He spoke of the resolutions adopted by the 1956 Conservative convention as "born in controversy and frustration, misshapen and unattractive after birth," and the "quietly smothered in one of the cruellest acts of political infanticide in history."

Was that the kind of speech he would be making in the Commons, reporter asked.

"Well, I am in a different position . . . I have a lot of other interests now and no doubt they will reflect themselves in the speeches a little more than when I was especially concerned with one aspect only."

His first thoughts were on party organization.

TO TRAVEL AT ONCE

He intended to travel across the country but he also had to spend some time in the Commons. He will be at Vancouver Jan. 24. Three days later, he will be in Brandon, Man. On Feb. 14 he will be at St. John's, Nfld.

A new party leader usually had time for rest and thought, but "I don't know that he will have much time this time."

Mr. Pearson emphasized trade problems. He recalled the former Liberal administration had indicated it would allow the export of Western Canada's natural gas to the United States. The present Conservative government had stated it would make no decision on exports until he heard from the royal commission on energy, set up in mid-October and yet to hold its first public hearing. A new Liberal government would certainly uphold its previous undertaking.

Mr. Pearson maintained there is a relation between the present Conservative government's policy and the American move to restrict imports of Canadian oil by 15 per cent.

WEREN'T TRESPASSING

SARNIA (CP)—Magistrate F. K. Jasperson ruled Thursday that Sarnia police have the right to go on the Chippewa Indian reserve in this city to enforce law. He dismissed a motion alleging that two police officers were trespassing when they arrested Indian chief Lloyd T. Williams Nov. 23 and charged him with obstruction. Police said he refused to produce his driver's licence when ordered. The magistrate dismissed the charge, saying there was a conflict in testimony.

'Do-It-Now' Drive to Combat Winter Unemployment Has Had Success Survey Shows

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada has combined a "do-it-now" winter employment campaign with government pump-priming in efforts to cope with the worst unemployment since the depression.

Almost 200,000 construction workers now are unemployed—one-third or more of Canada's jobless. Labor Minister Starr, urging that renovation, maintenance and repair jobs be started now rather than in the spring, says this figure will grow "in traditional fashion."

The "do-it-now" drive has had early success, employment officials told Canadian Press reporters making a cross - Canada survey.

GOOD PUBLIC RESPONSE

"It's hard to assess the results mathematically but the campaign has been very well received by the public," said a Montreal placement officer.

Construction men are being told about new techniques that permit cold-weather building. Businessmen are urged to juggle jobs. Home owners are asked not to wait until spring to have painting and repair jobs done.

But government projects—federal, provincial and municipal—so far seem the most significant measures in plans to combat rising winter unemployment.

FEDERAL PLANS

Ottawa has announced it will provide funds for projects that may create 100,000 jobs during 1958:

Low - price housing to employ up to 75,000 jobs, with $150,000,000 set aside for mortgages;

Construction of forest access roads in co - operation with the provinces, 1,500 jobs, $1,000,000 in federal funds;

Improvements in national parks worth $1,000,000, nearly 2,000 jobs;

Construction of six government ships at a cost of $10,000,000, 3,500,000 man-hours of work;

Accelerated works for the Canadian National Railways, $3,500,000.

AT OTHER LEVELS

Scores of projects have been launched on the provincial and local levels

In Windsor, Ont., hard hit by layoffs in automobile plants, Mayor Michael Patrick has promised that public and private works costing $15,000,000 will be started within three months.

In little Kitimat, frontier town near Prince Rupert on the northern British Columbia coast where hundreds of aluminum-smelter construction workers were laid off, voters approved a hospital building project expected to employ 250 persons.

Here is a province-by-province sketch by CP reporters of prospects for work-creating plans:

NEWFOUNDLAND

Premier Smallwood declined comment on what immediate action would be taken by his government to ease unemployment. A long-range plan is to move as many as 50,000 Newfoundlanders to large centres from isolated communities, to increase their earning possibilities.

No large government construction projects are under way. Two federal buildings were started in St. John's last summer but an employment official said they "don't help much."

NOVA SCOTIA

Biggest construction projects in the province are an administration building for the new Halifax airport, and a 10-mile road to the airport. The unemployment office in Halifax said tenders were let with the "prime purpose" of helping ease unemployment.

The "do-it-now" campaign is working out well. One employment official said his office is getting "splendid co - operation." Most calls have been from householders but a number of firms are taking part. One laid off 17 men, then changed its mind and rehired them for other jobs.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

A $580,000 federal program to improve Summerside airport has been announced and some work is expected to be done this winter.

Imperial Oil Company says it plans to start drilling for oil soon. A two-year survey of oil possibilities is completed.

NEW BRUNSWICK

Three annual provincial spending projects were saved to provide winter work for unemployed: Repairs to public buildings, purchasing of local supplies such as lumber, and clearing rights - of - ways for roads and power lines.

QUEBEC

Damase Toupin, assistant manager of the federal unemployment office in Greater Montreal, said the "do - it - now" campaign has been well received.

Maurice Chartrand, manager of the economic research section of the Montreal Chambre de Commerce, said studies show that home - finishing, interior decorating, machinery repairs and similar work can be done as well in winter as in summer.

"It is possible now to do almost anything in cold weather," he said.

In Montreal area, employment is being maintained to some extent by such projects as the metropolitan highway across a new expressway from Montreal north to Laurentian resort areas, and a municipal slum-clearance plan.

But Mr. Chartrand said he knew of no local projects specially designed to meet this winter's problem. The Quebec labor department also said it has no information of such works.

At Sherbrooke, an airport project has been started earlier than planned because of the unemployment problem.

ONTRIO

Five or six fair-sized federal buildings are going up during the winter campaign, providing employment mostly for skilled tradesmen. A new one is being started at Goderich, another at Belleville. Two provincial buildings and a federal building are being built in Toronto. Large schools are being built at Perth, in the Ottawa Valley; Brockville and Prescott. Government construction also is under way in Brantford, London, Sarnia and other places.

In Maitland, beside the St. Lawrence River near Cornwall, the DuPont Company planned construction of a new plant so peak employment of 350 would come during the winter. Ontario Hydro has 3,200 men working on the power part of the St. Lawrence seaway project.

"They poured thousands of tons of cement on the seaway last winter, proving that construction during the winter is feasible," said Dan McLaughlin, National Employment Service employment officer in Toronto.

About 2,000 men will be employed on winter construction at the uranium town of Elliot Lake in the Blind River district of Northern Ontario.

"And that's a place where it really gets cold," said Mr. McLaughlin.

MANITOBA

Works Minister R. D. Robertson said several projects will soon be started, including an overpass, two major bridges and clearing rights - of - way for next year's highway construction.

He said everything possible is being done to get winter work started. As much work as feasible will be done by hand to spread employment.

"Construction is the one thing we can shuffle to make winter jobs," said Mr. Robertson. "We asked anyone who could postpone work until winter to do so." This included demolition of the Winnipeg revenue building destroyed by fire.

SASKATCHEWAN

Provincial Treasurer C. M. Fine said the provincial government is working on Regina public buildings worth $4,500,000. All repair work that could be postponed was left over for winter.

The "do - it - now" campaign is developing successfully.

ALBERTA

A provincial government spokesman said $6,000,000 worth of government construction work in Alberta will depend on the temperature.

"How can you pour cement in 30-below-zero weather?" he said.

Federal work in Alberta's national parks is expected to provide 1,500 jobs and considerable low - cost housing work is in prospect.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

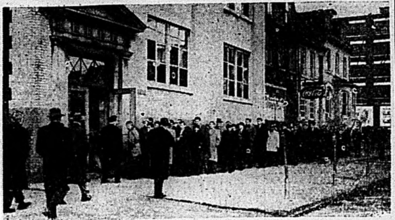
Works Minister W. N. Chant said: "We'll do all we can with the amount of money made available in the next budget (usually brought down in February). If economic conditions permit, we'll go ahead."

The provincial government is discouraging overtime work by refusing permits to some companies requesting them, in an effort to open jobs for more workmen.

Burnaby municipality, adjoining Vancouver, took on 50 men for outside work. Kitimat starte a $3,800,000 hospital, opening 25 jobs.

Vancouver ratepayers approve a $72,000,000 works by-law which Alderman George Cunninghan said, will provide 2,600 stead jobs for five years.

LINE-UP FOR JOBS



Job-seekers, who have formed a queue along Spadina Avenue, file into the National Employment Service offices as the doors are opened at 8 a.m. NES officials said that at mid-November 115,909 persons—2.2 per cent of the Ontario population—was registered for jobs. A slowdown in construction and in the steel, textile and newsprint industries is said to be the chief factor in unemployment in industrial Ontario. (CP Photo).

Hooting Indians Raid Klan Rally; 4 Men Wounded

Tribe in North Carolina Up in Arms Over Crosses

LUMBERTON, N. C. (AP)—Sheriff Malcolm McLeod says he will ask a grand jury today to indict a Ku Klux Klan leader who had his rally shot out from under him by whooping Indians.

The Robeson County law officer said Sunday night he wanted charges of inciting to riot brought against Rev. James Cole of Marion, S.C., self-styled KKK leader.

Cole, claiming he was denied legal rights because he is a member of the white race, said he planned legal action against the sheriff, also a white man.

But later, Cole said the Klan should turn the other cheek as far as further action may be concerned.

"Being Christian is our job and we should turn the other cheek even when offended," he said.

KLAN ON RUN

Cole's rally near here Saturday night ended with Klansmen and spectators scrambling for safety as hooting Indians fired rifles, shotguns and pistols.

The Indians were outraged by reports the Klan intended to warn them against race mixing and by the fact that two KKK crosses were burned near Indian homes during the preceding week.

Although Indians fired for 10 minutes while people milled about in pitch darkness, only four men were wounded—none of them seriously. Apparently most of the shots were fired into the air.

One Klansman was wounded slightly, a television cameraman was nicked on the ear by a rifle bullet, a third man was struck in the hand and a fourth hit by a shotgun pellet above his eye.

KKK AS BLANKET

Simeon Oxendine, son of the mayor of the Indian community himself in a captured KKK banner and winked at reporters.

Oxendine said: "I don't know how many Indians were there last night, but there were enough to do a job.

"I told the boys to take it easy. Slap 'em around a little, if you have to, I told them, but don't hurt e'm.

"I told them to take it (the Klan rally) apart a little bit at a time and that's just what we did. The Klansmen were begging us to let them out of there.

"They won't come back. There'll be bloodshed if they do."

OUTNUMBER WHITES

There are about 40,000 white people, 30,000 Indians and 25,000 Negroes in Robeson County.

Bahamas Lose $112,000 a Day Result Strike

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—The government said Sunday that this crown colony's tourist industry is losing "at least $112,000 daily" in a general strike over one per cent of the taxi business at Nassau International airport.

"Every hour, around th clock, the strike is costing Nassau $4,-600," an official statement said.

"Even if this strike ended promptly, the tourist business in Nassau will be a long time getting started again. It may be years before we again reach the former level of high employment."

The colonial administration's sum-up of the strike came after the walkout, started by taxi drivers, completed a week in which workers in resort and utility jobs stopped work in sympathy on the call of the Bahamas Labor Federation. Hotels closed, tourists departed and British troops arrived to prevent disorders.

There was no indication a break was near. There have been no major incidents.

The government said the Bahamas Taxicab Union, the Bahamas Hotel Assn. and tour companies agreed before the strike on 19 points of a 20-point plan for the cab drivers and tour firms to share business in carrying passengers to and from the airport.

"The tour companies agreed to use taxis to transport surplus passengers to the airport and wished to use taxis of their choice. The taxi union wanted cars from the ranks at the hotels," the statement said.

"This is the sole cause of the dispute.

"All told, this amounts to only about one per cent of the total taxi business with the airport."

The government digest of the situation came as British soldiers armed with rifles, patrolled Nassau's streets—devoid of visitors—and a Royal Navy Frigate arrived on the scene from Bermuda.

A spokesman said HMS Ulster's job would be to supply technicians, if need be, to maintain essential services.

Lumber Kings May Move to Hull Arena

PEMBROKE (CP)—Wally Lenser, owner of Pembroke Lumber Kings of the Eastern Ontario Hockey Association, said Sunday night he may move the team to Hull in mid - season because of poor attendance here.

If attendance at Kings' next two home games does not total 3,000 the team will move out, Lenser said. Last week he announced that Kings are $15,000 in the red on the season's operations.

Bob Guertin, member of the Hull arena commission, said today that Lenser's plan is "not impossible." Lenser would have to consult the commission, which he had not yet done.

Art Bogart, manager of the memorial centre here, said he had heard nothing from Lenser about his threatened move.

Lenser said the Hull arena would need an attraction soon, with Ottawa - Hull Junior Canadiens moving out to play all their junior games in Ottawa.

Somewhat colder weather now over northwestern Ontario, Manitoba and neighboring states will return to central and southern Ontario again Tuesday behind today's weather.

Indonesia Signs Peace Treaty With Japan

JAKARTA (AP) — Indonesia and Japan today signed a peace treaty and reparations agreement bringing a formal end to Second World War hostilities.

The peace treaty actually brought a formal end to hostilities dating from Japan's declaration of war on The Netherlands in December 1941. Indonesia gained its sovereignty from The Netherlands in 1949.

Thug Holds Hostage at Gunpoint In Movie-Thriller Market Holdup

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Two gunmen staged a $3,000 supermarket robbery Saturday night that had all the elements of a movie thriller.

Police said the action began when the gunmen were in the supermarket and a woman called to report a robbery in progress. It ended with one gunman shot and the other captured with the help of two hostages who had turned against him.

After receiving the robbery report police telephoned the store and told one of the gunmen, identified later as Walter Gump, 36, of Muncie, Ind., it was surrounded. They said Gump told them:

"I'm coming out with a hostage. This guy with me is dead the second anyone shoots."

Gump came out holding a gun to the head of Raymond Van Duyn, 32, assistant store manager. The second gunman, John Diefenbaugh, 47, also of Muncie, had a gun at the back of Tom Wynn, a store clerk.

Gump and Diefenbaugh led their hostages through a police cordon and into an alley, where they decided to split up.

Diefenbaugh released Wynn and struck out alone, slipping through the police net.

Gump forced Van Duyn into the home of Ted Bolser, 26, where Bolser was entertaining neighbor Frank Levin, 30, and his family.

Gump demanded Bolser and Levin come along. Fleeing in Levin's car, they came to a roadblock near Crawfordsville 40 miles east of Danville.

Lvein described the capture:

"The police car came up from behind. I couldn't move because of Gump's gun. When the police started shooting, Ted (Bolser) grabbed Gump around the neck, and then I jumped in and took the gun."

Sunday police spotted Diefenbaugh north of Danville. He and police exchanged shots. He was wounded in the shoulder and surrendered.

COMMONS WAITS TO LEARN WHAT PEARSON PLANS

Will Get Answer On Liberal Tactics

BULLETIN

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson indicated after a party caucus today that no immediate decision has been reached by the Liberals on whether to attempt to topple the Progressive Conservative government this afternoon.

"Any decision I reach as the result of the caucus will be made between now and 2:30 p.m. and announced to the Commons," he told reporters as the caucus broke up at 12:50 p.m.

The Commons is scheduled to meet at 2:30 p.m.

Mr. Pearson, elected party leader Thursday, said he intends to spend the time up to 2:30 p.m. in contemplation.

"No final decision will be made until I get to my office," he added.

OTTAWA (CP) — The hottest political question since last June's federal election will be settled today in the Commons.

Will newly - elected Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson propose a want-of-confidence motion aimed at defeating Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Progressive Conservative administration and bringing about an early general election?

There are reports Mr. Pearson personally would like to do just that, and that his motion will be so framed that it will be supported by the CCF and Social Credit groups.

However, there also are reports that influential Liberals want a motion—if one is to be proposed—that could not be supported by the other two opposition parties. This would enable the Liberals to 'censure the government without running the risk of defeating it and bringing about an election.

MEET IN CAUCUS

Liberal members were to meet in caucus this morning, before the House began its afternoon sitting, and a decision on what course will be taken likely will be made there.

Present standing in the 265-sat House: Progressive Conservative 113, Liberals 106, CCF 25, Social Credit 19, Independent 2. The Liberals would need the support of 27 other members to topple the government, assuming there was 100-per-cent attendance.

However, if the Liberals present a non-confidence motion, there also is speculation that Mr. Diefenbaker will seize on this to ask for immediate dissolution.

He might argue that the government minority position has been impossible all along even with the previous Liberal commitment not to obstruct the government in carrying out its election promises. However, now that the Liberals had proposed non-confidence motions along with the CCF and Social Credit parties, the time had come for an election to clear the air.

CLAIMS RECORD

PARIS (Reuters) — The French Sud Aviation Company claimed Friday that its SO-9050 Trident jet fighter has broken the world altitude record of 70,-310 feet set by a British Canberra jet bomber last August. The company said the Trident had reached an altitude of 22,-000 metres (about 72,100 feet).

BLIND SCIENTIST STUDIES ATOM

Dr. Bradley Burson, 40, a blind physicist at the Argonne National Laboratory in Lemont, Ill., is shown in his laboratory, where he is engaged in research into the nucleus of an atom. The scientist, who has no sight in the left eye and can barely distinguish light with the other, said the handicap is no problem because "nobody can actually see the atom."

Canadian Govt. to Finance Private Trade Organization

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government plans to finance a new private organization of Canadian businessmen to encourage trade with Britain and possibly other countries in the sterling area.

Details of the move likely will be disclosed when members of the Canadian trade mission to Britain reassemble here Monday for a two-day meeting to complete their final report.

Speakers will include Trade Minister Churchill, mission leader: James S. Duncan of Toronto, mission deputy: Sir Saville Garner, Britain's high commissioner to Canada; and Sir William Rootes, chairman of Britain's dollar exports council.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker may also address the 50-member mission if he feels well enough. He has been ailing with a sore back.

The mission's month-long tour in Britain, Nov. 21-Dec. 19, was designed to encourage Canadians to switch some imports from the United States to Britain. That is in line with Mr. Diefenbaker's hope of diverting 15 per cent of Canada's imports from the U.S. to British factories.

So far virtually no diversion has taken place. Canadian and British officials have agreed however, that so major a project may take some time to bear fruit. The mission's final report, to be completed during the two-day meeting, will embody a number of recommendations for encouraging increased imports of British goods.

One recommendation likely will have British firms give priority to Canadian orders over those from other countries. Another may suggest a vast advertising campaign in Canada by British exporters to offset heavy advertising by American firms.

The new private trade organization, as envisaged by some federal officials, would comprise principally the mission members, themselves heavy users of imported goods. Prominent businessmen, they would journey to Ottawa for periodic meetings to plan new ways of increasing imports from Britain.

But the federal view now appears not only to encourage imports from Britain, but from all Commonwealth countries and perhaps from all the sterling area. The new organization may be known as the general trade council or something similar. At the outset, at least, its administration would be financed by the federal government.

The new body would take over the work of the Canadian trade mission office set up by Mr. Churchill after the mission returned to Canada. Its secretary is Peter Stursberg, former newspaper man and radio commentator. He likely will be shifted to the new trade council office, probably as permanent secretary.

Tough and Fit

Fuchs Reaches South Pole, To Try Continent Crossing

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP) — Dr. Vivian Fuchs and his 11-man British ground team reached the South Pole today and announced they firmly intend to press on to the other side of Antarctica.

Tough and fit despite the gurling 57-day trek across more than 900 miles of snow and ice, the British explorer said he would go on as planned to Scott Base, on McMurdo Sound, for the first overland crossing of the continent. But he added that he had no idea when he would reach the end of his journey.

Fuchs and his team left Shackleton Base on the Weddell Sea on the South American side of the pole Nov. 24 for their unprecedented, 2,100-mile crossing of Antarctica.

Fear-Admiral George Dufek, chief of the U.S. base at the pole, and Sir Edmund Hillary, who reached the pole overland 16 days ago, were on hand to greet the 12 Britons who had brought their tractor train over 940 miles of terrain no man had set foot on before.

Hillary and some other experts had advised Fuchs against making the 1,200-mile second leg of the trip because they believe bad weather is in the offing.

The party reached the pole at 1:08 p.m. New Zealand time today. About 40 men came out to meet them, slapping them on the back, shaking their hands and excitedly congratulating them.

Hillary and Dufek met the Britons a mile from the polar base. As the tractor train pulled up with flags flying, Hillary advanced to greet Fuchs.

"Hello, Bunny," said the conqueror of Mount Everest, and the two men shook hands warmly.

Fuchs appeared surprised by the welcoming party and battery of cameras.

"I say—this is rather unexpected," the veteran, 49-year-old explorer commented.

Youths Went To the Well Once Too Often

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Police halted two boys, 11 and 8, Sunday and asked them what they were doing out on curfew-cleared streets at 4:10 a.m.

The boys replied they had a job scrubbing floors in a downtown hotel. The skeptical officers checked and learned the two had been making nightly raids on a charity wishing well in the hotel basement.

Why hadn't police believed the boys scrubbed floors? Explained one officer, "Their hands were too dirty."

HONOLULU (AP)—A military air transport service plane was reported missing Sunday with seven men aboard.

DEATH, DAMAGE TOLL MOUNTS IN WAKE OF STORM

Five Persons Dead, Power Lines Down

HALIFAX (CP)—Danger spots still loomed in Nova Scotia today as the death and damage toll mounted in the aftermath of the Maritimes' worst storm of the season.

Five are dead, including two children.

Crucial spot at the moment is at Bridgewater, N.S., where a highway bridge, weakened Sunday when an upstream dam broke, threatens to collapse into the channel directly in the path of the town's power plant.

Victims of last week's 2½ days of snow, sleet and rain include Alice Campbell, 2, of Montague Mines near Halifax, and Charles Acker, 3, of Birchtown, N.S. Both drowned in pools of water near their homes.

The other victims are Jacues McGraw of Bignard Settlement, N.B., electrocuted while repairing snapped power lines in New Brunswick; Clarence Jollimore, 33, of Chester Grant, N.S., a rabbit hunter who lost his way in the woods during the storm and died of exposure; and Thomas McPhee, 73, drowned in a lake near Caledonia, N.S., during the storm. Police found his body Sunday.

N.S. IS WORST HIT

Nova Scotia was the worst hit of the Maritime provinces. Floodwaters, receding slowly as temperatures hovered near the freezing mark, cover some railway lines and roas in the southwestern regions.

CNR Superintendent H. A. Pickering said the 235 - mile branch line to Yarmouth, blitzed by washouts that in some spots left rails hanging in the air, would be unserviceable for at least a week.

Traffic in the Bridgewater-Middleton area moved slowly through nine inches of receding water from the LaHave River.

In northern New Brunswick, power and communication linemen worked 24 hours to restore services.

Maritimers Sunday were using shovels, brooms, mops and bulldozers to clean up. Damage was estimated roughly in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Queen Picnics In Village Pub

LONDON (AP)—A village pub in Norfolk was qualified Sunday to put up a plaque reading "Queen Elizabeth II lunched here."

Ernest Wright, manager of the King's Head, told how the Queen, Prince Philip, Prince Charles and Princess Anne dropped in one day last week.

They had been out shooting near Sandringham and planned a picnic. The weather turned cold and rainy so they decided to eat lunch indoors. The pub was selected.

The Royal Family brought their own food in hampers and served themselves.

This is believed the first time the Queen has visited a pub.

Meteorite Mistaken for Missile Could Start War Dooming Mankind

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Meteorite tracker Dr. H. H. Nininger of Sedona, Ariz., says a falling meteorite might cause the extermination of the human race by setting off atomic warfare.

D.r Nininger, head of the American Meteorite Museum since its founding in 1947, offered this explanation today:

"Those charged with the defence of our nation never have made meteorites the subject of study. A falling meteorite very easily may be mistaken for an intercontinental ballistics missile.

"Each spectacular fireball continues to create misunderstanding, even terror, among those witnessing it. Airplane pilots mistake fireballs for burning planes or report them as unidentified flying objects. Military personnel on sentry and lookout duty report radar blips. Personnel of the Civil Air Patrol continually are sent in search of falling planes and grounded unidentified flying objects where none exist.

"Until the advent of the ballistic missile and the Sputniks, such errors were dangerous only to a few. Today the situation has changed. A meteorite could explode over Los Angeles today and we might find ourselves engaged in warfare before the true identity of the object was ascertained.

"Likewise, an unarmed missile ciuld be launched by an aggressor to determine range and accuracy before launching a more lethal weapon, and with the present lack of adequate recognition and investigatory knowledge and procedure by our defence forces, such fact would not be known until potential attack had become a reality."

Dr. Nininger, who has been engaged in the study of meteorites for 37 years, said all military defence personnel should be thoroughly familiar with the known characteristics of falling meteorites as differentiated from the characteristics of ballistic missiles.

He said radar technicians should be instructed in recognizing both the blip of the meteorite and the ionization trail left by the meteorite's passage.

Loss Is $100,000 As Farrar Block At Trenton Burns

Ten Families Homeless As 4 Buildings Destroyed

TRENTON — Eight to 10 families were left homeless Saturday afternoon when roaring flames completely destroyed the Farrar Block on the corner of Dundas Street East and Ontario Street here.

The estimated loss of property was from $50,000 to as much as $100,000. Most of the families escaped with only the clothes they were wearing. Three of the elderly people living in the apartments were reluctant to leave and had to be almost forcibly taken out by police and firemen. They lost their only possessions in the fire.

The fire was first noticed around 4 p.m. by members of Gould's Taxi, with an office across the street from the building. Smoke was seen coming from under the eaves and they immediately called the local fire department.

Firemen believe the blaze started in the attic of the brick and wood structure, although the exact cause is not known. Many unofficial reports on how the blaze was caused were heard and perhaps the most persistent was that an oil stove in one of the apartments had flooded and then exploded.

The four buildings destroyed by the fire covered an area of about 3,000 square yards and were two storeys high.

FLAMES SPREAD QUICKLY

The tinder dry wood almost exploded as the flames quickly spread and firemen were helpless to control it. Once the many oil tanks, which fed stoves in the different apartments, exploded, there remained no hope the building could be saved.

Minutes after the firemen were called to the scene the main building, containing the apartments, was a huge mass of fire which sent flames, glowing embers and smoke shooting a hundred feet into the sky. Only a light wind blew from the north but it was enough to carry the red-hot embers to the top of the buildings across Dundas Street, where employees of the various stores stood on guard and extinguished the embers as they landed.

The heat from the oil-fed flames was terrific and forced the firemen to abandon their advantage points on the roofs of adjoining buildings. Television masts were softened and fell over, one by one, to land on high tension hydro lines causing short circuits which sent blue flames and tiny balls of fire down over the hundreds of persons watching.

Even a glass door in the Municipal Building, directly across the street from the burning building, cracked, with a pistol-like report, from the heat.

OTHER BUILDINGS CATCH

A second building, with no space between it and the burning one, caught and in a matter of minutes was also a mass of flames. Inside it were three cars, a light delivery truck and a motorcycle which had been impounded by police for various traffic law violations. They were all destroyed. There was also a large number of tires stored in the same building and although some were saved many were burned.

The third building, a barn type, which was being used by a local furniture dealer to store second-hand goods as well as coffins and oil tanks filled with fuel oil, caught quickly.

There had been plenty of time to get the furniture and other items from the building but the oil tanks were not movable and had to be left to feed the flames. The metal roof of the building glowed red as the inside turned into a searing mass of flames. In only a short time the roof caved in slowly, taking much of the brick walls down with it.

The fourth building, facing Ontario Street and behind the Farrar apartment block, had the advantage of having a brick wall and one of cement blocks between it and the fire. Although firemen saved it from being gutted, the vacant store space below and the apartment above were ruined by smoke and water.

REMOVE FURNITURE

In the apartment above, there was also time to remove the furniture and personal belongings of the family living there.

Occupying it at the time were Mr. and Mrs. Henry VanGyzen and their two children, Bob and Olga. Mr. VanGyzen is employed by the Sprung Bakery as pastry chef and was at work when the fire broke out. He rushed home to help in the removal of the furniture when he heard of the blaze.

The only active business occupying the building was on the corner, owned by Quinte Electronics. Little time was lost in removing equipment after the fire was noticed. A steady stream of men and boys helped to carry the gear and furniture across the street and into a garage, out of danger. It is believed they saved everything in the store.

WATCH ALL NIGHT

The fire started amound 4 p.m. and by 6 p.m. there was nothing but a mass of burning rubble and half standing walls. Firemen continued to pour water onto the ruins until noon on Sunday. They also left two of their men on duty all during the night when it was reported the temperature went down to seven below.

Around 7 p.m. a bulldozer was called in to push the rubble from the fallen brick walls off the streets and the sanding truck spread sand over the ice-caked roads around the biuldings.

AFTERNOON RECEIPTS OF BEVERAGE ROOM TAKEN BY THIEVES

The afternoon receipts in the beverage room at the Crystal Hotel were stolen during the supper time closing period by still unidentified thieves, or thief, who took the cash drawer.

Amount contained in the cash drawer was not divulged by police but it is understood to be considerable.

City police detective Harold Reid said the cash drawer was apparently taken some time around 7.30 when the beverage room was closed for the supper hour. The empty cash drawer was found in a back storeroom with the rear door to the storeroom being found open.

WORD BACKFIRES ON LOCAL MAN

Being taken at his word backfired on a Belleville man Saturday night when he came to the city police station a bit worse for wear and asked that he be locked up and charged for drunkenness.

The desk sergeant took one look and agreed the man should get his wish. By Sunday morning the man had sobered up and at the same time when told the drunk fine would be $13 changed his mind about the necessity of the LCA charge against him.

But he paid up and took his freedom.

PROPERTY DAMAGE HEAVY IN CRASH

Property damage amounting to approximately $300 resulted to two vehicles over the weekend in a collision on Charles St.

Police said that a local taxi driven by Gerald A. Woodward, of 41 Grier Street, was passing on the street when a car driven by Elina A. Newman, 296 Charles Street, backed out from a driveway and was struck by the taxi.

In another accident at Lewis and Sidney Streets, cars driven by Victor Kassler, 60 Lewis St., and J. A. Williamson, 80 Lewis St., collided when the vehicle driven by Mr. Kassler skidded out of control when rounding the corner.

Two other accidents on Saturday resulted in only minor damage to the vehicles involved.

Play Shack Burns Down

A small children's play shack at the rear of 160 George Street used by youngsters sliding down the Turnbull street hill, caught fire early this morning with firemen being called to put the flames out. A cigaret butt is blamed for the fire which started shortly before four a.m.

CAS Has Heavy Deficit In Past Year

The monthly meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held on Thursday with Mr. C. B. Morgan presiding. In his opening remarks Mr. Morgan welcomed Mr. George Wishart, a new city council appointee to the board. In reviewing the activity of the society in 1957, Mr. Morgan said it had been a busy year and certainly one of accomplishment.

The treasurer, Charles L. Hyde, stated the society had a heavy deficit on its 1957 operations, disbursements exceeding receipts by $10,154.33. This amount will be recoverable this year through an increased per diem rate. According to provincial regulations the society must operate from year to year on a budget based on the preceding year's costs. Any increase over and above last year's costs must be carried as a deficit throughout 1958 to be recovered in 1959. Mr Hyde introduced the new budget which indicated anticipated expenditures in excess of $160,000.

Mrs. E. E. Follwell reported on the progress of the new receiving home and observation centre. The renovations are now complete and it is expected to be ready for occupancy by the end of the month.

In his review of the work of the agency in 1957, Mr. Kerr, the local director, stated that 114 children had been admitted to care during the year. By increasing the agency staff it was possible to keep abreast of the influx and plan for each child. He said 89 children left the care of the society during the same period. The majority of the children were "older children," said Mr. Kerr, and only 30 infants were admitted to the care of the society during the year. For this reason, clothing, medical and dental costs were much higher than in former years.

SUCCESSFUL PROGRAM

The adoption program continued to prosper. The C.A.S. has maintained high standards and because of this an ever increasing number of excellent families are expressing interest in adoption, said Mr. Kerr. Last year many older children, who, even a few years ago, would have been destined to remain without parents and families of their own, were placed permanently. All couples desirous of adopting an infant must now submit proof of their inability to produce an own child. This means that those couples who for medical reasons are unable to have a family of their own are given top priority. Also, not more than two infants are placed in any one home and this means that a greatly increased number of childless couples are able to know the joys of parenthood. There is no shortage of adopting parents in this area and there have been many inquiries from outsiders. Fifty-two children were placed in adoption in 1957.

Mr. Kerr made mention of one of the agency staff members, Miss Maude Watson, being seriously injured in an automobile accident early in December. He stated that her progress was satisfactory but that it was not likely that she would be returning to work before the end of the month. Miss Watson's of the month. During Miss Watson's absence Mrs. Frances Waldorf acted for her. Mrs. Waldorf is a graduate of the University of Manitoba and prior to taking up residence in Ontario worked with the Manitoba Department of Public Welfare.

LICENSING ADVISED

"For many months I have been concerned about the increasing number of persons boarding children privately" Mr. Kerr advised the board. "This is a legitimate practice but one which, without proper control, can be very costly to the municipality in which the boarding home operator resides. So long as the whereabouts of the natural parent is known, and the board is paid, all is well. But when the parent disappears and the money ceases to flow, it is another story altogether. I have taken the liberty of advising the larger local municipalities of the legislation enabling them to take steps to licence all boarding homes for children and place them under the jurisdiction of the medical officer of health.

"However, they do not seem to consider it a matter for concern for to date no action has been taken.

Mr. Kerr conluded his remarks by saying that there were 259 children in the care of the society at the end of December. Child welfare costs, like everything else, have been steadily increasing. There does not appear to be anything to indicate that they will diminish in the year ahead.

AID BORNEO HOMELESS

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters) Relief food supplies were being rushed today to flood-ravaged Central Borneo where thousands are reported homeless. A report said the flood inundated 15,000 homes and villagers were fleeing to higher ground. Six persons were reported drowned or missing.

Fire Destroys Farm Home In Ameliasburg

A large frame farm house owned by Mr. and Mrs. Smith Brown of the 2nd concession of Ameliasburg near Consecon, was burned to the ground Sunday afternoon when the structure caught fire during the absence of the family.

Mr. Brown has been a patient in the Trenton Memorial Hospital and a nephew had taken Mrs. Smith to visit him yesterday afternoon when the fire started in her absence.

Neighbors discovered the fire when they saw smoke seeping from the structure but when they attempted to get into the house they were driven back by the flames. Nothing was saved from the home. Among household possessions lost was a quantity of antique articles.

Belleville firemen answered the alarm with one truck but the roof was already in when they arrived and all they could do was stand by to guard a nearby garage and chicken pens from catching afire. Fortunately the wind was in the opposite direction.

No estimate of the loss was given by firemen.

Car Hits Tree, Driver Injured

Elwood Cooper, 32, of Coleman Street, Belleville, is in the Belleville General Hospital with chest injuries suffered when his car went out of control on No. 14 highway west of Foxboro. The accident occurred Saturday night when Mr. Cooper's car missed a curve and ended up against a tree.

Fire Destroys Frame Home Near Bancroft

BANCROFT (Special) — Fire believed to have started from overheated stove pipes, or a defective chimney, Sunday morning completely destroyed the frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Bowers on No. 28 highway route on the western outskirts of the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowers were away from home visiting their son when the fire broke out. neighbors carried out most of the household furnishings but the Bancroft Volunteer Fire Department, working in 20-below zero temperature, could do nothing to save the structure.

The fire broke out in the attic and quickly spread throughout the sawdust and shavings insulation.

Firemen guarded against the spread of the flames to nearby houses.

Grills Warns Conservatives To Be Ready for Election

TRENTON — There is the possibility the present session of parliament may end tomorrow (Tuesday) night, Lee Grills, M.P. for Hastings South told the general meeting of the Trenton Progressive Conservative Association in the Orange Lodge Hall here Saturday night. Nearly 200 attended.

"However," he said; "if there is another Dominion election this year I am confident we can win it, and with a larger majority in the House of Commons."

Mr. Grills said a lot depends on the parliament session today when the new leader of the Liberal party will take over the top opposition seat in the house. He said he did not wish to comment on Mr. Pearson's abilities at the present time but said the new leader has made it clear the Liberals are ready to have an election soon.

Speaking on the possibilities of the defeat of the Diefenbaker government Mr. Grills said that although it had had a wonderful session so far, things are pretty warm in Ottawa and many Liberals have been in town during the past week. He said they have been quite "cocky" of late and because of this they may challenge the government on the first issue they can.

"If they do," he said, "it is quite possible this session will end soon and it could be this Tuesday at 8.15 p.m."

SHOULD BE PREPARED

"It is because of the possibility of being forced into another general election I would like to warn all the workers to be on their toes and to get ready and be prepared if it should happen," he said.

Prior to his warning Mr. Grills said he felt "as good coming to the meeting tonight as he did last June 10 when the Conservatives won the election. "It was a wonderful thrill for me to arrive in Ottawa," he said, "and to walk into the impressive ceremonies of a new government taking over and feel that I am part of it. For all this I thank the workers and the voters of South Hastings for making it possible."

He invited any who wish, to come to drop into his office on Parliament Hill and look around.

In reviewing the past months in Ottawa he recalled the visit of the Queen and her husband. He said it was a wonderful start for a new government, and a new candidate.

"Since then," he said, "we have been very busy as most of you know."

"We have a hard working government," he continued "especially Mr. Diefenbaker. He puts everything he has into his work and begins very early in the morning."

Mr. Grills said he hopes Mr. Diefenbaker's health will hold out and that although recently he had a painful back injury, he is as "fit as a fiddle" and will be back in the house on Monday.

He said the Liberals are at present criticizing the unemployment situation in Canada and are trying to make it look as black as they can.

However, he said, the government is well aware of the present jobless in Canada and he praised the work of Hon. Michael Starr, the Minister of Labor, saying he was doing a wonderful job and is very concerned over his work.

Mr. Grills recalled the various bills the Diefenbaker Government has passed, including those aidng old age pensioners, easing of the tight money policy, making it easier for those who want to do so to build their own homes, and giving more aid to veterans.

At the end of his address Mr Grills paid tribute to the women of the riding, saying he would not like to go through an election campaign without their aid. He paid special tribute to the work Mrs. Strong has done for the Conservative party, as well as the work she has done in her own communty.

Mr. Grills also extended his congratulations to the new officers of the local association and praised the work of the re-elected president, W. J. House, over the past years.

SANDERCOCK SPEAKS

"If another election should come, I know we can depend on the workers here to carry us through to another victory", W. E. Sandercock, M.P.P. for Hastings South told the meeting.

Mr. Sandercock recalled the years gone by, the many elections, and how PC workers in the Trenton area always gave their fullest co-operation.

"It is very heartening" he said, "to see so many people turn out to a general meeting. It proves that you all are very interested in politics and the political future of this area."

Mr. Sandercock spoke only briefly to the audience and went on to praise the work of the executive of the association and to thank them for the "terrific job" they have done in the past.

"Belleville", he said, "has always bragged of being the friendly city. Well, I can assure you, Trenton is just as friendly."

Conservatives Name W. House As President

TRENTON — W. J. House was re-elected president of the Trenton Progressive Conservative Association at their annual meeting held in the Orange hall on Ontario Street last night.

Mr. House has been president of the group since 1952.

Other officers elected to the executive are: 1st vice-president, Dick Whitley; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. E. Dawson; 3rd vice-president, Bill Anderson; secretary, Lloyd Worrall and treasurer, John Villeneuve.

Claude Graham was re-appointed as honorary president.

Nearly 200 persons attended the meeting last night which was the first general meeting of the association since March 24, 1952.

Mr. House welcomed those attending, saying it was most gratifying to see such a large turnout despite the bitter cold and the fire which levelled the building next door to the hall.

He said it has been a privilege to work with the members of the executive and the party workers during the past six years.

He recalled that in recent weeks there have been rumors that the president and his executive had been lax in seeking help for the workers of this area but he assured them he and his executive have been doing their best to see that any favors extended from Ottawa go to their own people.

A report from the former treasurer, John Reid, showed the association have started with nothing in the bank and have ended the same way. He said they have been getting along with donations during the past years.

To remedy this situation a collection was taken up during the meeting and a total of $38.95 was handed over to the new treasurer to take care of postage, etc.

Following the meeting a lunch was served.

MRS. D. TODD NAMED

Mrs. Dorothy Todd was elected president of the women's group.

Mrs. Todd will replace Mrs. Bert Strong, who has held the position for the past number of years. Before the elections took place, Mrs. Strong made it clear she felt the post should be turned over to someone else.

She told the meeting it was nice to see so many women come out and extended a special welcome to the ladies from Belleville who had come.

She thanked all the women of the party for their help during the past six years and reminded them their annual meeting would be held on February 10 when the new officers would take over and the annual reports given.

Others elected to the executive were: 1st vice-president, Mrs. Zelda Burleigh; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Ethel Anderson; secretary, Mrs. Wilson and treasurer, Mrs. Kellar.

Mrs. Bert Strong, the outgoing president, was named honorary president.

Mrs. Todd thanked the members for chosing her as their new president and pledged to do her best during the coming year and reminded them of their meeting in February.

Mrs. Zelda Burleigh expressed the thanks of the association for the work and time Mrs. Strong had given over the past six years.

Worst Fire Since 1944

TRENTON — The fire which wiped out the Farrar Block on Dundas St. East in Trenton, Saturday afternoon, was the worst since 1944 officials said yesterday.

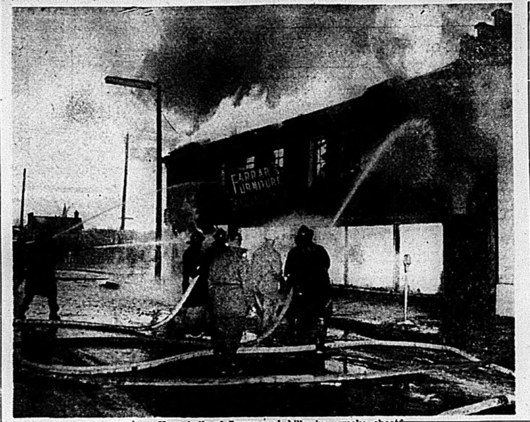
It was then the coal shutes belonging to the Canadian Pacific Railways burned to the ground in less than 24 hours, later the St. James apartment block was also levelled.

The Queensway Hotel now stands on the lot the apartment house occupied before the fire.

It was recalled that there were no fire hydrants in that district in 1944 and local firemen were hampered by the lack of water. The only water available was from a sump hole near by, which soon went dry in fighting the blaze.

GOING UP

HULL, England (CP) — Hull corporation, which runs its own telephone service in the city at a cheaper rate than the Post Office, is considering increasing charges.



Huge balls of flames and billowing smoke shoot skyward as the roof and second floor of the Farrar Block cave in less than an hour after the fire was noted on Saturday afternoon. Inside the big plate glass windows of the furniture store nothing but a mass of flames can be seen. The store was unoccupied at the time. Today nothing is left of the above building and only a pile of rubble remains of the over-100-year-old structure. Eight families in apartments above this store were forced to flee and unable to save any of their belongings. The building on the right in the above photo was completely gutted with only portions of the walls remaining upright. It was considered the worst fire in Trenton since 1944.

May Lay Theft Charges Against Two Local Men

TRENTON — Theft charges may be laid against two local men who made off with a television set during the fire here Saturday afternoon that completely levelled the Farrar Block.

It is believed the pair were taking the set from the Garrett and Lundy Appliances when the flames threatened the building and instead of taking it to one of the stores across the street, made off with it to their hotel room.

It was among the few special items which were removed from the store during the height of the fire.

Although the firm was seriously threatened and the fire did actually burn a hole through the wall in the rear of the building the manager decided against removing the stock from the premises with the exception of some television sets that had been paid for by their customers.

Furniture was removed from one of the apartments above the store and nothing was taken from the other apartment or the office also in the second floor of the building.

It was felt that the work of the firefighting crews from the RCAF Station Trenton and the fact the building had a metal roof was all that saved building.

The firemen kept the wall of the store well dampened with their hoses and a "fog nozzle" was also played on the space between the two walls.

Although the buildings were only about seven feet apart, so effective were the firemen's efforts that rubber on the lead-in wires from the television masts on the appliance shop which runs down between the two were not even seared.

There was also two oil tanks between the buildings, and only a space large enough for a man to walk through between them and burning wall, which were kept from exploding by the spray of protective water.

Firemen also said they were fortunate in that the burning wall fell away from the appliance shop instead of against it and the northerly wind was helping them by blowing some of the heat and the sparks in another direction.

Textile Firms Hit by Imports

TORONTO, (CP) — The president of the Textile Workers' Union of America says the North American industry is hard hit by imports from Asia and Europe which undercut the home product but give little benefit to the consumer.

William Pollock of Washington, D.C., Saturday told a policy conference of the greater Toronto textile joint board that cut rate imports do not mean cheaper retail prices because the middle man takes a greater mark up.

Both Mr. Pollock and Paul Swaity, the union's Canadian director, urged government measures to assure the continuance of the industry.

They said if Canada went to war she would find it difficult to clothe her army because there would not be sufficient looms to manufacture the fabrics for uniforms.

Firemen Coated With Ice, Policemen Black as Miners

TRENTON — Firemen looked like human ice-men and town police officials could easily be compared with a coal-miner on his way home from the pit, after the worst fire in years, which destroyed the Farrar Block here on Saturday afternoon, was brought under control.

Policemen, who were forced to stand on duty and direct traffic on the corner of Ontario and Dundas East were often lost from sight when the north wind blew huge clouds of black smoke down over them.

Because it was necessary to block off a section of Dundas, for fire trucks and hoses, traffic on the main No. 2 route had to be directed left and around via Bay Street after crossing the bridge.

The smoke and flying embers blackened the policemen's faces and their uniforms, but never for a moment did they leave their post even during the worst of the fire. Constable Mastin took over the corner when the flames first broke out and was later relieved by Sgt. Bradshaw and then Constable King.

Constable Davis stood on duty directing traffic from 4.00 p.m. Saturday until around 9.30 p.m. even going without supper. He was stationed first on the corner of Dundas West and Front Street and later in the vicinity of the fire.

To give an example of the tie-up in traffic caused by the fire, cars were backed up across the bridge, all along the main business section on Dundas West and out as far as Weaver's Funeral Home. A distance of about a mile and a half.

Police on traffic duty reported they had very little trouble with motorists during the fire but their greatest worry was caused by pedestrians who rushed back and forth across the streets paying little heed to the slow-moving cars.

Spray from the fire hoses had the volunteer firemen looking like walking icemen and leaving them covered with a thin coating of ice from head to foot.

One fireman actually had an icicle about six inches long hanging from his elbow as he directed the stream of water from the hose onto the fire. Temperature at the time of the blaze was about 12 above zero. The streets and the hoses were also covered with a layer of ice making it slippery and dangerous for the firemen.

Newsman Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Howard R. (Barney) Armstrong, veteran Ontario newspaper man and former president of the parliamentary press gallery at Ottawa, died here Sunday. He was 61.

Mr. Armstrong's career spanned 46 years and service with six newspapers, principally the Toronto Star.

Born in Peterborough, he began work wtih the Peterborough Examiner after graduation from high school at the age of 15.

Salvation Army Wants to Help Those Homeless

TRENTON — The names or whereabouts of the families who were left homeless in Saturday's fire were unavailable to officials or newsmen over the weekend.

Captain Bill Brown of the Salvation Army, said they are prepared and willing to help aid these unfortunate persons who lost their entire belongings in the flames.

"The people of the town have been very good," he said, "clothing, beds and some articles of furniture have been coming in to our depot during the past two days, and we are certainly prepared to help them out.

"We think they have gone to live with relations and friends and with yesterday being Sunday they have not bothered to come to us as yet. However, we expect to locate some of them today and offer our help," he said.

Many articles of warm clothing have also been turned in to the police station and will be taken to the Salvation Army to be added to the growing collection today.

Persons who have clothing, furniture or bedding they can give are asked to get in contact with members of the Salvation Army by dialing Ex 2-3093 or Ex 2-9444.

LOSS

Two fire engines from the RCAF station were rushed to help fight the fire and they were credited with saving a nearby appliance store from also becoming a prey of the blaze.

After the fire had burned down, and the firemen could relax a little, coffee from Brown's lunch counter was brought over and the management of the Hotel Gilbert sent enough sandwiches to feed about 50 men. The hotel also kept coffee hot all during the night for firemen and policemen on duty because of the fire.

BUILDING 100 YEARS OLD

The building in which the fire started, is said to have been over 100 years old and was, in earlier years, a hotel, then a pool room and in recent years was changed over into apartments and stores. Both of Farrar's furniture stores were vacant at the time of the fire.

It was owned by Bert Farrar of Belleville and it is not known how much insurance was carried on the buildings, or if the people living in the apartments had their furniture insured.

Today, nothing is left but a pile of ice-coated rubble, with steam still bubbling from underneath where bricks are still hot, half standing walls and sewer and water pipes pointing upwards like long fingers.

Across the street, building fronts have been blackened by the smoke and heat.. Many "skating rinks," made by the water from the six hoses laid by the local firemen and the two used by the air force personnel, were being used by young children.

Blinding Smoke Said Responsible For Two Crashes

TRENTON — Blinding smoke which swirled across Dundas and Ontario Strets, from the fire which destroyed the Farrar Block, was blamed for at least two accidents last Saturday afternoon.

Cecila Remmer of 113 King Street, Trenton, reported to police she had stopped her car in the lane of traffic which was turning off Dundas East onto Ontario when the car behind her, being driven by S. R. Giard of 22 Laird Drive, Middleton Park, crashed into the rear of her vehicle.

The road was slippery and smoke from the fire was almost blinding at the time. Damage to the rear of the Remmer car was estimated at $50 and to the front end of the Giard car at $250. The time of the accident was 5 p.m.

In the second mishap in the vicinity of the fire a car being driven by Florence Whitton, 12 Francis Street, Trenton, was proceeding south on Ontario Street when a car operated by Philip Blendin, R.R. 1 Trenton, pulled out from behind the municipal building, striking the rear of her car. Damage to the Blendin car was estimated at $35 and to the Whitton car at $40.

Slippery roads and heavy smoke were also reported at the time of the second mishap.

Two other accidents occurred during Saturday afternoon and were blamed on slippery streets.

At 2.15 James Muir of 102 Shutter Street, was proceeding west, and just east of the Dundas Street bridge when the car in front of him stopped suddenly and he was unable to prevent running into the rear of it. The second car involved was being driven by Walter F Balfour, 21 Johnson Road. Damage to the Muir car was estimated at $90 and to the Balfour car, $50.

At 4.20 p.m. Ray Donaldson of 56 Bentinck Street was proceeding south on Flendal Street when his car was involved in a crash with one operated by William Smith of 238 Dundas Street East. The roads were reported as slippery at the time of the mishap.

Both cars suffered damages estimated to total $150.

Only one accident was reported Sunday afternoon, despite the many cars which brought sightseers to the ruins of Saturday's fire on the corner of Dundas East and Ontario Street.

At 3.15 p.m. Douglas H. Ptolemy of 42 MacDonald Gardens, Belleville, stopped suddenly while crossing the Dundas Street bridge. Ronald McDougall of RCAF Station Trenton was unable to stop his car in time and smashed into the rear of the Ptolemy car. Damage to the airman's car was reported as nil and $30 to the rear bumper of the other vehicle.

Both cars were proceeding west at the time.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was a shade higher in morning trading, featured by the activity of New Mylamaque.

Industrials were one-half point higher on index while base metals and western oils added smaller index gains. Golds were down a few decimal points.

New Mylamaque, which rose six cents to 34, was extremely active with a turnover of 470,000 shares, more than one-half the entire volume of the whole board. Sales at 11 a.m. totalled 951,000 shares.

Confederation Life was off four points to 130 on a 70-share volume among industrials. But the general trend in the section was to the higher side with gains holding a slim edge over losses. Key issues added fractions.

With most of the mining interest centred around New Mylamaque, other issues took a breather from last week's activity and most of the penny speculatives which gained Friday were down in profit-taking. Mining Corp. was ahead 40 cents to $9.50 among medium-priced stock and Algoma added ¼ at 14¼ in senior uraniums.

Western oils were quiet with few prominent price changes.

Defying Thugs, Banker's Wife Foils Holdup

COMBER (CP)—Quick thinking of a bank manager's wife, Sunday, foiled an attempt to rob the Royal Bank of Canada branch here.

Held a gunpoint outside the bank, Mrs. Marie Bedenham, wife of manager Philip Bedenham, defied the bandits and shouted an alarm to her husband who was inside the building.

Three men had apparently waited for Mr. and Mrs. Bedenham and their daughter, Sheila, 10, to return to their apartment over the bank, with the intention of forcing Mr. Bedenham to hand over the cash.

The Bedenhams had spent the day visiting in Aylmer. The bank manager said that when they returned, about 8 p.m., he noticed a car parked in the driveway beside the bank building.

ENTERED BANK

When he was unable to open the door leading to the apartment he let himself into the entrance of the bank, intending to open the apartment door from the inside. He then noticed the lock had been removed.

Then he heard his wife shout, "call the police," and immediately put in the alarm.

Mrs. Bedenham said that as her husband went into the bank, two men came from the shadows and grabbed her. Sheila fled across the street, where another man got out of a parked car and grabbed her.

NATIONAL Y.M.C.A. WEEK

This is National Y.M.C.A. Week. Across Canada, citizens will have their attention called to the almost innumerable fields in which the Y.M.C.A. is active.

In one sense, the word "national" is a misnomer. It may give some a false impression of the scope of the Young Men's Christian Association. Its outlook is by no means limited to the boundaries of the nation; it is, indeed one of the comparatively few organizations truly international in scope. On the other hand, the work of an individual branch of the Y.M.C.A. is not divorced from the life of the community in which it is located and its activities are not rigidly determined by some distant official. This is National Y.M.C.A. week, but the Y.M.C.A. may perhaps best be described as a community-based business with international affiliations.

Business? Yes, the Y.M.C.A. is in business, in the most important business in this or any other country It seeks to improve the calibre of citizenship by giving the community's young men the inspiration, the facilities and the leadership they need to improve themselves.

Nor does the "Y' 'interpret too literally the first two initials in its title. It's young men can be divided into several classes, very young young men, young young men, young men, not so young young men and old young men. And its serves them all. And, here in Belleville, women too.

Here in Belleville the "Y" has served the community well during the past year, if one believes statistics and we are numbered among those who believe them. Membership at the end of 1957 was 962, compared with 877 a year earlier. In five years the membership has almost tripled, from 355 on December 31, 1955, to the 962 figure just quoted. Equally impressive is the figure for total attendance, 80,000 in 1957 compared with 72,431 in 1956 and 27,637 five years ago.

In one field the "Y" failed to match the previous year during 1957. Only 320 meetings by community groups were held there, compared with 335 in 1956 and 373 in 1954. This, though, is not a situation which the "Y" welcomed but one which was forced on it. Increased membership and increased activities among this membership meant that there was such a demand on its facilities that it could not continue to provide accommodation for as many outside groups When we note that during 1952 only 43 meetings by community groups were held in the building, it is evident that the "Y" in five years has increased eightfold its services to community groups, in spite of the great increase of activities by its own membership.

SOUNDS LIKE THE "DOUKS" AGAIN

Three hundred feet of the Canadian Pacific Railway's track near Grand Forks, B.C., were damaged the other day and a train was derailed by a bomb planted by unknown saboteurs.

Unknown?

Positive identity of the culprits has not yet been established, but it is reasonable to assume this was the work of Freedomite Doukhobors. They are adept at such things as blowing up railway tracks, bridges and schools.

The Grand Forks area was not the only target of mysterious raiders in recent weeks. The previous weekend bombs were found in theatres at Nelson, Trail and Castlegar - - communities in Doukhobor territory.

In these bomb incidents there is sufficient circumstantial evidence to point the finger of accusation at Sons of Freedom Doukhobors.

Currently a four-man Freedomite delegation is in Russia surveying new campsites for their brothers in B.C., the intent of the 2,500-member clan of religious fanatics being to vacate B.C. permanently. They anticipate moving in with the Reds as soon as it is expedient to do so from the standpoint of both groups The Russians have indicated they will welcome the arrival of Freedomites.

The people of B.C. have kept reasonably mute and have tried honestly to understand the ways of the Freedomites since they arrived in 1899.

It is possible that many natives of B.C. are convinced it is time the Freedomites were put on a ship and transported to a foreign port. The destination is not a thing of concern to British Columbians, so long as the Freedomites vanish from the province.

And we in the east do not want them, either.

WHEN YOU FROWN

What good did it do
When you frowned? Let me ask.
Did it help you at all
To accomplish your task?
Did it lighten your burden
Or help you along?
Did the frown that you wore
Make a right out of wrong?

What good did it do
To be grouchy today?
Did your surliness drive
Any trouble away?

Did you cover more ground
Than you usually do
Because of the grouch
That you carried with you?

If not, what's the use
Of a grouch or a frown,
If it won't smooth a path
Or a grim trouble down?
If it doesn't assist you
It isn't worth while.
Your work may be hard,
But just do it—and smile.

Out of the Darkness

New York Times

The news from the nation's lamp makers that two of every three Americans live and work under poor lighting conditions is another example of man's refusal to turn back to the past and of his insistence to look ever forward. History reminds us that it is not yet eighty years ago that the incandescent lamp was first perfected by Thomas Alva Edison, and that for millions of years before, man fought a desperate but losing battle against the gloom of night. We think of ours, therefore, as an illuminated civilization. Not quite so, say the lamp makers, explaining that a recent survey shows that three out of four schools, two out of three offices and almost four out of five homes in this country suffer from lighting below minimum standards sets by the Illuminating Engineering Society.

Nor is New York undoubtedly as much a city of light as any in the world, exempt from the charge of improper illumination. Only recently we read that brighter lighting, costing more than a million dollars over a five-year period, was being installed in Central Park to help the city fight crime and juvenile delinquency. This is symbolically fitting, for the gloom of night traditionally has been the ally of the forces of evil that would do harm to man. The history of lighting begins with primitive man's flickering campfires, which he lit not only to see and to warm him but also to frighten away the wild beasts.

Flaming fagots from his campfires provided early man with his first torches, which provided illumination beyond the fires. Thousands of years later, in the era suitably known as the Dark Ages, he still was using torches — flambeaus of twisted fibre coated with an inflammable substance. Through the generations, though, he had experimented with other devices to combat the darkness.

Lamps go back to prehistoric days, to the Mousterian Age, when man hollowed out crude pieces of stone. In Mesopotamia lamps of terra cotta were developed, and the Egyptians and Persians used copper and bronze lamps. By 1000 B.C. someone had hit on the idea of adapting a wick of vegetable fibre to lamps, burning in a saucer-type vessel holding olive or nut oil. In about 100 B.C. the Romans developed a lantern from a horn and 150 years later mineral oil lamps were introduced. The indomitable Chinese meanwhile were taking advantage of natural resources, bringing natural gas to the surface from deep beds of salt rock, conveying it through bamboo pipes, and using it for lighting salt mines and homes.

Hardly unexpected, Leonardo da Vinci tried his hand at lighting, as he did with everything else within his ken, fitting a cylindrical glass chimney into a glass globe. His light burned steadily, and because of lens action the work surface was brightly lighted for night study. The Pilgrims in this country struggled with the Betty lamp, with its protruding wick and fuel of fish oil. A Geneva physicist named Aime Argand in 1784 patented a round burner and tubular wick, and a chimney for directing and regulating the flow of air to the flame. And Ben Franklin added history when he discovered that two wicks side by side a small distance apart in the same lamp gave more light than two single-wick lamps.

• • •

After Edison's lamp had burned steadily for two whole days, the end of the darkness was near. Better filaments were found. The pace of invention was stepped up; a tipless incandescent lamp in 1919 inside-frosted bulbs in 1925, photoflash bulbs in 1930, vaporized -aluminum reflector lamps in 1936. Man found he could only turn his lights on or off, and so he developed luxtrol, which permits gradual lighting or darkening. He has built bulbs as small as two millimeters in diameter to help the doctor in internal exploration and surgery, and as large as 50,000 watts for displays and in industry. Perhaps, as the lamp makers now say, we have a long way yet to go. But we have come already a long way out of the darkness.

Rays Spoil French Frieds

Hamilton Spectator

Whatever other benefits atomic science confers on humanity, it can't improve french fried potatoes. It may seen curious that the atom should invade the kitchen, jumping, as it were, from the fire into the frying pan, but really it is merely an extension of farming and market research.

A group of scientists at Harwell, Britain's atomic research centre, conducted experiments to stop potatoes from sprouting during storage. They bombarded them with gamma-rays given off by Cobalt 60, and although the potatoes didn't sprout, they grew very old and shrivelled.

It was only when they were made into french frieds that the final result became apparent. The potatoes were mushy and tasted sweet. What had happened was that much of the starch had been changed to sugar. The normal one percent of sugar fresh-gathered potatoes contain had been increased to more than six percent as a result of the ray bombardment.

It is all very interesting and no doubt adds to the sum of scientific and culinary knowledge, but what is the use of french frieds if vinegar, pepper and salt, however generously bestowed, won't make them edible?

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article fifteen in a weekly series contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society)

THE LEVISCONTE DIARY

Unfortunately the day by day account of his travels begun by Commander Henry Levisconte in March, 1834, came to an end when he settled in Belleville in October of the following year. An account of the daily life of this city in the 1830s would have been of considerable interest today.

Nevertheless, some of the further notations made in the diary are of local interest. In addition to recording the retail prices of agricultural commodities at Montreal, recipes for making potato yeast, yeast substitutes, and milk punch, and "Things a farmer should not do," (probably copied from a contemporary magazine) he also listed a timetable for "Moving the Mails at Belleville." Commander Levisconte noted that there was daily mail service east and west, twice-weekly service to Rawdon and Seymour, and only a weekly service to the frontier communities of Moira, Madoc and Marmora.

Also included in the diary are notes on two Canadian elections. A Conservative in politics, Levisconte rejoiced when this party triumphed at the polls in 1836. He concluded a summary of the victory with these words: "Glorious Majority of Conservatives, 26. God Save the King."

Similarly in 1843 he rejoiced when the "Loyal Conservative" Edmund Murney defeated his "radical" opponent in the Hastings riding by 81 votes, the tally being Murney 708, Canniff 627.

Although Commander Levisconte apparently moved to a farm in Seymour township in 1837, at least one of his sons continued to be active in military and political affairs at Belleville. He was Major Charles George Levisconte, who served with honor upon the St. Lawrence frontier during the Mackenzie Rebellion of 1837, and subsequently commanded the "First Belleville Rifles" for about ten years.

In 1852, C. G. Levisconte successfully sought election as a councillor for Ketcheson Ward, and subsequently sat on council for 13 years.

In addition, he seems to have operated the Apothecaries' Hall at the corner of Front and Campbell Streets, which establishment offered for sale "Pure Drugs, Chemicals, Medicines, etc." at the very lowest prices. Associated with him in this venture was James H. Hambly, a graduate of the medical faculty of McGill College, Montreal.

Major Levisconte died in September, 1857, as the result of an accident sustained while on duty with his command.

Another of Henry Leviscontе's sons, Lieutenant Henry Thomas Dundas Leviscontе, R.N., was "one of the many heroes and martyrs to duty in the ill-fated Arctic Expedition under Captain Sir John Franklin" (1845-48). Not one member of this expedition returned.

The possibility that old diaries similar to that of Henry Leviscontе remain hidden in attics or basements is intriguing. Much of our history has been unearthed in recent years as those who attended last Wednesday's U.E.L. meeting at Belleville can testify. More remains to be uncovered.

The Leviscontе diary will shortly be sent to the Provincial Archivist's office at Toronto, where it will be examined and copied so that Canadian scholars may have ready access to it.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 20, 1938

At the annual meeting of the vestry of Christ Church parish, the rector, the Rev. G. G. Wright, presided, and Mr. Lionel Blaker acted as vestry clerk. The reports submitted showed excellent progress being made in the parish. The following officers were elected for this year: Rector's warden, Mr. Fred G. Chamberlain; people's warden, Mr. M. J. Vanner; delegates to diocesan synod, Messrs. G. B. Smith, Lionel Blaker and G. A. Stokes; warden St. George's Mission, Mr. T. H. Marshall; parish council, the rector, the three wardens, Messrs. G. B. Smith, Geo. A. Stokes, Capt. Knudsen, Horace Wright, Stanley Scott, W. Rowsome, Charles Bishop, Lionel Blaker, B. J. Theobald, Harold D. Bateman, C. G. Cherry, W. Adams, D. Bradford, Sr., R. Ragsdale and John Bone.

Mayor Jamieson Bone will leave this evening for Toronto where he will attend a meeting of the Ontario Federation of Mayors.

Miss Madeline Brant left yesterday for Ottawa where she will join a class in household science which is under the direction of the Dominion-Provincial Youths Training Program. The course lasts three months.

30 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 20, 1928

Mr. William Walmsley has opened a barber shop in the Crystal Hotel.

The municipal Wharf St. rink is now in operation and the residents of Foster Ward are enjoying the delightful exercise of skating. The rink is well lighted

At St. Thomas' Parish House last evening the men's banquet was largely attended about two hundred men being present. The chair was occupied by Mr. W. O. Adams and an inspiring address was delivered by His Lordship Bishop Seager. Appreciation of the address was expressed by the Vicar of the parish, the Rev. John Lyons, the Rev. A. L. Geen and Mr. John Elliott.

Mr. Lou North of New York City is visiting friends here.

Mr. Edgar Vermilyea has returned home from Montreal where he attended the annual gathering of shoe retailers and also attended the footwear style show.

40 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 20, 1918

Belleville Juniors defeated Picton in a hockey match at the arena here by a score of 17 to 8. The following composed the teams: Belleville: Hulin, Beech, Arnott, Canning, Smith, Holway and Gerow. Picton: Campney, Burns, Branscombe, Walmsley, Ruben, Campney and Carter. The referee was Lou Marsh of Toronto.

Mr. J. W. Beatty of Saughton, Sask., is spending a few weeks visiting friends in the Melrose district. He has been living in the west for the past seven years.

Mrs. John Fargey and family of Roslin, have come to the city to reside and have taken up residence on Everett Street.

Captain Archibald, YMCA officer with the Canadian army for three years, will speak in the high school auditorium here on the evening of January 25th.

50 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 20, 1908

Printers and Deacons play hockey. An exciting game of hockey was played at the arena between teams representing the printers and the Deacon Shirt Company. Considering that both were "scrub" teams the play was surprisingly good. Burgoyne of the local juniors was the referee and helped the game along by not calling too many offsides. The shirt-makers put up a stubborn defence. The result was a tie, the score being 1 to 1. The following composed the teams: Printers: Leonard, Ford, Cherry, Thomas, Bales, Phillips and Sharpe. Deacons: Hinchey, Middleton, Symons, E. Finkle, W. Finkle, Moon and Rayfield. Timer, Ernie Blaind.

Mr. F. J. Trualsch of Montreal, an old Belleville boy, is home on a visit.

At Christ Church Sunday evening the service was of a thanksgiving nature, owing to the fact that the debt on the church of many years' standing has been paid in full. The rector, the Rev. R. C. Blagrave, delivered an appropriate sermon.

Sleighride By Tractor

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

There was a time when the sleighrides provided an enjoyable form of social winter outings. Warmly garbed against the low temperatures, the revellers were snugly ensconced in a long, low farm bobsled type sleigh drawn by a team of horses.

It is interesting to note a reappearance recently at Grand Falls of a modernized form of such a social event in which the participants were hauled by tractors.

Who knows but that the "hayride" staged by the young people of the Ortonville United Baptist Church may have marked the inauguration of a new form of outing in New Brunswick?

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

INFINITE VALUE

You have to pull more than your weight in a boat. If you pulled your weight and nothing more, the boat would stand still. You have to pull more than your weight.

So it is with life. We all have to live on the plus side if we really live at all. We have to give more than we get. We have to pull more than our mere weight. The Bible expresses it by saying that to whom much is given, of them will much be expected. The one talent man is expected to produce on the basis of what he has received. Likewise the persons to whom more talents have been given are expected to make proportionate gains. The same results are not expected from us all, but all lives operate under the same principles. Just as we reap much only if we sow much, so God expects His really big harvests from those whom He has most generously endowed.

But you recall that it was the one talent man in the Bible parable who failed. Most people who fail to achieve do so because they do not put much value on their gifts - some even despise them.

Just remember that the world is kept going not by its geniuses but by its one-talent people. Despise not the gift that is in you. Nobody in this world can take your place or do your work. Your life and accomplishments have infinite value in God's sight.

"You are doing a wonderful work and I pray . . . .

I may be wrong, but I believe I invented the name, the gray sickness, for what physicians call hypochromic anemia, nutritional deficiency anemia or iron deficiency anemia many years ago.

This common type of anemia occurs chiefly in women in the fourth decade. At 35 to 40 a woman should be at her best, at the peak of perfection.

In days gone by, a type of anemia called chlorosis was fairly common in teen-age girls. Chlorosis, otherwise called "the green sickness," was characterized by a peculiar greenish pallor. In many cases the physician could recognize it at a glance, because of the greenish pallor. Examination of the blood showed only moderate diminution in the number of red corpuscles but a great diminution in the hemoglobin (iron coloring matter).

Of the essential cause of the disease (chlorosis), we know nothing, said Dr. Osler. Notwithstanding this frank acknowledgment, Osler asserted that "the treatment of chlorosis affords one of the most brilliant instances of the specific action of a remedy — it is a minor matter how iron cures chlorosis."

All I have to say about it now is that I never observed such extraordinary effects of iron. But never mind — chlorosis, for some or other, is so rare today that some physicians have never seen a case.

A similar type of anemia — number of red corpuscles only moderately diminished but amount of hemoglobin (coloring-matter) disproportionally diminished — seems to have taken the place of chlorosis. This is called hypochromic anemia, nutritional deficiency anemia or iron-deficiency anemia. Because of the grayish pallor of the girl with this type of anemia, I call it the gray sickness. It occurs, not in teen-age girls, but generally in women in the fourth decade.

The gray sickness is caused, not by iron deficiency alone, but by insufficient daily intake of iron and other essentials of good nutrition, particularly vitamin B complex. Therefore the remedy must be not just iron but also an adequate daily ration of the B vitamins.

A third type of anemia is called secondary anemia. It is the consequence of bleeding, frequent slight bleeding, as from internal hemorrhoids; or occasional or periodic excessive bleeding, as in menorrhagia; or occult bleeding, from peptic ulcer. The color of secondary anemia is white.

Pernicious anemia, cause of which I do not know, is characterized by a greater proportionate diminution in the number of red corpuscles than in the quantity of hemoglobin. The skin or complexion of pernicious anemia is waxy lemon yellow.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

We trust so blithely to history. But we forget that it is an extremely brief record. And even the record is under constant dispute and unfailing amendment, every few years. Why, few of us even know the family history of our great-grandparents. But we take a great feeling of security out of history in certain particulars.

For example, since we have no historical record that snow ever fell twenty feet deep on our country, we take it for granted that snow will never fall that deep. Oh, out in the Rockies, it is true, they report enormous drifts that bury human habitations. And there was a time, near Halifax a few years ago, when show reached the tops of the telegraph poles. But actually, there is no reason known to science why atmospheric conditions should not so organize themselves that we could be sunk under fifty feet of snow, and a disaster the equal of anything we can conceive even in this atomic missile age befall us. The history of this continent is less than four hundred years old. How can we know what atmospheric disasters befell the very spot we live on, six hundred, a thousand, fifteen hundred years ago? Which, in the calendar of science, is the day before yesterday, or last week.

We are told by our broad thinkers that we stand now at a great crossroads of history. What history?

How about snow? How about rain, wind, heat, cold?

They have been a bigger part of our past than has politics.

TODAY'S TALK

BE PATIENT

How many things we miss in life by being impatient! We get too anxious. This results in losing something we might have gained had we only waited and considered. It is a good thing to retire into oneself and think things over. We never lose by carefully, and patiently, awaiting that moment when we make our decision to act.

Many a person has waited to fulfil his ambition, holding off in readiness. Patience teaches so much. It conserves health and gives control to the mind at significant moments. The golfer who loses his temper plays into the hand of his opponent. This is true in about every game. Games reveal character.

Marcus Aurelius took time over his life span to write down his thoughts in a little book which he completed at the closing days of his kindly life — and that book is an inspiring one to read after over a thousand years since its inception! The good Emperor had no notion that his thoughts would be for posterity, for he noted that they were written "to himself."

Here is one of the thoughts of this remarkable man: "Man's life has but a tiny span, tiny as the corner of earth on which he lives, short as fame's longest tenure, handed along the line of short-lived mortals, who do not even know themselves, far less the dead of long ago."

Patience is a rare virtue and should be conserved. Its dividends never run out. It keeps us mindful and considerate of others. Especially does it remind us of our own fault and our frailties, teaching us to be magnanimous toward others.

Arthur McCornock Is Chosen As President of Fair Board

PICTON — An excellent year in many ways was reported at the annual meeting of Prince Edward County Agricultural Society Saturday at the agricultural and recreation centre at the fair grounds. Not only will the Society end the year with a nice bank balance, but during the year a new livestock barn was erected, the interior of the agricultural centre completed and many other improvements to grounds and buildings made. Arthur McCornock was named president.

Willis Sills, who retired as president after three years service, expressed thanks for the co-operation he had received from directors and for the support given through donations by merchants and others. He referred to the fact that as a result of the fair being a Class B show, government grants had been available and the building of the Centre had been possible. This in turn, had made a county arena possible. He expressed thanks to volunteers whose labor had made many improvements possible.

HAVE SURPLUS

Secretary-treasurer Phil Dodds presented the annual report, showing receipts of $60,673.35 and expenditures of $59,812, with $1,000 to come in the form of grants. Prize money totalling $5,306.25 was paid to 140 exhibitors. He reported that operation of the Centre and the hall there during the past year had netted a profit of $108, after insurance, heat, light and water had been paid.

Delegates named to the district fairs' convention at Belleville on February 6 were the president, secretary, E. W. Henderson, D. A. Taylor. Other members who can will also attend. Delegates to the convention of Ontario Agricultural Societies in Toronto are the president, secretary, E. W. Henderson.

It was decided that a woman's fair committee would be organized as a separate group and that it will send representatives to the convention.

FAIR DATES SET

Tentative fair dates set for 1958 were Sept. 11-12-13. Three midways have contacted the Society and a committee will meet their representatives to determine if they can accept these dates. Changing of Lindsay Fair this year does not permit the county fair at Picton to be held the same week as last year, and the new dates are a week earlier.

Creighton Lockyer read the agreement whereby the Society leases the Centre for part of the year to the Centre Commission for the purpose of an arena. A committee of the president, secretary, C. Lockyer and D. A. Taylor was named to meet with the Commission to discuss this agreement.

It was decided to increase insurance on the Centre and the Society's contents to $75,000. All policies are to be reviewed by Arthur McCornock and Willis Sills.

Agricultural representative D. A Taylor presided for the election of officers and spoke in appreciation of the services Mr. Sills has rendered as president. Directors named were: George Atkinson, Murney Ferguson, Leland Doxsee, Sam Dodds, Tom May, Leslie Jones, Willis Sills, D. A. Taylor, Phil Dodds, W. G. Willis, A. McCornock, Harry Gorsline, Brian Dodds, D. O. Reynolds, E. W. Henderson, Creighton Lockyer, Harold Spencer, Arthur Cahoon, William McWilliams, Elberne Carson, Dr. C. E. Goodwin, Mervan Laundry, Mke Finnegan, Mickey Colton and Junior Farmer representatives.

Directors elected Arthur McCornock by acclamation as president; Creighton Lockyer as first vice-president; George Atkinson, as second vice-president; Phil Dodds, secretary-treasurer.

Named to the Centre Commission were: E. W. Henderson, Phil Dodds, Willis Sills, Arthur McCornock.

B.C. Ackers, Stirling, Dies When Car Hits Parked Truck

Bernard Clare Ackers, 22-year-old Stirling father, was instantly killed Saturday night when his car slammed into the rear of a truck on No. 33 highway south of Stirling, in an accident involving three vehicles.

Provincial police said that a car driven by Fred McIntyre of Consecon, had stalled on the highway about four miles south of Stirling. The driver of a hydro truck stopped to give assistance and the Ackers' vehicle slammed into the hydro truck.

Both the Ackers' car and the hydro truck were heavily damaged.

A resident of the Stirling district all his life, Mr. Ackers was born in Rawdon township and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ackers. He was employed at the Elaine Footwear in Stirling and was a member of St. John Anglican Church.

Besides his parents he is survived by his wife, the former Luberta Scholten, a son, Paul Douglas, two years old; two sisters, Mrs. Lyle (Marie) Hay of Stirling, and Mrs. Terrance (Ilene) Shelton of Howard, California, and two brothers, J. J. Ackers and Douglas Ackers, both of Stirling.

WISH FULFILLED

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jack Gasdorf, 34, who admitted taking a second wife while he already had a wife in Madison, 75 miles away, told reporters: "I'll probably be going to prison. But I always wanted a short haircut."

Fog May Mean Legislature's Opening Delayed

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The Newfoundland legislature opens its 1958 session today if Premier Smallwood and 25 Liberal members of the House arrive in time.

The premier and his party boarded a train at Stephenville, Nfld., Sunday in hopes of reaching here before the 3 p.m. opening hour.

They were stranded at the western Newfoundland town when fog grounded the plane bringing them home from the national Liberal convention in Ottawa.

Only Speaker Jack Courage and the remaining four legislature members, add Progressive Conservatives, were in St. John's. If the premier and his followers failed to arrive Mr. Courage would have to postpone the opening for lack of a quorum.

W.C. Speaker Says 'Hobbies Keep Youth'

The January meeting of the Prince Edward - Belleville Women's Club was held at the YMCA with 32 members and guests present.

After the usual opening, Mrs. Parliament, the retiring secretary, gave a full report of 1957 activities, and Mrs. Wannamaker expressed her appreciation to all who had helped make her five years as president so happy and successful.

Mrs. Pearson presented the treasurer's statement.

The newly-elected president, Mrs Lorne Sharpe, and secretary, Mrs. Insley, took their chairs, and Mrs. Wannamaker handed over the silver bell, the symbol of authority, to the new president.

Mrs. Sharpe asked for the same united support given former presidents and assured all she would do her best while in office.

She read an appropriate New Year's poem, and called upon Mrs. McCoy, social convener, to read two addresses, one to Mrs. Wannamaker and one to Mrs. Parliament. In both were words of appreciation for the long years of efficient service which both had given while in office. A gift was presented to each by Mrs. Sharpe.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Garbutt's group with her co-convener, Mrs. Roluf, in the chair. She opened with a lovely New Year's poem and Mrs. Insley led in a lively sing-song with Mrs. Wensley as pianist. All selections were happy and cheerful. Mrs. Insley closed with a solo, "Smilin' Through."

The guest speaker, Mrs. Frank Harris of Wellington, was introduced by Mrs. Sharpe.

In her address, Mrs. Harris said she believes having a hobby keeps one young, happy, and mentally alert. She explained how she became interested in her hobby of collecting rare buttons — how, in her travels, she's been given, bought or exchanged buttons until now it is a most fascinating pursuit.

She has attended many conventions in the United States and elsewhere; belongs to a hobbyist club and enjoys every bit of it.

Her collection, which is in the hundreds, is carefully classified —such as military, Royal, British Commonwealth, rare gems, types of pearl, vest buttons, some very old, calico patterns, ebony, marble, glass, flowers, animals, leaves, award buttons, medals, and many others.

These buttons are beautifully mounted on heavy white cards and arranged in symmetrical designs.

Mrs. Sharpe thanked the speaker and Mrs. Garbutt closed with a poem.

A social time followed with the group in charge, Mesdames Sheers, Davidson, Pierson, Clegg, Westover, Wensley, Ackerman and Detlor.

Italian Style Experts Dislike Paris Sackline

ROME (AP)—There's a bow line and an arrow line, a bamboo line and even a Sputnik line in the new Italian fashions for spring and summer.

But for some Italian style designers the "sacco" (sack) line does not exist. As far as they're concerned it can stay in Paris, where it was introduced last season.

That, briefly, is the high fashion news after two days of weekend showings in Rome.

The Fontana ready - to - wear boutique collection is inspired by Sputnik, with baggy britches replacing skirts and draperies hanging from the shoulders of blouses. It all gives a woman the look of a "space man."

Pascarella creates the bow line —the bow as in archery. It involves slightly curving hip-length jackets over narrow skirts.

Luciana has the bamboo line, with slack-waisted jackets over slim dresses.

The arrow line is Garnett's idea, narrow suits with brief hip-length jackets.

Wedding

HERON — WOODCOCK

TWEED — A very pretty double-ring wedding took place at the Tweed Pentecostal Church on Saturday, December 14th 1957, at 2.00 p.m. when Miss Marion Luella Woodcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Woodcock, of Tweed, was united in marriage to George Heron, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Heron, of River Valley.

The minister was the Rev. Douglas Knoll, of Tweed, this was the first wedding at which he had officiated and it was also the first wedding to take place in the Tweed Pentecostal Church.

The bride was lovely in a white wedding gown of nylon net and lace over satin, with neckline trim of pearls. She wore a finger-tip veil with seed pearl tiara. Her bouquet was red roses and lily of the valley.

Her sister, Doreen, was her bridesmaid, wearing a mauve gown of nylon net and lace over mauve satin. Her halo of mauve was ruffled of nylon tulle and she carried a bouquet of yellow baby 'mums.

The pretty little flower girl was Miss Judy Blake and she was frocked in yellow and her flowers were white baby 'mums.

The bridegroom's best man was Mr. Bruce Law, of Toronto, and the ushers were. Mr. John Heron, Toronto, brother of the bridegroom; and Donald Woodcock brother of the bride.

Miss Gwen Leal, of Tweed, accompanied by the pianist, was soloist and sang, "I'll Walk Beside You".

At the reception held in the church hall, which was decorated in pink and white, the parents of the bride and bridegroom received the guests. The bride's mother wore navy with turquoise hat and accessories. and a corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother was attired in delft blue with feathered hat of ice pink and matching accessories. Her corsage was pink rosebuds.

For the wedding trip to the United States, the bride wore blue gabardine with white angora trim, white feather hat and gloves and blue top-coat.

Out-of-town guests were present from Montreal, Hamilton, Toronto, Belleville, Trenton and Frankford.

Mr. and Mrs. Heron are making their home in Trenton, where he is employed in the offices of the RCAF station, at the Repair Depot.

Shows Idle Women How To Aid Needy

MONTREAL (CP) — Sister Ornella Chiara Brocchi of Italy is touring the world to show idle, wealthy women how they can lead fuller lives by helping needy young girls.

She received permission two years ago to leave the Sacred Heart congregation in Turin to establish "hotels" in world centres, with the rich as guests and the needy as staff.

Financed by public contributions, her mission is aimed at "wealthy women leading shallow lives" and "young girls from orphanages, or broken homes, who are unprepared for the hardships of life."

While here on a stopover recently, she said: "Helping the rich to lead a happy, useful existence is a much more difficult task than aiding the poor.

"All over the world, there are rich women who gossip, play cards and seek pleasure without purpose in life. They make a hobby of their health, bore unwilling listeners with stories of their past, and seek solace in pseudo - religions and selfish friendships."

It is this type of woman, said Sister Ornella, who can best help displaced young girls.

"The women can find a new interest by assisting in the direction of the girls. And the girls can find friends to encourage and give counsel."

A lay order founded by Sister Ornella—the Franciscan Tertiaries—would supervise operation of the hotels. The displaced girls would serve as maids, clerks, beauticians and sales girls.

"Every luxury would be there for the guests—including the luxury of being needed by someone," she said.

Gay, High Fashion Clothes Brighten Wait for Baby

By MURIEL PENN

LONDON (Reuters) — Gay, youthful, high fashion clothes to brighten the months of waiting for baby to arrive are a must for the modern businesswoman mother-to-be.

Time was when maternity wear was drab, dreary and matronly. The expectant mother, already depressed by the temporary loss of her figure, had to suffer the further ordeal of appearing in glamorless clothes.

Today, all that is changed.

Cleverly - designed maternity clothes make it possible for the young mother-to-be to be as smart and as appropriately dressed for the occasion as she could wish.

PRINCESS CLIENT

A pioneer in designing these morale-building clothes is Mrs. Maisie Landon Silver, herself the mother of a 12-year-old son and a five-year-old daughter.

Among well-known clients she numbers Princess Grace of Monaco, who bought several models from her winter collection when she was here before Christmas.

Outstanding in her current spring and summer collection is a group of smartly - cut, co - ordinated separates that can build up into a complete daytime wardrobe for town, country or beach.

BEACH OUTFIT

One series of these separates, in royal blue sail cloth with white saddle stitching, has a pop-over shirt and a bush jacket which can be teamed with matching shorts and jeans all have a 15-inch waist expansion.

There is even a beach outfit comprising shorts and sleeveless pop-over shirt tied with small bows on the shoulder, in a print featuring beach scenes in shades of brown, green and blue.

For more formal occasions, Mrs. Silver's collection includes a smart walking out suit in grey moygashel. Many yards of fabric are used to make the loose, buttoned jacket which is closely pleated on to a high, round yoke finished with an overlapping round collar. Three - quarter sleeves and a straight, easy but slim-looking skirt put this outfit in the front rank of fashion.

FOR EVENING WEAR

Popular, too, among the models in this collection are the long-line, button - through dresses which are the coming season's successors to the popular winter "sack" and a "bracer" suit in charcoal grey teamed with a brown paisley blouse.

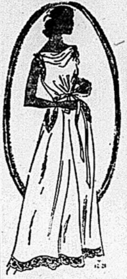
For the social occasion and evening wear, Mrs. Silver has designed a number of attractive, two-piece models in fine cotton or rayon combining closely-pleated or gracefully draped, pop-over blouses and straight or ballerina skirts. Many of these come in plain pastel shades and cool-looking summery prints.

One unusual blouse in pleated blue cotton has a white stripe down the knife edge of each pleat. Another, which is gathered across the front and has chic, hip-level pockets set on a slant, is in an original "go anywhere" print featuring white stars on a blue, red or green ground.

Mother's Helper

THE LESS HEAT the better, in your kitchen these summer days. But of course, your baby still needs his warm food. You can fix his small meals on one burner, using an egg poacher pan with a separate compartment for each item on baby's menu.

Lovely Lingerie



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Sunny yellow shades bring a bright touch to the lingerie picture, as witness this pretty nightgown. Of lemon yellow dacron and cotton blend, it has ecru lace trim at the shoulders, forming the slightest suggestion of a sleeve. The neckline is draped cowl fashion. Lace is repeated at pockets and hem, while a sash of yellow satin defines the waist.

St. Joseph's P.T.A. Discusses Coming Events

A general meeting was held on Thursday evening at St. Joseph's School Hall.

The treasurer's report was given and outstanding bills passed and ordered to be paid.

The president, Mr. T. Kelly called on Mr. McKee in regard to the misfortune his daughter, Nancy had in the breaking of one of her front teeth. Everyone is aware of the expense it would have entailed had Mr. McKee not had the School Insurance policy to cover his child.

Mr. Kelly moved a vote of thanks to those men who were giving their time and energy to make the school skating rink and keep it in shape.

He also made mention of a loud speaker being installed so the children would have music for skating.

Each member of the Parent-Teachers Association of St. Joseph's is asked to make a special effort towards the bridge to be held in February.

Father Buckley gave a brief talk on the "Vocation Novena and Triduum" conducted by the Scarborough Fathers on February 9, 10, 11.

CROSSING SIGN NEEDED

Mrs. Chipman made a request that something be done about a sign for the back entrance to the school from Hastings Drive. This is a very busy intersection and very dangerous for the child who has to cross at this place and there is nothing to warn the motorist that this is an exit of a school.

The attendance prize was won by Miss Durkin's class.

Mr. Kelly called on Mr. P. Halloran to introduce the guest speaker Mr. Don MacKinnon of Juvenile and Family Court.

The speaker outlined his duties, which were interesting and instructive to everyone. Each one present left with something gained in some way from the speaker's explanations.

Mr. Fred Maund thanked Mr. MacKinnon for his time given St. Joseph's P. T. A.

'Second Mile' Topic at WMS Meeting

The president, Mrs. D. Brenton, was hostess for the January meeting of Cannifton W.M.S. and opened with a New Year's readings and prayer.

Mrs. G. Brenton gave the Mission Band report and Mrs. W. Brenton, supply secretary, read a letter dealing with supply work.

An executive meeting will be held on Tuesday afternoon next to plan for the year's work.

Mrs. Roy Pound had charge of the worship service, taken from the Missionary Monthly, the theme being "The Second Mile."

The Scripture, Philippians 2, was given by Miss Doreen Reynolds, followed by a talk by Mrs. Roy Pound.

"In the Scripture, Paul's letter is to Timothy and Epaphroditus, his two well loved friends. In this chapter we find a challenge for our own lives: 'For he nearly died for the work of Christ, risking his life to complete your service to me.' Paul makes the point that serving those for whom Christ died is the true way to serve Christ Himself."

"We have plenty of opportunities to help our neighbors. We can be helpful when there is illness; we can serve at church suppers and take our turn in leading worship at meetings. As followers of Christ, we are called by Him to do more. We must look, and think, and seek guidance."

Mrs. McCrae, Christian stewardship secretary, gave a reading pertaining to stewardship.

Mrs. D. Brenton had the study book which was on Japan and dealth with Christian education and schools.

Christian kindergarten and primary schools are few, but there are about 150 Christian secondary schools with an enrollment of 75,000 students and 50 Christian colleges and universities with 50,000 students.

Christianity's greatest witness is the Christian teacher. Illiteracy is almost unknown in Japan and Japanese women are getting into political life.

A certain influential Japanese man was asked why Christian schools are needed in Japan and he said: he wanted his children to have the atmosphere of a Christian school; he wanted his children to have a Christian character, where everyone is equal; he wanted to connect Christianity with action; he wanted a religion for every day of the week, not just Sunday; he wanted his children to have a project to do — to do something for someone else who is more unfortunate than himself.

One of the greatest Christian leaders of Japan is Dr. Kogawa. In him, Christian faith has come alive.

A social half hour followed.

MELROSE MISSION BAND

MELROSE — Melrose Mission Band met at the home of Mrs. J. English on Wednesday, and opened with the singing of "God Sees the Little Sparrow Fall." John English read the Scripture, and Judy Cook the minutes of the last meeting, also the roll call.

Business was discussed; Bob McLaren said the next meeting would be held on February 4th. The story, "The Swimming Pool," was read by Miss Scott, after which the program, in charge of Janice McFarlane and Linda Pascoe, was enjoyed.

The offering, amounting to $1.50 was collected by Nancy English.

Shirley Pascoe thanked Mrs. English for her hospitality.

MUST HAVE PEACE

BIRMINGHAM, England (Reuters) — Viscount Hailsham, chairman of the Conservative party, said Saturday night Britain would be "eliminated" in a third world war. He said "There can be no future for Britain without peace."

CHERRY PIE QUEEN CONFIDES SECRET

After capturing top honors in the Ontario cherry-pie cooking contest, petite coed Betty Jones could safely reveal two secrets. Her first confession? She much prefers eating apple pie. Her second well-kept secret is how she makes her mouth-watering pastry dough. "I just take out the lumps," confides the 20-year-old University of Western Ontario student. As she adds water to the pastry, she takes out the lumpy parts as they absorb the liquid and keeps adding water to unlumped pastry. Miss Jones will represent Canada next month at the Chicago International pie-baking contest.

Bridge Street WMS Elects 1958 Officers

The January meeting of the Bridge Street United Woman's Missionary Society, (afternoon groups) took place recently and was in the form of an enjoyable pot-luck luncheon and followed by the regular business meeting with monthly annual reports from the various officers. These reports showed that the W. M. S. had a busy and successful year in 1957.

The Rev. H. M. Davis extended thanks and encouragement to the ladies and installed the 1958 officers as follows: past president — Mrs. Erle Denyes; president — Mrs. F. C. Adsett; 2nd vice-president — Mrs. C. Howie; 3rd vice-president — Mrs. J. E. McArthur; treasurer — Miss Madeline Young; secretary — Mrs. J. E. McArthur; Christian stewardship secretary — Mrs. H. M. Davis; Citizenship Secretary — Mrs. W. Broad; corresponding secretary — Mrs. E. W. Sutton; Community friendship secretary — Mrs. C. Massey; supply secretary — Mrs. Cameron McDonald; associate membership secretary — Mrs. Erle Denyes; "Missionary Monthly" — Mrs. W. Ormond; Literature secretary — Mrs. R. G. Walsh; press reporter Mrs. N. C. Cathers; candidate secretary — Mrs. C. L. Hyde; Mission Band representatives — Mrs. J. S. Loynes and Mrs. David Ross, C.G.I.T. representatives — Miss Margaret Hillis; pianist — Mrs. K. Bird; assistant pianist — Mrs. T. K. Franklin; nominating committee — Mrs. Harry Rollins, Mrs Francis, Mrs. C. Morgan.

Group leaders: Mrs. W. Dallas and Mrs. H. Parker; Mrs. C. Howie and Mrs. R. D. Warren; Mrs. F. Ruggle and Mrs. F. Countryman; Mrs. T. K. Franklin and Mrs. Andrew MacKenzie; Mrs. Leo Roluf and Mrs. A. Sprague; Mrs. H. Twiddy and Mrs. O. Beer; Mrs. G. Anderson and Mrs. S. Gilmour; Mrs. C. R. Clapp and Mrs. G. Lewis.

Mrs. Adsett, the president, announced that the next meeting would be on February 6th under the leadership of Mrs. T. K. Franklin and Mrs. A. MacKenzie and that a Presbyterial meeting would be held at Napanee on February 6th and 7th and appointed Mrs. C. Massey as delegate.

Women's Institutes

CHATTERTON W.I.

Mrs. Albert Carson was the hostess for the Chatterton W.I. January meeting, with 16 members and one visitor present.

The president, Mrs. H. Bloor, was in charge. The meeting opened in the W.I. fashion.

Several thank-you notes were read and correspondence discussed and discharged.

It was decided to buy flannelette and several ladies offered to sew and knit garments for layettes being needed by Arabian refugees.

Members interested in making lamp shades are asked to meet at the home of Mrs. H. Bloor on January 21 at one p.m. Mrs. B. Mitts and Mrs. C. Gardener will conduct the course.

After reading a humorous article, "Yesterday and Today," Mrs. Floyd MacInnes introduced the speaker, Mrs. H. Coulter of Pine Grove branch.

Mrs. Coulter represented West Hastings at the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada" convention held in Ottawa in October.

She reported briefly the four days' highlights, stating that 433 ladies registered for this occasion and thanked the branch for their part in sending her as a delegate and urged any who are offered such a privilege in the future to accept gladly.

A sing-song was followed by dainty refreshments served by Mrs. Carson and her assistants.

Greeks Like Song Records Of New Yorker

MONTREAL (CP) — Although singer Leni Bartseris has never set foot in Greece, her songs have made a hit there.

The slim, dark - haired New Yorker records popular United States song hits in the Greek language for a company that distributes the records in the Mediterranean country.

She was here recently to attend the annual ball of the Hellenic Ladies Benevolent Society with her husband, radio announcer Steve Bartseris.

Born of Greek parents who emigrated to the U.S. many years ago, she has recorded more than 200 songs in Greek since starting her career on a dare from her husband in 1952.

"I kept complaining to him that I could do better than many of the singers hired for a program he announced. I talked so much about it, it finally became a dare and he gave me a chance to see what I could do."

She became an immediate success. It was a few months later when the couple decided to market records in Greece.

"She's a natural singer," said Mr. Bartseris. "She's never taken a singing lesson in her life."

The two plan to visit Greece for the first time next spring, when Leni is to sing at a charity benefit show in Athens at the invitation of Queen Frederika.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Madeline D. — I guess I haven't got the guts.

Roy M. — It's just a matter of being sensible about things.

• • •

Madeline D. — I am 20 years old and engaged to a boy three years older. We are planning to marry next year when we have saved enough money to get started in our own home.

The problem is that Roy and I are very much in love. I guess we pet too much. Roy says that since we really love each other and are determined to get married, it would be no great crime if we had relations before marriage.

In one way I think it would be okay. After all, it's not as though we are just crazy kids not knowing what we are doing. On the other hand, when I imagine going to a hotel or some strange place with Roy, I just feel I haven't got the guts.

• • •

Roy M. — I am no irresponsible kid trying to lead a nice girl astray. I love Madeline with all my heart and I will never marry anyone else. I just think we are giving each other a harder time than is necessary.

I talked the whole thing over with a friend of mine and he told me the same thing happened with him and his wife when they were engaged. She turned him down, and as a result he got mixed up with another girl. The whole thing was a mess and he says his wife has never forgiven herself.

I care about Madeline too much to want to let anything like that happen. Neither of us is immoral by nature. It is just a question of being sensible about things. Madeline is mature enough to understand this.

The Council: For a "sensible," "responsible" young man, Roy sure is a bundle of contradictions.

He likes to think of himself as being moral, yet he is bent on breaking the moral code. He insists upon his responsibility, yet he waves the threat of involvement with another woman. Of course, he is being terribly "sensible" when he works, dreams and saves to start married life in a comfortable home, yet tries to persuade his fiancee to begin their physical relationship under difficult conditions in sordid surroundings.

We are rather distrustful of Roy's great protestations of love. Surely, it has occurred to him that although it would be fine to start marriage in a nice home, free and clear of debt, it would be better to marry now and live with hand-me-downs or furniture bought on time than to become involved in an illicit affair.

However, we do not recommend Madeline and Roy rush into marriage at once. The engagement period has a purpose and it should be a happy time — a real preparatory period in which to build firm foundations for the marriage.

Madeline and Roy need to learn to share and enjoy many things together. Unless they have mutual interests, good friends and a lively concern for each other in every phase of their lives, their marriage will become a very empty thing. Now is the time for them to develop and deepen every aspect of their relationship, outside of the physical.

Madeline knows the answer to her problem when she says, "I guess we pet too much." We guess they do.

Women's Activities

SCOTT'S W.A. AND W.M.S.

6th SIDNEY — Thirteen ladies met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Avery Martyn on the afternoon of January 15 for their joint meeting.

Mrs. C. Copeland, president WMS, opened the meeting and prayed for guidance in the new year.

Thirteen members paid their fees for the coming year.

The supply secretary, Mrs. R. Dafoe, is to purchase the material to be made up for the supply bale. Mrs. F. Farmer reported five house calls and three hospital calls during the last month.

The W.A. president, Mrs. Carl Sine, made arrangements for the next meeting to be a dinner meeting in the church hall on February 12 with Mrs. Edison Sine as hostess.

Mrs. Morley Sine took the chapter of the study book on "Japanese Women in the News." She showed how emancipation has come about for the Japanese women. Christianity has been the godmother of higher education for women in Japan setting a pattern and a pace that the government was soon forced to follow.

JAPANESE WOMEN RESOURCEFUL

The women have shown themselves resourceful, quick to learn and capable of holding almost any position. Some of the leaders are: Mrs. Naomi Kikuta; Dr. Teruko Komyo, Dr. Tsuni Shirai and Mrs. Uemura. The women of Japan are giving leadership in the church.

Mrs. K. Faul conducted the devotional part of the program entitled "The Second Mile." Mrs. C. Frost read Philippians 2: 19-30 for the lesson. Paul, in speaking to Timothy and Epaphroditus makes the point that serving those for whom Christ died is the true way to serve Christ, Himself. The prayer was for forgiveness, help and guidance.

Liberal Chief Pays Tribute To Women

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal party's new leader has paid a twinkling tribute to women in the party.

Lester B. Pearson, newly elected party chief, in an interview said Friday night:

"It's well known that men do what women tell them to do. And that should be taken as given in a light-hearted way."

Mr. and Mrs. Pearson were guests at a National Federation of Liberal Women reception attended by more than 400 women.

The new party leader was the lone male guest at the hour-long reception. In a more serious vein, he said there are more women than men in the country "and that means the part of women must be very important."

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

HER DREAM CAN COME TRUE!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. In two months my husband and I are to have our Twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary. To celebrate this we had always planned to have a large dinner, but because of circumstances, principally illness-expenses, we are limiting our celebration to a small, simple dinner party to be given in a private room of a hotel here. There will be approximately 20 guests. When we were married, my husband was leaving for overseas duty, and our wedding was very small, simple and we had no reception. I had always had my heart set on having a Wedding Cake. Would it be at all permissible to have this dream of mine "come true" on this occasion?

2. Should there be place cards?

3. If a toast is proposed, should my husband and I stand or remain seated? And should someone respond to this toast?

Thank you for your advice.
— E.D.

1. Yes, Yes . . . have that endearing dream of yours come true by having a handsome Wedding Cake as the sparkling theme-song of your wedding anniversary party. As it would have been done if you had had a wedding reception,. you, the "bride," cut the first piece and share it with your "groom," as the guests sing "The Bride Cuts the Cake!" (To the traditional tune "The Farmer in the Dell.") Do make a special feature of this, memorable to your guests, a precious memory to you and your husband.

2. Yes, I advise place cards. You might have silver-edged white ones, and write the names in silver ink. Do thoughtful "home-work" to make a definite seating diagram, write the cards, take them with you and place them on the table well ahead of the hour for the dinner. Much off your mind, this way.

3. Let's not say "if a toast is proposed," for, if you think there is any possibility one won't be, make a pre-arrangement to have someone do this. If the best man is to be present at the dinner, ask him to propose a toast; if he isn't, ask a male relative or family friend. When the toast is proposed to you and your husband, all the guests rise, raise their glasses and drink the toast. You and your "bridegroom" do not rise, and do not drink the toast. When the guests have drunk the toast and are seated, your husband rises, and replies by expressing your thanks and his. After this first important toast there will be, I think, other toasts to your and your husband's "happiness and Welfare and Well-being."

Tender Muffins For Tough Weather

By Mary Moore

We seem to be in the muffin business this week and it is all because of a fresh supply of wheat germ — 5 lbs. — and I'm doling it out to everybody who walks in the door. I sprinkle it in all of the baking and eat it as is. This is probably why I feel as if I could lick my weight in wild cats. Pete says it is all your life's worth to walk in this house unless you submit to the wheat germ treatment.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

Curried Veal with Buttered Rice or Fine Noodles; Green Beans; Icicle Pickles; Lemon Meringue Pie; Coffee.

Snicker if you like you unbelievers, but make these muffins. This first little offering I hope that Dorothy D sees for she is a bran muffin addict.

EMEM'S BRAN MUFFINS

These amounts make 22 medium size muffins — 1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour, ½ cup wheat germ, 2 teaspoons salt, 1½ teaspoons soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1½ cups cooking bran, 1 cup raisins, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 egg, 2 cups buttermilk, ⅓ cup molasses. Put the sifter over a large bowl and sift sifted flour, salt, soda, baking powder and sugar into it. Add the bran and wheat germ and raisins. Stir. Make a depression in centre and add egg, buttermilk, molasses and butter that has been melted and cooled a little. Stir barely enough to moisten flour. Overstirring ruins muffins. Fill greased muffin tins ⅔ full. Bake at 425 deg. F. for 25 minutes. Good hot or cold.

SUNDAY MUFFINS
(with apple)

One and one-quarter cups sifted all-purpose flour, ½ cup wheat germ, ½ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon each salt and cinnamon, sift all together into bowl. Add ¼ cup soft shortening, 1 cup grated raw unpeeled tart apple, 1 egg and ½ cup milk. Stir just until blended. Fill greased muffin cups ⅔rds full, sprinkle tops of muffins with mixture of ⅓ cup each brown sugar and chopped nuts, ½ teaspoon cinnamon and bake at 400 deg. F. for 20 to 25 minutes.

JELLY CORNMEAL MUFFINS

One cup cornmeal, ¾ cup sifted flour, ½ cup wheat germ, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 egg, 1 cup milk 2 tablespoons melted shortening. Sift dry ingredients together. Beat egg, add milk and melted shortening. Add to dry ingredients mixing only enough to dampen flours. Fill greased muffin cups ¼ full. Put a teaspoon of your favorite jelly on top of the batter and continue to fill muffin cups with batter until they are just ⅔ full. Bake at 400 deg. F. for 25 minutes.

Watch everyone's face when they bite into the jelly-filled muffin. That will be reward enough — more than enough.

Congregational Meeting

MT. PLEASANT - RAWDON UNITED CHURCH

RAWDON — The annual congregational meeting of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon circuit was held Tuesday evening in Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church with an attendance of 17. The pastor, the Rev. W. G. Fletcher, B.A., conducted the meeting and opened with a brief devotional. The secretary gave his report and a period of silence was observed for two deceased members, Cyrus Summers and Mrs. Orno Sharp.

The various reports were given as follows:

The congregational treasurer reported a balance of $800, and this included a recent substantial gift to be used for church repairs. The total receipts including envelope givings and thankoffering were $2,439. The expenses covered $1790 to circuit treasurer, also caretaking, hydro, fuel oil, honorarium to pianist, fire insurance, painting roof, two speakers and various repairs.

The George Young Estate Memorial Fund is $1771.

The M. and M. treasurer remitted $493. The Sunday School has a balance of $170. Their supplies cost $290 and their collections were $266. In May of this year they began using envelopes and their M. and M. collection was $60. They realized $150 from catering at the Hoard's Livestock Sales Barns.

Mount Pleasant Women's Missionary Society has a membership of six life and 20 annual members. Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave a resume of the year's work and read the financial statement of Mrs. Garth Joslin. The thankofferings at Easter and autumn were $77. The envelope givings $103.

The expenses included the bookshelf and auxiliary study packet. The treasurer remitted $224.22 to Presbyterial treasurer. All the money was given systematically.

MISSION BAND REPORT

Mrs. Stanley Williams read the report of the Mission Band treasurer, Mary Ellen David. They have one life member, 25 annual members and three honorary members. They remitted $156.06 to Presbyterial treasurer. They received their money through sale of cards, a bake sale, a 25-cent article sale and the usual thankofferings, collections and mite boxes.

Mrs. Ernest Spencer, leader of the Baby Band, reported four life and 28 annual members. In July 1957 there were six children who graduated to the Mission Band. This group remitted $59.72 to Presbyterial treasurer. They held two candy sales and sponsored a travelling blanket besides the usual thankofferings, donations and one new life member.

The combined effort of the Auxiliary, Mission Band and Baby Band reached the Presbyterial W.M.S. allocation of $440.

TWO-BY-TWO CLUB

The Two-by-Two Club held a church service and a Christmas party. They reported a balance of $129.

The Woman's Association catered for a banquet, two sales, and three weddings, and realized $456. They gave the extension fund $37; paid $14 in festival fees; $31 for church Bibles. They also did considerable repair work, cement sidewalk, iron railing at a cost of $475. They have a bank balance of $754.

Mr. Burton Sharpe reported for the church hall treasurer, Earl McAdam. There were three elections and a demonstration and the receipts were $40. The repairs were $18 with a bank balance of approximately $75.

Mrs. Kenneth Weaver read the report of Mr. Ross Hoard for the cemetery. The caretaking amounted to $55 and there is $1,200 in bonds for perpetual upkeep besides a cash balance of $355.

The various circuit reports were received for information. Mrs. Raymond McConnell reported a balance of $250 for the parsonage, and also a reserve amount for the roof when needed. The taxes were $157.50 and telephone $41.40 Owing to bad weather in July, the annual social was cancelled. Each appointment pays $75 as their allotment.

There was no vacation school held in 1957, hence the balance on hand is $30.33.

The Rawdon Young ePople's Union reports a balance of $225. They sponsored a variety concert and box social. They contributed $15 to the M & M fund, also purchased hymn books.

PASTOR'S REPORT

The pastor gave a full report of the session and said the contribution to the Ontario Temperance was $32 and $15 to the Gideons.

It was decided to give a donation of $5 to Quin-Mo-Lac Camp.

TWEED

Restaurateur Honored by Dinner Party

TWEED — Twenty-five couples from Tweed attended a dinner party in honor of restaurateur Ray Kwan, Mrs. Kwan and little son David, on Wednesday evening in Havelock.

Mr. and Mrs. Kwan, who came to Tweed about two years ago from Port Hope and Oshawa, have made many friends in the community.

Following the dinner, Mr. Kwan was presented with a rod and reel, while Mrs. Kwan was the recipient of a colorful floor lamp.

Ray Woofrey, chairman for the evening, introduced the speakers who included Guy Hughes, originator of the good-will thank-you gift program for the Kwan family; Doug Spencer, Reeve of Tweed; Bob Wood, village councillor; Ray Quinn, Wallie Moffat and Ted Cournyea.

A toast was proposed to the village of Tweed, and thanks were heartily extended to Gerry and Myrt Quinn for opening their lounge of the Havelock Hotel for the occasion.

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing cards and reminiscing.

Point Anne

POINT ANNE — Mr. and Mrs. William Juby, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Juby spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. John Botting, of Cannifton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Akey spent Sunday afternoon and tea hour with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Akey, Cannifton.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Keene, of Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Akey, Cannifton, spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Milton Akey and family.

Best wishes and congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hull, Jr. (nee Judith Ann Learie) who were married in St. Catharines recently. Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hull, Sr., of Point Anne, and is playing hockey with the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey league.

The first euchre of the weekly euchre club was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Genereaux on Tuesday evening. Winners were: Mrs. Ruth Henderson, Mrs. Emma Sero; consolation, Mrs. Nellie Breach. After euchre Mrs. Genereaux served refreshments and a pleasant evening was spent.

Mr. Reggie Cox has returned home from the Belleville General Hospital feeling some better.

Sympathy of friends is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Pat Callaghan in the death of Mrs. Callaghan's uncle, Mr. Leon Guthrie who passed away recently in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Amab Akey, of Cannifton, had dinner on Wednesday with their daughter, Mrs. Reggie Cox, and family.

BEING WELL-INFORMED DEVELOPS PERSONALITY

"I met Fred Smith on the street yesterday!"

"That's a coincidence, I'm going over tomorrow to have tea with his wife Betty."

"Fred's a great guy—he seems to know such a lot, and talks well on any subject."

"Well you know, Betty and he both read a lot."

"Yes, I know, but what I mean especially, is their being so well-informed on current events."

"Well, you're no slouch on that subject—and I think I too, know what's going on in the world."

"And I think I know the answer. Fred himself told me frankly and I agreed. He reads—Betty reads—You read—I read . . . we all read the Toronto Daily Star.

"It keeps us right up-to-date on world and local news—in word and pictures. There's everything a man wants to know about and . . ."

"Yes, and we women get a real lift out of the pages of interest to women."

"And, besides, the viewpoints and opinions of the Star's special contributors are educational and help in guiding our own thoughts."

"All of which sums up what Fred said. Reading the Toronto Daily Star keeps one well-informed, and develops ones personality."

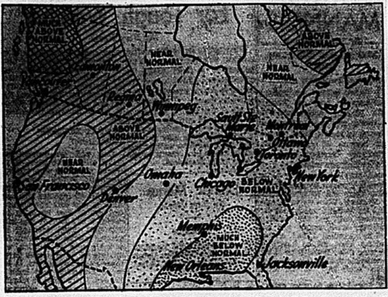
GO WEST, NOT SOUTH, FOR WARM CLIMATE



Central Canada is scheduled to be the cold spot during the next three weeks. The U.S. weather bureau's forecast also includes good news for the west coast, which should remain above normal most of the time, and for the east coast, which will have near normal temperatures.

NO LONGER POLES APART

Dr. Jerzy Nowinski, noted Polish scientist who was granted political asylum in the U.S. after defecting to the West, is shown in happy reunion with his wife and daughter, Krystina, seven, in Baltimore. His decision was kept a secret until they were safely out from behind the Iron Curtain and were flown to the U.S. from London. Dr. Nowinski will be used in U.S. government jet and missile research.

Gore

THE GORE — The Centre-Victoria Farm Forum met on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McFaul.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Hubbs entertained the senior pupils of Victoria school to a skating party followed by refreshments at their home on Monday evening. The children are enjoying a fine season of skating on the creek, with no snow to hinder.

Mrs. McIntyre was hostess to the Victoria Women's Association for its January meeting. Mrs. Fox, president, was in the chair, with Mrs. Frank Townsend leading the devotional on the theme "New Year." A fine program was enjoyed, followed by refreshments.

Tommy and Ricky Noyes have been sick with measles.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Green and daughter, Peterborough, were recent guests of Mrs. Kenneth Green, Ronald and Sandra.

Local W.M.S. members met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Roy Wannamaker, Rednersville.

Friends are glad to know Mrs. Ralph Redner is home from the Belleville General Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Redner were Sunday guests of their daughter, Mrs. Roscoe Vandewater, and Mr. Vandewater, Belleville.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop started to look at the inside of his hand, saying to ma, For Peet sake no wonder I've been suffering, I've got a splinter. Now how did that happen? he said.

I warned you to let me get Mr. Seevers the handy man to fix that wobbly kitchen shelf for me, ma said. Now the shelf is slanting, which is 10 times werse than wobbly, and as a crowning touch you've got a splinter. I have a needle right here, come here and I'll take it out, she said, and pop said, It got in by itself, so let it get out the same way. I dont beleeve in coddling splinters, he said.

You meen you cant stand even the slightest little innocent momentary pain, ma said. Come on, I am waiting, she said, and pop said, I read a peece in the paper about a dentist downtown who hipmotizes his patients instead of jabbing an annesthetic into them with a hypodermick needle, and they just sit there calmly smoking a cigaret while they're having a tooth pulled, and they dont feel a thing. I think I'll stop and ask him if he extracts splinters, he said.

Oh, you're werse than a child, ma said. I ought to hipmotize you with a good smack, she said, and I said, G, ma, why dont you? See if it werks, I said.

I'll hipmotize myself, let's go, pop said, and he gave ma his hand and started to talk to himself, saying, I dont feel a thing, I dont feel a thing, owtch, take it easy, it doesn't hert a bit, hay, it is only a splinter, not an appendix, I dont feel a thing.

Oh hush, it's out, ma said, and pop said, Yee gods, I beleeve it werked.

And he went back to his private chair looking as if he thought he was grate.

Which he is.

Number Giving To Children's Hospital Higher

TORONTO — "A substantial and most gratifying increase, amounting to 43%, in the number of donors to The Hospital for Sick Children's Christmas Appeal has been realized,', Mr. J. Grant Glassco, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, said today.

In discussing the Hospital's 1957 appeal for funds, Mr. Glassco thanked the many thousands of Canadians who have assisted the Hospital with donations.

"During 1957 the number of bequests and legacies has also increased, which has helped to defray the Hospital's increased costs including the mounting use of the Hospital's specialized services. It is also most noticeable that donations once again have come from all parts of the Province of Ontario," Mr. Glassco said.

SKIPPER PAYS OFF

KENTFIELD, Calif. (AP)—Six weeks ago, Mr. and Mrs. David Wayne read in a newspaper that Skipper, a black mongrel, would be put to death unless he found a home. The Waynes gave him one. Friday, Wayne was awakened by Skipper tugging at his pajamas and found the bedroom filled with smoke. He aroused his wife, and they dashed to safety. Damage was minor.

BCI Hoopsters Sweep Trio From Trenton

By DONN MARTINSON

On Friday night the BCIVS bantam, junior and senior basketball teams started the league schedule on the right foot as they swept a tripleheader from the Trenton High School teams.

The first half of the bantam game began very slowly and because of the close checking the BCI team left the floor at the half with a slim 12-5 lead. But in the second half, BCI began to work the ball around to good advantage and led by Pete Annis, outscored the opposition 21 to 10, thus winning the game 33-15. Pete Annis was the top man for BCI with 12 points, while Jordan and Alexander each had 4 points for Trenton.

In the junior game, the BCI juniors used an effective fast break in the first half to roll up a 28-12 lead. In the second half, BCI took their time, completely outplayed the Trenton team and outscored them 21-7 in the half to win the game 49-19. Brian MacKenzie potted 17 points for BCI while Rathbun was the top scorer for Trenton with 7 points.

The senior game proved to be the most entertaining for the spectators crowding the balcony of the BCI gym. Early in the game BCI broke through the Trenton zone and had a slight edge in the play, and in the score, as they left the floor at half time with a 24-17 lead. In the first two minutes of play in the second half, BCI scored eight unanswered points to put them on easy street for the rest of the game. With persistent checking, the BCI team kept Trenton away from the basket until the last few minutes of the game when Trenton scored 10 of their 18 points, in the second half but by that time it was too late to catch the BCI team. BCI outscored Trenton in the second half 26-18 to win the game 50-35. Captain Roger Walters led the BCI team as he hooped 27 points, Hilton led the Trenton scorers with 18 points.

Points:

Trenton Bantams — Alexander 4, Lidster 1, Owens 2, Jordan 4, Armstrong 2, Wannamaker 2, Spruston, Sweete (15).

BCI Bantams — Duguid 2, Annis 12, Blaker 2, Skinner 8, Roberts 2, Hook 3, Wallbridge C 4, Wallbridge B, Campbell, Blakely, Peoples, Weston (33).

Trenton Juniors — Rathbun 7, O'Neil 4, Alward 1, Seucatto 2, Allen 2, Fillman 3, Graft, Patrick, Gascoyne.

BCI Juniors — Shelly 12, Morton 2, Regent 2, McMann 2, MacKenzie 17, Alexander 3, MacFarlane 1, Masters 7, Hotchkiss 2, James 1, Cotrell, Banting.

Trenton Seniors — Hilton 18, Dowdew 8, Rogers 5, Watson 2, Spruston 2, Eason, Albrough, Reid.

BCI Seniors — Walters 27, [illegible]rtinson 2, Hill 4, Mowers 3, [illegible]phanson 9, Stark 3, Boomhower 2, James, Parkhurst, Deacon.

Next game: Jan. 24; BCI at QSS.

Minor Hockey

Maple Leafs, Canadiens, Red Wings and Browns were winners in the bantam section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association at Memorial Arena Saturday morning.

The Leafs blanked the Rangers 3-0 with Barry Overend getting the shutout in the winners nets. Bruce Seams, Stew Malloy and Peter Armstrong scored the goals with Lockwood and Soden earning assists.

Jim Rutherford paced the Canadiens to a 3-1 win over the Barons, scoring two goals and assisting on the other. Brian Skinner also scored while Sutton had two helpers and Reid one. Ted Rowland fired the lone Baron goal unassisted.

Red Wings shaded the Black Hawks 2-1 with David Chalmers scoring once and assisting on the other goal, netted by Barry Dafoe. Richard Williams was the Hawk marksman with Jones and Adams assisting.

Browns defeated the Bruins by a 4-2 score with Ray Gaffney claiming a goal and assist. Dennis Ray, Ted Butcher and David Reid had one goal each with assists for Turner, Hull, Ling and Fisher. Wayne Gilroy paced the Bruins with a goal and assist while Hall had a pair of assists. Rob Burr added the second goal.

Research Improves Outdoor Life

There isn't a large manufacturing company or corporation of any consequence in the country which does not maintain, as a vital part of its organization, a comprehensive research department.

Always the search goes on to find better, more economical, more efficient products. In this way, and in this way only, can competition be met effectively.

As matters now stand, hunting and fishing and the industries which depend on these sports combine as a group to form "big business," one of the largest in the nation. What is true of other businesses also is true of hunting and fishing. Research pays off and keeps the wheels turning.

All too many sportsmen tend to minimize the importance of our fish and game technicians. The next time you hear one of these fellows criticizing the methods of the fish and game commissions, take time out to remind him of a few things.

Back in the "good old days," fifty or sixty years ago, deer were not plentiful in our forests. As a child, living in what is now excellent deer country in central Pennsylvania, I never so much as laid eyes on a deer, alive or dead. Today our deer herd is so large that grazing deer are common sights while driving through deer country.

Why is our present deer herd so large that it must be reduced systematically from time to time to avoid over-population? The answer, of course, is intelligent research and game management.

With the growth in public interest in fishing, came also the tightening of restrictions on seasons and bag limits. This over-legalizing was done pretty much by guesswork. Then the scientists, the biologists, stepped into the picture. The result — liberalized fishing as we have it today.

Time was when our trout fishing in most sections of the country was confined to small streams, fishing for little square-tail. Again the biologists changed the picture. Brown trout were imported from Europe Rainbow trout were brought east from the western states.

Countless breeding experiments in the hatcheries brought into being our present common varieties of brown and rainbow trout. Now, what used to be considered "bass water" has been converted into beautiful, big trout streams.

Our hat is off to our biologists who have made our fishing and shooting what it is today. May their tribe increase.

CREEL CENSUS

Every once in a while there comes to my desk a report of the results of a creel census, carried on, usually, by one of the state conservation agencies. Some of these make interesting reading; others are obviously accounts of much wasted time.

Last summer, in one of our mid-western United States, a creel census was conducted at a lake where 100% liberalized fishing was established. In other words, a fisherman could catch all the fish he wanted and could keep all the fish he caught if he were so inclined.

Women and children were included in the census. When the final results were tabulated, the results showed that one and a fraction fish were caught (that is, if you can catch a fraction of a fish) per fishing hour per individual — not a very impressive figure.

However, the boys who conducted this particular census used their heads and recorded the catches, at the same time noting who caught them. It turned out that 10 of the total number of anglers caught better than 75% of the fish reported.

It has always been my opinion that any creel census should take into account the experience-status of the fisherman whose catches are recorded. Obviously a census defeats its own purpose when a 10-year-old child is listed in the same category with an experienced fisherman. It is for this reason that it seems that the average creel census doesn't really mean very much.

Stan Leonard Shares Lead In Tijuana Open

TIJUANA, Mex. (AP) — The $15,000 Tijuana Open golf tournament went into the final round today with a brand new cast of professionals leading the way.

The front runners were Stan Leonard of Lachute, Que., and Vancouver, 42-year - old veteran who has yet to bag a major title in the United States, and unheralded J. C. Goosie, a 28-year-old newcomer on the tournament swing from Knoxville, Tenn.

They were tied at 208 for 54 holes, Leonard with rounds of 68-70-70 and Goosie with 72-69-67.

Well behind were such usual title threats as Al Balding of Toronto, Doug Ford, Mike Souchak and Dow Finsterwald. Balding had a 214 total after rounds of 70 70 and 74.

Completely out of focus were geles; Dave Ragan, Orlando defending champion Ed Furgol, Paul Harney and others. They failed to qualify for the final two rounds.

ONE SHOT BACK

One stroke back of the leaders were Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., and Bob Rosburg, Napa, Calif.

Just two shots off the pace were Gene Littler, Singing Hills, Calif., Jerry Barber, Los An-Completely out of focus were Fla., and Bill Johnston. Provo, Utah.

Among the threats sandwiched in a spread from 211 to 214 were Balding, Souchak, Finsterwald, George Bayer, Billy Casper, Arnold Palmer, Lionel Hebert, Jay Hebert and the earlier leader, Bo Wininger.

Wininger dropped down Sunday when he took a 77. He is tied for ninth at 211.

Goosie has been a golfer 10 years, most of them as a club pro in Tennessee. Leonard has won the Canadian PGA championship six times. He decided to concentrate on tournament golf in 1955 and since then has finished out of the money only twice.

Northern Electric Hockey

The Indians went on a scoring spree in the Northern Electric interdepartment hockey league over the weekend, and paced by Dave Jones, buried the Barons 20-8.

Flyers picked up a victory in the other contest, defeating the Aces by a 5-1 score.

Dave Jones, who earlier in the season picked up as high as ten points per game on a couple of occasions, bettered his mark yesterday. He scored nine goals and assisted on seven others for a 16-point total. Harry Wardhaugh and James each collected nine points on four goals and five assists. Tom McKay had a pair of goals and one assist while Howard Skelly had one and one.

Philp scored four goals and two assists for the Barons while Totten had three goals. D. Semark also scored and added a pair of helpers.

Barrett and Totten with two goals each and as many assists sparked the Flyers to their 5-1 victory. Bedard registered one marker while Locke had two assists and Skelly one. Martin tallied the lone Ace goal with Duguay assisting.

A record of some sort was set when nary a penalty was assessed in either game.

National Debut Of Willie O'Ree Wonderful Thrill

MONTREAL (CP) — Willie O'Ree, first Negro to play in the National Hockey League, beamed happily after his debut with Boston Bruins Saturday night and said "it was a wonderful thrill."

The 22-year-old left winger, native of Fredericton, N.B., didn't figure in the scoring in Boston's 3-0 shutout of Montreal Canadiens but settled down after a jittery start and almost got himself a goal.

Willie got his chance at big time hockey because Bruins have been hit with illness and injuries, particularly to Leo Labine and Real Chevrefils. He was called up from Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League.

Coach Milt Schmidt of Bruins tossed O'Ree against the league-leading Canadiens on a line with Don McKenney at centre and Jerry Toppazzini at rightwing.

O'Ree also played Sunday as Montreal downed Bruins 6-2. He had one good chance to score on a breakaway but was foiled by goalie Jacques Plante.

Industrial Hockey

The Industrial Hockey League standings tightened even more over the weekend when Circle TV pulled an upset 4-2 victory over the front-running Hillcrest Wreckers and Don's Delivery whipped the winless Tweed crew 10-4.

Hillcrest is still in first place with eleven points while Point Anne has ten and Don's Delivery nine, but the Wreckers have played one more game. Circle TV pulled into a fourth place tie with the Terrors, each with four points, while Tweed brings up the rear with nary a point.

Dick Knattin was the Circle TV hero, firing three goals by Hillcrest goalie Don Dolan, as the Wreckers absorbed their first loss of the season. John Hazzard bagged the fourth goal. Junior Day was the trigger man on both Hillcrest goals.

Ron Aitkens sparked the Don's Delivery attack with four goals. Singletons went to Jack O'Neil, Jim Campbell, Ron Archer, Bill Vesterfelt, Jack Calnan and Cameron McKenna. Bob Lizard potted a pair for Tweed with one each for Ralph Plane and Earl MacDonald.

Sammy Baugh Rejects Sasky Coach Offer

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—Sammy Baugh, head coach at Hardin-Simmons University and former star of the Washington Redskins professional football team, Saturday rejected a lucrative contract offer to coach Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Baugh met with the Hardin-Simmons board of trustees' athletic committee for a long session Saturday. He announced his decision at the same time board chairman J. D. Sanderfer Jr., announced the board had recommended that Baugh get a new five-year contract. He has been coach at Hardin - Simmons for three years.

ORFU Names Spike Kearns 1958 President

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Rugby Football Union Saturday elected B. F. (Spike) Kearns of Kitchener president for 1958.

Kearns, first vice-president last year, succeeds Maurice Chilton of Sarnia. Chilton was named ORFU delegate to the Canadian Rugby Union.

Gord Gilbride of London was elected first vice-president and Claude R. Irvine of Sarnia was chosen second vice - president. George Schmidt of Kitchener was returned as secretary-treasurer.

Chilton presented a trophy to quarterback Bob Celeri of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen. He was voted the ORFU's most valuable player in 1957 for the fourth consecutive year.

BLASTS BIG FOUR

Chilton blasted the Big Four for its refusal to play the ORFU winner in a post-season game to determine whether the ORFU is strong enough for renewed Grey Cup competition.

Chilton told the annual meeting the Big Four broke faith in refusing to play the post-season game. He also denounced what he called the "shabby treatment" afforded the ORFU with disregard to "our expressed desire to challenge for the Grey Cup."

"But to me, the most heartbreaking of all was the completely spineless action taken by the Big Four in refusing to play a post-season game with us when asked to do so by the Canadian Rugby Union's special committee which was set up at their (the Big Four's) request."

Under the CRU constitution, the ORFU has the right to challenge for the Grey Cup. Acceptance of the challenge, however, is at the discretion of the Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Canadiens, Bruins Split; Rangers Grab Two Wins As Wings Drop Pair

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Whitby Dunlops shook the ice dust from their flashing blades on Saturday night, their 6-4 victory over Cornwall Chevies culminating a brilliant record in thirty six games. The Dunnies racked up 27 victories, tied three games and went down to defeat six times. They have yet to complete their home-and-home series with the OHA-NOHA league but have at the moment a record of six wins and two defeats.

The Pembroke Lumber Kings had the best success against the national champions, defeating them three times, and tying them once. The McFarlands claim two victories with Kingston the other. Cornwall and Ottawa-Hull Canadiens earned the remaining pair of ties.

Dominance of the power-packed Allan Cup champions over their teams in league play, did not leave any bad taste in the collective mouths of Eastern Senior League clubs. League rivalry did not minimize national pride. On their final jaunt around the circuit the Dunlops were met by cheering crowds of former "enemy" fans, and not a few tangible proofs of confidence and wishes for success in the forthcoming world tournament were apparent.

In the spacious Kingston Community Centre, the Dunnies were greeted with a large banner "Best of Luck in Oslo from Kingston Fans." A Pembroke arena banner read "Go, Dunnies, Go, in Oslo, but Not Here Tonight." In the Hull arena, two pretty young misses skated around the ice surface carrying a banner with similar wishes. After the game the Junior Habs shook hands with the Dunnies with personal best wishes.

Here in Belleville, the city through the McFarlands Booster Club presented the Dunlops with a floral horseshoe while a "best-wishes" banner floated from the press box in the arena. Afterwards a reception was held for the Dunlops and members of their Booster Club. Over 350 were present.

Speaking of this, the Dunnies' manager, Wren Blair, said: "All of our competitors in the Eastern League have shown an outstanding spirit of sportsmanship. While we gave everything we had to beat them, and we had to go all-out to do it, eastern league clubs and their fans have been solidly behind the Dunlops, both last year on their victorious march to the Allan Cup and again this season when we go overseas to represent our country. This is a splendid gesture on the part of the league, its fans, players and team officials as well as members of the press, radio and television."

One of the biggest personal "kicks" derived from the Eastern League clubs "best-wishes" demonstrations was that received by Jack MacKenzie, who played with the Kitchener Dutchmen when they won the Allan Cup and represented Canada at the world tournament two years ago.

Said MacKenzie: "It sure wasn't like this in the other league when I was with Kitchener and we were getting ready to go overseas. They booed us out of almost every arena. It gave a fellow a heck of a bad feeling. But this? This is great. We know all these fans are behind their own clubs when we play them, but it is mighty decent of them to take time out to give us a parting cheer. In this way we know they will be behind us when we are playing in Norway—and I think that is mighty important for the morale of any club."

PETES JUNIORS HERE TONIGHT

The Peterborough Stoneys, tops in the Eastern Ontario Junior "B" League, will be the guests of the Belleville Lambert-Rollins youngsters in Memorial Arena tonight, the game getting under way at eight o'clock.

The local squad was beaten the other night in Peterboro when some of their star players did not make the trip. The Belleville team has a lot of potential and if they bring it out tonight they should give Red Creighton's powerful brigade a real run for their money.

FOR TROUT FISHERMEN

The Department of Lands and Forests has proposed an extension of the open season for all members of the trout family. The proposal would have the present season extended one month from April 1-October 1 to March 1 to October 1. What is your opinion? The new suggestion will be thoroughly explained and discussed at the meeting of the Belleville Fish and Game Association at the YMCA tomorrow night. Russell Whitfield of the department will be the guest speaker and will expound on the new suggestion. There will be a question-and-answer session so you can get in your piece. Also on hand will be some interesting motion picture films. The slate of officers for 1958-59 will be elected. So be on hand to vote and express your opinion regarding the capture of your favorite fish.

Ted Workman New President Of Big Four

WINNIPEG (CP)—Ted Workman of Montreal Saturday was elected president of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union (Big Four) at its annual meeting. He succeeds Bob Moran of Toronto.

Other officers named were: First vice-president, Jake Gaudaur, Hamilton; second vice-president, Eddie Emmerson, Ottawa; and third vice-president, Joe Wright Jr., Toronto.

D. Wes Brown of Ottawa was named as secretary-treasurer. [illegible] McClaws of Calgary was elected president of the Western Interprovincial Football Union at its annual meeting, succeeding Ken Montgomery of Edmonton.

SPORT IN BRIEF

HEADS GRAPPLERS

GUELPH (CP)—Joe Schleimer, wrestling coach of Toronto's Broadview Y, Saturday was elected president of the newly-formed Central Ontario branch of the Ontario Amateur Wrestling Federation at the federation's quarterly meeting here. The federation announced that a combined Ontario team will wrestle against a Detroit team Feb. 15 at Toronto's West End Y.

SUSPEND SHOEMAKER

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Jockey Willie Shoemaker was suspended for five days Saturday by stewards at Santa Anita, costing him the mount on Round Table in next Saturday's $170,000 maturity. The suspension starts next Tuesday. Shoemaker was set down for failing to keep Eastgate straight in winning Friday's fourth race.

Boom-Boom Hits 200 Plateau With Ten in Last 7 Games; Lumley Debuts With Shutout

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, who didn't make either the first or second all-star teams at mid-season, today ranks as the National Hockey League's leading goal-scorer and as one of four active players to score 200 goals.

Geoffrion, the league's hottest scorer with 10 in his last seven games, scored twice Sunday to lead Montreal Canadiens to a 6-2 victory over Boston Bruins. The goals were his 25th and 26th this year and the 200th and 201st of his NHL career, now in its eighth season.

The victory gave Montreal a split in their weekend series with Boston, who had shut out the Canadiens 3-0 Saturday in Montreal.

WINGS, HAWKS LOSE

In other games Saturday, Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Detroit Red Wings 2-1 and New York Rangers beat Chicago Black Hawks 3-2.

Sunday, Chicago defeated Toronto 5-3 and New York whipped Detroit 6-1.

The results left Montreal 17 points ahead of Rangers, who moved three ahead of Detroit. Toronto and Boston are four points behind Detroit and three ahead of Chicago.

Geoffrion, who had two assists Sunday, ended the all-star balloting nine games ago behind (Rocket) Richard and Detroit's Gordie Howe for the right-wing spot.

Sunday he joined those two and Chicago's Ted Lindsay as the only active NHL players with 200 or more goals. Only 29 players in the league's history have hit the mark.

COULD EQUAL HIS HIGH

The goals also put the five-foot, nine-inch Montreal native well on his way to matching his career high of 38, set in 1954-55 when he topped the individual scoring with 75 points.

Bert Olmstead, Jean Beliveau, Dickie Moore and Floyd Curry also scored for Montreal. Johnny Bucyk and Jerry Toppazzini scored for Boston.

In Saturday's game at Montreal, Harry Lumley, called back to the NHL because of Bruin goaling miseries, handled 28 shots flawlessly while Bucyk, Bronco Horvath and Larry Regan scored.

Goalie Lorne Worsley sparkled for Rangers as they won both their weekend games. It marked three straight wins for New York since Worsley was recalled from Providence Reds of the American Hockey League.

Andy Bathgate, Dave Creighton and Andy Hebenton were the New York scorers Saturday with Ed Litzenberger and Eric Nesterenko scoring for Chicago.

FIVE-GOAL FINAL

Rangers counted five times in the third period Sunday to overwhelm Detroit. Bathgate, Hebenton, Guy Gendron, Parker MacDonald, Gerry Foley and Lou Fontinato were the scorers while Worsley made 32 stops.

Jack McIntyre scored for Detroit.

Toronto won its first game in eight this year against Detroit Saturday when George Armstrong and Ron Stewart scored against Red Kelly's lone counter for Wings. Leafs previously this season had only two ties and it was their first victory since Feb. 24, 1957 over Wings. The loss also snapped Detroit's five-game winning streak under new coach Sid Abel.

Chicago's Nesterenko and Ted Lindsay each came up with two goals Sunday to defeat Leafs. Ed Kachur got the other. Dick Duff scored twice for Toronto and Gary Aldcorn had one.

WINS SQUASH CROWN

MONTREAL (CP) — Azam Khan of Pakistan won the third annual Canadian open squash championship Sunday, defeating John Smith-Chapman of the Montreal Badminton and Squash Club 15-10, 15-5, 15-5. The top-seeded Khan won his four matches and took 12 of 13 games.

Teepees Swamp Barrie 15-4; Irish Win Two

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto St. Michael's Majors won both their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series game during the weekend but it was the league-leading St. Catharines Teepees who made the biggest bang.

While the Majors were defeating Hamilton Cubs 5-3 Saturday and Guelph Biltmores 4-1 Sunday, St. Catharines trounced Barrie Flyers 15-4 Saturday.

In another game Sunday, Peterborough Petes moved into a third-place tie with St. Michael's and Toronto Marlboros by defeating the Marlboros 2-1.

Leftwinger Matt Ravlich came up with his second six-goal outburst of the season to pace Teepees, who lead Hamilton by 12 points. Two weeks ago he scored six against Guelph.

Chiko Maki scored three and Ed Hoekstra and Ron Quenville each had two. Rino Robazza and Stan Mikita each scored once.

Bill Forhan scored three times for Barrie and Bob Blackburn once.

BREAK WIN STREAK

Saturday St. Michael's broke a three-game Hamilton win streak on single goals by Tim Hook, Jim Martin, Hank Marczak, Jack Costello and Tom Micallef.

Brian Smith, Stu McNeill and Ed Cooke scored for Hamilton.

Sunday the Majors took a 4-0 lead before George Usitalo scored for Biltmores. St. Michael's scorers were Jim Martin, Les Kozak, Gino Ubriaco and Lou Angotti.

In the second game of the regular Sunday doubleheader, Jim Murchie gave the Marlboros an early lead before Pat Casey tied the game and Irv Spencer won it for Peterborough.

Bisons Move Into 4th Spot With Two Wins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons enjoyed a profitable weekend in the American Hockey League, moving into fourth place and within six points of the third - place Providence Reds.

The Bisons nipped Providence 2-1 Sunday night to take over undisputed possession of fourth. The Rochester Americans, who were tied with Buffalo, deadlocked with Springfield Indians 3-3 in overtime and dropped to fifth.

In an afternoon game the league - leading Hershey Bears and the runner-up Cleveland Barons played to a 1-1 overtime stalemate.

Saturday night the Bisons defeated Hershey 4-2, Springfield downed Rochester 5-2 and Providence beat Cleveland 5-3.

Left winger Dick Gamble, handicapped with a wrenched back and playing with nine stitches above his right eye, sparked Buffalo to its victory over Providence. He scored one goal and assisted on the other, by playing coach Harry Watson. Aldo Guidolin produced the Providence marker.

ALSO SATURDAY

Gamble also had a goal Saturday night and the other Bison marksmen were Pete Conacher, Sam Bettio and Ken Wharram. Ed Stankiewicz and Len Haley counted for Hershey.

Springfield scored in every period in downing Rochester Saturday with Norm Johnson, Harry Pidhirny, Flyd Smith, Gerry Ehman and each Cal Gardner the payoff men. The Rochester scorers were Noel Price and Eddie Mazur. In their tie Sunday night, Gardner had two goals and Ken Schinkel one for the Indians with Mazur, Earl Balfour and Stan Smrke replying for the Americans.

Zellio Toppazzini, Ken Davies, Paul Larivee, Bruce Carmichael and Jimmy Bartlett led the Providence offence against Cleveland Saturday night with the Barons' goals going to Dan Poliziani, Bill Needham and Steve Kraftcheck. Poliziani sent Cleveland into the lead late in the first period Sunday and Len Haley tied matters for Hershey at 13:40 of the third period.

Dunlops Blank Bulldogs 3-0, Dutchies Whip Hounds 6-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The team that last represented Canada in world championship hockey play and the team that will next represent Canada flashed their power in OHA-NOHA Senior A action this weekend.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, who ended third in the 1956 championships, defeated Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 6-2 Saturday to edge six points ahead of the Soo in their battle for the league lead.

Whitby Dunlops, who played their last regular game Saturday in their own OHA eastern division, started a 1,600-mile road trip Sunday by blanking Windsor Bulldogs 3-0. The tour precedes their play in the 1958 championships in Oslo Feb. 28 to March 9.

HAD TRAILED HOUNDS

Dutchies, who trailed Greyhounds for most of the season, clambered into first after the Soo made a bid to represent Canada at the 1959 tournament on the basis of their league lead.

Ron Howell and Buddy Horne each scored twice to pace Kitchener, with Ken Laufman and Billy Flick scoring one each.

John Bailey and John Lumley scored for the Soo.

Whitby's victory did not affect their own standing but the loss stopped Windsor from moving out of a third-place tie with Chatham Maroons.

Playing coach Sid Smith, Bob Attersley and Tom O'Connor scored for Whitby. Roy Edwards turned aside 27 shots, 13 in the third period, to score the shutout.

After the teams received 14 penalties in the first two periods, including game misconducts to Whitby's Bug Gagnon and Windsor's Pete Palamar, the teams played a penalty-free third period.

Western Football Union Release 1958 Schedule

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Western Interprovincial Football Union Saturday released its 1958 schedule which gives each team in the five-team loop eight home games.

The season opens on Thursday Aug. 14 with Winnipeg Blue Bombers at home to Edmonton Eskimos. Saskatchewan Roughriders and British Columbia Lions open their season in Vancouver Saturday, Aug. 16. The fifth club, Calgary Stampeders, open at home against Lions Monday, Aug. 18, the same date Riders are at Edmonton.

The schedule winds up Saturday Nov. 1 with Bombers at Vancouver, and Esks at Regina. Calgary winds up its regular league games Monday, Oct. 27 in Winnipeg.

The semi-final between the second and third-place clubs will remain a two-game, total-point affair Saturday, Nov. 8 and Monday, Nov. 11, with the second-place team having the choice of the site for the opener. The best-of-three final will be played Saturday, Nov. 15 and Wednesday, Nov. 19, with a third game, if necessary, Saturday Nov. 22.

The 1958 Grey Cup final will be played in Vancouver Saturday, Nov. 29.

McFarlands Shade Baby Canadiens 7-6 In Overtime; Hold Point Lead

Gerry Goyer Scores Winner After Two-Goal Lead Fades; Backstrom Gets 3 for Habs

HULL, Que. (Staff) — Gerry Goyer spun the puck into the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens net at 8.34 of overtime here Sunday afternoon to give the Belleville McFarlands a close-shave 7-6 victory over the Baby Habs.

The Hildebranders grabbed a first-period 5-3 lead with both teams adding a goal in the second frame. The Macs, however, failed to hold the speedy Canadiens' third-period attack and the game was stalemated at 6-6 at the end of regulation time.

It was the McFarlands second win on Hull ice, and their third "away" victory of the season. They maintained their one-point lead over Pembroke since the Kings split their weekend games, losing to Kingston 7-5 and shading Cornwall 4-3 in overtime. Whitby finished its 36-game Eastern League schedule with a 6-4 victory over Cornwall.

With the Ottawa Canadiens collecting three points for a win, the game yesterday actually meant five points to the Macs. Their victory brought them to within two points of the second-placers while a defeat would have seen them seven points in arrears.

GERRY GOYER
Fired the Winner

Goyer's winning marker was hotly disputed by the Canadiens. Hollingdrake in the Habs' nets appeared to have the shot stopped but tumbled backward into the net with Goyer following. Referee Gordon Pranschke ruled it a goal over the Canadiens heated arguments.

The McFarlands shared eighteen scoring points with Goyer getting two goals and an assist. Other Mac marksmen were Kowalchuk, Benoit, Menard, Botley and Wiener Brown. Marineau and Keith MacDonald each had two assists with Bradley, Kowalchuk, Benoit, Payette and Hildebrand each getting singles.

The Hildebranders, however, took the lion's share of the penalties, getting nine of the eleven handed out by the referee. Only two of the sentences proved costly with the Habs scoring with the man advantage. All the penalties were minors.

Ralph Backstrom, the starry Canadiens' forward, sparked his team's attack with three goals. Paul Boucher had two goals and an assist while G. Tremblay accounted for the Canadiens' remaining marker. Billy Carter came up with two assists.

The defensive work of the Macs again stood out as nine penalties against them with a minimum of two goals scored indicates. Also in the overtime period Gordie Bell was tabbed with a two-minute sentence for cross-checking but the Macs not only held off the Canadiens' drive for victory but went on to win.

Backstrom sent the Habs into a one goal lead at 1.30 of the first period but it was shortlived when a minute later Wiener Brown tied the score with Marineau and Bradley assisting. Kowalchuk put the Macs a goal up at 4.15 but Paul Boucher squared matters with a lone effort at 13.02. "Ole Moe" blasted in a loner at 15.45 and Gerry Goyer made it 4-2 with his first tally of the afternoon. G. Tremblay hit paydirt for the Habs but Minnie Menard with Payette and Ike gave the Macs a 5-3 lead at period end.

The second was productive of the best hockey of the game with Benoit drawing the only penalty and both teams scoring once. Lionel Botley gave the Macs a three-goal lead at 11.14 on a drive with Marineau and Brown and Boucher hit for the second goal of the game three minutes later on a neat passing play with Rousseau and Longarini.

The third period featured the driving offensives of the Canadiens, with four penalties not aiding the McFarland cause. Backstrom scored his second goal with Richard and Carter in on the play while Moe Benoit was sitting one out. Backstrom completed his hat trick four minutes later to tie the count with Tremblay and Boucher in on the kill, and the Macs at full strength.

Both squads went all out in the overtime period for the tie-breaker with both goalies standing out. Gordie Bell was tabbed with a cross-checking penalty at 3.38 but the stubborn McFarlands' defence stymied the flying Canadiens' front lines efforts.

Then came Goyer's winner with less than two minutes to go and the Macs skated off with their "five-pointer" win.

Lineups: Belleville — goal, Bell; defence, Crawford, Lepine, Benoit, Botley; forwards, Payette, Hildebrand, Menard, Marineau, Brown, Kowalchuk, MacDonald, Goyer, Muretich, Bradley.

Ottawa-Hull — goal, Hollingdrake; defence, Longarini, Backstrom, Olajos, Delisle; forwards, Rousseau, Richard, Boucher, J. C. Tremblay, Carter, G. Tremblay, Gray, Dawson, Annable.

Pro Football Loops Draft 36 College Stars

WINNIPEG (CP) — Thirty-five players from six Canadian universities were drafted Saturday by Canada's two major professional leagues — the eastern Big Four and the Western Interprovincial Football Union. Thirty three were drafted last year.

Under the Canadian Football Council college draft, the bottom-place club of the WIFU, as loser of the Grey Cup, received first choice. The last-place team of the Big Four, Grey Cup winners, got the next choice and the selections rotated from there on in. The Canadian champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats got last pick.

McGill Redmen, second-place finishers in the eastern Intercollegiate Union, were the biggest contributors with 10, one more than the college champion University of Western Ontario Mustangs. University of Toronto had eight, Queen's Golden Gaels four, McMaster Marauders three and the University of British Columbia one.

DRAFT SEVEN

The Saskatchewan Roughriders last-place club in the WIFU, took full advantage by drafting the maximum seven, while Toronto Argonauts, bottom-placers in the Big Four, drafted five.

Ottawa Rough Riders, runner-up to Hamilton in the Big Four schedule, put the finger on six, while Montreal Alouettes and Edmonton Eskimos each drafted four. British Columbia Lions took three. Calgary Stampeders, Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Hamilton each picked up two.

The draft:

Saskatchewan—tackle Len Sigurdson, guards Leo Konyk, Merv Shaw and centre Garnett Bertrand, all of McGill; end Peter Zarry and guard Clark Pulford, both of Western; and end John Redfern, Queen's.

Ottawa — half Russ Jackson, McMaster; end John Bennett, McGill; quarter Brian Ashton, centre John Chisholm, ends Dan Nelson and Burt Kelloch, all of Toronto.

Toronto — tackle John Casey and end George Stulac, both of Toronto; end Paul Fedor, Queen's; half Neil Desborough, Western; and half Butch Rogers, McMaster.

Montreal — ends Ron Murphy and Sam Yuska, both of McGill; half Frank Loftus and guard Bruce Ward, both of Western.

Edmonton — half John Tattle and tackle Bill Miller, both of Toronto; tackle Ray Johnston, Western; and guard Bill Halverson, Queen's.

British Columbia — half Bill Britton, Western; and tackles George Cummings, McMaster, and Art Jokanovitch, UBC.

Calgary—half Willie Casanova, Western; and guard Graydon Harrison, Queen's.

Winnipeg—half John Saundzelius, McGill; and tackle Tom White, Western.

Hamilton — half John Cronin and tackle Ray Brown, both of McGill

Brief Receives Warm Welcome

OTTAWA (CP)—A report to the federal government on physical fitness of Canadians got a warm reception, reports the president of the Canadian Sports Advisory Council.

Melville Rogers of Ottawa reported to the council's annual meeting here Saturday following presentation of the brief Friday to Health Minister J. Waldo Monteith.

The brief warns of a general trend to poor states of fitness among Canadians.

One thing the minister showed "more than a passing interest in" was a coaching plan devised by the council several years ago. Under it, a camp would be set up each year and top coaches would be invited to instruct and lead discussions.

Same Old Birds Are Covered By Football's New Feathers

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's two major professional football leagues, who only two days earlier had announced they would run their own show without the help of the Canadian Rugby Union, wound up their three-day meeting here Sunday still greatly under the influence of the oldtime body.

The Big Four and Western Interprovincial Union now known respectively as the Eastern and Western divisions of the newly-formed Canadian Football League—couldn't get together on the old problem of playing rule changes, primarily blocking regulations. Now they have to get it settled at the CRU's annual meeting in Toronto in mid-March.

The two groups did come out of their closed sessions in complete accord on most other questions, including import quotas, a national waiver list, territorial rights and player limits.

SUDDEN ANNOUNCEMENT

When the two pro leagues announced with unexpected suddenness at their opening session Friday the formation of the CFL and appointment of G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg as national commissioner with broad powers of authority, they said they wanted jurisdiction over "all affairs pertaining to professional football." This included, among other matters, rule changes and organization and operation of the Grey Cup final, a CRU undertaking since the cup was first donated for competition in 1909.

The CFL stuck to its guns on its policy of administering the Grey Cup final, this year in Vancouver on Saturday, Nov. 29, but the two divisions were far apart on proposed rule changes.

The East wants blocking by backs done away with completely, while the West plumped for 10 yards blocking for all players of the attacking team on scrimmage plays. At present, only linemen and two backfielders who flank outside the ends can block 10 yards.

BACKWARD STEP

Some western delegates look upon the eastern proposal as a backward step. But it's a case of which side of the fence one is sitting on. The East agrees both proposals will do away with illegal blocking by some backs under present regulations, but that more blocking will only put the emphasis on ground play and ball control, which some say is "dull football" and doesn't appeal to the fans.

The same argument was used against the West proposal for unlimited blocking on pass interceptions over the line of scrimmage. The East wants to retain the present rule of no blocking on such plays.

Unless the two divisions can get together before the CRU's annual session — and some delegates think they might—the so-called "splinter groups" of the CRU 8 Ontario Rugby Football Union, Quebec Rugby Football Union and the Intercollegiate Union—will have the big say on 1958 rule changes.

NEED MAJORITY

The seven-man CRU rules committee is made up of one representative each from the Big Four, WIFU, ORFU, QRFU, Intercollegiate Union, and two CRU representatives—one from the East and one from the West. Each representative has one vote. A majority is needed to carry a rule change.

On takng over the Grey Cup, the CFL is expected to change the distribution of tickets which, up to this year, has been 30 per cent each for the CRU, Big Four and WIFU and 10 per cent for the ORFU.

It may go along with the Western Division's proposal of 30 per cent, less 6,000 tickets, for the CRU; 10 per cent, less 2,000, for the ORFU; 30 per cent, plus 5,000, for the Eastern Division when the final is played in the East; and 30 per cent, plus 1,000, for the Western Division. The Western Division would receive the extra 5,000 when the final is in the West. The 2,000 tickets from the ORFU allotment would go to the host club.

MAINTAIN MEMBERSHIP

The pros decided that until such time as the CFL draws up its own constitution and bylaws expected this year—the Big Four and WIFU, as such, will maintain membership in the CRU. By 1959, it is expected the two unions will fade from the picture and the CFL will request membership in the CRU for its two divisions.

The much - discussed interlocking schedule question was again shoved aside, with a spcial committee set up to look into the possibility of a full east-west schedule for 1959.

On imports, the CFL agreed on each club cutting down to 12 Americans 48 hours after its third league came and that seven changes may be made up to Oct. 15 Last year, only 12 could be dressed but the teams were allowed to carry as many as they wanted and make 14 changes from their third games until Oct. 18. At that time, they had to name 12 for the remainder of the season.

The new league also agreed that 28 players would suit up for all games. Last year, the home club could dress 30 and the visitors 28.

The national waiver list for all nine clubs will replace the separate waiver lists operated by the WIFU and Big Four.

Halter, whose official title is commissioner - chairman of the CFL, named two special officiating representatives—Cec McFaddin of Toronto for the Eastern Division and Andy Currie of Winnipeg for the Western Division.

The CFL will continue to honor contracts and options of the National Football League of the United States.

Under territorial rights agreed on by the league, both divisions now are protected on any junior football player going to a United States college. On his return to Canada, the player remains the property of the pro team in whose area he had played as a junior.

'Ole Archie' Wins Verdict Over Brazilian

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — World light heavyweight champion Archie Moore Saturday night won a 10 - round non-title decision over Brazilian titleholder Luis Inacio in the biggest fight ever held in Brazil. Moore weighed 190½, Inacio 179.

The sellout crowd was estimated at 18,000. Moore's purse was $22,000.

Moore lost no time taking the ofensive in the first round as he attacked with a barrage of lefts and rights. Inacio tried to counter but found Moore an elusive target.

Moore momentarily stunned Inacio early in the fourth round with a hard right to the head but the Brazilian shook it off and caught Archie on the mouth with one of his few solid blows of the fight.

The pace slowed down in the sixth and seventh rounds and it became fairly obvious that Moore was content to go for the decision rather than try to knock out his opponent.

WINS CURLING PLAYOFF

ORILLIA (CP)—Gordon Hopkins' rink, representing Orillia District Collegiate Institute, Saturday won the District Three playoffs in the Ontario schoolboy curling championships. The rink will enter the provincial finals in Lindsay next Saturday.

Sox, Orioles Compromise in Harshman Case

CHICAGO (AP) — An amicable compromise was reached Sunday by the Chicago White Sox and Baltimore Orioles in the case of pitcher Jack Harshman's slipped disc.

Commissioner Ford Frick issued an ultimatum that the southpaw pitcher had to go to Baltimore or the six-player deal consummated last month would be called off.

That sent vice-president Chuck Comiskey of the White Sox and Baltimore manager Paul Richards conferring again. Both clubs admitted liking the deal so well that they wanted it to stand.

The Sox traded Harshman, outfielder Larry Doby and an unnamed player to the Orioles for pitcher Ray Moore, infielder Billy Goodman and outfielder Tito Francona.

Examinations last week confirmed Harshman has a slipped disc and the Orioles yelled "foul." The Sox said they made the deal in good faith and did not know of the 30-year-old pitcher's condition, citing he hurled a nine-inning victory over Cleveland several ays before the season ended.

Following Frick's firm stand, Comiskey immediately offered first baseman Jim Marshall as the unnamed player in the deal if Richards would agree. He agreed but then brought up the possibility of Harshman never pitching again.

There was another huddle and the Sox agreed to add another player to the trade or deliver an undisclosed sum of cash — believed to be $15,000—by Jan. 30. Richards agreed and that ended the matter.

Harshman, present at the meeting, had trouble with his back during the season when he posted an 8-8 record. He said doctors be consulted did not come up with the slipped disc diagnosis until after the trade was made.

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec Aces played a Quebec Hockey League game Sunday that might serve as an inspiration to teams on the wrong end of a big score with time running out.

Shawinigan Falls Cataracts were leading by three goals before a hometown crowd with less than 11 minutes to play when Jacques Gagnon sparked a last-ditch rally that carried Aces to a 7-5 win.

Gagnon fired three goals, sandwiching markers by Jean Pichette and Jean Marie Cossette.

At Montreal, Lou Smrke's second-period goal gave the pace-setting Chicoutimi Sagueneens a 2-2 draw with Royals in a game that ended with a scoreless 10-minute overtime period.

The day's play left Sagueneens in first place with 52 points, and Shawinigan Falls 11 points back. Aces are third with 38 points, two more than Montreal. Trois-Rivieres Lions, who were idle, are last with 33 points.

Hockey's Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal took over the goal-scoring leadership and gained ground on the National Hockey League's top point-getters during the weekend with a four-point effort.

The hard-shooting right winger bagged his 25th and 26th goals of the season and collected two assists to boost his total to 49 points.

The leaders:

Kings Split

Whitby Ends Eastern Sked With 6-4 Win Over Chevies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Whitby Dunlops rounded out their Ontario Hockey Association Senior A eastern division schedule Saturday in a manner to which the other five teams have become all too accustomed.

Dunnies whipped Cornwall Chevies 6-4 for their 27th win in 36 games and a 19-point lead over second-place Ottawa-Hull Junior Canadiens.

Whitby left after the game on a road trip that precedes their trip to Oslo for the 1958 world hockey championships Feb. 28 to March 9.

Pembroke Lumber Kings split two games, defeating Cornwall 4-3 Sunday after losing Saturday 7-5 to Kingston CKLCs. In another game Sunday Belleville McFarlands defeated Ottawa-Hull 7-6 and moved within two points of the Canadiens. Pembroke is a point behind Belleville.

TWO FOR MYLES

Gordie Myles led Whitby with two goals. Bus Gagnon, Tom O'Connor, Alf Treen and Sid Smith scored one each.

Reg Grigg paced Cornwall with two goals and Guy Henry and Ron Muir scored singles.

Kingston defeated Pembroke with three goals from Bill Youngberg and single goals by Mike Bukacheski, Don Partridge, Don Bellringer and Les Colvin.

Jack Giesebrecht and Gerry Buchanan each scored two for Pembroke. Frank Chiarelli scored one.

Sunday Bruce Giesebrecht scored at 3:52 of sudden-death overtime to give the Kings victory over Cornwall. Other Pembroke scorers were Chiarelli with two and Jack Douglas.

Guy Henry, Ray Laplante and Moe Savard scored for Cornwall.

DISPUTED GOAL

A disputed overtime goal by Gerry Goyer gave Belleville its decision over Ottawa-Hull. Keith Hollingdrake appeared to have the shot stopped but tumbled backward into the net with Goyer following. Referee Gordie Pranschke ruled it a goal despite Canadiens' protests.

Goyer scored twice for Belleville with Lionel Botley, Wayne Brown, Russ Kowalchuk, Moe Benoit and Minnie Menard scored once each.

Ralph Backstrom scored three goals for Ottawa - Hull. Bob Boucher scored twice and Gilles Tremblay once.

Betsy Rawls Wins Tampa Open, Marlene Out

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Defending champion Betsy Rawls won her fourth Tampa Women's Open golf championship in five years Sunday by one stroke over Mickey Wright and Patty Berg.

Miss Rawls, of Spartanburg, S.C., shot a one-over-par 74 and finished the $7,500 event with a 72-hole total of 302.

Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto finished the tournament with a disastrous 87. With earlier rounds of 82, 80 and 82, this gave her a total of 331.

On the Tracks

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Collaring pace setter Blen Host at the head of the stretch, Terrang won the $27,450 Santa Catalina handicap Saturday at Santa Anita. His time for the 1⅛ miles was 1:49 1-5.

A half length behind was Like Magic, with Eddie Schmidt third. Blen Host finished fourth.

The supporting feature, the at seven furlongs, went to Mrs. Connie Ring's Market Basket, who ran the distance in 1:22 4-5, defeating Ballet Khal by three parts of a length.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Alhambra sped to a half-length victory in the $21,775 Hibiscus Stakes Saturday in a preview of promising Kentucky Derby candidates at Hialeah Park.

Alhambra took the lead a few yards from the finish and won by half a length in a driving duel with Hubcap.

Third in the field of 10 three-year-olds was Belleau Chief, 2½ lengths behind Hubcap.

Time for the six furlongs over a fast track was 1:10 1-5 compared with the record of 1:09.

HURT CHILD, JAILED

MONTREAL (CP) — Lionel Bissonnette, 30 - year - old father of two children, Friday was sentenced to one year in jail for inflicting head injuries on his five-year-old daughter by hurling her against a wall. EXPRESSION TO FIT THE MOOD

Varying moods show on President Eisenhower's face as he discusses his administration's attitude on international questions. Left, he says the U.S. will not consider a "summit" meeting in which Red China is represented. Centre, he emphasizes that the U.S. will participate in a top-level meeting only if there is prior assurance the parley will produce a genuine peace. Right, he waits for other questions from a newsman at the Washington White House.

Once a Reviewer's Secretary, Pat Pearce Now TV Critic

By CHRISTINE STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Pat Pearce, once secretary to a leading Canadian theatre reviewer, has herself become widely known as an entertainment critic specializing in radio and television.

From her home in west-central Montreal Mrs. Pearce daily turns out a radio and television column for the Montreal Star.

Known as a critic who praises or pans with equal vigor, Mrs. Pearce said in an interview she approaches each new program with an open mind and an almost naive excitement.

FRANK APPRAISAL

"I get a thrill of anticipation when a program is about to come on," she said. "There's a magic about those moments — like the period when the house - lights dim before the curtain goes up.

"It's afterwards that I often feel let-down and disappointed."

When she judges a program bad, she may use sarcasm. Of an interviewer she once wrote: "TV interviewing isn't, of course, a cakewalk, but it does help if the questioner listens as well as talks."

But she can be lavish in admiration: "Mary Martin — the United States singer - actress — possesses a radiance which slips by the mechanics of camera, mike and cathode tube and spills out of the screen in a shower of gaiety and sparkle, and, in a queer way, friendliness."

Belfast-born and twice married, Mrs. Patricia Pearce Fisher, who uses her first husband's name "because it sounds better," is a petite woman who looks much younger than her 42 years.

DISTINCTIVE MARK

Over her left eye, destroyed by infection some years ago, she wears a black patch in various materials to match her outfits.

A former feature writer for the London Daily Mirror, she arrived in Canada in 1940 with her daughter, and $2.50 in her pocket. While staying with relatives, she landed a job as secretary to S. Morgan Powell, The Star's literary editor.

That job shaped her career. For seven years, she worked with a man who was the acknowledged peer among Montreal critics.

Fourteen years later, in 1954, she wrote her first column for the now-defunct Montreal Herald. That was in the days when Canadian TV was in its infancy and the letters poured in.

"It seemed as though people had nowhere to air their views and took to writing their reviewer to get it off their minds," she said.

Three years later she retired from The Herald. When The Star offered her a job, she settled into her present routine.

SERIOUS CRITIC

Five hours a night, Mrs. Pearce knits and watches the shows or listens to radio, then types out her column—it takes about three hours—and turns in for the night.

"A critic's job," she says, "is not to force his own opinions on anyone but to be the conscience of whatever medium is being criticized—to measure the medium against ideal standards.

"A TV critic is a kind of referee between the producer, the sponsor and the public. He should also, I think, help to provoke the public into thinking of valid reasons for their preferences—reasons based on sound principles."

She doesn't mean she said, that everyone should be "highbrow" in their tastes.

"People shouldn't simply say, 'I liked that but I don't know why.' They should be able to say something like: 'The direction was good and the costumes appeared authentic'."

No determined high-brow herself, Mrs. Pearce reads science fiction and detective novels, loves classical music, ballet and ball games.

CBS Radio 'Answer, Please' Far From Being Quiz Show

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Possibly never before have so many Americans wanted to know so much about such a great variety of subjects.

One result of the growing desire for information is the emergence of Walter Cronkite on CBS radio in a program called Answer, Please! Definitely not a quiz program, it bravely undertakes to toss nubbins of knowledge into the cavernous maw of the public mind five nights a week from 7:30 to 7:45 p.m., EST.

The idea evolved naturally, Cronkite says, as a means of ansering questions which listeners ask the year around. By the second week after the program started letters has risen from 2,000 a week to a weekly 6,000.

Radio is a much better means of answering questions than a TV program, says the television-rael? (Plenty.)

How many miles has John Foster Dulles flown since he became secretary of state? (355,000 abroad, 71,000 in this country.) For whom was the Davis Cup named? (A man named Davis.)

The specific questions are a cinch. But when someone asks: "Will we ever get ahead of Russia? Who will reach the moon first? Will we ever have war again? When will we get our satellite up?" Cronkite eases out of it by replying:

"If I knew, I'd be working for the Pentagon instead of CBS radio."

seasoned Cronkite, because you can answer more questions more completely without making a production of each.

Thus far the predominating questions have concerned science in general and science in relation to world affairs. Next come questions about the machinery of the U.S. government and provisions of the constitution on various specific points.

There is widespread curiosity about the lives of other national and foreign leaders. Occasionally there are questions which are largely rhetorical, such as: "Why on earth do we want to go to the moon?" (Cronkite's answer: "Because it is there.")

Since the program began Cronkite has answered about 14 questions a broadcast, some of them at length. A random sampling shows such items as:

What has become of Vice President Nixon's dog Checkers? (He's still around and is okay.) What did David Ben-Gurion do before he became premier of Is-

Lasky Was Kindly Gentleman With Talent for Enthusiasm

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I think that if you put enough enthusiasm into anything, it eventually bears fruit, possibly in some other form, but it's never lost."

That was what Jesse Lasky wrote in his autobiography, "I blow my own horn," which he was publicizing just before he fell dead last week. And his words just about summed up the remarkable career of a kindly gentleman with a rare talent for enthusiasm.

Lasky's bland face, pince-nez glasses and friendly manner were a familiar sight in Hollywood since the town arose from the lemon groves. In the last two or three decades, he also became familiar for his pet projects, which he would promote until they reached the screen.

The guy just wouldn't give up.

He recalled looking out of his New York office window in 1919 to see the ticker-tape reception for Sgt. Alvin C. York, the First World War hero. Then the head of Famous Players-Lasky (later Paramount), the producer offered to buy the hero's life story for film.

York's reply: "My life is not for sale."

Twenty years later, the movie parade has passed Lasky by. Searching for a subject to make a comeback with, he remembered Sgt. York. After lengthy negotiations, they made a deal. Lasky signed a $25,000 cheque for half-payment on the film rights, then hurried home to borrow on his life insurance to cover the cheque.

Warner Brothers agreed to make the picture after hearing Lasky's argument that such a story would be a service to the U.S. as it prepared for war.

Sergeant York was a smash hit.

Another longtime Lasky project was a biography of Enrico Caruso. In his early days as a producer, he had made two movies with the great tenor. They were terrible flops, since the audiences couldn't hear the Caruso voice.

In 1945, Lasky met Caruso's widow at a New York film premiere. She had just written a book about her husband, and Lasky arranged to buy it.

For five years, he peddled the yarn to the major studios with no takers. Finally, MGM bought it as a vehicle for Mario Lanza. The Great Caruso broke all records at the Radio City Music Hall and made Lanza a world-wide star.

AT THE PARK — The wife of an American army officer who is charged with treason and aiding the enemy during the Korean conflict is portrayed by June Lockhart in United Artists' "Time Limit", starring Richard Widmark and Richard Basehart opening tonight at the Park Theatre. On the same program in CinemaScope and Color "The March Hare", a happy-go-lovely story, starring Peggy Cummins and Terrance Morgan. Both hits are first city showings.

AT THE PARK — Tough Soldier whose testimony is of the utmost significance in the court-martial of an officer accused of treason is played by the handsome Rip Torn in "Time Limit", starring Richard Widmark and Richard Basehart opening tonight at the Park Theatre for its first city showings. Added in CinemaScope and Color "The March Hare".

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Monday, January 20

Aries (March 21 to April 19)— Unsteady pal could truly undermine your confidence in yourself today and make you wonder if you are following the correct path. Show your friendliness, be appreciative of advice, use your own mind.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)— Though tempted to go against established rules, stick instead to labor that will relieve you quickly of obligations made, come through with promises and raise your prestige and gain good will of worthy individuals.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)— While it will require a great deal of will power, you must today put aside all thought of going off on a little spree with someone who fascinates you. Get business, regular work done with fine efficiency instead.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)— You feel that by showing off quite a bit today you gain something worthwhile or can impress somebody to go along with you. Real affection and values cannot be bought cheaply, so be yourself and remain steadfast, poised instead.

Leo July 22 to Aug. 21) — A high-powered individual could give you quite a raking over the coals today if you are not prepared to act in a most civilized, calm, cool fashion. Be generaus in spirit, kind and master of the situation.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — This is one day when a soft pedal on temperament will save you from a possible accident, ruination of fine clothing, damaging auto quite badly, etc. Speak quietly, soothingly, though angry, and be at your cleverest.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — A passing fancy has you wanting to throw many of your hard-earned dollars to the winds. Think of making more money instead, and in P.M. you can enjoy yourself thoroughly at some fine recreation which costs little.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Take care not to use that biting quality in your speech that crops us once in a while or home life will become a bitter thing. It's a hard day for everyone, remember. Let yours be the smile that helps, soothes.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Be particularly careful while out driving this day or evening. And be sure to count your change when out doing errands, too. The air is charged with pessimism today and all sorts of little annoyances could pique you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Your mind is just buzzing with elaborate ideas today for getting rich quick. Be practical and safe. Consult with your financial, spiritual advisors instead and follow their advice, which will be splendid today.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — You sorely want to run away from any commitments you have made today or from some irritating persons. Stand your ground instead and handle everything with perfect poise, extremely fine skill and then you win.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)— Here is a day when you are so confined with all kinds of strange yet oddly fascinating situations which lead you nowhere. Be indulgent, kind and you truly get out of things nicely, do not hurt self or others.

If your child is born today . . . The child born today will be convinced that the best way to get ahead is to rub other persons' fur the wrong way. Yours will be the duty to early teach that more flies are caught with honey than with acid, and life is so much more pleasant, to boot. Hence, you save self many unhappy moments with others, too, and your gifted child will channel fine energy toward the constructive and very worthwhile.

TESTS FOR ALLERGIES

CLEVELAND (AP) — Blood tests which reveal the cause of many allergies were described here by Dr. Bram Rose, assistant professor of medicine at McGill University. He said his work still is experimental and the testing process may not be in general use until it is simplified. The tests, he said, expose ragweed, grass, dust, foods and even penicillin as allergy agents.

GRAHAM HOPEFUL

MIAMI (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham said Sunday he believes the Russian government some day will give him permission to preach the gospel in the Soviet Union. Graham, who leaves this week for a five-week preaching tour in the Caribbean, said the Baptists of Russia have invited him to that country "but the government has not yet given us permission. My personal opinion is that some day they will."

SARAH GRACEFUL IN HER APOLOGY

In court at Malibu, Calif., actress Sarah Churchill, daughter of Sir Winston, apologized for "causing any inconvenience," arising out of the incident in which she was arrested and charged with drunkenness. She was fined $50, and the judge commented that her apology was accepted without rancor. He said that, in accordance with American jurisprudence inherited from British law, she was fined the same amount, no more and no less, than anyone else charged with the same offence.

CALL FOR STRIKE

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Foes of President Marcos Perez Jiminez have called for a general strike in Caracas in a frontal assault against the government. Leaflets urging the walkout at noon Tuesday were scattered in the capital Saturday night by an underground organization which calls itself Junta Patriotica.

Skating Makes A Come-Back

Always a popular sport among the younger generation, skating is rapidly finding favor with mother and dad. On Sunday afternoons many families can be seen enjoying themselves on the Belleville bay and harbor and on the many frozen ponds throughout the district. Booth Radio and Television Ltd. have even gone so far as to set up lights at their Marina so that skating can be carried on long after supper when all the family can be together. It's a sport that they can all enjoy together and it pays off in rosy cheeks and a healthy appetite.

Besides bringing the family together, it's an inexpensive pass-time! Booth Radio and Television Ltd., 170 Front St., Belleville, will outfit the entire family with skates — from toddlers to mom and dad — with no money down and payments as low as 50c a week. They also have a good selection of used skates priced from $1.50 up for the budget shopper. — (ADVT.)

HOOTING INDIANS

Most of the Robeson Indians are Lumbees. The state legislature gave them that name about five years ago at the Indians' request. Previously, they were known as the Cherokee Indians of Robeson County. Lumbee is taken from the Lumber River in the region.

Race relations in Robeson have been generally peaceful. But Indians were aroused last week by the cross burnings. One was in front of the home of an Indian woman who was reported dating a white married man.

The other was burned in a white neighborhood where an Indian family had occupied a house. Klansmen were quoted as saying the burnings were a warning to Indians. The Saturday rally was reported to be a final warning to Indians to watch their step.

INDIANS A-COMING

After both groups gathered, a white - hooded Klansman appeared at a microphone. Klansmen rushed toward an electric light illuminating the field and encircling Indians herded them in.

Suddenly an Indian smashed the bulb with his rifle barrel. "Start shootin' boys" a voice cried from the darkness.

Gunfire crashed in the night—shotguns, pistols and rifles.

The crowd scattered, racing for the safety of their cars.

State highway patrolmen cleared the field and escorted Klan cars through the jeering Indians, who slammed at the cars with guns and sticks as they passed.

Then the Indians carried off the Klan banner and a Klan cross and held their own rally. They burned the cross and hanged an effigy of Cole.

ARREST KLANSMAN

One arrest was made—a self-acknowledged Klansman, James Garfield Martin, found lying in a ditch. He was charged with carrying a concealed weapon and public drunkenness.

Cole, a freewill Baptist minister, said the whole thing was a misunderstanding.

He said the iross burnings

He said the cross burnings were not aimed at Indians at all.

"That woman was breaking up a married man's home. It would have been the same if she had been a Negro or a white woman. The other cross was burned in front of a white home, a block away from the Indian family. There were social reasons too. Nothing to do with the race."

FUCHS REACHES

Hillary and Dufek had flown to the pole to be on hand for the arrival.

The hearty exchange of greetings appeared to discount reports of coolness between Hillary and Fuchs. These spread when the New Zealander, after reaching the pole, recommended that Fuchs not try to make the trans-Antarctic crossing. Fuchs replied he would complete his mission.

Hillary had started out from Scott Base, on the New Zealand side on the pole, with a New Zealand party, establishing a chain of depots to supply Fuchs after he passed the pole. He was to wait for Fuchs at the last depot, 500 miles from the pole, but when bad weather and poor travelling conditions delayed the Britons, Hillary and four others pushed on to the pole.

Fuchs' party was the fourth in history to reach the South Pole by land.

Roald Amundsen of Norway made the first successful trek, reaching the pole Dec. 14, 1911. Travelling by dog sledge, he beat out Capt. Robert F. Scott of the royal navy who arrived an. 17, 1912. Hillary, with his four-man New Zealand party, was the third.

COMMONS WAITS

Mr. Pearson, after he officially takes over today from Louis St. Laurent as leader of the Opposition, will be able to propose non-confidence in the government in an amendment to a supply motion. A vote would be taken Tuesday night.

Works Minister Howard Green, government House leader, formally announced the supply motion for Monday at the conclusion of Saturday's sitting.

Stanley Knowles, deputy CCF leader, asked what the business will be for Wednesday "if we're still here."

Mr. Green said "under present conditions that's rather a long way ahead."

LIBERALS ABSENT

During the Saturday sitting there was a noticeable dearth of high-echelon Liberals and total attendance in the Commons ranged between 40 and 60 members.

Mr Green said the target date for ending the session, begun Oct. 14, is the end of this month. This week, he said, the government will seek approval to add Monday and Tuesday sittings of two hours each to the present 39-hour Commons work week.

CCF Leader Coldwell said the Commons probably could make more progress if it reverted to normal hours of 25½ hours a week. He suggested that members might be too worn out to face an election if one comes soon.

His mention of an election was the only reference to the possibility that the session could end not with completion of its work but with defeat of the minority Progressive Conservative government.

Test Jap Jet

jet plane successfully passed its first test flight Sunday at the Utsunomiya airfield some 100 miles north of Tokyo.

The secret test was conducted by the Japan defence agency and the Fuji Heavy Industries, producers of the new aircraft, who said the plane was capable of travelling 778 miles an hour.

FISHING'S FINE

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A frustrated burglar went bank-fishing here and went home with at least $1,893. Police said the burglar apparently fished through a safe's deposit slot with a length of wire and hooked some of the contents.

PREDICTS REVOLT AGAINST BATISTA

Dr. Manuel Urrutia, Cuban judge slated to be provisional president of Cuba in the event of the overthrow of the regime of President Fulgencia Batista, told a press conference at the offices of the Inter-American Association for Democracy and Freedom in New York, he estimated that today 90 per cent of Cuba's civilian population are opposed to the Batista regime and he predicted that the Batista government would probably suffer a sudden collapse. Dr. Urrutia was selected for the provisional president by all parties opposed to Batista.

Ontario Lists Only Five Deaths From Accidents

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There were at least 18 accidental deaths throughout Canada during the weekend. Two traffic deaths occurred in Western Canada and 10 in snow-and rain-swept Eastern Canada where road travel was treacherous.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m local time Friday to midnight Sunday showed four drownings—three of them attributed to a Maritime storm — one man killed by a falling tree and one dead in an accidental shooting.

Three provinces reported no fatalities: Prince Edward Island, Manitoba and British Columbia.

Ontario had five, four of them traffic deaths and one a boy who fell through ice and was drowned near Hamilton.

Two drownings in Nova Scotia brought that province's weekend total to four. Two were killed in Quebec had three traffic fatal- traffic accidents. ities during the same period.

Ontario deaths:

At Hamilton Christopher Angelopoulos, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andreas Angelopoulos, was drowned Sunday when he plunged through ice on Redhill Creek.

Witnesses said the boy tumbled through soft ice as he ran toward a group of youngsters skating further up the creek.

Police said Denny Mitchell, 13, slid a hockey stick toward the struggling boy and Robert Curry, 16, attempted to crawl toward him but broke through. He was pulled out by a companion.

Curry took off his skates, plunged into the 10-foot deep water and smashed his way through the ice to the boy.

"He was out of sight, but I grabbed him when he came up," Curry said. Towing the child he reached the bank and was helped out by motorists flagged down by younger children.

DIES IN CRASH

Mrs. Olive Pirie, 57, of Dundas was killed Sunday in a two-car collision at Toronto.

Mrs. Pirie, a passenger in a car driven by her daughter, Sylvia, 28, was thrown from the car after it was hurled against a Hydro pole. Miss Pirie suffered cuts.

Police said the Pirie car collided with one driven by Gus Mame, 20, of Toronto. His father, Gregory, was a passenger. Both were treated for minor injuries.

Clair Ackers, of Stirling, was killed Saturday night when his car slammed into the rear of a parked hydro truck on Highway 33, 10 miles north of Belleville.

Police said the truck driver had stopped to help a motorist whose car had stalled.

Ackers was the father of two small children.

Veikko Flink, 26, was struck by a car as he walked along the highway at Sault Ste. Marie.

Garry Compeau, 18, of Gananoque died in a level-crossing crash near Ottawa.

NEUTRALIST CALL

BELGRADE (AP) — President Sukarno of Indonesia joined President Tito Sunday in declaring neutralist nations "ca considerably contribute to international co - operation and to strengthening of peace." The two presidents called for a halt to "the senseless armament race and the perfecting of weapons of colossal destructive power."

BLAST KILLS THREE

BAYTOWN, Tex. (AP) — An earth-shaking blast, followed by flames leaping 75 feet into the air, killed three men Sunday at the United Rubber and Chemical Company plant. Firemen controlled the blaze 90 minutes after the explosion.

KEEP PEACE IN NASSAU

Some of the 150 British soldiers, flown into strike-bound Nassau from Jamaica, are shown in a truck shortly after their arrival in the Bahamas capital. Armed guards patrolled strategic points of Nassau. All Canadian and U.S. tourists have returned home after a series of street demonstrations by strikers. Hotels shut down and businesses were at a complete standstill as a result of the walkouts.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Mr. Mac Sine had the misfortune of having his car burned quite badly on Wednesday night. The Belleville fire brigade was called and the fire was put out before it made much headway.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Striker spent a day, recently, with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Spencer.

Mrs. Frank Harris attended the funeral of her brother, Mr. Walter Langabeer, of Apple Hill, Ont., on Monday last. Mr. Langabeer passed away at the Cornwall hospital on January 10. He suffered a severe stroke a few days before. The funeral service was held in the United Church at Apple Hill with the Rev. J. Brownlee officiating.

A number of Wallbridge W.I. members attended the meeting at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. McMullen on Thursday night.

Master Dale Pound is spending a week with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris.

The C.G.I.T. Club met in the church hall on Tuesday night, with a good attendance and leaders, Mrs. McMullen and Mrs. J. Sine. Also at choir practice, over 20 young people were present. It is hoped they will take an interest in this work as it is great training for the young people. Mrs. J. Sine is pianist and Mrs. Morley Phillips choir leader for the new year.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Sine called on Mr. and Mrs. Ted Evans on Tuesday evening.

LAYOFF AT KITIMAT

KITIMAT, B.C. (CP) — The Aluminum Company of Canada said Thursday it will lay off about 60 men during the next three weeks and reduce production capacity of its huge smelting plant here. Reduced rate of expansion of aluminum markets, as a result of the general business slowdown, was blamed for the curtailment.

PROVIDES SERVICE

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's socialized health system admits it may be providing an artificial in- mination service — even though the Church of England calls such a method "a sin." A health ministry spokesman said Saturday a woman wishing a child by A.I.D. (artificial insemination by donor) could use socialized medicine facilities if her doctor considers it necessary for her health.

Election Question Must Be Decided By Prime Minister

Liberal Motion Unlikely To Defeat Government

OTTAWA (CP)—If Prime Minister Diefenbaker wants an early election he'll have to ask for it himself.

That became apparent in the Commons Monday when the new Opposition leader, Lester B. Pearson, presented a non-confidence motion in effect asking that the Liberals be returned to government power without an election.

Both CCF Leader Coldwell and Social Credit Leader Low said Mr. Pearson must have known their two parties wouldn't vote for that.

Mr. Diefenbaker, in a biting criticism of the Liberals, called the motion an "utter sham" which was designed to be rejected. He said the Liberal party, "saturated by fear of what the electorate would do to it," was afraid to defeat the minority Progressive Conservative government.

Mr. Pearson, amid Liberal cheers and Conservative catcalls, said an election now wouldn't help solve the unemployment problem. But if one came "we will be ready for it."

He also said the Liberals "intend to continue to give the government a chance to bring in legislation to implement their promises as long as this session continues and they are in office."

That statement made it evident the Liberals will not support a CCF non-confidence motion presented by Mr. Coldwell which, if adopted, would force an election.

Votes on the Liberal and CCF motions will be held at 8:15 p.m. EST tonight. But both appear slated for rejection. To defeat the government, the Liberals would have to team up with the CCF or Social Credit—or both.

That leaves the question of a snap election up to Mr. Diefenbaker. His speech Monday did not call for an election. But if he wants one it is possible he could argue that continuation of his present position is impossible because now all opposition parties have presented motions of non-confidence in the government this session—the Liberals for the first time Monday.

The Conservatives, with 113 of the 265 Commons seats, have retained office since the session began Oct. 14 only because of support from the 106-member Liberal party. There are 25 CCF, 19 Social Credit and two Independ-

Mayor Dickerson Wants Handout From Province

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Merle Dickerson of North Bay said Monday if Toronto obtains a provincial grant for its proposed second subway the rest of the province should also get a handout.

If the Ontario government gives the city a $50,000,000 grant for the east-west subway, the rest of Ontario should get $150,000,000, he said.

Mr. Dickerson is in Toronto for the Jan. 25 executive meeting of the Ontario Association of Mayors and Municipalities of which he is president.

"The subway doesn't mean a thing to the rest of Ontario," he said. "But if the province wants to help Toronto, they should help the other municipalities at the same time. If Toronto is the only municipality to benefit people will start calling in Hogtown again."

WON'T COMMENT

Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto, the association's second vice - president, said he didn't want to comment publicly on the assistance issue, which would probably come up at the executive meeting.

The meeting will discuss a brief to be presented to Premier Frost.

The brief is expected to ask for more aid for education, more money for highway construction, a lower interest rate on municipal loans so municipalities can start works programs and a joint provincial - municipal conference to help Ontario communities resolve their problems.

May Provide 4,000 Jobs in New Program

OTTAWA (CP) — Between 2,000 and 4,000 jobs are expected to be provided under a new federal-provincial winter works program of building highway campgrounds and picnic sites, Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton said Monday.

He said in the Commons that nine provinces—all except Quebec now have agreed to take part in the plan, under which the federal government will pay half the costs of work done up to the end of May.

The government had planned to ask Parliament for $1,000,000 for this program, and another $1,000,000 to pay half the costs of forest access roads built by the provinces up to the end of June.

Mr. Hamilton said these figures may be slightly exceeded.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: An intense disturbance is causing widespread snow and rain over the Central United States as far northward as the lower Great Lakes. This precipitation area will spread through most of Ontario today occurring as snow, changing to rain in southern sections but mainly snow occasionally heavy over the remainder of the province. Increasing winds will cause extensive drifting in snow areas where an accumulation of four to eight inches is likely.

Colder weather will return to the province Wednesday with snow gradually changing to flurries but strong winds will continue, causing widespread drifting.

Slew Cats, Chickens, Then Mother, Sault Boy Found Unfit for Trial

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—A 15-year-old boy who told psychiatrists he satisfied his urge to kill in the past by killing cats or chickens has been found unfit to stand trial for the murder of his mother.

The verdict for Anthony James Mumpfort was returned Monday by an assize jury after the court heard two provincial psychiatrists say they believed the youth lived in a world of fantasy and was unable to distinguish between his dream world and real life.

Mumpfort was arrested last Nov. 5 after his mother Mrs. Patricia Murphy, 33, was found dead of a beating and stab wounds, and his three-year-old sister Rosalie had died in hospital after being beaten with a blunt instrument.

Their bodies were found by Mrs. Murphy's husband, Gordon Murphy, 32, when he returned home from a hunting trip. Another child, 10-month-old Linda, was sleeping and unharmed.

Mumpfort was arrested the next day near Parry Sound on Georgian Bay, 53 miles north of Orillia, when the Murphy family car was wrecked in a police chase.

Mr. Justice Leo Landreville of the Supreme Court of Ontario referred the question of the boy's mental fitness to the jury, and told them later he agreed with their verdict.

The boy was remanded in custody awaiting the pleasure of the lieutenant-governor. He will be placed under supervision in an institution, Mr. Justice Landreville said.

The court heard testimony by Dr. Walter Weber and Dr. Kenneth W. Runnals of the Ontario Hospital at North Bay. Included was the youth's statement he had an urge to kill for the last two years or so, but had been able to satisfy it by killing animals, such as cats or chicken.

Dr. Runnals said the boy was of above - average intelligence, but "was busy making up stories of the gangster type in which he plays the leader. . . . He told me a week ago he would like to be credited with a number of murders himself — that would make him a kind of hero."

Dr. Weber said the fact Mumpfort was in jail did not seem to bother him and the boy had been continuing to make up stories while in custody.

MUST NOT MAKE SECURITY ISSUE IN U.S. VOTING

Eisenhower Says U.S. Defence Strong

CHICAGO (AP) — President Eisenhower says the United States is strong militarily "and will grow ever stronger"—and that national security must be barred as a political issue in this year's congressional election campaigns.

The president also told a $100-a-plate Republican dinner rally and a coast-to-coast television-radio audience Monday night that American defence is markedly stronger than when he took office five years ago.

Eisenhower again pledged effective modernization of the defence setup to deal more adequatly with the Russian threat in the future. And he told applauding party followers that in the modernization program "I intend to participate personally until the job is done."

The president, with Mrs. Eisenhower at his side, spoke for 15 minutes before about 5,000 enthusiastic diners at Chicago's International Amphitheatre at the start of his sixth year in office.

His talk—carried by TV to more than 40 other party fund-raising dinners around the country—kicked off the 1958 Republican drive to capture control of Congress from the Democrats.

Near the outset of his address the president said the first Republican objective—security and a just peace—is not a partisan or political matter.

"Americans must never and will never let the issue of security and peace become a pawn in anyone's political chess game."

Some Democrats — and some Republicans—have contended in this election year and in this dawning space era that U.S. security is being imperilled.

Even as Eisenhower spoke, his chief aide, Sherman Adams, was accusing Democrats of "politicking with national defence." And Adams, saying the Democrats ought to be called strictly to account by the American people, asserted further:

"We Republicans greet the Opposition on this battlefield with as much anticipation as any other they can conjure up."

So it appears that again the president may remain relatively aloof in the give-and-take of political warfare while Adams and other party stalwarts stnd ready to do the slugging.

Clash With Turks

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — British troops clashed today with demonstrators outside the home of Turkish leader Fazil Kutchuk.

Turkish women joined in the fray, trying to hold back the troops, as demonstrators shouted "We don't want governor (Sir Hugh) Foot."

The troops were armed with rifles and riot shields.

Kutchuk is at present in Turkey.

Family of Banker Hostages While Deposit Boxes Rifled

SOUTH MOUNTAIN, Ont. (CP) A gang of at least four masked men Monday night trussed up a bank manager's family, forced the manager to take them to his bank and then escaped with safety-deposit-box loot after a lookout pistol-whipped a passerby. passerby.

Police and manager Ivan Keays of the Bank of Nova Scotia branch in this village 30 miles south of Ottawa said it would take time to evaluate the loss. The number of boxes rifled was not disclosed, but reports varied between nine and 16, of 78 in the branch's strongroom.

The gang's efforts to force Mr. Keays to open the branch's vault failed when he said the numbers to open its split-combination lock were divided between him and another employee.

Three men, with women's silk stockings covering their heads and faces, had arrived at the Keays home at 9 p.m. and herded Mrs. Keays, their son Harry, 7, and Mrs. Bertha Merkby, 70 — Mrs. Keays' mother — into the living-room.

Mr. Keays was at a church meeting and the trio watched television with the family to while away the time until his return. Mrs. Keays said pistols kept the family covered throughout.

"They were very polite and they kept joking, apparently to keep us calm," she said.

Just after 11 p.m. the 50-year-old bank manager returned home and was ordered at pistol-point to take the group to the bank—100 yards distant and on the opposite side of the street.

Foiled of entry into the vault, the men ordered Mr. Keays to open the strongroom. Two more men then entered with electric drill equipment, he said, and took 40 minutes to open the undisclosed number of deposit boxes.

Meanwhile, Andrew Kenney of nearby Winchester, Ontario, was undergoing the second of two pistol-whippings by a lookout.

Mr. Kenney, driving through the village en route home, noticed the man, who appeared muffled against the cold. Stopping to ask whether he could help, Mr. Kenney was told, "My French car has broken down and I'm looking for a 'garage man.'"

The stranger refused an offer of help, however, saying he could manage.

Suspicious, Mr. Kenney drove around the block. As he neared the bank a second time a 1952 model automobile pulled out and cut him off.

A masked man left the car ordered Kenney from his car and whacked him over the head several times with the pistol.

Mr. Kenney staggered to a telephone pole, to which he clung for support, and the man went over and again beat him over the head, sending him to the ground, semi-conscious.

Mr. Keays said his bonds were loosely tied and he freed himself within 10 minutes. Running from the bank to telephone police from his own home, he discovered Mr. Kenney and took him to a neighboring home.

Think Alberta Mother Shot Husband and Four Children

BROWNFIELD, Alta. (CP) — RCMP officers continued their investigation today into six deaths that wiped out a farm family near this hamlet 120 miles southeast of Edmonton.

The bodies of Melvin Hudson and his four children were found dead in bed, each shot to death with a .22-calibre rifle.

The body of the wife was found in the garage. The RCMP at Edmonton said she committed suicide and coroner Dr. J. C. O'Brien of Coronation, Alta., said she died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

The RCMP at Edmonton said Mrs. Hudson had suffered for some time from a nervous condition.

Dr. O'Brien said no inquest will be held into the deaths, which occurred Saturday night or early Sunday.

The first indication that something might be wrong came Monday morning when the Hudson children did not take the school bus.

The bus stopped while a 16-year-old cousin, a daughter of Fred Hudson, a brother of Melvin, went into the house and found a light on and the house cold.

She returned to the bus and bus driver Gabriel Neyrinck concluded the family was out of town. He drove on to school.

The girl talked to her father after school and the father telephoned two other Hudson brothers, Jim and Ray. Ray, who lives about one mile from the Melvin Hudson home, went there and found the bodies.

The report released at Edmonton by the RCMP said the Coronation detachment did not give any other details, such as the childrens' names and ages.

Pope Makes Stinging Attack On Birth Control Advocates

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Birth control is one of the most deplorable aspects of modern society, the Pope has said in a speech published today.

Talking to the Italian Association of Large Families, whom he Pope Pius declared:

"Among the most harmful aberrations of modern society is the opinion held by some people who dare to define matrimonial fecundity as a social illness of which stricken nations should make every effort to cure themselves.

"From this opinion emerges the propagandizing of so-called 'rational birth control' by persons and institutions authoritative for other reasons, but in this respect deplorable.

'Particularly deplorable are those parts of the press which from time to time publish articles with the manifest intention of confusing the ideas of good people and drawing them into error with lying documentation, questionable inquiries and even falsified statements attributed to this or that priest.

"Catholics should insist in their efforts to spread the conviction, founded on truth, that the physical and moral health of the family and society can be guarded only by generous obedience to the laws of nature, that is the laws of the creator.

"The laws (against birth control) can be multiplied, the penalties made heavier and the folly of birth control theories and the harm that the practices can cause can be demonstrated with irrefutable proof. .. ."

Large families, far from being a "social illness," were a guarantee of the physical and moral health of a people.

"Over-population is no valid reason for the spreading of illicit birth control practices.

"It is the pretext put forward to legitimize the avarice and egoism both of nations which fear that the expansion of other nations will threaten their political hegemony and tenor of life, and of individuals who prefer to enjoy the goods of the earth rather than the merits of producing new life."

Instead of preaching birth control, modern society should "apply itself more resolutely and universally to correcting its own conduct and removing the causes of hunger in depressed and over-populated regions."

Resort Owners Ask Relaxation Of Liquor Laws

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's tourist resort owners are asking the provincial government to relax liquor laws and make more money available for loans to resort builders.

At the annual meeting Monday the president of the Association of Tourist Resorts of Ontario, H. G. Rumble, said some resorts have encountered difficulties in booking conventions because of liquor laws.

GOVT. REVERSES DECISION ON CANADA HOUSE

Now Plans to Lease Space in Skyscrapers

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has reversed its decision not to occupy Canada House in New York and now plans to lease space in the skyscraper, subject to certain conditions.

External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith Monday told the Commons external affairs committee that the government's position has changed as a result of a statement to the committee Friday by millionaire William Zeckendorf, New York City realtor.

Mr. Zeckendorf, who has a 50-per-cent interest in the $11,000,000 Manhattan building said he is prepared to give his equity to Canada once he recovers his investment. A similar undertaking was given by 28 other Canadian and United States sponsors of the 27-storey building when the project was launched in 1953 as a Canadian headquarters in New York

The new Progressive Conservative government notified backers of the project in November that it had decided not to lease space in the building, reversing the announced intention of the former Liberal government.

BASED ON CANADIAN ASPECT

Mr. Smith said Monday the former administration's letter of intent to occupy was based on the Canadian aspect of the building in regard to financing and occupancy and on an understanding there would be light on three sides of the project.

However, acquisition by Mr. Zeckendorf's business firm of Webb and Knapp Inc. of a 50-per-cent interest meant the building would no longer be controlled and managed by a Canadian group. The government also had been informed that Canada House did not have air rights below 150 feet.

But Mr. Smith said that as a result of Mr. Zeckendorf's statement Friday the government no longer regards Canada House as "merely a commercial undertaking." It also had been informed that Canada House has bought the air rights above 150 feet from the Museum of Modern Arts for $250,000.

While the government still regarded as serious the liability of Canada House to provide light on the west side of the building up to a level of 150 feet, it was prepared on the basis of Mr. Zeckendorf's statement to negotiate a lease.

Mr. Smith said space must be available by April 30, the date government departments must vacate Rockefeller Centre. The rent must be no greater than the rate at which comparable space was being offered to other prospective tenants.

If space were leased, all Canadian government departments in New York would move into Canada House. The only exception would be the permanent delegation to the United Nations, which would occupy space at 750 Third Avenue.

Future of Unborn Baby of Refugee May Raise Storm in British House

LONDON (Reuters) — The future of an unborn baby was expected to be the major topic of debate as Parliament re-assembled today after its month-long Christmas recess.

A statement on the government's attitude towards the unborn baby and its Hungarian refugee parents could overshadow the great international and domestic events of the day.

The mother-to-be is 29-year-old Mrs. Julia Farkas, one of a group of 11 Hungarian refugees who were refused permission to settle in Britain. The government action has aroused a storm of protest from the Labor Opposition.

The refugees, three families, came here as stowaways from Brazil last week. The home office ordered their return by the first available ship.

The three husbands, after trying to escape, were jailed, and their families put into hostels. Mrs. Farkas, however, was told that she and her three children may stay in Britain until the baby is born.

Home office officials have admitted since that the baby will have the right of British citizenship and will be therefore immune from a deportation order.

The government attitude is that the Hungarians went voluntarily to Brazil and can no longer be regarded as refugees.

Anthony Greenwood, a leading Labor MP, has met the Hungarian husbands and Monday appealed to Home Secretary R. A. Butler for their release from jail.

Apart from the problem of the refugees, the government will be tackled by the opposition this week on recent ministerial resignations and its Cyprus policy.

An economic debate on Thursday will centre on the resignations during the recess of Peter Thorneycroft as chancellor of the exchequer and his two junior treasury ministers.

They quit in protest against rising government spending.

Diefenbaker Note To Bulganin Says Welcome Mat Out

Adequate Assurances Of Results Prerequisite

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker has informed Russia that if the major powers agree on an East-West summit meeting they are welcome to hold it in Canada.

It was learned authoritatively today that this was one of the points contained in Mr. Diefenbaker's reply to the Dec. 13 letter of Premier Nikolai Bulganin. The Canadian reply was delivered to the Russian Embassy here during the weekend and is scheduled to be tabled in the Commons later today.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that, if the major powers decide that they are ready to hold a summit meeting and would like to hold it in Canada, this country would welcome them.

However, he made it clear that Canada would not extend formal invitations for a summit meeting, at least before one was formally agreed upon.

ADEQUATE ASSURANCES

The prime minister's letter mentions that Canada is a next-door neighbor of both the United States and Russia and has a special relationship to the Commonwealth and France.

On the convening of a summit meeting, Mr. Diefenbaker said there must be adequate assurances that there would be beneficial results. This would entail careful advance preparation.

Mr. Diefenbaker's reply in this regard was substantially the same as that made by President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan.

Mr. Diefenbaker also said that a group of Canadian businessmen may visit Russia to promote trade and that the Canadian government would be willing to associate itself with such an undertaking.

MORE EXCHANGE VISITS

The prime minister expressed himself as in favor of more Russian-Canadian exchange visits in the commercial and cultural field.

Some Canadian businessmen, representing particularly the steel and lumber industries, have already visited Russia.)

Mr. Diefenbaker's 7½ page letter also said that the problem of disarmament is a matter of deep concern to the Canadian government. It expressed extreme concern that Russia is boycotting the new United Nations disarmament commission.

The prime minister said that his reply to Bulganin's Jan. 10 letter would follow in due course. This Russian letter proposed that a summit meeting be held in the next two or three months.

Bench Warrant Issued for Mine Promoter

TORONTO (CP)—A bench warrant for the arrest of Lyle Francis Smith, 37, former president of Canadian All-Metals Explorations Limited, was issued Monday when he failed to appear in court here.

Smith was to have appeared on a charge of fraud and two of making false statements regarding the company's uranium property in the Haliburton-Bancroft uranium field near Marmora, Ont.

He was charged with fraudulently affecting the market price of Canadian All-Metals stocks and shares between May, 1955 and March 1, 1956, with making a false statement with intent to induce persons to buy stock in the firm, and with making a false statement with intent to deceive the company shareholders. The company is not listed on the Toronto stock exchange.

Soviet Proposes Atom-Free Zone In Middle East

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet Union tonight proposed that the Middle East, including the Baghdad Pact countries, should become a zone free of nuclear and rocket launching sites—"a zone of good neighborliness."

The Baghdad Pact powers cover the West's "northern tier" defence of the Middle East stretching from Turkey to Pakistan. Its other members are Iran, Iraq and Britain.

Tonight's proposal came in an authorized statement from the official Soviet news agency Tass. It came just as the Baghdad Pact countries, with the United States as an observer, were holding committee meetings in Ankara in advance of a full pact conference starting next Monday.

Russia had embraced previously the Polish proposal for an atom-free zone through Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

BARBERSHOPPERS ENJOY VISIT

After much preparation, the Belleville Barbershop Chorus set out for Kingston last Saturday night in a bus to take part in the first Kingston Harmony night. The fellows left about 6:45 p.m. Saturday and returned early Sunday. It was a wonderful show and a lot of hoarse throats the following morning can vouch for the fact that there was lots of singing.

Also in attendance was the Ottawa Barbershop Chorus and several well known quartets. The Kingston Chapter is certainly off to a good start and the Belleville boys are glad that they had a part in it.

The next regular meeting of the Belleville Chorus is tomorrow night at 8:30 p.m. in the lower auditorium of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Church. Any man who enjoys singing and harmonizing is cordially invited to come out and join in the fun.

Council Moves to Carry Out Electorate's Wishes on City Manager, Member Reduction

Belleville city council at its first regular meeting of the new year last night moved to carry out the wishes of the electorate at the last municipal election when it voted to have application made to the provincial legislature for a private bill ratifying city manager form of government and also for the reduction of council from 14 to eight members.

A by-law covering both questions saw majority approval from councillors and it will be later presented to the legislature for approval.

Discussions on the by-law took up most of the time during the session with practically every alderman voicing opinion on the matter. All but one alderman approved of the by-law section dealing with the city manager, but there was stronger opposition to the section asking for the reduction of council to eight members.

Mayor Gerald B. Hyde explained the election procedure should the council reduction be granted by the legislature. He said that at the next election seven aldermen would be elected for a one-year term. Then in December 1959 all aldermen would be out of office and there would be an election for eight aldermen with four to serve for one year and four to serve for two years.

Following this four aldermen would be elected each year.

FIVE OPPOSE MOVE

Opposing the reduction of council to eight aldermen and a mayor from the present 14 aldermen were Aldermen Douglas Moxam, Claude D. Tice, Frank Grandame, Robertson Collins and Mrs. Effie McCabe.

Their consensus was that the move was premature with possible added acreage to be added to the city as result of the city's annexation application, also that the people were not well enough informed before being asked to vote on the referendum which was carried only by 287 votes.

"I don't see why a reduced council is needed," Alderman Moxam said, declaring that all wards in the city should be represented on council.

Alderman C. D. Tice said it was not fair to reduce council before the report on the annexation application was received from the municipal board.

"Leave it as it is until we find out where we are going," he urged. "If we get annexation 14 council members will not be too many."

"I don't like to vote against the will of the people but in this instance I will have to," he said.

Alderman Frank Grandame said there were too many problems confronting the city and said he was opposed to reduction of council membership. The move was premature with annexation in the offing, he said.

ENTIRE BY-LAW SUPERFLUOUS CLAIM

Also speaking against the reduction of council was Alderman Robertson Collins, who declared that the entire by-law was superfluous.

He said a private bill was not needed for the city to have a city manager. The city has had a city manager for a year and a half and according to Alderman Collins endorsation of the by-law might make it difficult at some future date for the city to vest itself of some "not too desirable" individual as city manager.

He felt that council would be doing a disservice to the people in endorsing the by-law.

Speaking against the proposed reduction in council he said that with the city manager form of government council had vested itself of standing committees, yet it was bringing in new committees at the rate of one a month.

He noted that a traffic committee, a parking committee and also a planning committee had been set up within council.

"About the only committees we lack are the two important ones of finance and public works," he said.

He admitted that the referendum of the people should not be ignored but in opposing the by-law he felt he was acting in the best interests of the people.

At the outset of the meeting George DeVuyst urged council to take no action with respect to reducing council. He noted that the question had been defeated by the electors only in 1955 and said reduction of council would further reduce ward representation in council.

VOICES APPROVAL

Ald. Les Digby in voicing his approval of council reduction, agreed the matter had been defeated two years ago but pointed out this had been before city manager form of government had been introduced.

At the last election the question had been placed on the basis of city managership form of government and had been approved.

He said he had wholly supported the reduction and even if he had opposed it, he would have now felt duty bound to carry out the wishes of the electorate.

Referring to representation by population he said that even with eight aldermen Belleville would have greater representation than Toronto where council membership totals 25 for a population of about 750,000.

Alderman William Argue said he had opposed council reduction, which he said "was a foolish thing" but now must abide by the wishes of the electorate.

"I am duty bound to vote for the council reduction," he said

Alderman Robert Temple took the same attitude. With expected increase in area as result of annexation he said a larger, not smaller, council, was needed.

"But the question was placed before the taxpayers. "I don't agree, but the people have spoken," he said.

WILL ASK FOR VOTE

He said, however, that he would try to have the matter of reduction of council again placed before the electors at the next election.

Alderman Don Whalen said the issue at the last election had been 'confusing" but nevertheless he would support the reduction. He said it had been unfortunate that the referendum had been taken before the annexation report had been received.

Alderman Ralph Graham also said he was opposed to council reduction but said council had no alternative than to carry out the wishes of the electorate and pass the by-law.

Naming over the many committees and boards on which council had members, Ald. Graham said that even with 14 aldermen to share the duties, already there were complaints that council members were not attending board meetings.

"Then how can eight members fulfill all the duties?" he asked.

He favored council manager form of government and felt that this system worked more efficiently with a smaller council but in view of the many duties expected of council members he could not see how it would work with only eight members.

Had it been a petition from the taxpayers requesting council reduction instead of a referendum he would have urged councillors to exercise their individual feeling on the matter.

"But in view of the referendum council has no alternative . . ." he said.

DISAGREED WITH STATEMENT

Mayor Gerald Hyde disagreed that the city was so big that councillors did not know the entire city.

City wards were a convenience only for the assessor, he said.

Neither did he feel that the questions regarding city manager and reduction of council, had not been clear to the electors.

"The people were asked if they wanted a private bill for city manager and for reduction of council and their answer was 'yes,'" he said.

However, he assured that the feelings of both the opposition and of those favoring the move, would be placed before the legislature when the application for the private bill was made.

When the by-law came to vote an amendment by Alderman Moxam asking that the section dealing with reduction of council be struck out, was defeated 9-5 on a recorded vote.

Only Ald. Collins voted against the section dealing with the city manager, while the section asking for a reduction in council was carried 9-5.

Favoring this subsection were Mayor Hyde and Aldermen Digby, Forrester, Graham, Ireland, Temple, Whalen and Wishart. Opposing were Aldermen Collins, Grandame, Moxam, McCabe and Tice.

March of Dimes

Local Mothers Will Take Part In One-Hour Blitz

Belleville is in need of a total of 300 Marching Mothers to take part in the "Mothers' March" on January 29th. Money collected will be used in the rehabilitation program for handicapped persons.

Chief Marching Mother for the one-hour "blitz" is Mrs. Jim Sisler. A committee to organize the "March" is under the direction of Mrs. Newt Wilbur, and is composed of:

Finance, Mr. J. McArthur, Mrs. Jack Clarke, Mrs. Bill Fraser; publicity, Mrs. Kenneth Smith and Mrs. John Whelan; recruiting, Mrs. Harry Rollins, Mrs. Al Smith, Mrs. Murray McIntosh, Mrs. Hugh Sullivan, Mrs. Stewart Martin and Mrs. Frank Lang. The campaign is sponsored locally by the Kinette Club.

The Belleville Mothers' March will be one of more than 100 held throughout the province. As the hour of seven o'clock approaches it is estimated that over 100,000 mothers will be pinning on their lapel badges, picking up their receipt books, and starting out to call on from 10 to 15 of their neighbors.

Mrs. Sisler emphasized that everything has been planned to take the work out of raising funds. "Our March is so organized that we keep a good element of "fun" in fund-raising. For instance, we have kept the captain's districts as small as possible, and each Marching Mother is only asked to do from 10 to 15 homes, so she can complete her calls and be back home in one hour or less." Volunteers are asked to get in touch with Mrs. J. Sisler, WO 8-9786.

Lions Club Visited by Zone Chairman

Zone chairman, Lion Jim Clark, of Campbellford, made his official visit to the Belleville Lions Club on January 16 and brought with him other Lions from Campbellford, including past president, Bruce Connor; Harry Nichols, Harold Peters, Joseph Boulton, Leslie Baker and Francis Beaudoin.

Jim Clark, a well known Lion and holder of the "Master Key," gave an excellent address on "Your Best Gift is Yourself," with the theme emphasizing that if you give of yourself, you make life richer for others and consequently make your own life richer.

An interesting news item was the formation of a new Lions Club at Havelock which was sponsored by the Campbellford Lions Club. Charter Night has been set for March 5, and it is expected that regular meetings will be held at the Havelock hotel, first and third Monday evenings every month.

The speaker was introduced by 3rd vice-president John Ross and thanked by past president Stewart Dixon.

QUEBEC CRACKS DOWN

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette says provincial authorities "are getting set to lower the boom" on immoral publications marketed in the province. The newspaper says "it is only a question of time before a concerted drive is launched" to ban publications that have been subject to criticism from the press and religious authorities.

City Council Gives Backing To Fair Board in Seeking International Plow Match

Members of Belleville city council gave endorsation to the request of the Belleville Agricultural Society in inviting the 1961 International Plowing Match to be held in the Belleville district.

Meetings of the local fair board, along with other agricultural organizations have been held in recent weeks with the view to inviting the big plowing match to be held in the Belleville area.

Also, at last night's council meeting, a by-law was passed regulating the handling and use of explosives in the city. Main idea of the by-law is to control the use of explosives, according to Malcolm Turnbull, local commissioner of works.

NAME PLANNING BODY

Council authorized formation of a planning committee to consist of three aldermen. It also authorized preparing of a by-law prohibiting parking on the north side of Bridge Street, East, from Pinnacle Street to Church Street, during the 4-6 p.m. rush hour period.

Council turned down the offer of the Ontario Department of Highways to sell a 20-foot strip along the west side of Bushy Island to the city for $500. Alderman Robert Temple, as chairman of the traffic committee, said the property was not needed for street widening and there was no point purchasing it.

Under enquiries, Alderman Les Digby asked representatives of the recreation commission if small ice surfaces could be provided, possibly at schools for the younger kiddies. Such youngsters could not go all across the city to skate and must stay close to home, he said.

He also asked if a playground could not be set up, possibly at the Prince Charles school grounds, to serve youngsters in the Moira Street district next summer.

Alderman Temple, as council representative on the commission, said both matters would be taken into consideration.

HAZARD TO PEDESTRIANS

Motorists emerging from the gangways on the west side of Front Street are causing a traffic hazard for pedestrians, according to Alderman Argue. He said that most motorists blow their horns and stop before crossing the sidewalk, but some do not.

"I don't know why the police do not prosecute motorists failing to stop," he said, asking that the traffic committee deal with the matter.

Answering an enquiry from Ald. Temple, Welfare Administrator George A. Whitman said there were now 277 unemployed persons receiving unemployment assistance from the city. Included in this number were 47 heads of families, he said. A month ago the number of persons receiving such relief was 81.

He said the relief measure had been implemented by the province and went into effect January 1st. All unemployed may be eligible to receive the assistance, he said. Cost of the program is shared 50 per cent by the province, 30 percent by the federal government and 20 per cent by the municipality.

CONDITION OF COURT HOUSE

The condition of the Hastings county court house saw brief mention by Alderman Argue who drew attention of criticism by Supreme court judges.

"The Hastings county court house was built in 1838 and little has been done to it since," stated the alderman, noting that the upkeep of the courthouse is the complete responsibility of the county council.

Ald. Temple referred to the new municipal buildings of Northumberland county at Cobourg, which he said were a credit to both the county and to the province.

Alderman George Wishart reported briefly on the Moira River Conservation Authority delegation which visited Ottawa last Friday seeking financial assistance for the proposed College Street ice control dam. He said the delegation had been well received. The impression was given that favorable consideration would be given by the government to the request, he said.

Recreation Parley Planned

A conference workshop on recreation will be held on Saturday in Cobourg Collegiate Institute.

The Belleville arts and crafts club is sending displays in photography, ceramics and silk screening. Belleville's is the only club in eastern Ontario which gives classes in cermamics and photography, the Recreation Committee said.

A number of city folks will attend the one-day affair which will be highlighted by a supper time banquet with Tim Leishman of the community program branch of the Department of Education as guest speaker.

Directors of Y Will Be Hosts To Two Councils

Another feature program highlighting Y.M.C.A. Week at the local 'Y' this week is a special Board of Directors dinner meeting on Wednesday, January 22nd, at 6:30 p.m. in the Auditorium of the Y.M.C.A. at which the members of the City Council and the Council of the County of Hastings will be the Board's guests.

Speaker at this meeting will be Mr. Arnold Ward, of the National Council of Y.M.C.A.'s of Canada, from Toronto.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market moved ahead narrowly today amid the heaviest morning trading in three months.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 1,041,000 shares, heaviest since Oct. 24 when 1,093,000 were exchanged in the first hour.

For the third straight session penny speculative mines drew most of the interest. It was a different story in a way, however, because many of the winners in the previous two sessions were down as profit-taking set in.

New Mylamaque, a 1,000,000-share trader Monday, was off five cents at 31 cents amid a turnover of 370,000 shares.

In industrials Confederation Life experienced profit-taking and a seven-point dip to 128. Canada Life, however, gained nine points at 134 on a 25-share sale. Other key issues moved up in a fractional range and most groupings in the industrial list had a few more gains than losses.

Senior base metals were narrowly higher with Consolidated Smelters, Hudson Bay and International Nickel among the winners. Steep Rock lost 32½ cents at $9.80 among medium-priced mines.

Hog prices: Grade A 28.25; sows 22; stags 15.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were reported unchanged here today.

The egg market was steady with receipts adequate for light demand.

County dealers are quoted by the federal department of agriculture on graded eggs, delivered Toronto, in fibre cases: A large 36; A medium 30; A small 25; B 29; C 25. Wholesale to retail: A large 41; A medium 35; A small 30; B 34; C 30.

Yule Chemistry Sets, Not Rockets, Behind Bigger Explosives Demand

Belleville may harbor a few amateur rocketeers, but local druggists aren't giving them much of a chance to purchase chemicals commonly used to produce explosives. A number of chemicals have been black-listed to minors, not by any act of the legislature to prohibit their sale, but because most city druggists do not want to see any Bellevillian injured from tinkering in a study the commoner knows little about.

Among the tabooed chemicals are salt petre, some of the nitrates, sulphates and permanganates.

A report that city druggists were being hard put to meet a demand for explosive - producing chemicals proved false. Members of the pharmaceutical trade here said the slight increase in demand for some chemicals is attributable to the "fly-by-night" interest in the chemistry sets a number of youths received for Christmas.

Said one druggist: "Any increase in demand for chemicals that can be mixed with others to produce an explosion likely stems from the fact that the small supply of chemicals contained in chemistry sets is exhausted. Naturally, youngsters want to replenish their stock. But some of the chemicals they are asking for, we don't stock because we have never had much of a demand for them — and we don't anticipate stocking them, either."

POLICIES VARY

Most local drug stores flatly, but politely, refuse to sell dangerous chemicals to minors. A few, though, will sell them providing minors present signed notes from their parents permitting the transaction. No minor is allowed to buy poisonous chemicals.

With the upsurge in the interest in rocketry and space travel, city book stores report an increase in demands for literature concerning the topography of the moon and other planets, with inter-planetary travel also being of interest. However, no one, it seems, has shown any interest in trying to find do-it-yourself type books on rocketry.

School principals in the city have not heard of students dabbling in the science of missile building. Nor have hardware stores sold materials to youngsters purportedly for use in building rockets.

When Russia fired Sputnik I into the sky late last fall, it was an expectation that the impressionable youth of the world would suddenly take a real interest in rockets and other missiles. But Belleville youngsters, apparently, are learning of the subject through the printed word and are leaving the construction to their qualified elders in the United States and Russia.

Some International Aspects Of Red Cross Service Outlined At Society's Annual Meeting

Some of the international aspects of Red Cross service were outlined by J. H. Passmore, president of the Ontario Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society at last night's annual meeting of the Belleville branch.

Mr. Passmore, associate professor at the Ontario College of Education, has been with the Red Cross Society for the past 12 years, starting out in the Red Cross-sponsored water safety class. He is a graduate of McMaster University and the University of Toronto.

The humanitarian service given by the Red Cross is as necessary today in peace time as it was during the war because of world conditions, said Mr. Passmore.

"I'm sure none of us has any conception of the human problems still existing in other parts of the world," he said.

He said we in Canada are fortunate to live in a country so richly blessed. Therefore, he felt Red Cross service is a "kind of rent we pay for the space we occupy in this world."

Comparing conditions in Canada to those found in less fortunate countries, Mr. Passmore said: "Half the world's children go to bed hungry, while we are concerned with getting junior to eat."

AGENCY FOR GOODWILL

The Red Cross, basically an international humanitarian service, is unique in its international aspects, and is one of the great agencies for good will throughout the world, he said.

Since it is international in scope, local service is carried out through partnership with United Appeal, he said.

The National Red Cross Society is only as good as its branches, he told local members. In commenting on the campaign returns of the local branch, Mr. Passmore said "we are very proud of the Belleville branch . . . the returns have been very substantial."

In commenting on the annual reports given at the meeting, the speaker highly commended the work of the women's committees.

"We could not operate without our women's committees," he said. "For example, within hours after word of the Hungarian revolt reached national headquarters, clothing was on its way to Hungary, thanks to the women's committees."

PROUD OF EFFORTS

In speaking of disaster relief, Mr. Passmore cited instances where the Red Cross was on the scene within hours after the tragedy struck.

"We can be proud of the Red Cross efforts to aid victims of such disasters as Hurricane Hazel, the Winnipeg Flood and the Rimouski fire."

He told of how, during Hurricane Hazel, two Red Cross trucks drove through to the flooded Holland Marsh area even though ordered to turn back by police officers.

Mr. Passmore praised the efforts of the Belleville branch in helping Hungarian refugees settle here.

"We have a distinct obligation to help these people," he said. "Despite some unfavorable reports, the majority are fitting into our way of life, and will make a good contribution to Canada."

He also highly praised the introduction of the limited free blood transfusion service (class B) into Belleville, which will commence on March 4.

"Nothing is more important than this blood donor service, and we have been trying for years to get it into every hospital in Canada," he said.

The speaker was introduced by G. R. Cameron, and thanked by Don MacKinnon and president A. S. Lewis.

A member of the Homemakers' Service, Mrs. Myrtle Greatrix, was presented with a Homemakers' pin by Mr. Passmore. She attended the Homemakers' course held in Sarnia last summer.

Tenth anniversary cakes were presented to members of the Homemakers' Service. This service in Belleville had its inception ten years ago.

The meeting was chaired by Belleville branch president, A. S. Lewis, who was elected for his third term of office. He commended the members of his executive for the hard work and accomplishments of the past year.

Words of appreciation were extended to President Lewis by Mr. Cameron.

Refreshments were served following the close of the meeting.

FAITHFUL PET

BUNKER HILL, Mich. (AP)—The barking of a beagle hunting dog keeping a faithful vigil led searchers Monday to where his master had fallen dead with a heart attack. Zenon Boerjko, 37, of Jackson, Mich., had died while hunting rabbits. The dog remained at the scene some 24 hours and attracted the attention of searchers by barking and jumping.

Work Committee Of Red Cross Needs More Help

The Belleville branch of the Women's Work Committee of the Canadian Red Cross is sending out an appeal for help.

Anyone who can spare a few hours will be welcome to come down to the workroom a 3A Bridge Street West on Tuesday afternoons between 1.30 p.m. and 5 p.m to help sew children's clothing.

Last year the committee completed 350 articles of children's clothing and five quilts, which were shipped to the Toronto headquarters for distribution where most needed. They have material on hand to be made into children's clothing from 2 to 10-year sizes, including pyjamas, nightgowns, overalls and pantie dresses, and urgently need volunteers for this purpose.

The Women's Work Committee has no special season. The demand for international help keeps volunteer workers across Canada busy every month of the year knitting and sewing civilian clothing, hospital supplies, blood transfusion supplies, welfare, disaster and outpost hospital supplies, chairman of the committee reported.

Local Red Cross Branch Raises $19,118 in Drive

The Belleville Branch of the Canadian Red Cross raised $19,118 or 89 per cent of its objective of $21,430 in last year's Red Cross Campaign, members of the local society were told at their annual meeting last night by Jack A. Ireland, campaign manager.

In his report Mr. Ireland paid tribute to Mrs. Effie McCabe, who headed up the house-to-house canvass and to Mrs. J. Lennox Smith who directed the industry and business canvass.

"I am pleased to report a real job well done, with results as good as in other years," Mr. Ireland said.

The city of Belleville canvass raised $13,517.37, and the canvass in Trenton, $2,610.62.

Mr. Ireland reported that district receipts with the exception of those at Madoc were down last year.

Receipts for 1957 totalled $33,356.68, including cash on hand January 1st of $7,037.17; $6,771.95 homemakers' expenses recovered; $429 transferred to Toronto-Dominion Bank at Madoc, and campaign receipts of $19,118.56.

Expenditures included $13,000 remitted to division headquarters; $331.74 workroom supplies and expenses, loan cupboards, $486.49; civilian welfare, $1,062.02; homemakers' wages and expenses, $11,526.05; campaign expenses and supplies $1,517.67; rent, maintenance and improvement to premises, $780; administration expenses $186.56; operation of hospital nursing stations, $179.10; disaster expenses, $169.11, and cash on hand as of December 31st, 1957, of $4,160.62.

Council Plans to Spend $90,000 on Public Works

TRENTON — The town's Public Works Committee plans to spend $90,000 during 1958 for building and repair of roads and bridges under the jurisdiction of the town. This was revealed in the committee's report read at the council meeting last night.

The councillors passed the recommendation for the expenditure, as well as others brought in by the report. They were: That the cost of installing the two new traffic light heads at Dufferin and Dundas Streets be charged to the 1957 accounts. That the commissioner of works should have plans and estimates prepared for the work remaining to be done in the Land Assembly Area. That the question of proceeding with repairs to the town bridge as recommended by J. D. Lee and Company be deferred to the next meeting in order that the members might study the engineer's report. That a by-law be drawn up for the presentation to the next meeting of the council to regulate the cutting of streets. Application be made to D.H.O. for the 1957 road subsidy and further that application be made for the 1958 appropriation on a basis of, and expenditure of, $90,000. That the Public Utilities Commission be requested to install a new street light on the existing hydro pole at 75 Wall Street.

During the meeting the councillors also heard from a delegation of three men from Flindall Street who claimed the overflow from another's septic tank was running onto their property causing an undesirable and unhealthy condition.

They said they had been after the town's medical health officer but as yet he has failed to come out to look the situation over and to remedy it.

Members of the council who had been out to see the conditions arising from this overflowing septic tank told the council it was most deplorable and recommended something be done immediately.

The council passed a resolution ordering the Medical Officer to view the conditions there and make an immediate report to the clerk-treasurer. Following this the council would take steps to remove these conditions without delay.

The three men who appeared before the council regarding this were Gerald Smith, Robert Waldron and Vincent Hill.

A resolution was also passed by the council instructing the town clerk to look into the possibility of obtaining a type of insurance which would protect all members of the council and officials of the town who could make themselves liable for a slander suit. A report on this was expected to be made at the next council meeting.

In the report of the sanitation committee they recommended that the $2,400 remaining in last year's budget for a storm sewer on Victoria Street be spent on the purchase of pipe for this and charge to the 1957 account. The pipe would be used in the spring to finish this work.

They also reported that several claims were considered from private owners respecting work done by plumbers on private property. They emphasized that the council's policy has been advertised on this and that no bills can be entertained if the proper procedure is not followed.

The mayor and all councillors were present at the meeting.

Council Thanks RCAF Firemen For Their Help

TRENTON — A special vote of thanks to the fire-fighters from R.C.A.F. Station Trenton for their help in Saturday's fire was extended by the town council meeting in the Board Room of the Municipal Building last night.

Councillors passed a resolution which instructed the town clerk-treasurer to write a letter to the Commanding Officers of the Trenton air station thanking him and his men for their sterling help in bringing the fire in the Farrar block under control.

Two fire trucks were dispatched from the south station following a call from local firemen for help on Saturday.

Flight Sergeant G. Taylor dispatched the first truck when the call came in at 4:30 p.m. Later when more help was needed a large crash truck was sent. These trucks are capable of handling structural fires as well as plane crashes. They are also capable of handling 350 gallons of pressurized water per minute.

Twelve men were also sent with the trucks and a number of other airmen, who were not on duty, turned out to assist.

Air Force police also assisted town police in the directing of traffic and among these were LAC S. Dryer and LAC R.W.B. Roberts.

The R.C.A.F. firemen were given credit for saving the Garrett and Lundy Appliance store, which was next to the burning buildings of the Farrar Block. There was only a space of about seven feet between the two structures.

Distemper Takes Heavy Toll of Dogs in Area

TRENTON — Distemper is taking a heavy toll on dogs and is considered in an epidemic stage in this area, Dr. Glynne H. Jones, veterinarian in Trenton reported yesterday.

Many dogs have already died from the disease in Trenton, Wooler, Brighton, Middleton Park and in the surrounding farm areas. Many more have contracted the disease.

The illness is highly contagious among dogs and is, as a rule, fatal, unless treated in time.

The best safeguard is to have the dog inoculated against the disease when only a pup, although Dr. Jones reports some of the dogs which have contracted the disease have previously been inoculated. However, in most cases it gives the dog protection against the virus for most of his life and booster needles each year would help greatly.

"Some dogs," he said, "are strong enough to fight off the disease when they catch it, but in most cases, unless treated when the first signs appear the dog will die."

The first symptoms of the disease is a hacking cough which is followed by watery eyes. The nose of the dog will become dry and he will refuse to eat his food as the disease progresses. In the later stages the dog will become paralyzed in the hind quarters and perhaps go through a series of convulsions before death comes.

Although the disease is highly contagious among dogs it cannot be passed on to other pets or humans.

He Missed Cat By Struck Car

TRENTON — Cecil Hallyburton of 57 Regina Crescent, Middleton Park, swerved his car towards the ditch to miss a cat crossing Dixon Drive and ended up causing damage estimated at $75 to another car last night.

The accident, which was reported to the town police station by the parties concerned, took place about 8 p.m. and involved another car being driven by Maisie E. Seely, 15 Johnson Drive, Middleton Park.

Mr. Hallyburton told police officials he was proceeding west on Dixon Drive when he saw the cat. He pulled his vehicle to the north shoulder of the road to avoid hitting it and his wheels went into the ditch. On trying to pull out onto the road again the front wheel pulled out alright, but the rear wheel stayed in the ditch.

With the car travelling in this position the front bumper of his car scraped along the left side of the Seely car which was proceeding east along the same street, causing the estimated $75 damage. There was no damage to the Hallyburton car.

Problems Besetting Educatio Outlined by U.C. Moderator

The real wealth of a country lies in its human resources and education is primarily concerned with these "resources", the Right Reverend Dr. James S. Thomson, Moderator of the General Council of the United Church of Canada, told Rotarians and guests at the club's regular meeting yesterday.

"The welfare of this country, therefore, depends on its universities . . . . the builders and perpetuators of civilization," he said, in an address outlining some of the problems besetting education in the world of today.

Dr. Thomson, as United Church Moderator, has been visiting schools, colleges, and universities where theology is taught all across Canada and also abroad. He was granted a one-year's leave of absence from McGill University where he is dean of the Faculty of Divinity.

While in Belleville he addressed students of Albert College.

The speaker was born in Stirling, Scotland, and received his education in theology and the arts at the University of Glasgow. He came to Canada in 1930. He has written four books on various subjects, one entitled, "Divine Mission."

One of major problems facing education today is that of "sheer numbers," he said. Because of the increased birth rate and immigration following World War II, high schools and universities now are being flooded with students.

"Universities believe this is a time of crisis in the realm of education," Dr. Thomson stated.

Higher education is becoming recognized but it cannot take care of itself financially. To accommodate this rapidly expanding university enrolment, and to provide sufficient number of well-trained teachers are major problems facing educaionists today.

The "Teacher" has been sadly neglected, he said, in pointing to the fact the teaching profession has been one of the easiest to enter.

"It takes seven years to become a doctor, five years to become a veterinarian, but only one year to become a teacher," Dr. Thomson said. "Yet you successful businessmen owe your success to the fundamental education you received from some teacher."

He said he felt the situation is changing, however — that standards for the teaching profession are being raised, and an increase in salary is being offered.

The speaker also said there is a tremendous competition for "first class brains," from industry.

"In the late 30s, for example, we used to turn out trained, well - equipped students not knowing whether there were enough jobs available. Today every campus has an employment office, and large firms seeking graduates actually solicit students. They are so ea they dangle all sorts of wo derful opportunities."

Dr. Thomson deplored the hy sterical feeling in the U.S. th they are lagging behind Russi in the production of well-equip ped minds.

"So Russia has put two sputniks in the sky . . . well let h put them up . . . there are othe things more important, althoug I would be the last to minimize the importance of techno ogical inventions."

He said Canada is a lan richly blessed. She has vas amounts of natural resource and gigantic steps have bee taken to harness them. The volume of production and standar of living is relatively high.

"The real wealth of this country, however, can only be realistically measured by its huma resources — the people themselves."

Dr. Thomson said there is evidence people are becoming more and more interested in the realm of the spirit. This evidence can be found in the zeal for education, public worship, and cultural development.

In assessing the general importance of education in the contemporary world of today, he also pointed out the importance of the church in regard to education.

Education owes its existence to the church, since it was the church which first pioneered the establishment of schools and universities, he said.

PRESENTED WITH TOKEN

The speaker was introduced by Rev. Andrew MacKenzie and thanked by Bill Morrison. He was presented with a token of the club's appreciation by president Joe Demeza.

Special guests of the club in honor of YMCA Week were the executive of the board of directors and chairman of the Public Relations committee of the local branch of the YMCA. Introduced by president Demeza they were: local YMCA president, Don G. Williams, who noted the affinity between Rotary and YMCA who work hand-in-hand to promote peace and good-will in other countries, 1st vice-president, Lorne McDougall, 2nd vice president, Gilbert B. Scott, treasurer, Mayor Gerald B. Hyde, recording secretary, J. Bryson Leslie, past general secretary, Joe Shortt, present general secretary, Di Diamantides, and chairman of the Public Relations committee, Jack Ireland. Mr. Ireland, in a brief address, said because of increased membership and activities, a new building will soon be needed.

"As in business you either go forward or back . . . I hope this city will go forward by financing expansion of YMCA facilities. It is a decision the city will soon have to reach," he stated.

New Blood Donor Service Being Instituted by Red Cross

To insure that Belleville General Hospital will always have enough blood on hand to meet its needs at a minimum of cost to the recipient, the Belleville branch of the Canadian Red Cross in conjunction with the hospital is instituting a new blood donor service.

This service is called the "limited free blood transfusion service, class B," and will go into effect on March 4, according to a report given by chairman G. R. Cameron, at the annual meeting of the Belleville branch last night.

Under the present system the patient has to pay a fee of $25 for a transfusion or provide two people to donate two bottles of blood. Under the new system, a fee of only $5 is charged for the processing of the blood.

Although new to Belleville, this service has been in operation in other centres. Ontario has taken the lead, and provincial Red Cross branches are now trying to get the service set up in every hospital in the province. Eventually they hope to have it instituted in every hospital in Canada.

This service was recently commenced in all hospitals in metropolitan Toronto, president A. S. Lewis said.

The first clinic at the Belleville General Hospital will be held on Tuesday, March 4, between 6.30 p.m. and 9.30 p.m. and every Tuesday evening thereafter.

"Our initial task will be to form a donor panel large enough to meet the requirements of the Belleville General Hospital," stated Mr. Cameron. "We are soliciting all industrial and commercial groups, fraternal and church organizations, and service clubs, and hope to acquire a panel of about 1,500 donors.

"Donors will be called only twice a year to give blood," he said. If emergencies should arise to drain the blood reserve, donors will be called by phone rather than waiting for the next clinic, he explained.

He told members the present pathology laboratory will be set up as a blood donor clinic, when the new lab. is completed sometime in May or June.

Police Blotter

Theft of cigarets from College Motors, College Street, was reported today after an insecure door was found at the premises this morning.

This was one of three thefts reported by police.

A Station Street resident complained that his pigeon coop was entered and two fancy pigeons valued at $5 each were taken. And the manager of a local variety store reported the counterweight of a fire escape recently installed, had been stolen.

City firemen had one run to South John Street Monday evening where chimney blaze was reported. There was no damage.

COLD WINTER

The harbor at Bergen in Norway had ice in the last week of 1957 for the first time in 20 years.

Youth Victim Of 'Beatings' Says Witness

CHATHAM (CP)—The 18-year-old Thamesville youth Monday was committed for trial March 3 on a charge of murdering his father.

William John J. Hopper, a frail, 100-pound youth, was described by a witness at his preliminary hearing as the victim of "urmerciful beatings" by his father. He heard 26 witnesses Monday give evidence regarding the shooting of Clifford Hopper, 62, in a barn on their 10-acre farm in Camden Township sometime between Dec. 12 and 19.

TOO FAST AND TOO SLOW

It was Lester Pearson who complained recently that the Western nations prepare for war like giants and for peace like pygmies.

Without quarrelling with the accuracy of that statement, we might add that it would appear to be applicable to more nations than those of the West.

Two items in the news on Monday, when considered together, serve to turn the spotlight on another facet of this great difference between our approach to making war and making peace.

Item One:—Indonesia and Japan signed a peace treaty Monday, bringing a formal end to the Second Great War hostilities over twelve years after these hostilities actually ceased.

Item Two:—An Arizona scientist is afraid that the world will wake up one day and find that the war to end all wars, by exterminating the human race, has actually begun, and all because somebody mistook a meteor for a guided missile.

That something needs to be done to prevent panic resulting in a war nobody wants, we must all agree. Dr. H. H. Nininger of Sedona, Arizona, may be right when he says that a meteorite mistaken for a ballistic missile could lead to an error which would doom thousands, and perhaps make the earth or large areas of it uninhabitable by man. It is not difficult to imagine, either, how misinterpretations of the intentions of a potential enemy could occur in other ways, starting a wholly unnecessary war.

But, if something needs to be done to slow the pace at which nations rush into war, it is equally true that something should be done to speed up the process of healing the wounds left by past wars.

The tardiness of Japan and Indonesia in signing a peace treaty is not an isolated instance of the snail's pace at which the task of healing the wounds and covering the scars of the last war is proceeding. Rather one might almost say that it is symptomatic of the whole approach. The classic example, of course, is the continued division of Germany. There are other similar problems which arise from the same cause, the cold war between the East and West. But altogether aside from these examples, we can find all over the world, in Korea, in Kashmir, in Japan, in Suez, in Cyprus, in Algeria, instances where sores are unhealed. In many of these cases, it may be argued that an opportunity is being given for time to heal wounds which otherwise could require major surgery. But time alone will not always bring a cure; sometimes a wound festers instead of healing.

DID NOT PAY TO BE GENEROUS

In Chicago a couple have been cut off old age assistance because they gave $900 to charity.

First reaction may be that they must have been receiving public money under false pretences. Such, however, does not appear to be the case. They are not cheats, but that much rarer variety of human beings, people with truly generous hearts. They were destitute until the wife wrote a first-person account of a fire which killed 601 persons in the Iroquois Theatre in Chicago in 1903. For this she received $900. She turned the money over to a Chicago off-the-street club for underprivileged children.

That such munificence should be rewarded by cutting off their welfare benefits may at first seem like a prize example of the stupidity of bureaucrats. However, it is obvious that rules of some kind have to be made for the recipients of benefits of this type. Certainly most couples who give away $900 would be well able to pay their own living expenses. The welfare authorities are not so heartless as might at first appear. The couple can re-apply for assistance and, if a real emergency exists, will be returned to the welfare rolls immediately.

Extraordinary as these facts may appear, this is only half the real story. The Chicago couple have other claims to fame besides generous hearts. The wife, Mrs. Annabelle Whitford Buchan, now 79, was once a Ziegfeld Follies queen, and earned $750 a week when that sum was worth much more than it is today. Her husband was a famous surgeon when she married him in 1910. One wonders how it comes that two people with such earning power should now be destitute. Perhaps that $900 gift was not the first time that they displayed extraordinary generosity.

ONE-SIDED FAITH

I know the rose will bloom again
As soon as it is June,
The robin will return by then
To sing his merry tune.
I know the wintry cold will pass,
The gray clouds change to blue,
But I think my present woe, alas!
Must last my whole life through.

I view my little garden bare
And smile from day to day,
I know the green will glisten there
As soon as it is May.
I face the winter, brave of heart,
I know that it will go,
But every little ache and smart
Sets me to grieving so.

If I can view the winter's snow,
My garden desolate
And smile, because right well I know
If I will only wait
The days of spring will soon return
And bring me back the rose,
Have I not wit enough to learn
That time will cure my woes?

Rocket Clubs Needed

Vancouver Sun

Death of a Vancouver boy from the fumes of a rocketry experiment ought not to lead to cries for banning the sale of rocket-fuel components in drug stores. It ought instead to spur the information of rocketry clubs for our tinkering teenagers.

Evidence is piling up that outer space is providing the lure we might expect to the scientifically and mechanically minded youngster. Reports are trickling in about these young missile-men. Most notable so far perhaps has been the West Vancouver blast-off syndicate that has had remarkable success.

All this is in the true North American tradition of cars patched together in backyard sheds, airplanes haywired into struggling flight in farm fields, and cat's whiskers feeling radio messages from tiny crystals. These have played an impressive part in the development of the machines themselves and — more important—in the men who work with them.

They have made us car-minded, radio-minded, air-minded. And when a nation becomes "minded" in this way it is pretty hard to keep it down in that particular field. So with rocketry.

• • •

True, there may be greater perils attached to rocketry's explosive aspects than in most backyard tinkering in the past, although there was precious little safety in any of the early wobbling wings that first took men aloft. And there are undoubtedly much higher costs to rocketry than farmer fields.

These are both challenges which inspired and determined young people can be counted on to overcome, which they are overcoming. But they can be helped. Formation of rocketry clubs with instruction by volunteer experts, organized fund-raising and co-operative building can greatly lessen both the dangers and financial burden.

• • •

It is a field well worthy of the effort. Such clubs are probably the best hope for popularizing scientific interest among our young people. Because his knowledge would be vital to the project, the "brainy" student would gain his due respect in the only useful, lasting way — voluntarily accorded by his teenage peers. Physics, chemistry, astronomy and all the allied fields would benefit.

The long-term effects of bringing the eggheaded youngster to terms with his age-group this way is the very development we seek. It would effectively, and permanently, rip off the "queerness" tag so long and lamentably attached to the scientific seeker. A whole generation and all its children would be freed from this foul stigma at a time when we so desperately need it to be freed. High school science lessons would be greeted with tremendous new interest — and termendous new challenge.

The youngsters themselves have already demonstrated they want to play with these new toys of man. It is up to the adults to give them every assistance possible. Rocketry clubs are the direct way.

Disease Here Before Man

St. Thomas Times Journal

Which came first, man or disease? It is an interesting question like which came first, the chicken or the egg? According to Dr. James A. Tobey, a public health man, writing in the Review of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, disease existed on earth before man.

He cites the case of a prehistoric lizard named by scientists as the dimetrodon, which used to crawl on the plains of Texas 230,000,000 years ago, as having a painful infection of the bones and it suffered as man might suffer today from arthritis. His bones became rock, and geologists studying the rock formations found evidence of disease. Dr. Tobey says it was a kind of osteomyelitis, which today follows a neglected bone fracture. Sixty million years later the same disease was found in the bones of a crocodile in, or all places, England!

The scientist points out that the skeletal remains of the dinosaurs show that the huge animals suffered from bad teeth, arthritis, spondylitis, and probably from a variety of infections that they picked up from the primal ooze of their swamp habitats. In fact, these bacterial diseases may have contributed to the extinction of the dinosaurs 130,000,000 years ago, Dr. Tobey said. Changes in climate, the appearance of mammals that ate the eggs of the reptile and a lack of water may have played big roles, too.

Dr. Tobey even traces germ disease to ancient creatures, the men who were almost men: Pithecanthropus erectus. One thigh bone recovered showed a growth which was likely the result of bacterial infection. That was 300,000 years ago.

Neanderthal man, who lived up to about 20,000 years ago, was pretty much plagued with illness too — or at least so his bones indicate. Could he have been wiped out by a great pestilence? Nobody knows.

When you come down to historical times, there is plenty of evidence for germ disease. The oldest written allusion to a plague, according to Dr. Tobey, is on an Asia Minor clay tablet scratched out 3,200 years ago.

A striking fact is that although man is known to have suffered diseases thousands of years ago he has conquered most of them in a century, which is but a tiny fraction of time in geological science. So many discoveries have been made during the past 25 years that if the current rate of progress continues it might not be too much to predict that in another century all of man's diseases will be prevented or cured.

What Wages Will Buy

Fort William Times Journal

How much is a wage dollar worth? In Canada it may be an open question. However, in the United States the National Industrial Conference Board has presented a novel method of measuring that dollar against the dollar that was earned in 1953.

According to the board's chart, the average U.S. production worker in manufacturing now earns enough after 18 minutes on the job to buy a dozen eggs. In 1953, the same employee had to work 26 minutes for his eggs.

Today's production worker can purchase a refrigerator after 103 hours and 43 minutes of labor, while four years ago, it took him 130 hours and 39 minutes of his working time. On the other hand, a visit to the doctor is now equivalent to two hours and 20 minutes of work time, compared to two hours and five minutes back in 1953. Haircuts have risen during the four-year span from 40 to 43 minutes in work time, required.

In general, the production worker has improved since 1953, the Conference Board finds. Ten of the 16 selected items now cost less in equivalent work time, one is unchanged, and five have shown a rise.

The remaining eight items which require less work time to purchase now than they did in 1953 are: One pair of nylon stockings, from 37 minutes to 2 minutes; one quart of milk, from eight minutes to seven minutes; one pound of bacon, from 30 minutes to 26 minutes; one gallon of gasoline, from 10 minutes to nine minutes; one pound of round steak, from 32 minutes to 29 minutes; a house dress, from one hour and 49 minutes to one hour and 40 minutes; a man's wool suit, from 27 hours and 32 minutes to 25 hours and 27 minutes; and one pound of coffee, from 31 minutes to 29 minutes.

A pound of bread today costs the same six minutes of labor to purchase as it did in 1953.

The other three items which cost more in work time today than they did four years ago are: Ten pounds of potatoes, from 16 minutes to 17 minutes; admission to the movies, from 24 minutes to 25 minutes; and men's oxford shoes, from five hours to five hours and two minutes.

To Start a War

Peterborough Examiner

We have reached such a state of progess that war can be started (a) by a drunkard, (b) by accident and (c) by a berserk air force pilot. In the bad old days, of course, it could only be started by a king properly mounted on his horse.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A DANGEROUS GAME

The 3rd Chapter of Genesis is one of the most important and interesting in the Bible. In it is given the description of the moral fall of the human race through Adam and Eve.

They had been warned by God not to eat of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, lest they die. And the tempting assurance of the serpent was, "Ye shall not surely die: for God doth know that the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as God, knowing good and evil." So the woman ate, "and gave also unto her husband with her: and he did eat."

The guilty pair were playing God, and they were not the last to try this hazardous game. There are millions who try it today. The person who has no religion, for instance, who gets along quite well enough without belonging to church or attending; the people who piously pray God for guidance and then never even think of following such guidance; common run of folk like ourselves who have one set of religious beliefs marked "Sunday" and filed away under "theory," and another labeled "practical" and to be used the rest of the week — these all are playing God. What need do they have of the Most High, the All-Knowing? They have themselves.

But watch out. You've heard of Russian roulette. It's mighty dangerous, but playing God is even more so.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 21, 1938

At the annual meeting of the Evening Branch of the Women's Auxiliary in connection with Christ Church Parish, which took the form of a supper meeting, the following officers were elected for this year: Hon. president, Mrs. G. G. Wright; president, Mrs. E. Smith; vice-president, Mrs. D. Stewart; secretary, Miss Leah Bowyer; treasurer, Miss Frances Reid; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. O. B. Ragsdale; leaflet and flower secretary, Miss B. Lancaster; press secretary, Miss Luella Morton.

From our file copy at this time in 1888: The toque Cardinal toboggan slide is now ready for use. Lack of snow has prevented an earlier opening of the slide. Lovers of the sport will hail this announcement with delight. (Note 1958): Tobogganing was very popular here years ago. There were two slides, one running down to the bay near the "Devil's Elbow," not far from the West Dundas St. hill, and another slide ran to the bay from Dundas Street east between William and Ann Streets. Many of the members of the clubs wore warm wool white coats with sash and stripes of color and toques with tassels. They looked very attractive.

Mr. Bruce McKee spent the weekend in Lindsay.

At a meeting of the Laymen's Association in connection with St. Thomas Parish, which was held at the Parish House, the following officers were elected for this year: president, Mr. C. R. Patterson; vice-president, Mr. Wilson Bird; secretary, Mr. Max Porritt; executive committee, Mr. Norman E. Edwards, Mr. G. H. McElheran and Mr. F. W. Potter; representative to the Diocesan Asosciation, Col. F. A. Geen.

30 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 21, 1928

Twenty-five members of forms 2-C and 2-B of the high school made up a sleigh drive party last night and they visited the home of Mr. Wallbridge on Huff's Island, in Prince Edward County. An enjoyable time was passed and the party arrived home about three o'clock this morning.

The ice at the curling rink is excellent and the curlers are having a "roarin' time."

The temperature was six below zero last night—it sure was cold.

For the third successive year Mr. John Elliott has been elected chairman of the school board.

Mr. Arthur Hill won the door prize at the YMCA dance last night. The prize was $5 and was donoted by Mr. H. Green.

Mr. Harry L. Walker, William Street, was in Campbellford and Warkworth yesterday on business.

Magistrate W. C. Mikel went to Toronto this morning.

40 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 21, 1918

On and after May 1st this year the wages of brick-layers, masons and plasterers in Belleville will be 60 cents per hour.

Messrs. H. Whittier and G. Campbell of Trenton, were in town today.

Mr. Ira Simmons, auctioneer, conducted a most successful sale recently at Mr. Thomas Haslip's farm in Sidney township. From 11.30 a.m. to 4.30 p.m. the sale was in progress and the proceeds amounted to $5,000.00. The average price obtained for cattle was $97 per head and $30 per head for calves. Five hundred bushels of oats brought $500.00 and hay brought $9 and $10 per ton in the mow and in stock.

50 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 21, 1908

The Corby Public Library, the gift of Mr. Harry Corby, ex-M.P., and Mrs. Corby to the city of Belleville, was formally presented to the city last evening at a gathering of representative citizens in the auditorium of the library. Mr. John Williams, barrister, the president of the local Public Library Association, presided and in opening the proceedings he said that the occasion was indeed a happy one. The Belleville library, he said, dated from the year 1876. At first it was a success, but eventually it had to close, but only for a brief time. The proposal to apply to Andrew Carnegie for funds to build a library had not been favorably entertained by the citizens which turned out to be a good thing, as ultimately Mr. Harry Corby, a native son of this city, had come forward with an offer to supply a $10,000 public library building. His offer was gratefully accepted by the Board and city council. The present beautiful building was the result, but the cost instead of being $10,000 had been close to $25,000.00. The thanks of Belleville citizens were due to Mr. and Mrs. Corby for their magnificent gift. Mr. Corby in a brief address expressed the great pleasure it gave to Mrs. Corby and himself to present the library to his native city which he loved so well. At the close of his remarks Mr. Corby handed to Mayor Allan McFee the deeds of the building and the keys. The mayor in reply said that on behalf of the citizens of Belleville he accepted the most generous gift at the hands of Mr. and Mrs. Corby. "Thirty-eight years ago this night," the mayor said, "Mr. Corby and he had appeared in one of Shakespeare's plays. Mr. Corby had taken the part of Prince of Denmark and tonight he stood before them as 'The Prince of Belleville'." At the close of the mayor's remarks two pretty young girls presented a beautiful bouquet to Mrs. Corby. Short addresses were made by Mr. Thomas Ritchie, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Mr. J. J. B. Flint and ex-Mayor Charles N. Sulman.

In the edition of January 18th., W. Jeffers was named as director of Belleville Horticultural Society. This should have read W. Jeffers Diamond. The same applies to the position of secretary-treasurer. It was Mr. Jeffers Diamond, not Mr. W. Jeffers who was appointed to the position.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Everybody Out of Step

Probably most readers are aware that I entered medical school directly from high school, had four years of medicine and twenty months of internship and began practice forthwith. Never loafed in college. My idea of loafing is spending four years in college between high school and professional school. It robs the doctor of 10 per cent of his or her professional life.

Ever since iodized salt was put on the market, I have had the conviction that the general medical profession in the United States (I'm not sure about the Canadian profession) has a quirk about iodin. In many instances this amounts to a veritable phobia.

There was the good colleague who gave me numerous suggestions for pieces in this column and criticized my teachings whenever he didn't approve. He questioned the value of an iodin ration and frequently reminded me of our old friend A. J. Coincidence when I cited testimonials.

We carried on our friendly controversy for many years, my good colleague and I, and sometimes I called him names—you know my propensity for such argument. "That's your weakness, Brady," he'd say. "When you're nearly cornered, you resort to name-calling."

"That's not so," I'd shout back. "It's just that you won't listen to reason, our quirks outweigh knowledge and common sense. You cling blindly to a nineteenth century theory or fancy despite twentieth century experience and observation. This applies not only to iodin but to the relation of dampness to joint disability, cold to CRI, dog bite to rabies and the rite of tooth brushing to decay of the teeth. Some big shot a century ago pronounced it so and that settled it, so far as you're concerned."

My colleague didn't mind — and I would not have minded if I hadn't learned to respect his sincerity. The poor fellow, like a hundred thousands other good doctors, was quirked and didn't know it.

Toward the close of our controversy, I believe my good colleague was beginning to see the light. He conceded that the minute quantity of iodin any one can possibly get in iodized salt (less than one gets in a serving of sea fish or shell fish once a week) would be unlikely to do any harm, but he still thought it might explain youthful blackheads and pimples (acne) in some cases—an assumption unworthy of serious consideration, I say. When I had pooh-poohed that, the doctor finally told me he didn't like iodized salt, so at his house they used only plain salt.

Whadaya mean, you don't like it?

He didn't like the taste of the potassium iodide.

There's 0.10% of potassium iodide in iodized salt—that's one part in ten thousand, scarcely ¾ths of a grain of potassium iodide in a pound of iodized salt. My colleague is the only person I ever knew who claimed he could distinguish iodized salt from plain salt by taste.

Years ago, some physicians were still warning people not to use iodized salt lest it induce hyperthyroidism, exophthalmic goitre or simple goitre. They seldom, if ever, warned people not to eat fish or shell fish, although one who eats such fish once a week gets more iodin than one can get from using iodized salt.

The prevalence of goitre and the number of operations for goitre in the Great Lakes Basin have both declined remarkably since well informed people began using iodized salt instead of plain salt in cooking at table.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When we think back over all the funny old cars we have owned, and the comic vacuum cleaners of thirty years ago, and the toasters, the ice boxes, and the weird electric light bulbs with the curly filaments in loops; the phonographs with their thin squawky tone; the old wall telephones with the hand cranks; when we remember these quaint old things, we should also remember that we have each and all contributed, to the sum of billions upon billions of dollars, to the experiment and research of industry.

We have, in fact, been the guinea pigs of our proud industry. And industry seems to forget that fact when we read and hear over radio and TV the comfortable boasts of our great automotive and electrical industries as to the amount of research they have done to achieve their present magnificence.

We bought their half-baked cars when we had to crank them by hand, everytime we started them. We consumed their primitive radios when they were so full of static we had to bend over and lean down close to catch the fading program. With the greatest enthusiasm, all across the past half century, we have paid for the privilege of trying out everything industry produced. We paid for it, tried it out. And when industry learned of the defects and shortcomings from us — they came up with improvements.

And right away, we bought the new ones.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HUNGRY HEARTS

Never in the history of the world, do I believe there have been so many hungry people — hungry in body, mind and heart. It's an upset world full of starving hearts. I was impressed by the great crowds who left their homes to listen to Dr. Billy Graham while in New York City. For weeks he spoke to full houses at Madison Square Garden, and one time he spoke to the biggest crowd of a religious character at the Yankee Stadium, something like 50,000 people. He was very impressing, and I believe deeply sincere in all his messages, for each one was to the heart — to hungry hearts, hoping and praying for some hope, some comfort, during these anxious days so full of fear and thoughts of war. It is stunning to one's spirit to think of all that is being spent for protection against war when no one, not even our enemies, want one. Why is this? Has the spirit of man gone into bankruptcy? God created this world which He hoped man would develop, not turn it into chaos and ruin. He put everything into it for the happiness and comfort of people. Christianity is at the crossways. The "Hour of Decision" is here and now. Peace is the most precious objective in all this world. What are we going to do about it? Think of what these billions being spent for defence against war could do if spent for education, decent living, and for happiness to the humblest of this earth. Oh, how these wasteful expenditures could banish hunger if spent for peace. Spent to alleviate mental and spiritual hunger in the world! How the hungry hearts would rejoice! Let us hope and pray that they may yet do so!

Unemployment On Increase in Many Countries

LONDON (AP) — Unemployment is on the increase in Europe and in some cases is beginning to cause concern.

Unemployment has increased in Britain, West Germany, Belgium, Sweden and Finland.

There were a few more jobs in Italy, Austria and Yugoslavia, although Italy still had 1,800,000 out of work.

Nations with largely - agricultural economies were unaware of any change and a few countries, notably France and Switzerland, reported that they had practically no jobless.

West Germany's unemploymnt total was 1,212,866 at the end of December, the highest December figure since 1954.

But the general employment situation is bright, an official said and there is reason to hope that the number of unemployed will be less than 500,000 next summer.

In Britain there were 335,000 jobless persons in mid-December.

Britain to Boost Army Pay Hoping To Get Recruits

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The Brtiish government may loosen the purse strings before the end of this month in a last desperate effort to avoid retention of compulsory national service.

The cabinet is expected to approve increases in pay for the armed services amounting to about five shillings a day for the lowest ranks. The total cost is understood to be about £40,000,000.

Some political observers believe that the question of service pay was one reason behind the resignation of the chancellor of the exchequer, Peter Thorneycroft, earlier this month.

The chancellor, who had discouraged the granting of wage claims to health service workers and employees of the nationalized industries, is believed to have opposed increases for the services. The majority of the cabinet, however, are understood to favor higher pay in hopes that it will spur recruiting.

GOVERNMENT PROMISE

The government promised to end national service in 1960. At present, new recruits are being attracted to the army at a rate far below the number required for an all-regular army.

It is estimated that at least another 30,000 men are required.

Thorneycroft is understood to have said pay alone would not solve the recruiting problem. A government committee now is examining the effect on recruiting of such problms as barracks, married quarters and uniforms. Its report is not expected to be ready until May or June.

Some service chiefs are understood to be urging Defence Minister Duncan Sandys to abandon the plan to abolish national service and replace it with selective service by ballot.

The estimated manpower shortage of 30,000 in 1960 would amount to about on-seventh of a full yearly intake.

MEMBERS CALLED

The government Monday summoned parliamentary supporters vacationing overseas for the debate caused by Thorneycroft's resignation. The debate is scheduled for Thursday. Parliament reassembles today after a month-long Christmas recess.

The cabinet summons reached as far as South Africa, where one member was visiting.

With a parliamentary majority of close to 40, the government stands in no danger from any opposition move—including possibly a motion of censure against cabinet handling of economic policy—but it wants to ensure a safe vote.

Fuchs Expects No Big Troubles On Journey Home

By DOUGLAS McKENZIE

THE SOUTH POLE (Reuters) British explorer Vivian Fuchs today forecast no major difficulties ahead in trekking the remaining 1,200 miles on man's first land crossing of the treacherous Antarctic continent.

Fuchs talked as he and his 11 fellow scientist-explorers prepared to leave Thursday for New Zealand's Scott Base on McMurdo Sound. They hope to reach it the first week in March.

They arrived at this American base Monday after an eight-week, 930-mile journey by sno-cat and weasel tracked snow vehicles and dog teams from Shackleton Base opposite the tip of South America.

Fuchs said the trip to Scott Base, opposite New Zealand, would feature the scientific tests that are the expedition's prime task.

"Adventure has an interest but I think this should be secondary," he said.

The scientific observations so far indicated that the ice cap traversed by his party ran up and down over a number of mountain ranges.

The Briton said it was his impression that all the land beneath the ice was above sea level, although the terrain dropped sharply from 7,000 feet above sea level at 100 miles from the pole to about 4,000 feet above at 25 miles from here.

Fuchs said he always had planned to reach the pole early in January and gained two days three weeks late. He thought the previously mentioned pole - arrival date of Dec. 21 arose from a jocular remark about getting here for Christmas.

In Christchurch, N.Z., Dr. E. Remington, an American glaciologist back after nearly a year at the pole, said today that the general feeling at the United States station there is that Fuchs would be unwise to continue his transantarctic crossing.

Remington said Fuchs' decision to press on is keeping a lot of men and equipment at the pole and at Scott Base when they should be withdrawn. It was "a bit of an imposition on a lot of people to keep them there during the winter just so that he can make the trip this year."

French Assembly Will Debate Reds' Aid for Rebels

PARIS (AP)—The National Assembly launched a foreign affairs debate today in an atmosphere of new tension stemming from France's disputes with Tunisia and two Communist countries over alleged aid to the Algerian rebels.

Deputies eagerly awaited a statement by Premier Felix Gaillard on the rapid events which have flared in the last week on the edge of the Algerian revolt.

Although the government may come under hot fire, its life is not expected to be endangered. Most Frenchmen agree basically on foreign policy.

France Monday night in effect accused two Communist states—Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia—of aiding the nationalist rebels by sending arms to Algeria.

Two French warships intercepted the Yugoslav freighter Slovenija in the Mediterranean Saturday and seized 150 tons of weapons, explosives and ammunition.

Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said he had "clear proof" that an agent of the Algerian National Liberation Front (FLN) bought the arms in Czechoslovakia, and that they were bound for Algeria via Casablanca, Morocco.

Pineau said France tracked the arms—apparently by intelligence sources—through Yugoslavia to the Slovenija, and "it must be assumed that the two Communist governments knew what was going on."

Pineau rejected a request by Yugoslav Ambassador Radivoje Uvalic for "immediate restitution" of the arms. Yugoslavia claims the ship was 45 miles off shore when stopped.

Severe Injury To Neck Cause Of Youth's Death

PICTON — The death occurred Monday afternoon in the General Hospital at Kingston, of Larry Abbott, aged 20 years. The young man suffered a severe injury to the neck in an accident at the Outlet Beach on December 27. He had been in a paralyzed condition since that time. It had been planned to take him to Toronto for treatment but he passed away unexpectedly.

Larry was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Abbott of Frankford, former residents of Picton. He was employed by the hydro at Bowmanville.

A youth with a promising future, he had been a bright student and was fond of athletics. He made a host of friends who mourn his passing.

Besides his parents, a brother and a sister survive.

Woman Marks 90th Birthday On Thursday

PICTON — Mrs. Frank R. Kellogg is marking her ninetieth birthday on Thursday, January 23. She resides at the home of Mrs. Ruth Wells at Waupoos and enjoys assisting with household duties. She continues to take an interest in events of the day.

Mrs. Kellogg was born on Owen Street, Picton and was formerly Margaret Sullivan. For more than 25 years she was employed in the O. B. Fralick Tailoring shop. After her marriage to the late Mr. Kellogg they operated a bakeshop in Picton and for fifteen years they owned and operated the Outlet summer resort. Returning to town, she resided in the house where she was born, for some years, and until recently with her niece, Mrs. Jack Walters.

Mrs. Kellogg has two sisters, Mrs. James Rorke and Mrs. Frances Kell..er.

EX-DIPLOMAT TILLS THE SOIL OF HOLY LAND

Using a primitive hoe, Brother Francois cultivates his vegetable garden in the Franciscan monastery of which he is the sole occupant in the Judean hills outside Jerusalem. The friar's garden is irrigated by a small stream, where, legend says, John the Baptist found wild honey. Brother Francois is a former French diplomat who entered the Franciscan order last year. The monastery where he lives alone is built on the ruins of an ancient chapel over St. John's grotto.

$30 in Loot Taken From General Store

PICTON — Loot valued at $350 was taken when Colley's general store, on highway 41, three miles north of Bloomfield, was entered during the weekend. A side door was forced while the family was absent. Articles known to have been stolen included thirty shirts, cigarets, nylons, watches and clocks and $25 in cash.

Members of the O.P.P. are investigating.

Order Klan Chief To Surrender Following Riot

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — A South Carolina Ku Klux Klan leader was ordered to surrender today on a charge of inciting a riot here between his followers and Indians.

Sheriff Malcolm McLeod said that if Rev. James Cole, 33, of Marion, S.C., did not meet the deadline, he would begin legal proceedings for his arrest in South Carolina.

The Free Will Baptist minister describes himself as head of the Klan in both North and South Carolina.

A county grand jury composed of three Indians, two Negroes and 13 white men indicted Cole and Klansman James Garland Martin of Reidsville, N.C., Monday on charges of inciting to riot. In addition, the grand jury cited others of the KKK "unknown to the state."

AFTER RALLY

The charge stemmed from the Klan's short-lived anti-Indian rally Saturday. It ended as several hundred Indians, firing shotguns and rifles, drove the Klansmen from the site, 30 miles from here. State police broke up the fracas.

Authorities already have custody of Martin, a 37-year-old tobacco plant worker. Officers found him in a ditch after the shooting and charged him with drunkenness and carrying concealed weapons. He will be tried on those charges Wednesday by Judge Early Bullard—an Indian.

Sheriff McLeod talked with Cole by telephone Monday night and said the minister planned to confer with his lawyer before deciding whether to return voluntarily.

The sheriff said Cole told him he had been warned that he would be killed if he returned, but the sheriff promised protection.

Cole has a police record of minor offences, mostly for assault, driving or drunken offences, police said.

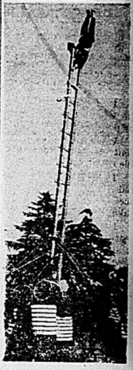
VOLUNTEER FIREMEN PERFORM IN TOKYO



The daring young man on the tall bamboo ladders is a member of Tokyo's Tobi fire fighting brigade, a strictly volunteer force whose primitive techniques date back some 300 years. Entirely independent of Tokyo's regular modern firefighting force, the "Tobi," as they are called, represent a tradition of color and pageantry that are as much a part of Tokyo as beefeaters are to London. Each year the Tobi members — carpenters, masons, plumbers, etc., when they are not firefighting, get together for a demonstration of their skill and courage by performing stunts and acrobatics as shown.

The magnificent new CHRYSLER FOR 1958
cool beauty with a fiery spirit

IT DOESN'T HAPPEN OFTEN, but sometimes a new motorcar is still causing a big to-do months after it first sparkled into the showroom.

That's the way it's been with Chrysler for 1958. The more people who take delivery—the more the stir about it grows.

You hear one man tell about the admiring glances his Chrysler receives. You hear another exclaim about the power of Chrysler's big whispering V-8. Still another raves about Chrysler's push-button automatic drive. And you hear a woman who's just thrilled with the modern luxury of Chrysler's interior.

What do people like best about Chrysler? That's hard to say. For there's been abundant praises of all these features—and, of course, for exclusive '58 Torsion-AIRE Ride. Torsion-AIRE, you know, doesn't cost extra like other highly advertised systems. Yet it gives you the smoothest, best-controlled ride of all.

Why not try it now? Just telephone us. We'll be pleased to bring a glamourous new 1958 Chrysler to your door.

Reg. Nurses' Assoc. Holds Lively Panel

The regular monthly meeting of the Bay of Quinte Chapter, District No. 6, Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario, was held in the nurses' residence of the Belleville General Hospital recently. Mrs. E. Barclay, president, conducted the meeting. Following the business meeting, a most interesting program was presented in the form of a panel with lively, open discussion at the conclusion.

The theme of the presentation of the panel was "Procuring improved economic security for professional nursing personnel and the means of how it may be obtained." Panel members were Mrs. M. Strong, moderator; Miss J. Watt, Miss M. Waters and Miss M. Peart Mrs. M. Strong and Miss J. Watt are professional nursing members of the staff of provincial office, Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario, Toronto. They presented the varied methods which had been explored by the association through research, comparative examples of other professional groups and the utilization of legal advice. The membership present were informed of the importance of evaluating these methods very carefully, as the final decision would be influenced by the voting of the general membership at the annual convention of the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario in April.

It was agreed that many aspects regarding this topic had been clarified. There was an excellent representation of all branches of professional nursing from Belleville, Trenton and district.

The panel was thanked by Miss J. Grunspan. In her remarks, she expressed the appreciation of the meeting in having the members of provincial office participate.

A pleasant social hour followed. Miss J. McDermid and committee served refreshments.

Ladies' Aux. 49 A.N.A.F. Elects 1958 Officers

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the A.N. and A.F. held the January meeting in the men's auditorium of Unit 201 with president, M. Galbraith presiding.

Reports were read.

The Ontario Provincial Command meeting will be held in London, Ontario, January 25. President Galbraith has been appointed delegate.

Election of officers was held and the following elected for 1958: president, Comrade A. Galbraith; 1st vice-president, Comrade L. Lundberg; 2nd vice-president, Comrade A. Browning; secretary, Comrade B. Buckley; treasurer, Comrade K. Bankey; executive members: Comrades D Smith, T. Stewart, A. Hurst, E. Allen; Sergeant-at-Arms, Comrade C. Clark.

At the close of the meeting tea and light refreshments were served.

Hungarian Girl Wants to Ride In Horse Show

MONTREAL (CP) — Maria Veress, 20-year-old Hungarian equestrienne, longs for the day she'll be able to ride in Canadian horse shows.

Miss Veress, who escaped her troubled country in the autumn of 1956, had built up a reputation as a rider and had won several provincial championships before she left during the Hungarian uprising.

Through an interpreter, she told an interviewer she hadn't tried for a place on the Hungarian national team because a government permit was needed. She couldn't get one since her family were former landowners.

Had she ever beaten men at Hungarian riding shows? "Oh, yes, Hungarian women often beat the men."

She added she'd like to ride in some Canadian shows "but I do not have a horse now." In the rush to get out of the country, she left behind her riding habit and other sports clothes as well as a precious scrapbook.

Miss Veress, who speaks three languages, hopes to have mastered sufficient English to enter Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph in the fall. The girl, who has spent years with fine horses, wants to be a veterinary.

Hillier W. I.

HILLIER SOUTH — The Hillier W. I. met at the home of Mrs. A. Rattray, Consecon, last Thursday evening with good attendance.

Mrs. Mohahan 1st vice-president welcomed the ladies and opened the meeting with usual procedure.

Correspondence included a letter from Mrs. Haggerty and Mrs. G. Smith who gave notice of achievement day to be held at Picton, February 8th, also regarding the new project and training school date.

Requests for layettes and used clothing were laid over for further discussion and action next month.

The branch aproved of Mrs. Best and Mrs. Alexander being class leaders for new project with training school expenses to be paid. These ladies deserve praise for their efficiency in splendid leadership given, hopeful they can again carry on.

After the roll call, Mrs. Smith district president, was called to give her report, which related to the experiences and account of the Ottawa conference. Mrs. Smith brought greetings from the district and asked the branch to send suggestions for the 50th anniversary, this year at Consecon. This is Mrs. Smith's last year and she has served most efficiently for the past two years as district president. Mrs. C. Barber will take over duties at the annual this coming summer for 58 and 59.

Mrs. Monahan on behalf of the members thanked Mrs. Smith for her fine discourse.

Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Best and Mrs. Wannamaker gave readings and assisted the hostess. Refreshments were highlighted with the serving of a dainty sweetmeat from Scotland, Mrs. Rattray's homeland.

A social half hour was enjoyed.

Next meeting to be held at Mrs. D. Boyle's — topic "Historical Research".

Chilly nights are ideal for the busy hostess trying to entertain with a minimum of preparation and fuss; she can serve something in a chafing dish. With a main dish of this type, little else is needed. And it creates a warm atmosphere that is very cozy on winter evenings.

Never Knew 'A Bad Child' Says Teacher

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — Mrs. C. B. (Kate) Andrews of Lethbridge says she has never known "a bad child."

"No matter how mischievous they were, there was always something good underneath," she added.

The 62-year-old native of Lethbridge, a teacher herself for 10 years, told a reporter she has never met a child she could not like.

Mrs. Andrews was interviewed on her appointment to the senate of the University of Alberta, the latest in a long list of achievements in many years of public service.

STARTED YOUNG

She is a trustee and a member of the Alberta education department's general curriculum committee, and is on the board of referees of the National Employment Service. The latter appointment to the board in Lethbridge came nine years ago, and she is still an active member.

Her first teaching position was in the Etzikom district of southeastern Alberta.

"I finished writing my grade 12 examinations in July, took the ribbons out of my hair, lengthened my skirts and went off to school," she recalled.

On the first day of school a 21-year-old rode his horse into the school and up to her desk.

SURPRISED RIDER

"I guess he though a horse would scare any girl who was from the city," she said. "But I'd grown up with horses, and I simply took the reins, led the horse to the door, and as I grabbed the fellow by the shirt I gave the horse a whack and away he went.

"The young fellow stayed in the room and the horse went out.

"I never had any trouble with him again."

The next year she went to the Calgary normal school for teacher training.

Since 1939 Mrs. Andrews has served on the board of Lethbridge School Division No. 7 and at present is in the midst of her third term as chairman, the first woman ever to have been chosen for that post on a divisional board in Alberta.

KEEP BUSY

PRESTON, Ont. (CP) — Celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Caskenette said their recipe for happiness is to keep busy. Mr. Caskenette, a retired steelworker makes cabinets, enjoys gardening and fishing, while his wife enjoys sewing, quilting and bowling.

Argyll Chapter Presents Slate Of Officers

The January meeting of the Argyll Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, took the form of a pot-luck supper at the home of the Regent, Mrs. A. Duffy, on Wednesday evening.

Letters of thanks were read from the recipients of Christmas baskets packed by the chapter. Mrs. Burgoyne, the educational secretary, reported a Christmas treat had been sent to the adopted school, also handicraft supplies and additional books and games. Calendars had been distributed to certain schools in the city and vicinity. Mrs. Davison reported on the "Citizenship Court" which she had attended during the month of December.

The mixed bridge will be held at the armouries early in February. Mrs. Ponton, convener of the nominating committee, presented the new slate of officers which was accepted, and they will be installed at the annual meeting to be held in February. Mrs. F. M. Sprague was appointed membership convener. It was proposed that two members be in charge of the program for each meeting.

In response to a request from the Red Cross, which is setting up a new donor service in March, the chapter offered its services and will assist for the next three months every other week. All finished work was handed in for shipment to headquarters by the end of January.

Wilderness Girl Treks Miles With Dog Team to Bring Mail

GRAND MARAIS, Minn. (AP) Janet Benson, a pretty 18-year-old wilderness girl, can't reach out her front door for a letter from the mailman.

Her "reach" is a cold seven miles across an island-dotted lake on the Ontario border.

Instead of donning slippers and a robe to step out briefly for the morning mail, Janet bundles up in a fur-trimmed parka, heavy wool slacks and moose hide moccasins for her trek to meet the mailman.

A member of one of a handful of families living on the Ontario side of Lake Sagnaga, at the end of the Gunflint Trail in extreme northeastern Minnesota, Janet was born in that roadless area and takes her chores in stride.

HITCHES HUSKIES

Twice a week during the winter, she hitches up King, Pal and Moochie, her team of husky dogs, to a sled and makes her way across Saganaga, a historic route for erly voyageurs and fur trders.

She travels across seven miles of ice to meet the mailman at the end of his rural route—one that takes him 60 miles up the Gunflint Trail from Grand Marais.

Janet and her dogteam carry the mail back to families on the Ontario side of the lake—the Irwin Bensons, the William Powells, the Frank Powells, the Art Madsens, Ernest Sitch, John Richardson and Betsy Bruneau.

All serve as guides for sportsmen who come to the area for fishing in the summer, ice fishing in the winter and moose hunting, and all trap fur-bearing animals.

GIVES THEM MAIL

Janet drops off mail to these families as she mushes her dogs back from her rendezvous with the rural mail carrier.

She has to know the way across the lake by heart. Sagnaga is 25 miles long and has some 360 islands to confuse the unwary traveller.

Janet is the daughter of Tempest Powell Benson, known in these parts as the original northwoods woman guide. Her grandmother was a Chippewa Indian.

With the lake the only means of transportation to the outside, Janet has had no chance to attend school as other youngsters do. She was educated by her grandfather, Jack Powell, through correspondence from the Ontario department of education.

Beautiful Basics

By ALICE ALDEN

With the fashion world ready for a new season, even the classics reflect the sartorial high points. And most of us are vitally interested in these basics, the simple but good clothes that make up our routine, day-by-day wardrobe. Here is the middy classic, so popular with career and college girls, smartly presented in cosy corduroy of beautiful colors. Worn underneath is another classic that goes on season after season, year after year—the long-sleeved, well-tailored shirt of fine, white, pima lustre cotton.

Simple Desserts - - - With Possibilities

By Mary Moore

This is the story of two desserts that Marianne made. One was a simple-as-possible blanc mange; the other a Bavarian cream that we dressed up for a guest dinner.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Braised Calf or Chicken Liver (s); au Gratin Potatoes; Shredded Cabbage quick-cooked in thin white sauce; Citrus Fruit Cup; Jelly Cornmeal Muffins (see Monday); Coffee.

We made the blanc mange because we wanted to get more milk into Gary who has suddenly decided he doesn't want milk. The Bavarian was made with fresh orange because I'm serving booster amounts of them—it being mid-winter and low vitamin C time.

SIMPLY PERFECT BLANC MANGE

Mix 4 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 tablespoons sugar and 1-8 teaspoon salt with ¼ cup cold milk to a smooth paste. In the top of a double boiler heat 2 cups milk, when hot add the cornstarch mixture slowly. Stir constantly over hot water until thick. Cover and cook for 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat and add 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Turn into a hould that has been rinsed with cold water and chill or spoon a few frozen raspberries or strawberries into a stemmed glass, add blanc mange and top with more berries or pour into fancy jelly mould, chill and then turn out on a serving plate and pour over it a rich chocolate sauce and sprinkle with chopped nuts.

ORANGE BAVARIAN —

Family Plain or Company Fancy

Two tablespoons plain gelatine, 1-2 cup each cold water and boiling water, 1 cup sugar, 1 1-2 cups orange juice (not necessarily strained), 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon finely grated orange rind, 1 cup heavy whipping cream. (Cream may be omitted and 1 cup ice water added with the orange juice if desired). Soak the gelatine in cold water until soft. Add to boiling water and stir until dissolved. Stir in sugar, orange and lemon juice and rind. Cool until it begins to thicken. Whip the cream until it begins to hold its shape. Transfer beater to jelly and beat till frothy and light. You may have to stand it in a large bowl of ice water to do this. Fold in the whipped cream. Pour into mould to chill. We poured ours into a 9 1-2-inch ring mould which it exactly filled. When turned out on a large cake plate Marianne decorated the border with pineapple crescents and marschino cherries and then filled the centre with skinless orange sections.

Pretty, popular.

The extra nice thing about these two desserts is that plain they can be family fare and if unexpected guests arrive then they can be dressed up at the last moment. And who hasn't had that happen to them at one time or another.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S HINT: BE HONEST WITH MAGAZINES

When you are reading a magazine that doesn't belong to you, for example, in a doctor's or dentist's office, or at your hair-dresser's . . . don't tear pages, or even a small part of a page, out of the magazine. This is a sneaky dishonesty which, if you have any sense of decency, you should scorn to do.

SHOULD SHE THANK FOR MESSAGES OF GOOD WISHES?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I became engaged very recently, and received many notes and cards of good wishes from relatives and friends. I have been told that it isn't at all necessary to acknowledge these. But to me it seems that if these people were thoughtful enough to send me their messages, I really ought to acknowledge them. What do you think? — B.L.

I think just what you think, my dear girl, and just as I hope you will always think . . . that every kind gesture made to you should be thanked for. Think of it this way: these words of good wishes are a real gift, a gift from heart to heart, and surely you don't want to be the kind of person who just casually accepts kind words and makes no bow of appreciation. And think of this too: it is particularly important for you, at this milestone of your life, your engagement, to show that you are an appreciative person, because showing appreciation is an indication of your personality, of your taste, of your knowledge of what's what. Spend your words-of-thanks generously and brightly . . . your friends will be glad you do, and you'll be glad you do.

FORMAL ANNOUNCEMENT OF SECRET MARRIAGE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) I am a senior in college, and during the Christmas holidays, I was secretly married to a boy who is a senior at a man's college quite near mine. Only our parents know about our marriage, both families approve (we and our families have known one another for several years), and my parents want to send formal announcements just as soon as possible. Would this formal way of making the announcement be correct?

(2) And one more question. We were married in a town quite near both our colleges. Would it be at all possible to omit this information on the announcements? For a certain reason we'd like to, if this would be correct.
— Reader

(1) Formal announcements of your marriage, sent as soon as possible, would be correct, in best taste.

(2) And in these formal announcements the date when the ceremony was performed and the name of the place where the cermony was performed must be given.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. F. S. — Sue runs around with an older crowd.

Sue S. — Mother is really shocked.

* * *

Mrs. F. S. — Should a girl of 19 run around with a crowd of girls ranging in age from about 22 to 27?

My daughter, Sue, works in an office where the girls are all in that age group. She has been going around with them — on dates, to parties, on a vacation trip. I feel they are much too sophisticated for Sue. For one thing, they drink too much. For another, I'm afraid they're a bit too free in their conversation with and about men.

I'm not worried about Sue's doing anything wrong. I know she has had the right upbringing and that I have nothing to fear on that score, but it just doesn't look right to other people.

* * *

Sue S. — Mother is such a prude. She always insists she doesn't worry about me and that she has no objection to moderate drinking and running around, but I know that in her heart she is really very shocked by these friends of mine.

I don't have to worry about what "other people" think because I know I'm doing nothing wrong and neither are these friends of mine. They are loads of fun and I have wonderful times with them.

As a matter of fact, these girls are so concerned about my welfare that they do not let me drink as much as they do. They call me "Baby" and really take care of me as if I were one.

* * *

The Council: There is no reason why Mrs. F. S. should not excuse her disapproval of Sue's friends on the grounds that it "doesn't look right to other people." She should not be afraid to be called a prude when she rightfully opposes her daughter's running around with a hard-drinking, free-talking crowd.

Sue shows she is very childish when she gloats over the fact that she is doing something that shocks Mother. She is undoubtedly deeply shocked herself and this lends excitement to her association with a group that is beyond the range of her interest and experience. She also undoubtedly finds childish satisfaction in being petted and "babied" by these girls.

It's quite unusual for a group of older girls to be willing to take in a girl of Sue's age and it seems very likely that these girls have some special use for Sue. Perhaps they like to use her naivete as a foil for their jokes, or they play off their mature charms against her. They inevitably fall into some odd kind of relationship with Sue because she is simply not really one of them.

In any case, it is not a good relationship for Sue, who ought to be going out with girls of her own age and men of an appropriate age. It would be a good idea if she changed jobs and got off to a fresh start socially.

Women's Activities

TRINITY W. M. S.

MADOC — Trinity W. M. S. held its first meeting of the year at the home of the president, Mrs. Albert Empey, who opened the meeting with a poem, "Speak To Us, Lord". Mrs. Bennett continued with a "New Year's Prayer" also remembering Miss Elsie Rosenberg (missionary for prayer).

Mrs. Empey passed along her thanks to the members for their co-operation during the past year. She asked for the reports of the different committees, these were most gratifying. $540. was sent to Presbyterial treasurer, and $28 also forwarded from the Mission Band. Mrs. R. C. Jackson reported over 200 books had been read during the year. The Presbyterial to be held in Napanee on February 7th was announced, also the World Day of Prayer on February 21st.

A letter of thanks was read from Miss Alexander at Ompah for the gift of candies from the society to be used on the mission at Christmas.

Miss Annie Holmes conducted the worship service, and program assisted by Mrs. P.H. Nayler, Mrs. Fleming, Mrs. E. Moore and Mrs. Tanner.

Mrs. R. C. Jackson and Mrs. Storring presented a short skit, "The Hem of His Garment." The Rev. J. F. Lane installed the officers for the coming year.

A pleasant social half hour followed.

MADOC

Trinity W.A. Elects Officers

MADOC—Trinity Church WA held the first meeting of the New Year at the home of Mrs. Tanner with a good attendance of members. Mrs. Perry Bronson, the president, was in the chair and opened with words of greetings in a poem "Happy New Year".

Mrs. Bronson passed along her thanks to the members for their hearty co-operation throughout the year.

Letters of thanks were read by the secretary that she had received from the shut-ins and sick who were remembered at Christmas with boxes of fruit. Mrs. W. McCoy, the treasurer, gave the financial report which was gratifying, $1103.76 having been made during the year.

This was followed by the installating of the officers for the New Year by Mrs. R. C. Jackson, with Mrs. O. B. Jackson offering prayer.

Mrs. Bronson gave a short resume of the story of the life of Miss A. Sullivan, who was Helen Keller's teacher and companion during her life. Mrs. Fred Rogers gave a reading, "Women and the Master".

The worship service was conducted by Mrs. C. Whytock assisted by Mrs. Hayton, who read the Bible Story as recorded in Matthew. The flight into Egypt. The comment was given by Mrs. Whytock. The theme being, "The Abundant Life" and the topic, "Another Way", concluding with prayer, the hostess and assistants served afternoon tea.

DIE IN FIRE

BOSTON (AP) — Three lodgers were killed, six others were injured, and six were carried to safety over ladders when fire swept a five - storey apartment house Sunday. A score of firefighters were overcome and revived on the scene and 80 persons were driven to the street in freezing temperatures.

Tweed

TWEED — Pleased to report T. C. Graham, the ex-reeve of Tweed, is able to be out again. He has been convalescing at his home here for many weeks following a long session in the Belleville hospital due to a heart attack.

Dr. and Mrs. Jack N. Hartt left Thursday by plane for Mexico where they will be enjoying a two-weeks' vacation. They planned to go from Malton to Chicago and on to Mexico from there.

Mrs. Ralph (Mac) McGuire, formerly of Tweed, is spending a holiday here with friends and relatives. At present she is at the home of Mrs. A. C. Blakely on Colborne St., a long time friend of Mrs. McGuire.

The many friends of Mrs. J. Foster, Jr., will regret to know she has been confined to her home for some time through illness and at the time of writing has not improved.

Mrs. William J. Woods, R.R. 1, Tweed, has also been confined to her home through illness, and the doctor has not as yet permitted her to have any visitors.

The first game of the Centre Hastings High School basketball league got under way on Friday night at Madoc. Tweed was trounced 45-4 by the Madoc squad. The following are participating in the league: Stirling, Marmora, Madoc and Tweed.

The bingos in the St. Carthatgh's school hall may be discontinued until March, notes Grand Knight Tracey Quinn, as the crowds have diminished the last few Fridays, possibly due to so many counter attractions. Watch your local newspaper for the announcement of the next bingo.

Orville Conley left of Vancouver this past week to see his brother, William Conley, who is seriously ill in that province. He was accompanied by another brother, Percy Conley, Belleville.

Mrs. Fred Mitchell returned from the Toronto General Hospital on Friday. She is slightly improved.

Congratulations to "Cathy" Quinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanis Quinn, on winning a prize of a picnic cooler in a recent contest, sponsored by a soft drink firm.

Madoc-Elezevir S.S. Assoc. Holds 8th Crusade

MADOC — The eighth annual Crusade, sponsored by the Madoc and Elzevir Sunday School Association has been held in Trinity United Church, Madoc, during the past two weeks. With Rev. Paul B. Smith, associate pastor of the People's Church, Toronto, as the speaker and Mr. Johnny Ambrose, the singing evangelist, also of Toronto, assisting in the service of song. Large crowds have been in attendance and several evenings during the campaign the large auditorium has been packed to capacity.

On Sunday evening last a beautiful tribute was paid to the late Rev. M. W. Heslip, who was so interested in these meetings by Allan Ketcheson, a past president of the association and Mr. Allan Sager, also a past president, who placed a beautiful basket of flowers at the altar in his memory. A minute's silence was observed by the congregation with a prayer by Rev. J. F. Lane. The meetings closed on Sunday evening, January 19th.

Children Unhurt After Ride in Runaway Plane

NEW SMYRNA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A runaway plane carrying three small children hopped and bounced a mile across the municipal airport Sunday and crashed into a wooded area near the edge of the field. None of the children was severely hurt.

The father, Claude P. Collier, had strapped three of his children in the rear seat preparatory to a ride.

Collier, a student pilot, was "pulling" the propeller around when the engine started.

The craft left the ground at least twice. Witnesses said it was about 30 feet in the air when it crossed a ditch at the end of the field, clipped several small trees, did a half roll and nosed down.

The children—Claude, 10; Fred, 9; and Linda, 7—crawled from the wreckage.

PREFERS QUEBEC CITY

Robert Pilot, 59-year-old artist who lives in Montreal, has travelled to many countries of the world to paint but says he prefers the old alleys and new scenic beauty of Quebec City. A native of St. John's, Nfld., Mr. Pilot last year was commissioned to paint the picture which Prime Minister Diefenbaker presented to the Queen as she left Ottawa following her visit. The picture is of Parliament Hill. (CP Photo).

Montreal Artist Only Given Five Days to Paint Portrait

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Just five weeks to the prime minister's royal party.

That was in Robert Pilot's mind one day last September while he gazed at the gold of autumn leaves along Ottawa's Rideau Canal.

Just five weeks to paint the picture—a soft, hazy, pleasant portrait of Parliament, framing the gothic Peace Tower between a September sky and reflections in the canal water.

COMMAND PERFORMANCE

It was a command performance. The Montreal artist had just been informed that he was to paint that scene as Canada's farewell gift to Queen Elizabeth.

He met the challenge. His Ottawa painting, the oil barely dry, was duly presented by Prime Minister Diefenbaker to the Queen on the eve of her departure from Canada. That night, many miles away in his Montreal home, the artist admitted to a friend:

"It is the proudest moment in my life."

His life began 59 years previously in St. John's, Nfld. It has seen many proud moments.

"I have been a lucky man," says Robert Pilot, sitting amid his canvases in a stable he converted to an art studio. He wears a burlap-brown smock over a white shirt. He is a quiet man, with blue eyes and bushy grey hair.

PREFERS OLD QUEBEC

Painting has taken him to Spain, Italy, England, France, Spanish Morocco, the United States, and across Canada. Of all, he prefers the quiet atmosphere of old alleys and new vistas in Quebec City.

"It's the cliff that makes it so marvellous."

In the Canadian Rockies on a two-month painting trip, he discovered the key to his present style.

"Mountains are absolutely impersonal. Nobody lives there. After a while, they seem unfriendly."

To put "friendliness" in his paintings, he makes use of people, spotting them as hurrying figures in almost all his present canvases, like a personal trademark.

Abstract painting has never appealed to him.

"I have followed the trend native to my own character in spite of all the changes around me," he explains. "Even so, I don't think I'm booed at even by the most avant-garde artists."

"WHOLESOME" ART

Canadian art, he says, is not to be scoffed at. He calls it "wholesome," and is proud of its "enormous diversity." On the Canada Council, committed to encouraging the arts, he says:

"I don't think a young artist should be pampered too much. They all struggle up and the good ones come out on top."

Mr. Pilot studied under Maurice Cullen and William Brymner in Montreal, and Pierre Laurens at L'Academie Julien in Paris. He experimented, but always with reality. A 1919 work, a brief excursion into a color-dabbed landscape like a pointillist painting, still hangs in his studio at the end of a Peel Street alley.

His later paintings hang in many North American and European private collections, as well as in galleries in Ottawa, Montreal, Toronto, Quebec and Hamilton. Sir Winston Churchill and Lester Pearson, two famous politicians, own Pilot paintings.

And now a painting by the same artist who camouflaged Canadian posts in Italy in the Second World War hangs in the gilded galleries of Buckingham Palace.

Were 386,000 Looking for Work In Mid-December

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians without jobs and seeking work totalled 386,000 at Dec. 14, the bureau of statistics estimated Monday.

The figure was up from 292,000 at Nov. 16 and compared with 186,000 at mid-December of 1956.

Employment in mid-December of last year was estimated at 5,580,000, about 118,000 lower than the previous month but 25,000 higher than a year earlier.

The 118,000-person decline in employment was the sharpest for any one month during the lst several years, the bureau said. There also was an increase in the number of persons working part-time.

Not included in the jobless total were 29,000 workers on temporary layoff.

A good part of the sharp reduction of the work force was attributed to layoffs in motor vehicles and parts plants and an unusually-short pulp - cutting season.

The figures are based on a sampling of 30,000 households taken periodically by the statistics bureau.

The bureau's estimate was accompanied by figures from National Employment Service showing that at Dec. 12 there were 570,674 persons registered for work with that government agency compared with 352,044 a month earlier and 314,401 in mid-December, 1956.

The latest figures given the Commons by Labor Minister Starr, however, showed 754,640 registrations at Jan. 2, against 505,357 at Dec. 5, 1957, and 438,163 at Jan. 3, 1957.

The employment service figures contain a proportion of persons who have jobs and are seeking a change of work, though the proportion never has been officially estimated.

During the 12-month period farm employment dropped to 682,000 from 693,000, while non-farm employment rose from 4,875,000 to 4,918,000.

KINGSTON HERE TONIGHT

Dick Allen, a likeable cuss with a gleam in his eye, and his Brobdignagian shadow, one Bun Cook, haul their Kingston CKLC's into town tonight to cross hockey rapiers with the Macs. Arch rivals and ancient puck feudists for many years, the clubs will likely produce the hammer-and-tongs calibre of play they are noted for—when they meet.

The Macs hold a seven-won, three-lost and two tied record with the CKLC's. They have won four times and lost once on home ice, won three away, lost twice in Kingston and tied both times on the down-east ice. The CKLC's have lost three of their last four starts, two against Whitby, so they'll be gunning for victory blood tonight. They tossed a terrific scare into the Dunlops last week, bowing in overtime 7-6 right in Blair's balliwick. They'll be hot tonight. So will the Macs. Game time 8.30.

"PLAY, OR ELSE!"

A few thousand dollars ago, Wally Lenser, the Man with the Golden Arm up around Pembroke way, invested in a hockey club. The Lumber Kings, said the Golden Lake mining, timbering tycoon, would be an Allan Cup winner this year.

Since then he has hired and fired, changed playing coaches in mid-stream, spent the pieces-of-eight like an inebriated son-of-the-sea, but this, apparently is not enough. For all this, the usual pewsters in the Memorial Arena up thataway, have developed a yen for the movies, television, the four-corners hoedowns, in fact everything but hockey games.

Now with some $15,000, he says, being invested on the wrong side of the ledger, and his Kings in actual second place in the official league standing, Mr. Lenser has a problem and an ultimatum.

The problem? Why do local fans stay away from the arena when the hometown club is only a point behind the official top-team from Belleville, now that Whitby is through?

The ultimatum: To Hull with the Lumber Kings unless the local hockey faithful turn out some 3,000 strong during the next two home games.

Mr. Lenser is not fooling. He will do just that if the Pembroke Joes and Janes do not turn out in the required numbers. We have heard Mr. Lenser make statements similar to this before. And he has yet to "welch" on one yet.

A member of the Hull Arena Commission is quoted as saying that Lenser's plan is "not impossible." Pembroke arena officials say they have heard nothing of the move. It could be they might wake up some morning and read or hear about the Kings winning, or losing, a home game in Hull.

The Hull faithful has responded well to the Ottawa Canadiens juniors, which play their home games there. The Baby Habs have a 36-game schedule in the Eastern circuit, four games with Whitby and eight with the four remaining clubs. Their schedule carries through until the last game of the season. However, if Hull is hockey-hungry and the senior "A" brand suits its appetite the Kings could make a "go" of it. Later on the Junior Canadiens, not eligible for Eastern senior playoffs, take their junior playoffs to the Ottawa Forum.

Lenser said not so long ago his players would come through—or else. Like a bolt out of the blue he "or-elsed" former playing coach Ken Campbell the other day. The axe fell suddenly, swiftly, rolling the Campbell head into the hockeyless street.

The reason? Lenser announced a cut in pay. Campbell said "Nay." He is the first to be guillotined in this manner but Lenser says any player who doesn't produce will find his head looking up at his body. "If I lose," he is quoted as saying, "I would rather lose with ten players digging in all the time than with 14, four of which are not up to par." (Note: The next game the Kings whomped Kingston 9-4.)

Earlier in the season Campbell gave up his playing coach job. Later Gerry Plamondon was appointed to fill the vacancy. Says Campbell: "All Lenser is looking for, and I told him this, is someone to do his dirty work for him. I told him about the unnecessary pressure he was putting on the team before every game by telling the players if they did not produce they would either be suspended with a pay cut, or fired completely."

"With that kind of pressure on a team which is playing in the best senior hockey Canada can produce, I feel that it is an unnecessary and dictatorial method of doing things," said Campbell.

"No player," he added, "can play his best hockey when he is told prior to a game that his performance will be watched from the stands and anyone making a slip-up will be fired from the club next morning."

Rocket 'Refs' Oldtime Game In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — The largest hockey crowd of the season here saw Montreal Canadiens star Maurice (Rocket) Richard in the role of referee as 30 of the game's former great met in an oldtimers game Monday night.

About 5,500 fans saw the Whites, led by ex-Montrealer El[illegible] Lach and former New York [illegible] Bryan Hextall, sink the Bl[illegible] headed by former Ranger Ne[illegible] Colville, 10-2.

The game was sponsored by the British Columbia Hockey Benevolent Association which provides help for needy former professional hockey players.

Richard, named an honorary chief of the Squamish Indian tribe Sunday, took his bow as referee wearing a war bonnet. The Rocket never left the ice the whole evening, continually circling around the boards autographing programs and hockey sticks.

SIGNS WITH BRAVES

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Bob (Hawk) Taylor, $100,000 bonus catcher, Monday returned his signed contract for 1958 to the Milwaukee Braves. The 18-year-old receiver, who went hitless in his only official time at bat last season, is the seventh Braves' player in the fold.

Leaf Rookie Polls 82 of 90, Gordie Howe, Harvey, Henry Tops in Other Awards Votes

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Mahovlich, Toronto Maple Leafs' big left-winger who celebrated his 20th birthday less than two weeks ago, is far in the lead as the National Hockey League rookie of the season in the mid-season voting.

For the other individual awards in the voting announced today, Doug Harvey of Montreal Canadiens had a hefty lead as top defenceman, Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings was in front as most valuable player to a team and slender Camille Henry of New York Rangers headed the poll for the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy.

The Byng award recognizes sportsmanship, gentlemanly conduct and playing ability.

For the Calder Memorial Trophy — the rookie award — Mahovlich received 82 of a possible 90 points. Mahovlich, whose home is in Schumacher, Ont., came to the Leafs this season direct from the Junior St. Michael's College Majors.

HULL SECOND CHOICE

Closest to Mahovlich were Bobby Hull, centre with Chicago Black Hawks, and goalie Marcel Paille of New York Rangers, recently demoted to the minors with the recall of Lorne (Gump) Worsley. Hull had 39 points and Paille 34.

Voting was done by hockey writers, broadcasters and telecasters in the six NHL cities. Weighted voting gives each city equal voting strength. Points compiled in voting for the second half of the season will be added to those of the first half.

Points were awarded on a 5-3-1 basis for first, second and third choices.

Harvey was winner the last three seasons of the Norris Memorial Trophy, which goes to the defenceman showing greatest all round ability. Harvey had 75 first half points. Bill Gadsby of New York followed with 55 and Fern Flaman of Boston Bruins with 13.

Howe won the Hart Trophy, as player most valuable to his team, in the 1951-52 and 1952-53 seasons and again last season. At the half-way mark he had 47 points. Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard, Montreal centre, was next with 30 Harvey had 27 and Glenn Hall, Chicago Black Hawks goalie, 23.

Henry received 52 points for the Byng award, followed by Don Marshall of Montreal with 23, Dean Prentice of New York with 19 and Henri Richard with 15.

LEW BOOSTS LEAD

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Australia's Lew Hoad overpowered Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles 12-10, 6-4 Monday night to go into a 7-5 lead in their 100th-match professional tennis series. Promoter Jack Kramer has decided to have the matches played on a best-of - three basis. Originally the matches were best-of-five but he said they have been running too long.

Carmen Basilio Named Pro Athlete of Year

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Middleweight boxing champion Carmen Basilio Monday night hauled in another big prize when he was named winner of the eighth annual S. Rae Hickok Award as professional athlete of the year.

The 30-year-old fighter from Chittenango, N.Y., was presented with a $10,000-diamond-studded, gold-buckled belt that goes with the award. The presentation was made at the annual Rochester Press and Radio Club dinner.

Basilio, who moved up from welterweight champion to middleweight king by dethroning Sugar Ray Robinson in a fierce 15-reunder, beat out baseball's Lew Burdette and Ted Williams in a three-way balloting battle for the trophy.

Canada's Empire Team Will Occupy Barracks

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's 126-man British Empire Games contingent will live for a month in a 40-year-old Royal Air Force barracks during games in Cardiff next summer.

Sir Robert Webber, a director of the Kemsley newspapers and one of the chief promoters of the games in Cardiff, said in an interview Monday the Welsh Empire Village will "provide better accommodation than many people have to live in my country."

Sir Robert described the accommodation during a press conference in connection with the games.

"Our great asset is accessibility," he said. "Our stadium, Cardiff Arms Park, is slap bang in the centre of the city and has a capacity of 60,000. There are two other stadia close by with capacity of 50,000 and 30,000 each.

"Clustered around are the venues for boxing, wrestling, fencing and other sports. We are spending close to $1,000,000 on a new swimming pool. within 15 minutes of the city."

Maroons Nip Greyhounds 4-2

CHATHAM (CP) — Chatham Maroons moved into sole possession of third place with a 4-2 OHA-NOHA Senior A victory over second-place Soo Greyhounds before 1,685 fans Monday night.

The win lifted Maroons two points ahead of Windsor Bulldogs who are one point ahead of North Bay Trappers.

Jim McBurney opened the scoring for Greyhounds at 3:37 in the first period. Jim Connelly tied the game at 4:10 in the second.

Maroons took a 2-1 advantage in the third on the first of two goals by Lloyd Ferguson before Tommy Walker tied it with his mates playing a man short. A goal by Blair clinched the win.

Netminders Don Campbell and Don Head played well throughout. Campbell stopped 23 Mar[illegible] while Head made 24 [illegible]

DeMarco, Akins Meet Tonight In Popular Bout

BOSTON (AP) — Cagey Virgil Akins and tough Tony DeMarco, a pair of explosive punchers campaigning for the welterweight title, meet again tonight in a scheduled 15-round rematch of one of Boston's most spectacular ring brawls.

The second meeting of Akins, a fighting church deacon from St. Louis, and the blocky slugger from Boston shapes up as another slugfest with both predicting victory.

"Tony is a tough fighter, but I should have an easier time," said the 29-year - old Akins who knocked out DeMarco in the 14th round three months ago.

"I'm going to knock him out," said the 26-year-old DeMarco who never before has publicly made such a prediction.

ABOUT EVEN MONEY

Despite his triumph last October, Akins is expected to enter the ring no better than an even-money choice for defence of the Massachusetts version of the welterweight championship he won by knocking out DeMarco.

The reasoning of the odds-makers apparently is that DeMarco was ahead in the first fight until Akins landed a booming right flooring Tony in the closing seconds of the 13th round. DeMarco, who had come back from two 10th round knockdowns to floor Akins for the first time in his career in the 12th, couldn't recover and was dumped three times in the 13th before being counted out.

A loss by Atkins would cost him a possible shot at the title to be recognized by the National Boxing Association. That body recently sanctioned a title bout between Isaac Logart and Vince Martinez and ruled that the winner give Akins, or any fighter who beats him, a crack at the championship.

Would Winter Canadian Nags In Jamaica

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian horses, like their wealthy owners, may soon be wintering in Jamaica if one of the island's most prominent financiers has his way.

A. E. (Abe) Issa is a director of 22 Jamaican companies who is here primarily to increase trade as a member of the Jamaican trade mission, but he is also chairman of Knutsford Park Ltd., which owns the island's oldest race track.

The trade mission's slogan is "If Canada's got it, we'll buy it," but unfortunately, Mr. Issa said in an interview, this doesn't yet apply to horses. A government ban prevents them from being imported from any country except England.

At present there are 10 race days at each of the island tracks, but Mr. Issa says increased interest means the season will be extended considerably and "we hope to have racing during the entire winter season."

"And by building up the purses for our bigger races we expect to attract the larger racing stables from Canada and the United States."

Harrison Wins Tijuana Open Stan Leonard Finishes Tenth

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP)—The professional golf nomads split forces today, some for California, others to Panama and the newly crowned winner of the $15,000 Tijuana Open, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, to Phoenix to rest up for the tournament there later this month.

Harrison who has campaigned in the tough tournament grind for about 20 of his 47 years, gave the youngsters a solid lesson in pocketing the $2,000 top money.

All he did was play unspectacular—but sub-par golf—for four rounds.

Playing the par 72 Tijuana Country Club course, Harrison did it with rounds of 71-71-69-69—280, or eight strokes under par for the distance.

LEONARD TENTH

Stan Leonard of Lachute, Que., and Vancouver, tied for the lead after Sunday's third round, turned in a three-over-par 75 Monday to end with 283 and tie for 10th place with Mike Souchak of Grossingers, N.Y., and Bill Johnston, Provo, Utah. They picked up $550 apiece.

The other Canadian in the field, Toronto's Al Balding, ended with 284 and a $331 pay-off. He and five others finished with 284.

Little - known J. C. Goosie of Knoxville, Tenn., deadlocked with Leonard for the top spot going into Monday's play, had a total of 282 which meant a tie for sixth place and $725.

While the younger fellows were shooting 65s and 66s one day and 75 and 76 the next, old Dutch was all but ignored when he finished his chores and sat back to see what would happen.

NINTH MONEY-WINNER

"I figured 279 would win for sure and maybe 280 might," said Harrison, who has won about $156,000 and ranks ninth in golf's all-time money winners.

Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., was a temporary threat but his 72 gave him 281.

When the shooting was over, four were tied at 281—Hawkins, Bo Wininger of Odessa, Tex., Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., and Jerry Barber, Los Angeles.

Tied at 282 were Goosie, Lionel Hebert, Lafayette, La., Dave Ragan, Orlando, Fla., and Gene Littler, Singing Hills, Calif.

An out of bounds shot on the seventh cost Leonard a seven and the victory.

SMALL INCREASE

Toronto Council Agrees to Build Stadium Addition

TORONTO (CP) — City council Monday unanimously agreed to build an addition to the 24,000-seat Canadian National Exhibition grandstand to provide a football stadium accommodating 9,000 persons.

The plan from the new $450,000 stand calls for 13,000 permanent seats along the south side of the field facing the existing grandstand. The possibility of an additional 2,000 temporary seats along the end zones was also mentioned

If Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union are successful in their 1959 Grey Cup bid, the new stadium will be the location of the football classic.

Track Star To Teach Tribe How to Run

CLEVELAND (AP) — It may come as a shock to the Cleveland Indians but their new manager, Bobby Bragan, wants to teach them how to run.

And Bragan has asked former Olympic sprint and hurdles champion Harrison Dillard to help the Indians develop that extra burst of speed.

Bragan, currently managing Almendares in the Cuban baseball league, arrived from Havana Monday for his first look at Cleveland.

The former Pittsburgh [illegible] manager talked in the [illegible] offices with another newcomer to the Tribe, general manager Frank Lane, former St. Louis Cardinals manager. Then he cornered Dillard, who works in the Indians' public relations office.

Bragan asked the track star to attend spring training to teach the Indians how to run properly.

"The Olympic coach in Cuba, Raudo Ruiz, has been working with some of the ballplayers down there," Bragan said, "and the results have been very good."

"Of course it takes months of practice, but I think that if Harrison would begin working with some of the players at spring training you would see a great improvement."

Scotty Bowman Says

Pembroke Invasion of Hull Is 'Ridiculous, Impossible'

HULL, Que. (CP)—Scotty Bowman, assistant general manager of Ottawa-Hull Junior Canadiens, Monday night termed as "absolutely ridiculous and impossible" a suggestion that another Ontario Hockey Association eastern division Senior A team move into the Hull Arena, site of the Canadiens senior home games.

Owner Wally Lenser of Pembroke Lumber Kings said Sunday night he might move that team to Hull in mid-season unless attendance picked up at Pembroke. Bob Guertin, a member of the Hull arena commission, Monday described Lenser's plan as "not impossible."

Bowman told a reporter the baby Habs, a farm team of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, have exclusive OHA rights for Hull. League rules did not permit transfer of one club's franchise into another club's territory.

Bowman also objected to a statement by Lenser that Canadiens, who also play junior games in the Laurier Cup series, would be moving out of the arena for junior games. They play their junior home games in the Ottawa Auditorium.

The Canadiens' official said the team has eight more senior games to play in Hull and the same number of junior league games in Ottawa. Later, when they enter the junior playoffs, they will divide their home game between the two cities, he added.

ORFU Adopts New Linemen Blocking Rule

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Rugby Football Union has voted to allow unlimited blocking by linemen.

The ruling, which has to be approved by the Canadian Rugby Union, will apply to all running plays from scrimmage, but will not apply to pass plays or interceptions.

Delegates at the ORFU annual meeting Saturday decided that in addition to linemen, backfielders designated as flankers will be allowed to block anywhere on the field. However, if there should be more than one flanker on either side of the line only the man closest to the ball will be allowed to block.

Under existing rules linemen are permitted to block 10 yards from the line of scrimmage. Two backfielders are permitted to block 10 yards on running plays but they must cross the scrimmage line at opposite sides.

The four senior ORFU clubs—Kitchener, London, Sarnia and Toronto Beaches — agreed to standardize their budgets with regard to players' salaries. The circuit will again operate with a 12-import limit.

Marlies Tag Hamilton 2-1

HAMILTON (CP) — Toronto Marlboros moved into third place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series by defeating second-place Hamilton Cubs 2-1 Monday night on Doug Riseley's goal with less than two minutes remaining in the game.

Jack McMaster got the other goal for Marlboros who are now just one point behind Hamilton. Hank Akervall was the lone Cub marksman. Marlies' game-winning goal was scored while Hamilton was a man short.

Campy Puzzled Over Ball Parks

NEW YORK (AP) — Catcher Roy Campanella, like a lot of other people, isn't sure which cities still are in the National League.

He mentioned Monday the Dodgers' new Los Angeles¼ ball park, the Coliseum, will be a better pitchers' park than several others in the league.

He was asked by reporters: "What others, for instance?"

"Cincinnati, Philadelphia," he said, then abruptly stopped. A thoughtful expression crossed his face. Then he said, half to himself:

"Boy, I got to get this league straightened out."

Tiger Cats, Lions Slated by Play In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions will play the Grey Cup champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats at Vancouver's Empire Stadium Aug. 1 in a pre-season exhibition football game.

The Vancouver team will play Calgary Stampeders here July 26. Their other two exhibition games are in Eastern Canada, against Montreal Alouettes Aug. 5 and Ottawa Rough Riders Aug. 7.

The games in Ottawa and Montreal will be the Lions' first venture into Eastern Canada.

Yvon Durelle To Get Test

MONCTON (CP) — Yvon Durelle, whose trek towards the world lightheavyweight boxing championship was interrupted by a bad shrimp, will be tested today under heavier training conditions to see if he has fully recovered from an attack of ptomaine poisoning that forced postponement of his Jan. 10 bout with Tony Anthony.

Durelle has been doing light training in his native Baie Ste. Anne, N.B. He arrived here Monday and said he felt good enough to step up the training tempo.

Durelle's manager Chris Shaban said he will render judgment after today's workout on whether he feels Durelle is ready for the rescheduled engagement with Anthony in New York Jan. 31.

Bruins Star Back Thursday

BOSTON (AP) — Winger Real Chevrefils, sidelined for nearly two weeks with a knee injury, is expected to return to the Boston lineup Thursday when the Bruins meet Chicago Black Hawks in a National Hockey League game here.

Chevrefils, a 31-goal scorer last year, worked out Monday in a light practice drill.

Habs' High-Scoring Trio Tops National League Race

MONTREAL (CP)—Despite the temporary loss of one of their number, Montreal Canadiens' high-scoring trio last week continued to make the scramble for the National Hockey League scoring leadership a rousing family affair.

Dickie Moore and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion each picked up five points in three games and Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard, sidelined for two games because of an injury, nevertheless gathered in three points to hang on to the runner-up spot behind Moore.

The Montreal trio all kept ahead of their closest pursuers. Behind them there were only minor changes in the individual official standings, released by the league today.

THREE GOALS EACH

Moore and Geoffrion each clicked for three goals and two assists. Moore's five points boosted his total to 56. The little Rocket with a goal and two assists in his single game, follows with 25. Geoffrion is in third place with 49. His 26 goals top the league's scorers. Moore and Camille Henry of New York Rangers are closest with 24.

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings failed to score but picked up two assists. He remains in a fourth-place tie at 45 points with Bronco Horvath of Boston Bruins, who had a one-one count.

Andy Bathgate of New York pulled closer to the fourth-place pair, scoring three goals plus an assist to give him 43 points. Henry failed to add to his goal total. Both he and Vic Stasiuk of Boston Bruins added two assists to remain deadlocked for seventh place with 39 points.

BELIVEAU NINTH

Montreal's Jean Beliveau, back after a 15-game injury layoff, potted a goal and two assists, moving from a 10th-place tie to ninth with his 35 points.

One point back are Billy Harris of Toronto, Johnny Bucyk of Boston and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit. Harris had only a single assist last week while Bucyk counted two goals. Delvecchio, with a two-two count, moved up from a 14th place tie.

New York Rangers were the only team with a perfect record last week, winning all three starts and regaining second place. Canadiens had one loss and two wins and head the parade with 63 points to New York's 46. All the other clubs posted one win against two losses.

Detroit Red Wings are back in third place, with 43 points, four more than Toronto and Boston and seven more than Chicago Black Hawks.

Franklin Field Saves Football For Philly

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The 68,000-seat Franklin Field, owned by Penn State University, Monday became the new home of Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League in a move league commissioner Bert Bell said "saved pro football for Philadelphia."

Frank McNamee, Eagles president, announced the switch from the 39,000 seat Connie Mack Stadium where the club has played most of its games since 1940.

The use of Franklin Field provides Eagles with one of the largest seating capacities in the league The move is expected to silence complaints of other teams about the small cheques picked up here by visiting teams.

Eddie Machen Fights Folley On March 17

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Heavyweight boxers Eddie Machen and Zoro Folley, the number one and number two ranking contenders for Floyd Patterson's crown, Monday were signed to meet here March 17 in a 12-round bout.

The National Boxing Association had proposed a Machen-Folley bout as a means of determining a logical challenger for Patterson.

Matchmaker Bennie Ford announced that Machen, of Redding, Calif., and Folley, of Phoenix, Ariz., had been signed for a $15,050 guarantee each, or 25 per cent of the gate for their bout at the Cow Palace.

At this time, no TV or radio is planned for the Monday night fight.

Machen takes on undefeated record standing at 23-0 against Folley who won 39, lost two and fought one draw.

Marlins Will Play in Miami Next Season

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Miami Marlins of the International Baseball League will remain in Miami for at least another season under an informal deal worked out by the city commission Monday for purchase of Miami Stadium.

Marlin owner George Storer agreed in an informal session to pay the city $40,000 rental on the stadium for 1958. This money will be turned over to Jose Aleman, owner of Miami Stadium, as a down payment. He has asked a total of $850,000 for the park, one of the finest in the minor leagues.

A $350,000 payment is to be made to Aleman next October. If it is not, the $40,000 down payment would be sacrificed and the property would revert to Aleman.

The decision gave Marlins a go-ahead for Friday's schedule-making meeting of the league in Toronto.

Madoc Defeats Campbellford 5-2 For Seventh Win

MADOC (Special) — Madoc Blues - and - Whites continued their march along the victory trail here last night defeating Campbellford 5-2 to rack up their seventh victory in eight starts.

For two periods Bobby Beare in the Madoc nets appeared headed for a shutout with his mates giving him a two-goal lead. Campbellford broke into the scoring in the third heat counting twice while the Blues fired home three markers to clinch the win.

Bob Taylor led the Madoc attack with a goal and two assists. Semark, Baker, McLellan and Day also scored for the winners. J. Ruttan was credited with both Campbellford goals.

Eleven penalties were handed out by Referees Ned Vitarelli and Bun Kingston of Peterborough, seven going to Madoc. Beare and Wilson in the respective goals were outstanding.

In another intermediate "C" league fixture Marmora defeated Bancroft 4-2 to strengthen their hold on second place.

WON'T MARRY HER

CAJARC, France (Reuters) — The local priest of this village in central France Sunday said he will not perform a marriage ceremony for 22 - year - old best-selling French novelist Francoise Sagan "because I consider her works are immoral." The Abbe Brau was commenting on the depositing of a copy of Miss Sagan's birth certificate at the local town hall—a necessary prelude to marriage.

Juniors Lose 6-3 to Peterborough Penalties Big Factor in Setback

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Peterborough Stoneys all but doomed Belleville Lambert-Rollins to a fourth-place finish in the OHA Junior "B" hockey league here last night by downing the construction crew 6-3 in a rather listless exhibition.

The visitors took a 2-0 lead in the opening twenty minutes and upped the margin to 4-0 midway through the second before Belleville hit paydirt. Petes had a 4-2 lead at the end of the second and outscored the Bay of Quinte club 2-1 in the penalty-riddled third heat.

Peterborough defenceman Jim Roberts, the best player on the ice on the night's play, potted a pair of goals, while John Horton also had two goals and one assist. George Casey had a goal and assist while Ron Jewell was the top playmaker with three assists. Brenton Martin added the odd goal.

Leo St. Denis registered two markers for Pete Jones' Belleville club while Jack Gill scored the other goal and assisted on both of St. Denis' for a three-point night. Jack Elliott and Gord Irwin each drew one assist.

Thirteen of the game's 24 penalties came in the third period as Belleville was never at full strength from the nine minute mark on. The losers picked up eight sentences in this period and Peterborough five. Both Petes' markers in the third came with Belleville shorthanded, the first with two of the losers cooling their heels. Over all, penalties paved the way for three Peterborough goals and one Belleville marker while the winners also netted one with themselves a man short.

Trouble on a big scale threatened to break loose on more than one occasion but referees Tim Williams and Harry Morgan assessed minor, major and misconduct sentences freely to keep the game under control. Mann and Parnell got majors for fighting at 13.20 of the first and Daley and Rowbotham got misconducts at the same time. St. Louis and Roberts were tagged with majors for fighting in the second while Joe Englis drew a major for fighting and a minor for roughing in the third. His opponent, Jack Gill, collected only a minor for roughing.

Roberts slapped home the rubber on a breakaway with his own team a man short at 4.23 of the first to open the scoring while Horton tipped in Jewell's goalmouth pass for a 2-0 score at 7.22.

Culloden of Belleville was serving a holding penalty when Martin made it 3-0 in the second while Roberts scored his second off defender Jerry Mann's stick at 10.36.

St. Denis struck back with a pair of quickies, at 15.35 and 16.42. Horton was in the sin bin when he banged the first one home standing alone in front while the second came on a long slap that Dobson fanned on completely.

Harold Carr, playing his first game in the Belleville nets, turned in a good game despite the six times he was beaten. Horton completed a beautiful 3-way pass play with Jewell and Casey for a 5-2 score while Casey was the triggerman on the next goal, Jewell and Horton helping. Jack Gill took Irwin's pass in close at 19.35 for Belleville's final goal.

LINEUPS—

Peterborough: Dobson, Roberts, Casey, Jewell, Pearson, Horton, McCormack, Parnell, Daley, Ferguson, Martin, Greenaway, English.

Belleville: Carr, Culloden, Titterson, Asselstine, Mann, Wright, Gill, St. Louis, St. Denis, Elliott, Goyer, Brennan, Rowbotham, Irwin.

Court Stars Of 5 Nations Get Tennis Bid

VANCOUVER (CP) — Leading players from at least five countries have been invited to take part in the Canadian tennis championships to be held here July 28-Aug. 2.

The tournament will tie in with British Columbia's centennial celebrations and topping the list of those invited is Sweden's Sven Davidson, ranked second among the world's amateur tennis stars.

Among others on the invitation list are former U.S. Davis Cupper Tom Brown, 1955 Canadian champion Noel Brown of California, Italian Davis Cupper Nicola Pietrangeli, Japanese star Kosie Kamo and U.S. Davis Cup players Barry MacKay and Ron Holmberg.

Australians likely to be invited include Mal Anderson and Bob Howe.

Officials say almost every ranking Canadian player has intimated he will attend the tourney.

Eminent Scientists Predict What Man Does in Space Can Cast Die Between War, Peace

EDITOR'S NOTE: Man's impending conquest of space presents an overwhelming question: Will it be employed for peace or destruction? In the following story, an AP science writer explores the huge potential of space for both good and evil.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—Space is tomorrow's cradle of fantastic new human boons.

It can bring better forecasting or even control of weather, secrets of stars and moon and mars, worldwide TV, totally unpredictable comforts and powers.

Or space is tomorrow's battleground of a savage, silent war. War between space ships and rockets whirling at dizzy speeds. Silent war because space has no air to carry the sound of exploding bombs or guns.

Eminent scientists predict men will fly in space, aboard space cruisers or platforms circling the earth.

What men do there can cast the die between peace or war. The potentials either way have been outlined by rocket and scientific experts.

Space platforms could be take-off fields for rockets making discovery jaunts to sister planets or the real moon.

From the same platforms, rockets with H-bomb warheads could be shot down to hit any spot on earth with pinpoint accuracy.

Great telescopes aboard artificial satellites could gaze clearly vast distances into space. They would be free of the shimmering distortion in seeing cause by the earth's thick blanket of air.

BIRTH OF STARS

They would see new great islands of stars, Mars' "canals," perhaps see stars being born or solve puzzles of the universe. These and other instruments might discover new sources of energy.

Or the same telescopes could peer down on earth—sky-spies observing every troop or airplane or rocket movement of a potential enemy. A threatening move . . . and obliteration from space.

TV attachments could make the watching automatic, for continuous surveillance.

But TV eyes for peace could chart cloud movements around the world, detect the birth of hurricanes and storms, vastly improve weather forecasting to aid farmer, picnicker, ship and plane. The weather satellite could signal for early, effective action for still-promised techniques of seeding clouds to bring rain where needed or divert storms to sea

Man-made moons could serve as relay stations to bounce TV signals back from simultaneous reception around the world, to communicate voices or messages quickly, accurately, anywhere.

Germany's Professor Hermann Oberth foresees a gigantic mirror "hung" in space, focusing the sun's rays, as by a magnifying glass, at any desired intensity and beam.

Sun rays could light entire cities safely by night. Sun heat rays could disperse killing frosts over orchards, melt Atlantic icebergs, open up ice-bound seaports, perhaps through heat affect cloud movements to affect weather.

Or, as a military weapon, the sun rays could set fire to whole cities and forests.

Sputniks, and moons to come, are peaceful-enough messengers to learn what space is like. And whether and how it would be safe for human travel.

Next will come bigger satellites, carrying instruments, or men. Some nation will be first.

Mistrusting intentions, a rival might launch space war, sending up explosive rockets to tear the satellite to helpless bits. Conceivably, space war would find astronauts fighting to destroy enemy space vehicles and their crews.

Is the space above earth destined for peace or war?

The decision is political. There may well be only a few years' time left.

'Bridge of San Luis Rey' To Be Presented on TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirty years ago a then little known writer named Thornton Wilder published a novel entitled The Bridge of San Luis Rey.

It was acclaimed by the critics, won a Pulitzer Prize and gradually took on the reputation of a "modern classic." Today it is generally forgotten that the novel was a tremendous best-seller.

Tonight The Bridge of San Luis Rey will be presented on television for the first time as the 90-minute Show of the Month. (CBS-TV, 9:30 p.m.) It is expected to be one of the memorable TV productions of the season. Its large cast includes such stars as Judith Anderson, Hume Cronyn, Eva le Gallienne and Viveca Lindfors.

The Bridge of San Luis Rey is a dramatic story about a group of people who were killed when the finest bridge in Peru suddenly collapsed one July noonday in 1714. It poses a searching question about man's fate. In the words of one of its characters, "either we live by accident and die by accident, or we live by plan and die by plan."

Wilder wrote his novel in the form of five separate and complete stories about the people who plunged to their death. David Susskind, the able young producer of Show of the Month, wisely realized that the form of the novel could not be duplicated effectively on television when he launched this ambitious undertaking

In the TV adaptation by Ludi Clair the five separate stories are well woven together to give dramatic pace and rising tension to a story that would remain episodic if exactly duplicated on TV. Wilder has not had anything to do with the adaptation—has not even read it.

Miss Clair's accomplishment is all the more astonishing since this is the first drama she has written for television. It went through eight drafts before Susskind and director Robert Mulligan were satisfied.

The live production, with no filmed bits, utilizes six cameras and 22 sets—believed to be the largest number of sets ever used in a television drama. The elaborate sets are laid out in two concentric circles in CBS-TV's largest New York studio. It cost $148,000 to produce. Rehearsals have consumed 20 days—an extraordinarily long rehearsal for a television drama.

In the studio is a 60-foot rope hemp bridge which will collapse on camera. "At least I hope it will collapse," Susskind said wryly. "No, change that to I know it will collapse—even if Mulligan and I have to jump on it ourselves."

Canadian Labor Congress Will Go to Govt. for Action

OTTAWA (CP) — With unemployment at a post-depression high of nearly 800,000, the Canadian Labor Congress is launching a country-wide survey aimed at determining labor's next move to produce more jobs.

As jobless figures were made known by the government Monday, the 1,000,000 member CLC announced it intends to investigate immediately work prospects over the next two months and then go to the government for action.

"On the basis of these findings," President Claude Jodoin said, "we plan making formal representations to the government for further action to relieve unemployment.

"It is obvious that steps taken so far have failed to prevent serious suffering . . . We are faced with a situation the seriousness of which can hardly be exaggerated.

The CLC chief's announcement of intention of his group to make a quick survey of unemployment at the basic union level came after Labor Minister Michael Starr, the bureau of statistics and the labor department had issued figures showing Canadian unemployment at the top of any period covered by statistics.

No valid figures are on record for the depression years, but those made available Monday were highs for any time since the start of the Second World War.

In the Commons, Mr. Starr gave the total of 796,371 as registered for work with National Employment Service at Jan. 9.

This is far and away the highest figure recorded with the government's employment agency since it was set up in 1940. While it does not reflect absolute unemployment—some of the number are looking for job shifts—it serves as a comparison.

In the highest year of post-war unemployment—1955 — the number of registrations at this time of year was 543,155. At Jan. 2, it was 754,640.

These figures compared with the newest government figure, announced in a release, of registrations of National Employment Service applications totalling 570,670 at Dec. 12.

This figure compared with 352,044 a month earlier and 314,401 a year previously.

The government statement quoted the bureau of statistics as estimating there were 388,000 persons seeking work and without jobs at Dec. 14, compared with 292,000 a month earlier and 186,000 a year earlier.

Lasky First of Triumvirate To Be Erased From Scene

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jesse Lasky was the first of a famous triumvirate to be erased from the Hollywood scene.

In January, 1914, Lasky joined with Samuel Goldwyn and Cecil B. DeMille to form the Jesse Lasky feature play company with himself as president. DeMille was sent westward from New York to find some sunshine in which to make The Squaw Man. He landed in Hollywood.

Goldwyn, 75, and DeMille, 76, are still titans in the industry. Both are multi - millionaires. Lasky, who died last week at 77, made and lost $12,000,000. But it's doubtful if his former partners had as much fun as he did.

AT THE BELLE — Joanne Woodward is co-starred with David Wayne and Lee J. Cobb in "The Three Faces of Eve", the strangest true experience a young girl in love ever lived, playing Tonight and Wednesday at the Belle. A fast-moving Western adventure, "Badlands of Montana", in CinemaScope, is the co-feature attraction.

Lasky was responsible for getting both of the film greats into the movie business. Having graduated from a cornet act in vaudeville, he aimed to produce some plays. He discussed with a play broker, Mrs. H. C. DeMille, the possibility of her son William writing an operetta for him. William was busy and successful, so Mrs. DeMille sold her other son Cecil.

Lasky outlined his proposed plot and DeMille's imagination caught fire. Together they created the operetta California, which was a hit.

Lasky's sister Blanche, with whom he trouped in vaudeville, was being courted by a glove cutter named Sam Goldfish. Sam often called at the Lasky home and talked show business. He wanted to get out of selling gloves and into the infant movie industry. Lasky was reluctant.

DeMille and Lasky continued to collaborate on vaudeville acts, but the producer could sense his partner's itch for adventure. DeMille finally announced he wanted to quit Broadway and head for the revolution in Mexico.

Lasky didn't want to lose him, so he said: "If you want adventure, I've got an even better idea—let's make some movies."

The pair took in Goldfish and started their company with $20,000 in capital.

Goldwyn, who underwent a name - change and married Lasky's sister (they were later divorced), left the company when it merged with Adolph Zukor's Famous Players.

DeMille also followed an independent course, though he stayed with Famous Players-Lasky. He made films without studio interference, turning out the first Ten Commandments among other hits. But the eastern moguls balked at DeMille's lavishness and forced him out of the company in 1924. Lasky hung on as studio head until 1932, when Paramount, along with other film companies, was in dire straits. Then the remaining member of the original triumvirate was eased out.

Though he had lost his fortune in the stock market crash, Lasky didn't give up. He came back strong as an independent producer, beginning a 25-year career of selling to the studios projects he fervently believed in.

Little Benny's Notebook

Us fellows were talking and argewing on the way to school and Dopey Shorty Judge said, My father and my mother are celebrating their wedding anniverserry today.

How long have they been married, do they remember? I said, and Shorty said, Sure they do, 15 years.

G, that's before you were born, Puds Simkins said, and Glasses Magee said, Gosh, Dopey, you're crazy for going to school when you could be staying home to celebrate the holiday.

Sure, Dopey, that's what hollidays are for, to stay away from school, Leroy Shooster said, and Shorty said, I didn't think of it, so I didn't ask them if I could, and now it's to late to go back and ask, because if they say no I'll be late for school.

Well heck, you dont have to ask if you can celebrate a holliday, it's suppose to be an honor, I said, and Puds said, Sure, if everybody asked if they could celebrate Chrissmas, some of them might get the wrong anser and be worried they asked.

Well anyways, I'd have to have an excuse note tomorrow for staying away, and maybe my mother wouldn't give it to me, Shorty said, and Glasses said, Sure she would, she'd be honored by the honor.

We'll back you up, Dopey, I said. We'll take the responsability by saying we gave you the idea, I said, and Shorty said, Then you might as well take the holliday too, and I'll take that responsability by backing you up and saying I gave you permission to celebrate it with me.

Sounding like a swell idea and we talked about it all the rest of the ways to school, but we all went in anyways, including Shorty Judge.

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Every sort of rare and successful comrade stands ready to give you the incentive, support that will take you upward in your career which you have waited for. Be explicit with them, do your share of any labor involved.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Be as public - spirited as you prefer today. Also, contact whatever higher up, financial advisor, [illegible] vital person who can and [illegible] give you the monetary assistance you need, the raise or advance in position, etc. Grow.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Look into your paper and other printed matter quickly this morning for necessary items, information. Be well-informed. Almost anything you want is yours today, so go after it. Also, enlarge your circle of worthwhile friends.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—Find more efficient and up-to-date ways of doing your regular work now. You've been in a rut. Then get in touch with clever person in business who will give you fine knowhow. Don't procrastinate. Put in motion immediately.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Here is a day to show your business acumen by making a fine contract and thereby carrying other agreements more easily, making an impression on associates. Use best charm on the individual who has looked at you askance lately.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Planetary aspects are fine for being very productive in your labors, doing those things that have been difficult recently. It would be wise to employ more modern, efficient methods in work, social or leisure activities, too.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Your finest day in many weeks to arise in a happy, cheery mood provided you have lived up to requirements of own stellar influences. Rush through unimportant work, and concentrate on recreation that makes you feel wonderful.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Close ties are deserving of your undivided thought and care during all spare time today. Therefore, once obligations are quickly out of the way, get together and enjoy one another at family table, fireside. Be happy.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Don't waste a moment of this precious day to do your shopping, paying visits that are most necessary, writing, calling on the telephone, etc., that will enable you to live more fully, happily. P. M. entertain beautifully.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Here is the right day to try out those new mechanisms, put in a finer budget, modus operandi that will save your hours of toil and oodles of expense. Make those recordings, get vocal chords in perfect condition.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A day for great fun for you. Wind up chores quickly, then off to combine business with pleasure with fine personages. Don't be modest. Ask for what you want and get it. Let sociality reign supreme, meet fine new folks.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Get going quickly on all secret little affairs that you alone can make so much more delightful, happy. Then with mind serene, be your most devoted, affectionate self with your loved ones. Let service to others become your religion.

If your child is born today . . . The child born today is the most clever and go-getter type of individual who will give you great pleasure and happiness provided you early teach the fundamental laws of life and religion, the standards. Permit your progress later to go ahead with Modern Age ideas that will add the unknown factors to age- old fundamentals, and thereby leave a famous name for his or her efforts.

ATOMIC STUDIES

OTTAWA (CP)—Three officers and a civilian engineer of the Royal Canadian Navy began this month approximately a year of nuclear - engineering studies with the Yarrows Admiralty Research Development Team at Glasgow, Scotland, it was announced Monday. Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes announced three weeks ago at Victoria that navy planners, looking to the atomic age, are studying nuclear powered vessels.

ELECTION

Public galleries overlooking the Commons were packed by people come to see what Mr. Pearson would do following his election as Liberal leader at last week's convention.

His motion said the government should resign and that Canada should have a government "pledged to implement Liberal policies." It said there had been a drastic rise in unemployment, confusion in federal-provincial relations, a halt in trade expansion and growing confusion about national defence.

His proposal was met with howls of derision from Conservatives.

Transport Minister George Hees shouted: "An election at this time wuld beat the pants off you and you know it."

"PUT THE CLOCK BACK"

Mr. Diefenbaker in a speech of two hours and three minutes—longest this session—said the Liberals are so hungry for power they would put the clock back to before last June 10 so that Canadians would have no right to say who was to form the government.

He said the Liberals don't yet realize they were beaten June 10. Referring to Mr. Pearson's closing speech to the Liberal convention, he said:

"On Thursday there was shrieking defiance. On Monday there was shrinking indecision."

Mr. Coldwell said no party could support the Liberal bid to return to power after they admitted following the last election they couldn't carry on.

Mr. Low said that both the Conservatives and Liberals are afraid of an election.

"One is afraid and the other caren't," he said.

Mr. Low made no immediate statement on whether his party will support the CCF motion.

URGES CONSIDERATION

Mr. Coldwell's proposal urged government consideration of the British free-trade proposal and also adoption of a policy of directing investment into a wide program of public development.

It was a noisy day in the Commons, with shouting, cheering and desk-thumping continuing intermittently from the time Mr. Pearson, 60-year-old former external affairs minister and 1957 Nobel Peace Prize winner, took the Opposition leader's seat vacated by Louis S. St. Laurent. Mr. St. Laurent sat on his immediate left as deskmate.

Earlier, at a Liberal parliamentary caucus, Mr. Pearson was given no direction on the position he should take in the Commons.

Mr. Pearson hammered hard on a wide range of issues, but centred his fire mainly on trade and unemployment issues.

He said that since the conservatives took office, there has been an economic deterioration "that makes us believe that the Canadian people would welcome an immediate return" of a Liberal government.

Put he said an election now would leave millions of Canadians in the position of having to choose a government without adequate information on the present "paralysis of government."

ATTACKS TRADE POLICY

He attacked the government's trade policy, particularly the proposal for a diversion to Britain of 15 per cent of Canadian imports from the United States.

He accused the government of partial responsibility for declining investment and rising unemployment.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who spent most ot last week in bed with a wrenched back, made a speech which appeared to leave the Liberals glum. It left the Conservatives jubilant.

He made the most of the fact tha Mr. Pearson had declined to call for an election.

He called the Liberals "purveyors of gloom who would endeavor for political purposes to panic the Canadian people at this time."

The prime minister's main weapon in counter-attacking the Liberals was a document which he said was a report by federal economists to the former Liberal government in March, 1957.

"BEFORE THE ELECTION"

He said this report showed that the "economic slide" had begun before the election. But the Liberals had "concealed the facts" in the report and had done nothing about its indications of rising unemployment.

"When did your hearts start to bleed for the unemployed?" he asked, pointing at the Liberals.

He said the report was "hidden away so well we just found it."

Mr. Diefenbaker's speech sparked anger once from Mr. Pearson.

That was when the prime minister said speeches by the former external affairs minister had made "seldom even an oblique reference to the Commonwealth."

Mr. Pearson, obviously angry, retorted: "That statement is contemptibly inaccurate."

Liberal members shouted at Mr. Diefenbaker "Shame," "Withdraw" and "That's a lie."

Mr. Diefenbaker replied only that Mr. Pearson should re-read his speeches during the Suez crisis in October, 1956, "and he'll find out that the facts are exactly as I said."

ELECTION HANDBOOK

Mr. Coldwell predicted that the economic report, put on the record by Mr. Diefenbaker, would be the Conservative handbook for the next election.

The CCF leader clearly indicated he doesn't think the Conservative government should act on its own in seeking dissolution of Parliament and a new election. He said this session it has received majorities greater than he has ever seen before in Commons votes.

On unemployment he charged that when growing unemployment became evident last autumn the government suggested that "as ostriches we should bury our heads in the sands."

The Conservatives had "gone back completely" on a promise to "get rid of the buccaneers" controlling the trans-Canada natural gas pipeline. The government had "tried to bury the whole nefarious deal in a royal commission."

"I regard this as a betrayal of trust."

J.W. Broughton Installs 1958 Legion Officers

MADOC — On Tuesday evening Comrade J. W. Broughton, provincial vice-president, attended the Madoc Legion meeting and installed the officers for the year 1958.

Following installation ceremonies, Comrade Broughton gave a stirring address on the duties of the members. He stated that this service club, the largest service club in Canada with over a quarter of a million members, should be larger. He also spoke on the many benefits the veterans of Canada have received because of the efforts of the Canadian Legion in their representation to the Canadian Government. He ended his address by congratulating the Madoc Branch on their increase in membership to 177 members. The meeting closed with a social half hour.

OFFICERS ELECTED

President — John Howard; 1st vice-president — Earl Morgan; 2nd vice-president Don Ash; secretary — Harry Govier; treasurer — Fred Hopkins; executive committee — Tom Burnside, Eddy Burke, Ray LaPalm; chaplins — John Bristol; Sgt.-at-arms — Mel Bronson.

Madoc

MADOC — At a recent meeting of the Madoc Brownie Pack held in the armouries, a jolly time was had. Games, songs, exchange of gifts and plenty of refreshments were enjoyed. The pack has been re-organized under the direction of Mrs. Gregor Murray (Brown Owl) and Mrs. Don Love (Tawny Owl). On behalf of the Girl Guide Association, a presentation was made to Mrs. D. Moore, former Brown Owl.

OLD BOYS' RE-UNION

Plans are under way in Madoc to hold an old boys' re-union. Two meetings have been held and a good representation of the various clubs and groups of the village attended. Dates set for the re-union were June 29, 30, 31 and July 1 and 2. The organization is to be known as the Madoc Old Boys' Re-Union and officers elected to date with power to add, are: general chairman, C. I. Ross; associate chairmen, George Devolin, Ken Holmes and Percy Gunn; secretary, Mac Wood; treasurer, Gregor Murray; invitation chairman, George West; publicity chairman, Kel Kincaid.

Citizens of Madoc village and surrounding community are all asked to co-operate; to go over the top and make it a huge success.

Hormones Fed Cows Can Affect Eaters of Beef

LONDON (Reuters) — Overdosing cattle with hormones to speed their growth can lead to sex changes in people eating the beef, a breeder is quoted as saying today.

Arthur Rickwood of Chatteris, eastern England, a farmer for 40 years, is quoted by the London tabloid Daily Sketch as saying that the use of hormones in cattle to fatten them is becoming increasingly popular with farmers.

"They can result in first-class meat for the housewife," Rickwood told The Sketch. "But they must be used with great care or they can cause sexual changes in the consumer.

"Hormones are absorbed in the human body very easily. Not many steaks are overcooked and hormones can survive heat. Wrongful results are already known to the medical profession."

SEIZE ARMS

ORAN, Algeria (Reuters) — French naval forces Sunday seized 150 tons of arms from a Yugoslav freighter forced into port here by two French destroyers. French authorities said the freighter Slovenija was taking the arms to Casablanca, Morocco, but they were destined for nationalist insurgents fighting the French in Algeria.

Liberal And CCF Motions Fail To Unseat PC Govt.

No Sign of Dissolution Of House for Election

OTTAWA (CP) — A period of testing in the Commons which could have brought on an election has ended with the minority Progressive Conservative government still in the saddle and apparently ready to stay there a while yet.

A two-day supply debate, which sparkled with brilliant and often biting debate, wound up Tuesday night in expected anti-climax. Two motions of non-confidence in the government were easily defeated with the three opposition members split among themselves.

After that verdict Prime Minister Diefenbaker gave no sign of a desire to seek immediate dissolution of Parliament for an election.

Earlier, Finance Minister Donald Fleming clearly indicated that won't be done now.

SPEAKS OF BUDGET

Instead, he spoke of bringing down a budget next session for the new fiscal year starting April 1.

His statement pointed to a probable deficit budget to help cure the economic slump:

"While next year we would unquestionably like to have a balanced budget . . . we are not going to put a balanced budget above what we regard as our firm determination to provide, through the agency of public works, jobs for unemployed Canadians."

Focal point of the debate was the first non-confidence motion to be presented this session by the Liberals. Sponsored by new Opposition Leader Lester B. Pearson, it called, in effect, for the Conservatives to resign and make way for a Liberal administration without an election. Mr. Pearson said an election now would not help the unemployed.

That was defeated 150 to 95, with only the Liberals backing it.

BEAT CCF MOVE

Just before, a vote of 221 to 24 defeated a CCF non-confidence motion advocating a study of the British free-trade proposal and a plan to direct investment into a wide program of public development.

The votes, taken before packed public galleries, showed the Commons with as close to full attendance as the 265-member House ever comes.

Six Dead After Heavy Snowfall In Western States

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Kansas City and its environs today dug out from under 15 inches of snow after the worst storm in 46 years.

The storm left 17 dead in Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and Illinois as it whipped northeastward Tuesday night.

Its fury was spent but it left 10 to 12 inches of snow in southeastern Iowa, northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin.

Most of the deaths were attributed either to accidents on slick roadways or heart attacks after shovelling snow or bucking drifts.

Most of this area got at least a foot of snow. Odessa, Mo., 38 miles east of Kansas City, had 18 inches. Kansas City's 15 was the greatest snow depth since a 25-inch storm in March of 1912.

SHUT SCHOOLS, PLANTS

A frigid paralysis still gripped the Missouri-Kansas area today. Nearly all the schools remained closed and industrial plants shut down.

Snow drifts up to six feet deep blocked five major highways. Other main arteries were reduced to one-way traffic in spots, on packed snow and ice.

Snow plow crews gave up the fight during the day but turned out in force when the storm ended.

Their progress was slow and today main thoroughfares still were packed trenches only two lanes wide between high ridges of snow at the curbs.

Downtown hotels overflowed Tuesday night with stranded suburbanites and outlying motels with cross-country travellers.

The northeastern states now are due for a wintry blast. Heavy snow warnings were posted this morning for portions of New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine.

Royal Family Being Plagued By Newspapers

LONDON (CP) — Buckingham Palace's press spokesman said Tuesday the private lives of the Royal Family are being "increasingly disrupted" by some newspapers.

He asked the Press Council, custodian of journalistic standards, what can be done about it.

The spokesman, Cmdr. Richard Colville, made the comment in the course of talks with the council designed to improve relations between the palace and the press. The discussions will continue.

Colville has been criticized for too-silent an approach to royal activities. He has also been defended by some who say first that the job is an almost impossible one and second that the Queen wants publicity kept to a minimum.

SLEEP MACHINE

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio today said a Soviet scientist has invented a machine which puts you to sleep by shooting electrical impulses into the body. The broadcast said the machine, known as "the universal stimulator," will "enable medical men to study the complex nervous processes that go on in men and animals" and can be used to diagnose and treat nervous ailments.

Robbie Burns To Be Honored In Many Cities

The haggis will be piped in with due ceremony in most Canadian cities this weekend when the "immortal memory" address is delivered to commemorate Robert Burns Day Jan. 25.

Quebec City's St. Andrew's Society will do without haggis.

"No haggis, thank heaven," said Lt.-Col. J. Gordon Ross, society president. "My family has been in Quebec City for 149 years so we're far away from the custom. Even new members who have come recently from Scotland don't like it. Besides, there's no one here who can make it."

Jan. 25 is set aside to commemorate the great poet's birth on that day in 1759.

St. John's, Nfld., is probably the only Canadian city to declare the day an official holiday, but the Burns dinner was cancelled last year and no special celebration is planned this year.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — The extensive low pressure system which has caused rain in the eastern states and some heavy snow in the corn belt states is shifting eastward to the Atlantic coast. Light snow which has fallen over most of Southern Ontario has just about ended.

A fresh outbreak of Arctic air has invaded Northern Ontario and is expected to spread over Southern Ontario tonight.

REUTHER INVITES GM PRESIDENT TO GIVE VIEWS

Promised Courteous Hearing at Meeting

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther is staking his reputation as a labor leader who does the unusual by going before a special convention of his United Auto Workers union with a revolutionary profit-sharing plan for the car industry.

In a surprise move on the eve of the convention, Reuther Tuesday night invited General Motors President Harlow H. Curtice to appear as a guest speaker before the convention and tell the delegates how to shape their bargaining demands.

There was no immediate reply from Curtice.

Reuther wired Curtice: "We can assure you of a courteous hearing, and you may take as much time as may be required to set forth your position in detail."

Reuther noted that Curtice last week had termed the UAW's new bargaining plan "wholly unrealistic" and also had expressed hope that the convention would "recognize the economic realities and adopt a sound policy."

Reuther told Curtice the delegates "are free agents."

The UAW president, in an off-the-cuff keynote speech, was ready to ask 3,000 delegates representing the union's 1,500,000 members in the United States and Canada to ratify his plan to have the big car manufacturers share profits with workers.

Acceptance by the convention of Reuther's new collective bargaining program in 1958 contract negotiations appears certain. The convention will vote on it either tonight or Thursday.

MINORITY FACTION

Reuther is expected to have no trouble controlling a minority faction that favors retaining the chief bargaining objective.

A comparatively small faction led by Carl Stellato, president of the 45,000-member local at the Ford Rouge plant, insists that a shorter work week will help solve the unemployment problem in the auto industry, particularly in the Detroit area.

Reuther surprised both industrial and labor leaders 10 days ago by announcing that this is not the time to plug for a shorter work week.

His plan features a division of profits before taxes above 10 per cent of net capital. Ten per cent would be set aside for return on investment. Of the balance, 50 per cent would go to stockholders and executives, 25 per cent would be divided among about 800,000 workers, and the union recommended, but did not demand, that 25 per cent go to customers in rebates.

The new bargaining program also calls for an unspecified general wage increase and other benefits.

Besides General Motors, executives of Ford, Chrysler and American Motors rejected Reuther's plan as "unsound."

Four Men Killed

ST. APOLLINAIRE, Que. (CP) Four men were killed Tuesday night in a violent collision between their car and a freight train near this village 15 miles southwest of Quebec.

They were identified as Andre Boucher, 19, and Roland Fortier, 35, of St. Apollinaire; Fortier's brother Raymond, 36, of neighboring Ste. Croix, and Yvon Gerald, 18, a Quebec City native working as a farmhand for Gerard Fortier, brother of the two dead men.

DIE OF COLD

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Five more deaths Tuesday brought to 29 the number dead in an unusual cold wave. Bodies of five victims of cold and exposure were picked up off the streets of the capital early today. All were destitute persons.

Discrimination Against Indians Bitterly Attacked by Newswoman

VANCOUVER (CP) — Segregation of Indians in parts of interior British Columbia is as bad as segregation of Negroes in the southern states, the publisher of a newspaper for Indians said Tuesday.

Mrs. Musie Hurley, publisher of The Native Voice, supported a statement made Monday by lawyer Peter J. Henslowe of Prince George, B.C., on refusal of restaurants in Vanderhoof, 30 miles west of Prince George, to serve Indian customers.

Mrs. Hurley said the 4,000 Indians of the Carrier tribe living on the Stoney Creek and Fort St. James reserves suffer most from the discrimination of white residents in the interior.

The situation is worst between Hazelton and Burns Lake and in Vanderhoof, she said. Indians in these areas are not allowed to stay in hotels or eat in restaurants, a situation "every bit as bad as segregation in the deepest south."

"Canada has nothing to be smug about," Mrs. Hurley said.

LAOS MINISTER TRIES OUT CF-100

In background are navigator Flying Officer Luke Caron of Three Rivers, P.Q., and Mr. Marcel Lambert, parliamentary assistant to Canada's defence minister.

Diefenbaker and Govt. Seem Assured of Clear Sailing

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his Progressive Conservative government today seemed assured of a period of clear sailing unless he himself decides to go to the people.

Two days of clamorous Commons debate ended Tuesday night with clear indication that no opposition party in the House wants to defeat the minority government and none of them want an immediate general election.

Lester B. Pearson, the new Liberal chieftain who took over as official Opposition leader Monday, immediately took steps to show he and his party did not want to force a general election.

He did move an amendment to the government's motion to go into committee on estimates—an amendment which if carried would have toppled the administration.

But his first Liberal non-confidence motion of the three-month-old session was so worded—simply a request that the government hand over the job to the Liberals—that it obviously could not gain support from any other party.

A CCF non-confidence motion also was so worded that it could not command the support of any of the other groups.

When the voting came the Liberals alone voted for their motion and the CCF alone voted for theirs, and the government was handsomely sustained.

Mr. Pearson was bitterly needled by the Conservatives and by the other groups for his strange amendment. He was questioned about it by reporters.

He said it was offered because the Liberals were fresh from their national convention which elected him last week and had adopted a platform that he thought should commend itself as one needed to meet the country's present problems.

However, he said he knew it could not carry and he said he did not want to defeat the government. The Conservatives were too anxious to be defeated, he said. They wanted the opposition to take the responsibility of forcing an election.

An election at this time would hold up progress for two or three months and prevent any measures being adopted to meet growing unemployment, Mr. Pearson said.

But the government could let the newly - revamped Liberal party take office and help it to carry on with its newly-formed policies without the disruption of an election.

Conservatives laughed at and scorned the proposal and accused Mr. Pearson of lacking the courage to make a real attempt to upset the government.

There is always the possibility that Mr. Diefenbaker will decide that his party's fortunes would be best served by an immediate fresh appeal to the electorate.

He can arrange it any time he chooses. He could bring in a measure so formulated that it could not be swallowed by any of the opposition groups.

There are 113 Conservatives, 106 Liberals, 25 CCF members, 19 Social Credit MPs and two Independents in the 265-member house.

The opposition could turn the government out any time it chose to combine against it. Mr. Diefenbaker could present a measure that would force these groups to so choose.

Or, without having been defeated, he could go to the Governor-General and ask for dissolution of Parliament and no doubt his advice would be acted upon.

Calls Pearson Sitting Duck For Diefenbaker's Big Guns

OTTAWA (CP) —Colin Cameron (CCF ,Nanaimo) today made a last-minute appeal to the Liberals to support the CCF motion of non-confidence in the government. The Liberals declined.

Mr. Cameron said if the Liberals sided with the CCF to try to overturn the government they would retrieve something from the "disaster" which had overwhelmed them yesterday.

Mr. Cameron said he thought at first that Opposition Leader Lester B. Pearson was joking when, "simpering and giggling," he demanded in a Liberal non-confidence motion that the minority Progressive Conservative government resign and the Liberals be reinstated in office without an election.

"A once-great party had the effrontery to suggest that after being thrown out of the front door that they be allowed to creep in the back door. . .

"This is Venezuelan politics, where the government changes without benefit of electorate. Even Hitler came to power first by the ballot box."

Mr. Cameron said Prime Minister Diefendbaker had done a "magnificent hatchet job" on Mr. Pearson but he wondered whether that was the role a prime minister of Canada should play.

"I wonder if he should rush with such relish into the abattoir."

The prime minister in his "savage and brutal" attack had employed "batteries or rhetoric and arsenals of vitrol and invective to shoot one forlorn sitting duck already crippled with a self-inflicted wound."

"I wonder if he (the prime minister) really believes in the humane slaughter of animals."

"One set of incompetents was thrown out of office and another set of incompetents took its place," Mr. Cameron said.

May Have Reached Low Point in Steel Production

NEW YORK (AP) — The low point in steel production may have been reached in the United States, says Iron Age, the national trade weekly, but "signs are not strong enough to predict a general upswing at this time."

Reasons for mild optimism, Iron Age says, are that the automotive industry usually needs more steel in the spring, a seasonal pickup in construction is in sight, road building will be a bigger factor this year and defence spending will have an effect.

The magazine notes that the severe drop in steel demand has intensified competition within the industry.

AIRPORT TYPE CONTROL SEEN IN SEAWAY SHIPS

Movements Will Be Charted Every Yard

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP) St. Lawrence seaway officials plan to pilfer some ideas from Airport Traffic Control to keep ships moving speedily through the giant seaway after it opens in 1959.

Big ocean ships and "lakers" will be directed by radio from four key points every minute they're in the 115-mile seaway that clears a bottleneck on the 2,400-mile water highway from the Atlantic to the Lakehead.

Their movements will be plotted by models on charts almost yard by yard. The aim of the dispatching system is to prevent congestion at any one of the seven locks in the St. Lawrence River between Montreal and Lake Ontario.

MOST MODERN

"When it goes into operation, it'll be the best and most modern control system anywhere," Sydney Hairsine of Montreal said Tuesday night.

He outlined seaway facilities at a joint session of the Dominion Marine Association and the Lake Carriers Association, representing almost 90 per cent of Canadian and United States inland Great Lakes fleets.

The seaway will be divided into four divisions with radio dispatchers established at four major locks—Cote St. Catherine, Beauharnois, Eisenhower and Iroquois. The Eisenhower lock is near Massena, N.Y., in the United States section of the international seaway.

"The Iroquois dispatcher, for example, will try to co-ordinate his part of the system so that the lock will be occupied at all times," said Mr. Hairsine, head of the Canadian Seaway Authority's electrical and mechanical division.

RADIO POSITION

A ship approaching the lock from Lake Ontario will radio its position when it is about 20 miles away. The dispatcher will plot the ship's position and either tell it to anchor and wait if a lineup has formed at the lock or give the go-ahead signal if the lock is clear.

An advance idea of traffic problems will be given this July when small canal boats using the old system are to switch to the new seaway.

A 30-mile-long lake is to be flooded to create a power pool at Cornwall, putting the obsolete 14-foot waterway in the area under water.

"We plan to continue tests on the Iroquois lock during the navigation season this summer," Mr. Hairsine said.

The tests will smooth out possible difficulties for the rest of the seaway.

Emmett Till's Mother Sues 'Look' Magazine

CHICAGO (AP) — The mother of Emmett Till, 14-year-old Negro slain in Mississippi in 1955, filed a $1,000,000 libel suit against Look Magazine today, charging two of its articles damaged the boy's memory and her reputation.

Mrs. Mamie Bradley Mobley's suit said the articles concerning her son's slaying held her up to scorn and ridicule. The articles were published Jan. 24, 1956, and Jan. 22, 1957, the suit said.

Th boy's body was found Aug. 25, 1955, in a river near Money, Miss. The boy, who lived in Chicago, disappeared while visiting relatives. Two white men charged with the slaying were acquitted in a jury trial.

Bluebirds Over Cliffs of Dover Must Wish They Were Elsewhere

LONDON (AP) — Snowdrifts isolated numerous villages in the southeast corner of England today and made it almost impossible to approach the port of Dover by land.

Traffic was at a virtual standstill in the regions of Folkestone, Margate and Dover.

About 18 inches of snow fell in Kent and wind piled it in drifts as high as five feet. Many buses were stalled and trains cancelled.

Temperatures were low for England—17 above at Newcastle-on-Tyne.

In London, only lightly sprinkled with snow, the meteorological office reported in sober officialese that "the temperature in the shade was 30 degrees above zero" at noon. There was nothing but shade, the sky being heavily overcast.

Visibility in the channel was fairly good and sea and air traffic was meeting no unusual difficulties.

Cold and snow, which forcasts said will continue, crossed the channel and temperatures fell in most continental countries.

Scores Of Persons Injured, Heavy Damage In Blast

Niagara Falls, N.Y. Scene Of Terrific Explosion

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) A railway tank car filled with an unidentified chemical exploded with a thundering roar today, injuring scores of persons and causing widespread property damage.

Police reported, however, that there apparently were no deaths.

The car was on tracks of the Niagara Junction railroad, a service line owned by truck railways coming into this heavily-industrialized city.

The blast, heard for miles, plowed a huge crater in the railway right-of-way and severely damaged houses in the immediate area.

FIND MISSING MAN

The railway reported four men were in the area of the blast. One was missing for a time but was located. Two of the men were injured.

A number of school children, mostly from Hyde Park elementary school, were among those injured by flying glass. The school was closed for the rest of the day. Eight other schools also reported windows broken.

The tank car was in a train moving through the railway's yards in the town of Niagara, just outside the city's northeast line. The explosion, shortly after 9:30 a.m., tore a wide section of the yards apart. Pieces of rail, ties and freight cars were scattered in all directions.

POWER LINES CUT

Electric service was cut off briefly for most of this city of 100,000. In the immediate area, power and telephone lines were broken by the force of the blast.

At least 31 persons were treated in hospitals. But except for the two rail employees, identified as Richard Billson, 20, and John Geeran, 64, both of Niagara Falls, none was injured severely.

The blast was heard or felt over an area at least five miles in radius.

"GROUND ROCKED"

"We could feel it before we heard it," said the operator of a nearby service station. "There was a surge of pressure in the air and then the ground rocked."

Police threw a cordon around the area in the fear the other tank cars might explode. But an ordnance disposal unit from a nearby anti - aircraft artillery base checked the area and reported no further danger. The area also was checked with geiger counters, but no trace of radioactivity was found.

Take Inventory Of Contents of Rifled Boxes

SOUTH MOUNTAIN, Ont. (CP) A police official says inventory of articles taken from 12 safety-deposit boxes here in a "thoroughly professional job" should be completed this afternoon.

Inspector Jean-Paul Laperriere of the provincial police, sent from Toronto to investigate a bank break-in at this village 30 miles south of Ottawa, Tuesday described the work of the four and possibly five holdup men thus:

"It was a thoroughly professional job. These men were no amateurs."

They chose an isolated village and studied its layout, especially the location of the bank and the bank manager's home, 100 yards apart and on opposite sides of the street.

Hotelmen Ask Increase in Price of Beer

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario hotelmen asked the liquor licence board of Ontario Tuesday to approve an increase in the price of beer sold in beverage rooms.

They also asked for reinstatement of room service for beer and liquor.

The Ontario Hotel Association asked the following changes:

Increase of four cents a bottle in Southern Ontario and three cents a bottle in northern areas to bring the price to a uniform 30 cents in the province.

Permission to sell draught beer in 10-ounce instead of eight-ounce glasses for 15 cents instead of 10 cents a glass.

The request was made in a brief from the 751-member Hotel Association, in convention here.

LAST IN 1950

President T. J. Miron of Kirkland Lake said the last price increase awarded hotelmen was in 1950 when bottled beer was increased by three cents. The last price increase for draught beer was in 1948, he said.

The association said increased costs and lower volume in beverage sales have resulted in increases in the prices of other hotel services.

As for room service, the association said there has been considerable public criticism. It referred to comments by Sir Thomas Beecham, who was unable to buy a drink in his room when he came here to conduct the Toronto Symphony Orchestra last year.

Tooth Decay Cut Two Thirds By Fluorine

BRANTFORD (CP) — A dental health consultant says this city's tooth decay rate has dropped 66 per cent since he began a 10-year study of school children after Brantford began adding fluorine to the drinking water supply.

Dr. Harry Brown of Ottawa, consultant for the federal department of national health and welfare, said Tuesday he made the study comparing school children in Brantford, Stratford, and Sarnia.

Brantford has been adding fluorine to its drinking water for the last 12 years. Stratford, which has the lowest decay-rate of any city in Canada adding fluorine, has been adding the chemical for the last 40 years. Sarnia does not add fluorine to the water.

While the tooth decay rate here now is as low as Stratford's, the doctor said, Sarnia has one of the highest in Canada.

He said every year for the last 10 he has examined about 1,800 school children. They are chosen at random and have not necessarily been the same group each year.

SPRING CONFERENCE PLANNED BY AYPA

The executive of AYPA for the Diocese of Ontario recently met at the Parish House of St. George's Cathedral in Kingston. It was decided that the next diocesan conference would be a weekend conference and that it would be held in Brockville. A suggested date for the conference to begin was May 9. The executive decided to invite the Rev. William Robinson of Ottawa to take part in the program.

It was also decided to meet civic holiday weekend for the AYPA camp which is usually held at Lyndhurst, Ont. Special projects were discussed for the camp to consider. Miss Jackie Watson is to be the camp convener.

PROPOSES LONGER DIRECTORS' TERM

Chamber of Commerce members will be asked to consider a notice of motion at their annual meeting on Monday night.

Robert Hamilton, secretary-manager of the Chamber, said he has filed a notice of motion calling for the discussion of the possibility of increasing the term of office for directors from the present maximum of two two-year terms to three two-year terms.

WATER TURNED OFF DUE BROKEN VALVE

Possibly quite a few of the residents in the area were not aware of the fact but water was turned off last night along Highland Ave. and West Dundas Street, and along West Bridge Street from Coleman to Sidney Streets. Mr. O. H. Scott, utilities manager, said the interruption was from 11.30 last night until eight o'clock this morning. A broken valve on the 16-inch watermain at the corner of Highland Ave. and Parker St. was the cause of the shut-off, it was stated.

PICTON MAN FOUND NOT GUILTY OF CHARGE

A Supreme Court jury found a 33-year-old Picton man not guilty of being in possession of stolen goods at Tuesday's sitting of the Supreme Court of Ontario before Mr. Justice Moorhouse in Belleville.

William Lorne Bentley was acquitted when the Crown was unable to prove that two typewriters found in Bentley's possession were ones stolen from a local firm.

John A. Pringle prosecuted and Bernard Hurley conducted the defence.

No $25 Charge For Blood Here

There was an error in a report in Tuesday's paper on the new limited free blood donor service, jointly sponsored by the Belleville branch of the Canadian Red Cross and the Belleville General Hospital.

Hospital authorities report that never have they charged a fee of $25 for a blood transfusion, as was implied in the story. There is no charge for the actual blood, only a small service charge for processing, they state.

The misunderstanding arose from a discussion of hospital practices in Toronto where a charge of up to $25 is made if the recipient cannot procure two donors.

This newspaper regrets the misunderstanding and extends its apologies to the hospital staff and members of the executive of the local branch of the Red Cross.

Early Opening, Later Closing Dates for All Species of Trout Favored by Fish, Game Club

The Belleville Fish and Game Club indicated to members of the Department of Lands and Forests last night that they favored an earlier opening and later closing date for all species of trout in Hastings County. The annual meeting was held at the YMCA.

Members of the club suggested March 1 as the opening and October 15 as the final day. Lands and Forests officers from Tweed told the annual election meeting of outdoorsmen that an earlier opening date would allow anglers to try their luck through the ice and, perhaps, they would hook some of the lunkers that occupy the choice holes in the county's unnatural trout waters. It was the opinion of the department officers that few anglers haunt trout streams in June because the black fly and mosquito population have a knack of driving sportsmen away then. July and August are reputed to be the poorest months for trout fishing because of the heat.

Russell Whitfield, fish biologist of the Department of Lands and Forests at Tweed, told the club that 400,000 young trout are planted annually in county waters, yet only about two per cent or 8,000 of them wind up in the frying pan. His office is puzzled about the disappearance of the remainder. He attributed their disappearance to natural predators, poor food supply and the fact that the trout were planted in waters unnatural to their way of life.

One of the club members said he dissected a dead loon last summer and found 26 speckled trout inside. He suggested declaring war on the federally protected birds.

"If we can only catch two per cent of the 400,000 trout that are being planted each year," said another sportsman, "we shouldn't begrudge loons a few."

AGAINST REDUCTION

The local club was sympathetic towards the recommendation of other district fish and game clubs that the minimum size limit (seven inches) for some species of trout should not be reduced. This was in answer to a query by the Lands and Forests department. Belleville anglers believed that reducing the size limit would only increase the number of small fish that wind up in anglers' creels. What the local anglers want are larger trout and more of them.

Mr. Whitfield said 'speckled trout fishing is more or less a local sport, so if anglers want to fish during the winter they should get together and make their desires known."

He added, though, that there is no immediate change planned for the trout season in Hastings county.

The Lands and Forests officer said the hatchery at Glenora has been tagging sport fish in the Bay of Quinte, concentrating on pickerel, to learn something more of their travels. Next year the department will tag sport fish in the Trent, Salmon and Napanee rivers. The department is interested to learn whether or not pickerel swim out into Lake Ontario from the bay.

Members of the local fish and game club asserted they are not catching a sufficient number of trout planted in this county and they didn't believe that increasing the number of speckled trout planted in county waters would increase the number caught. Also, members said current legislation covering trout angling in this county is not satisfactory, although they did not elaborate other than to indicate a changed season would be appreciated.

Following the parley with Lands and Forests representatives, club members saw a number of colored slides and two motion pictures.

Can Be No Peace Based on Fear, Kiwanians Told

A glimpse of history, a reflection on the past, and a challenge for the future were the ingredients of an entertaining address given local Kiwanians by past president Taylor K. Franklin, business administrator of Albert College, at the regular meeting Tuesday.

In his address, given in conjunction with the club's celebration of Kiwanis' 43rd anniversary, Mr. Franklin urged local members to look ahead, to be challenged by opportunities for service, and go forward to further accomplishments.

"We must take off our hats to the past and roll up our sleeves to the future," he said.

He urged his audience to consider the larger issues facing the world today, such as world peace, inflation, automation, and the development of satellites.

"We should study these problems and try to find some solution," he said.

He quoted from an article in the latest issue of the Kiwanis International written by Lester B. Pearson, dealing with peace: "The negative and insecure peace resulting from the ideological struggle between the Communist and NATO countries."

SCHOOLS GET PROPAGANDA

The speaker said schools are constantly being deluged by pamphlets sent out by the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa.

"You should be aware of this Communist infiltration at student level, and do something about it," he said. "It is Communist propaganda probably aimed at luring our future technogolists and scientists to Russia, by painting a far rosier picture of conditions than in reality exists."

"We can't expect to have real peace based on terror," he said. "At present the status quo is maintained by immense amounts of money spent by governments for defence purposes. Mr. Pearson states some hard and original thinking is needed, so that if Russia makes a move toward cooperation, we will be able to meet her half way."

KIWANIS HISTORY

The speaker recalled the first Kiwanis organization was "born" in Detroit in January, 1915, and was called the "Detroit No. 1 Club." The first Kiwanis club in Canada was the Hamilton club, which received its charter in 1916. The Belleville club was chartered by the Kingston club on May 16, 1923, he said.

Mr. Franklin noted the first president of first Kiwanis club, Detroit No. 1, died only last November at the age of 83.

Past accomplishments of the Belleville club included aid for underprivileged, provision of playgrounds, sponsoring of hobbycrafts and entertainment, to mention a few, he said.

For the benefit of new members, Mr. Franklin explained the Kiwanis has a "stake" in the summer camp at Roblin, now run by the Salvation Army.

"Kiwanis originally owned it, but sold it to the Salvation Army for $10,000, although it was valued at $20,000," he said. "We're happy with the leadership and the work going on there," he added.

RACIAL PROBLEM

Mr. Franklin, in reaffirming the objectives of community service as expressed in the Kiwanis International suggested the addition of a 10th objective —"to endeavor to promote better understanding in areas where the racial differences cause unsettlement and strife."

He particularly mentioned the "Little Rock fiasco" which provided excellent opportunity for Russian propaganda.

He warned Kiwanians not to be complacent — that racial discrimination can, and sometimes does, happen here in Canada.

The speaker urged club members to rededicate themselves to helping youth organizations, such as Circle K and the Key club, and to the mobilization of support for education.

"It is only right that those students wanting to further their education should be helped financially," he said.

Mr. Franklin disclosed a move is on foot to turn Albert College into a junior university at some future time.

In conclusion Mr. Franklin urged club members to apply their objectives to helping those less fortunate than themselves, "for it is at these times and places that heaven comes closest to earth."

Mr. Franklin was introduced by Joseph MacKay and thanked by Roy Dulmage. President Charles Lusk presented him with a token of appreciation on behalf of the club.

Prior to the address, Kiwanians were given a brief resume of YMCA membership, activities and finances, by Leslie Reid.

A belated presentation was made to Salvation Army officer Calvin Ivany by past president Bud Punchard. It was made on behalf of the club in appreciation for the Christmas program presented by Capt. Ivany.

President Lusk announced that Kiwanian Don Templeman, who is a patient in Belleville General Hospital, is progressing favorably but will undergo surgery next week.

Obituary

MRS. FLORENCE MAY HILL

In ill health for the past ten years, Mrs. Florence May Hill, 1st Concession of Sidney township, died at the Hastings County Home, early Tuesday evening. She was born at Wilton, 80 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Hogeboon and has resided in Sidney township for the past 43 years. She was well known and highly regarded in her community.

She was a member of the United Church and is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ross (Lulu) Melburn of Peterborough, Mrs. Walter (Hattie) Wightman of Belleville and two sons, Irvin Hill of Peterborough and Archie Hill, member of the Belleville Fire Department.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, Highland Avenue. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

55 Persons Left Homeless By Fires Aided

A total of 55 persons, 29 of them children, left homeless because of fires, were helped during the year by the Disaster Committee of the Belleville branch of the Red Cross, committee chairman, Mrs. Effie McCabe, announced in a report submitted at the annual meeting of the local branch Monday night.

Homes were found for the unfortunate families and new bedding and clothing donated by Belleville citizens were supplied by the committee.

The committee's activities were increased during the past few months by the recent rash of fires in Belleville and the county. In all cases the homes destroyed were not covered by insurance, she said.

It was reported five different lodgings have been secured for 19 people left homeless from the Station Street fire.

In her report, Mrs. McCabe paid tribute to radio station CJBQ, Trenton Chief Jack Taylor, Mrs. W. C. McCutcheon and her committee, Mrs. Jack Marsh and Bill Hurst.

Will Be Guests At Two Dinners

Members of Hastings county council will set some kind of a record for dining out during their inaugural session of council being held at Shire Hall this week.

Yesterday council voted to accept the invitation from the Belleville Y.M.C.A. to be their guests at a civic dinner to be held tonight (Wednesday) in connection with the observance of Y.M.C.A. Week.

For Thursday evening county councillors have been invited to a Batawa dinner meeting at which about 100 mayors and reeves in the district will attend. During the dinner meeting tribute will be paid to civic government and military leaders of the district. The speaker is Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Ontario Minister of Agriculture.

Hospital for Sick Children Work Outlined to Auxiliary

Approximately 200 members attended the annual luncheon dinner of the Belleville General Hospital Women's Auxiliary, held yesterday in the main dining room of Hotel Quinte. The new president, Mrs. W. H. Finkle, presided and extended a warm welcome to the guest speaker Dr. G. W. A. Currie, administrator of the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto; to the assembled guests, to those from Dr. Currie's home town of Picton, and to the officials of the municipality, hospital and the church.

After the invocation by the Reverend R. W. T. Middleton, and the toast to the Queen, Mrs. S. Lennox Smith introduced the head table guests, who included: Dr. E. G. Kennedy, Mrs. C. F. Hepburn, Kenneth Box, administrator of Belleville General Hospital; Mrs. G. A. W. Currie, wife of the guest speaker; Mayor Gerald Hyde, Mrs. W. H. Finkle, president of the Auxiliary; Dr. Currie, Mrs. J. E. Buchan, Frank Domenico, chairman of the Hospital Board of Governors; Miss M. Peart, director of nurses of the hospital; L. McLaren, the Rev. R. W. T. Middleton, Mrs. B. E. Burley, Mrs. L. B. Fonger, Mrs. F. Beeby, head of the Opportunity Shop; Miss Nell Merry, Mrs. A. Simpson, Miss Ivy Dickens, Mrs E. H. Hall, Mrs. N. Dallas and Mrs. S. L. Smith and Mrs. Kennedy.

Dr. Currie, who was introduced by Mrs. J. Buchan, remarked that he was happy to be present on this special occasion, but that after the glowing introduction, he felt somewhat like a man at his own funeral—he hardly recognized himself, adding that he would speak on "Auxiliary Work," and not on hospital administration as had been reported.

EARLY DAYS

Beginning with the earliest foundation on the Hospital for Sick Children, and the handful of humanitarian women who were the responsible nucleus, the one little patient, "Maggie," who had been badly burned, and the six-bed appointment, he gave a graphic outline of the steady growth of both the Hospital and the Auxiliary to the present time, with its active membership of 300, and a sustaining membership of 150. Many thousands of dollars have gone into the work of the hospital, he said, mentioning the late John Ross Robertson as one of its great donors.

Today the Hospital has grown from its initial six beds to its present 632 beds, and though it is not rich, much has been done in the research field, with $600,000 being spent in research in 1957. In the annual appeal, $247,000 had been collected.

The Auxiliary of the Hospital for Sick Children does the usual work of an auxiliary, among the important things done, Dr. Currie mentioned four of the outstanding. One was the work of promoting public relations between the outside and the personnel of the hospital. The members of the Auxiliary have a splendid opportunity in getting in touch with the baker, the butcher, and the grocer, who in turn pass on to the public the work that is being done in the hospital, and vice versa, he said.

Another part of the Auxiliary's work is to supplement the paid personnel by getting volunteer workers, who have a knowledge of hospital needs, purpose and program. The volunteers look—forward to the training available, which tends for security, and by putting their talents to work they are able to select the most suitable job. It is a broadening experience, shows how to get along with others, and how to accept responsibility.

WARNING NOTE

Dr. Currie also added a note of warning to Auxiliaries: do not undertake too many projects; ask the administrator what should be done, else the Auxiliary might go off on a tangent. The administrator also has obligations to the Auxiliary.

The speaker mentioned the success of the antibiotics now in use, which allowed patients to recuperate much more quickly than in olden days, when one had to recover from being in bed too long.

In Texas a Society of "Grey Ladies" is trained by the Red Cross, fitting volunteers to work in hospitals. He added that there is also a Society of Grey Men, who add their assistance. At the Hospital for Sick Children, there are several male volunteers who entertained the children.

Dr. Currie was thanked by Mrs. B. E. Burley for his enlightening address.

Prior to the address, the business meeting was held, and reports from the various departments were read, showing a most successful year.

A presentation was made to Mrs. Buchan, president of the Ontario Hospital Auxiliary, in appreciation of her two years of splendid work.

Thanks were also extended to Mrs. Tripp for the splendid luncheon dinner provided.

The reports of the various departments are listed elsewhere in this edition, also the officers for 1958.

Welfare, Relief Committee Had Busy Year

The arrival of 250 Hungarian immigrants in Belleville during the past year resulted in an increasing amount of work for local Welfare and Relief committee of the Red Cross, committee chairman, Mrs. Allen H. Ketcheson reported at the annual meeting.

The committee arranged for medical examinations, interpreters, transportation from trains to pre-arranged lodgings (in cooperation with department of Citizenship and Immigration and the City Welfare department) and in many cases supplied suitable clothing and household equipment.

The committee even undertook to arrange a wedding "with all the trimmings" for a couple whose marriage had to be postponed because of their flight from Hungary during the revolt. A reception was held at the home of one of the members of the executive.

"The Hungarians have settled in the city and are fitting into our way of life," Mrs. Ketcheson reported. "Four or five babies were born to Hungarian couples last month."

In addition to the Hungarians, 82 other unfortunate persons, (many of them children), received aid from the committee in the form of food, clothing, medical supplies, etc.

A letter was received from a cancer patient who, with her family, was assisted by the committee to return to their home in England two years ago. At the time she was a complete invalid and required a full-time attendant. Today, after attending a clinic in England, she is able to be up and about without cruches or a wheelchair.

In her report Mrs. Ketcheson commended radio station CJBQ and Harriet Stevens for their cooperation in sending out appeals.

IN MEMORIAM

BENEDICT. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mary Jane Benedict, who passed away January 22nd, 1953.

God gave us a wonderful mother,
Her memory will never grow old;
He fashioned her smile out of sunshine.
He moulded her heart of pure gold,
He needed a new star in heaven,
A beautiful light to shine;
So out of this old world of sorrow,
He chose that dear mother of mine.

—Ever remembered by her daughters Lena and Pat, husbands and families.

BENEDICT. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mary Jane Benedict, who passed away on January 22nd, 1953.

Oh happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memories still;
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can never fill.

—Ever remembered by Ethel, Jack and children.

So out of this world of sorrow,
He chose that dear mother of mine.

—Ever remembered by daughters Minnie, Gladys, husbands and families.

BELL. — In loving memory of sister Carrie Bell, who passed away January 22nd, 1952.

In Mount Pleasant Cemetery softly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave;
Lie the ones I loved so dearly,
Though I could not save.
'Tis sweet to know we'll meet again,
Where troubles are no more,
And that the ones I loved so well,
Have just gone before.

—Zada.

CARDS OF THANKS

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was mixed to higher in active morning trading.

Index changes were extremely narrow, industrials gaining one-quarter of a point and golds, base metals and western oils showing virtually no change.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 951,000 shares, a bit lighter than Tuesday's 1,041,000.

Winnipeg and Central Gas featured industrials, trading nearly 30,000 shares in the first hour. It opened at $4.75, down 25 cents, touched $4 and settled at $4.50.

Confederation Life recovered some of its loss of Tuesday, gaining a point at 121. But Page-Hersey Tubes lost 1¼ points to 108½ and losses held a slim majority over gains in the rest of the section. Key issues, however, had more fractional gains than losses.

New Mylamaque, for the fourth straight session, featured mining activity with a five-cent loss to 25 cents amid a turnover of nearly 300,000 shares. Steep Rock was a 30-cent loser at $9.70 among index base metals and Labrador lost ¾ at 16.

French Pete had the best western oil advance, adding 20 cents at $7.45. Other changes were small.

SIGHT SPUTNIK II

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Moonwatch scientists Sunday night reported sighting Sputnik II, Russia's dog-satellite, as it sped around the earth. A spokesman for the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said the man - made moon appeared faintly, moving from the north northwest to south southeast.

OF HARDY STOCK

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Although part of his right foot was cut off when he was struck by a train, 73-year-old Bill Howe walked 200 feet to his home Monday and then called for help. Police took him to a hospital where attendants said it might be necessary to amputate his foot at the ankle.

Two Foresters' Courts Install 1958 Officers

Wednesday and Thursday nights of last week the officers of Court Belleville, 736, and Court Sharon, 1882, of the Canadian Order of Foresters were installed.

The Courts were honored by the presence of High Court officers from head office in Brantford. They were High Chief Ranger Bro. Sid Burridge, Fraternal Administrator Ted Diage and Public Relations Director Bro. Oz Cook.

These brethren exemplified the work of installation perfectly.

On Wednesday evening at the Belvedere Hotel, Chief Ranger Bro. Douglas Moxam was dinner host to Belleville's new mayor, Bro. Gerald Hyde; High Chief Ranger Sid Burridge; Ted Diage and Oz Cook; Court Belleville Bros. Doug Ptolemy, Clinton Vader, Don Hall, Frank Reed and Provincial and District Rangers Bros. Lloyd Walters and Russ Ruttan.

After the dinner meeting the brethren proceeded to the Court rooms where the meeting was opened by Chief Ranger Moxam.

Mayor Bro. Gerald Hyde extended a warm welcome on behalf of the city of Belleville to the High Chief Ranger, Bro. Sid Burridge, other high Court officers and visiting brethren.

Bro. Hyde spoke eloquently of the friendly characteristics of the city, hence Belleville is called the Friendly City. His message was cheerful, well delivered and enjoyed by all.

Bro. Douglas Ptolemy of Belleville and Bro. Percy Brown of Sydenham, reached the highest pinnacle when they were installed as District Deputy High Chief Rangers for a large area. This is the highest appointment that a subordinate Court member can receive in the order.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Officers installed for the ensuing year for Court Belleville were: Junior Past Chief Ranger, Earl Yateman; Chief Ranger, Douglas Moxam; financial secretary, Doug Ptolemy; recording secretary, John Moore; vice-Chief Ranger, Frank Reed; chaplain, Clinton Vader; conductor, Don Hall; senior and junior Woodwards, Roy Parsons and Don Shannik; senior and junior Beadles, Earl Derry and Russ Ruttan.

A number of speakers were heard and enjoyed. The evening was highlighted by guest speaker High Chief Ranger, Bro. Sid Burridge.

Respected and beloved by all, Bro. Burridge was high in his praise of officers and members of Court Belleville and the city for the good work they have done during the past year. He was confident that they would advance to greater things in the future.

Bro. Burridge had special praise for District Manager Russ Ruttan, who, he believed, had worked very hard during the past year.

After the meeting refreshments were served.

The lunch committee was aided by Lady Foresters, Sisters Betty Sweet, Lillian Stephens and Bernice Hall.

During the luncheon newly-installed Past Chief Ranger Yateman delivered an interesting message. He was certain that this was the beginning of a new era in the annals of Canadian Forestry.

Addresses were also given by visiting brethren, all wishing Chief Ranger Moxam, his officers and members the best of luck for 1958.

Thursday night the installation of officers-elect for Ladies' Court Sharon, 1882, was carried out. Sister Mildred Reynolds of Verona, Ont., was installed as District Deputy High Chief Ranger for that area.

The officers of Court Sharon were resplendent in their dark skirts and white blouses. A number of visiting women Foresters were on hand from Sydenham and Verona.

High Chief Ranger Sid Burridge and High Marshal Ted Diage carried out the duties of installation.

Sister Elsie Soules, pianist, rendered a march as the High Marshal escorted the [illegible]ly-installed officers to th[illegible]irs.

President Sister B[illegible] Sweet presided over the mee[illegible] graciously and efficiently.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Officers-elect installed for 1958 were: Hon. past-president, Sister Marg Ruttan; president, Betty Sweet; vice-president, Sister Mabel McFarquar; recording secretary, M. Ptolemy; financial secretary, Lillian Stephens; treasurer, Bernice Moore; chaplain, Madeline Whitney; conductor, Bernice Hall; warden, Eileen Marsh; inner and outer guards, Dorothy Taylor and Doreen Murray; right and left supporters were appointed by the president and vice-president.

There were many speakers and the occasion was highlighted by an address given by Worthy High Chief Ranger Burridge.

Bro. Burridge spoke of the many things accomplished by the new Ladies' Court instituted less than a year ago, and especially of its generous contribution to the Canadian Cancer Society. He congratulated Sharon Court for helping to make this city a better place in which to live. He believed that under the capable leadership of president Sweet and her officers, Court Sharon was destined for greater things in the near future.

Refreshments were served.

In attendance with High Court officers were the newly-installed D.D.H.C.R., Doug Ptolemy, Provincial and District Managers Lloyd Walters and Russ Ruttan.

High Court officers Sid Burridge, Ted Diage and Oz Cook were guests of Brother and Sister Don and Bernice Hall during their two days in Belleville.

Must Wait for Zoning Plan Before Building Warehouse

TRENTON — What could almost be considered a "test case" towards the town's newly approved plan for zoning came before the council at their meeting Monday night.

Bert Strong, Barbara Street, appeared before the town council stating he had made an application for a building permit to build a warehouse for plywood etc., on his property on Barbara Street.

He said he had torn down an old barn, which was once there, leaving the cement foundations, with the plan to build another building on the same spot sometime in the future. He said the town office had turned down his request to build due to the zoning by-law which classifies this part of his property as open space.

Speaking on behalf of Mr. Strong, Councillor Hilton asked the council if a property owner could be refused permission to build on his own land.

Following considerable discussion, Councillor James MacDonald, chairman of the town planning board, explained that the zoning plan designated the property as open space and this was the way it would have to be for a minimum of nine months, under authority granted by the Ontario Municipal Board which met in Trenton recently. The purpose of this, he said, was to give the Planning Board enough time to study their tentative plan and bring a permanent one up for approval.

He said if council started to make changes now it would never get a workable plan completed.

CAN APPEAL LATER

He told Mr. Strong that, after the final zoning plan was approved, then if there were complaints they could be brought before a special committee which will be set up. If this committee's decision is not suitable to the owner then he had the right to appeal to the town council. If he should not be satisfied with the council's ruling he then had the right to appeal his case to the Ontario Municipal Board and its decision in the matter would be final.

Asked for legal advice on this the town solicitor said this was so and things would have to remain at a standstill until the final plan was approved.

Mayor Burtt then informed Mr. Strong that in his opinion the advice of the town solicitor was sound and, although he appreciated his (Mr. Strong's) position, this was the way it had to be done.

The next meeting of the Trenton Planning Board is slated for tomorrow night in the Board Room of the municipal building.

New Communications System Said Required in Town Hall

TRENTON — A new system of telephones in the municipal building was advocated at Monday's meeting of the Town Council.

The present system is proving somewhat unsatisfactory with the ever-increasing number of telephone calls coming into the town offices. This is causing many who call to receive a busy signal, or if the party being called is out, causing others to leave their work to answer the phone and, if possible, inform the caller where he has gone.

It was felt that an immediate change in the present system should be made and the matter was turned over to the committee of Mayor Ross Burtt, Councillors Vagn Lange, and Lloyd Worrall, town clerk O. W. Larry. The town engineer, E. C. Aldersey will also sit in.

A member of the Bell Telephone Company will be invited to attend the meeting and give the various systems the town can adopt to take the bugs out of their telephone problem.

It was suggested by a councillor that the telephone people be informed of the town's need before they come to the meeting and in this way will be prepared to answer questions and make suggestions.

The town clerk will make the necessary arrangements for the meeting and will inform members of the committee when it is to be held.

Councillor Vagn Lange stated he would be away for awhile and asked Councillor James MacDonald to sit on the committee in his absence.

Councillor Lange also made a suggestion, which was listened to attentively by the rest of the council.

He suggested that one switchboard be installed to handle all the phones of the Municipal Building as well as those at the town hall, the police station, the Public Utilities Offices and the Community Gardens with an operator on the board during the daytime and with a switch to make a direct line to the police, and firemen during the night hours.

He said he felt in this way a more accurate tab could be kept on the town officials who would be required to call the operator, tell her where they could be reached or when they would be back in their office.

The committee was instructed to meet as soon as possible with the Bell Telephone representative and to take action towards the removal of the present bottleneck in the town's telephone system.

Consideration of the cost involved in the various methods of telephone service will be an important factor, although a system of satisfactory service which can be extended in years to come, will also be discussed.

Natural Gas Official Will Address Club

TRENTON — C. Wade McCoy, vice-president and general manager of the Lakeland Natural Gas Company, Kingston, will be the special speaker at a meeting in the Trenton Country Club on Wednesday, January 29 at 8 p.m.

Mr. McCoy will discuss with interested persons the different aspects of the natural gas set-up, what it means to the community. It is believed he will also discuss prices connected with the service.

The meeting was arranged by the local Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager, Alex. Gilbert.

All persons interested in this subject are asked to attend this meeting which will give them a clearer outlook on the benefits this industry, which originates in western Canada, will bring to Trenton as well as to the other towns it passes through.

FIS Remains Atop League

TRENTON — The fast skating, hard pushing F.I.S. team of RCAF Station Trenton, league, here maintained their one point lead over the second place Rockets as they defeated the Falcons 6-5 in a close game Monday night at the Community Gardens here.

The Rockets made sure F.I.S. would only stay one point ahead when they slapped the Comets with a 10-7 win during the same night. The 6-R.D. boys eked out a close 5-4 win over Headquarters in the third game of the evening. The Sparks and Combines, both in bottom place, sat out Monday night.

On Thursday night both the league leading F.I.S. and the second place Rockets have 'easy' games and both are expected to advance two points to keep the standings the same as far as they are concerned.

The officers (FIS) will meet Headquarters and the Rockets will take on 6-R.D. The cellar-dwelling Combines will meet the Sparks in seeking their first win of the season as well as the first step on the way out of the basement.

The Falcons and the Comets get the night off.

Council Shelves Sanitary Report

TRENTON — A written report from H. S. Pane, Sanitary Inspector for the town, was read at the meeting of the Town Council on Monday. Clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry read the letter.

Concerning an inspection of smoke nuisance Mr. Pane stated in his report:

"W. B. Drowley and myself inspected the Trenton Dyeing and Finishing Co., 52 Elm St., in regards to a smoke nuisance and air pollution, with Mr. Parker and Mr. Colasante the engineer, on January 16.

"Mr. Drowley expressed the opinion that everything recommended by various engineers had been done to try and remedy the situation and Mr. Drowley will be sending a report on this subject at a later date.

"We also inspected several houses, on the outside, on Sutcliffe Blvd. and Wilkins St.

"There was no evidence of soot or fly ash at the time of our inspection, with the exception of the residence of Mr. Fox on Wilkins St.

"There was quite a large volume of smoke discharging from the chimney and in the opinion of Mr. Drowley, they were burning soft coal, as there was quite a large deposit of soot on the front steps — this was definitely not fly ash.

"This appeared to be coming from their own chimney as the smoke was beating down to the ground.

"As there was no one in the house at the time of our visit, we could not verify as to what they were burning."

The town council shelved the report for future reference in the matter of smoke control for Trenton.

Kinette Club Plans March

TRENTON — "This is our first attempt for this, but we are hoping for a big success," Mrs. Lou Aziz told this reporter yesterday as she spoke on plans the Kinettes of Trenton have made for their coming Mothers' march.

The "Mothers' March" will be held on Wednesday, January 29, in connection with raising funds for the local drive of the March of Dimes to aid in the fight against polio.

It is expected that 200 mothers will turn out for this parade and more are still needed. They plan to cover every street in town during their canvass for funds. Mothers who are interested in this project are asked to give their names to Mrs. Aziz, chairman of the Kinettes committee in charge of this project, by phoning Ex 2-5643.

Homes in Middleton Park will also be canvassed and will be under the chairmanship of Mrs. Johnson of the R.C.A.F. Ladies Auxiliary.

At present there are 12 members in the Kinette Club, which is made up of the wives and girl friends of the Kinsmen.

The Kinsmen Club members have not been forgotten and will also play a part in the "Mothers' March". They will be requested to drive the mothers to the streets they are to canvass as well as to receive and count the money collected by the women.

The drives will get underway between 7 and 8 p.m.

Small Weekly Court Docket

TRENTON — Sandor Galanbos, who immigrated to Canada from his native Hungary one year ago, appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in Magistrate's Court held in the town hall yesterday afternoon and faced two charges under the Criminal Code.

Mr. Galanbos cannot speak English and was accompanied in court by an interpreter. He is employed by the Bata Shoe Company in Batawa. His case was remanded over until next Monday (January 27) at 2 p.m. until which time he will be held in custody.

He has been charged with causing a disturbance in a public place and with having an unlawful weapon in his possession with intent to commit an offence against another person.

The incident occurred recently at the hospital where the wife of the accused gave birth to a baby.

The language barrier made it difficult for the magistrate to explain to Mr. Galanbos the seriousness of the charge.

The Crown was not prepared to go ahead with the case yesterday.

Frank Mitchell also appeared in court charged with a violation under the Unemployment Insurance Act and was remanded until Monday, January 27.

Florence Larmond, 98 George Street, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a motor vehicle without a licence and was fined $10 and $7 costs. She was given two weeks to pay the fine.

Veterans Enjoy Opening Banquet In New Quarters

TRENTON — "All veterans in Trenton must be proud of this fine new building," Provincial President Fred O'Brecht told the 233 members of Branch 110 and their friends, who attended the grand opening banquet in the new Memorial Hall of the Canadian Legion here.

The provincial president was the guest speaker at last night's meeting and was introduced to the gathering by Provincial Secretary Pat Biggs.

Mr. O'Brecht said many of the members of the club have contributed to the building of the new hall by physical effort. They have come down and worked hard. It was a tremendous credit to the club. "It shows you," he said, "what the spirit of comradeship can do."

He expressed his personal gratitude to the Ladies Auxiliary of the Legion for the part they played in the building of the hall. He said the best Legions in the province are generally the ones that have a strong Ladies' Auxiliary.

The president dwelt briefly on the Canadian Legion Sports Training Plan which is now in its second year. This Legion project is planned to develop young athletes in Canada into Olympic calibre.

Mr. O'Brecht said he was convinced that war is not inevitable and he said he was also convinced that Russia "was not going to push the panic button which would start missiles flying."

He was thanked by Lou Knack, Deputy District Commander.

The banquet was an outstanding success, particularly for the Ladies Auxiliary who took over the entire eating venture.

The toast to the ladies was given by Regional vice - president Scotty Broughton and was replied to by Mrs. Lavina Leeman, president of the Ladies' group.

Branch president John Farrell introduced the guests and made the closing remarks.

Bridge Again Thwarts Passage Of Big Trucks

TRENTON — Only two accidents were reported to town police officials yesterday but with the sleet which fell during the night turning streets and sidewalks into "skating rinks", many are expected to occur today.

A tractor-trailer being driven by Talesphore Lator, 13 Tophan Road, Toronto, carrying a huge motor crane struck the town bridge at 3:15 p.m. yesterday.

The truck was going east over the bridge and the top part of the crane struck the overhead girders.

No damage was reported to the crane or the bridge.

Slight damage was caused to two cars when one of them went into a skid on turning a corner and slid into another.

Doris E. Powers, 12½ Barbara Street reported she was going north on Dundas East and proceeding onto Marmora Street when a car, being driven by Pietro Milanovitch, 132 Division Street, was going east on Gilmour Hill and had made a left turn onto Marmora Street went into a skid hitting the Powers car on the left side and causing it to slide into the curb on the east side of the street.

Damage to the Powers car was estimated at $65 and $45 to the second vehicle.

Mrs. H. Gray, 72-year-old resident of 40 West Street Trenton was a passenger in the car being driven by Doris Powers.

Seven Directors Elected to C of C

TRENTON — Ballots by mail elected seven new directors to the Chamber of Commerce board here and the successful candidates of the 13 running were named.

The ballots were mailed to the various members and were returned by Monday morning at 10 a.m., the deadline.

The new members of the board will serve a two-year term and are as follows: Norm Armstrong, E. K. Culbert, Arthur Duncan, Jack Goldberg, W. J. House, Bruce Ireland and William MacAdam.

Members of the board who have still one year to go are: Alex Wilson, Paul Tripp, John Fetter, A. J. C. Ward, C. Gillan and Dr. R. Patrick.

Alex Gilbert, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce is automatically appointed to the board.

Wing Commander E. T. Atherton has been named the representative from RCAF Station, Trenton.

At the last meeting of the town council, Councillor Vagn Lange was named to represent the town on the board.

Changes Noted In Committees

TRENTON — A few changes were noted in the list of town committees when they were brought before the town council at their regular monthly meeting on Monday night.

The list was a tentative one, subject to approval of those named, and will be given final approval by council at their next meeting.

The various groups are as follows: library, Miss A. Hayes; Board of Health, H. S. Pane, Charles Hilton, Cliff Gunter; Planning Board: James MacDonald, D. Sutherland, H. Bakely; traffic: E. C. Aldersey, F. J. Taylor, Don MacPherson, James MacDonald, G. Rathbun; recreation: Vagn Lange, C. Gould; Children's Aid Society: Charles Hilton, Ray Fox, Lloyd Worrall; Parks Board: William Ireland and John Saylor replace the two retiring members who have served their term, Dick Whitely and F. J. (Pete) Aziz. Other members of the board are chairman E. M. (Ted) Parker, Lloyd York, Miss Marion Baker and Mrs. H. Strong.

A special motion was passed concerning the members of the town's Community Centre Committee which called for the present members to retain their positions on the board until further notice. They are Cliff Baker, Don McPherson, Charles Gould, Vagn Lange, Jim MacDonald, E. M. Parker Jr., and Lyle Carr.

Mothers' March Endorsed by Mayor Hyde

Mayor Gerald Hyde announced today that he had given his official endorsation to the March of Dimes campaign committee. "This is a worthwhile project," he stated, "and I urge all citizens to make the "Marching Mothers" welcome when they call at every local home on the night of January 29th.

Over 300 mothers will be calling on a dozen of their neighbors on Mothers' March night to raise funds for the March of Dimes. The March is scheduled to start at 7 o'clock, and will be all over by 8 o'clock.

In explaining the aim of the March, Mrs. James Sisler, Chief Marching Mother, said that during the past two years, a total of 393 handicapped persons had been rehabilitated through the use of March of Dimes funds during the past two years. "This is a practical program, that has as its end result a return to near-normal living for those whose physical handicap has made them dependent upon others for help. The March of Dimes program is designed to correct the handicap, and then find some form of profitable occupation so the patient can earn his own living once again," she stated.

The city area will be divided into districts, each under a captain. The entire Mothers' March being organized by the Kinette Club, which is still short of Marching Mothers.

Mrs. Sisler stated that each volunteer will be asked to call on only 15 homes in her own district, and will be completing her calls in one hour or less.

Volunteers are asked to telephone WO 8-9786.

Claim Demurrage Not Revenue Levy

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian Pacific Railway officials argued Tuesday a proposed demurrage charge on bulk grain would not be a levy to increase revenue, but solely a method to speed the return of boxcars from terminal elevator points.

Railway representatives told the board of transport commissioners extension of the charge to grain would promote more efficient use of their equipment.

The hearings, which started almost two years ago, resumed Monday on a bid by the railways to collect a penalty of $3 a day on cars held for more than 48 hours with subsequent penalties ranging to $7 a day.

The application is being opposed by the big elevator organizations which include privately-owned and co-operative grain handling organizations.

No Shortage

OTTAWA (CP)—There is no decline or possibility of a shortage in Canadian butter production, F. J. Reynolds, president of the National Dairy Council, said Tuesday in a statement.

He was replying to a statement issued earlier Tuesday at Toronto by Robin E. Merry, president of the Institute of Edible Oil Foods, who said butter production is declining and a shortage of edible food fats has been averted in the last few years only by the use of margarine.

THE SAME - - BUT, OH, SO DIFFERENT

"Canada is experiencing its worst unemployment since the hungry thirties," The Canadian Press reported Thursday of last week in a cross-Canada survey.

The statement, in itself, is correct, but the inference that some may draw from it, that conditions today bear any real similarity to those existing during the depression days, is far wide of the truth.

In the first place, the 625,000 Canadians who were unemployed at the start of this year were only about 75 per cent of the total number of jobless at the height of the depression, in 1933.

Secondly, the Canadian labor force is much larger now than in 1933. Today 625,000 unemployed would be 3.7 per cent of the population; in 1933 817,000 jobless men and women represented 7.8 per cent of the population.

Thirdly, and even more important, is the fact that most of the present army of unemployed were working, at high wages, only a few short weeks ago. In 1933 many of the jobless had been out of work not for weeks but for years.

Fourthly, jobless people today are immeasurably better off than they were during the depression. They not only collect unemployment insurance benefits, but through an arrangement between three levels of government, federal, provincial and municipal, also receive additional financial assistance where unemployment insurance payments drop below a certain level of per capita support for the family. These payments not only assist the unemployed worker and his family, but also help to maintain business activity at a much higher level than would be the case if such benefits were not available. Most of this aid, be it noted, is not charity but is pre-paid support through insurance contributions when the bread-winner was employed.

It is true, of course, that the rapid growth in unemployment during the past few months gives real cause for concern and for the institution of efforts to check the decline in business activity.

One difficulty facing governments seeking remedial action is the determination of the cause of the business recession. It is much more difficult to cure a disease if it cannot be accurately diagnosed.

Opinions as to the cause of growing unemployment vary. The Canadian Press reports that "many officials" believe the main cause of unemployment is a slowdown of construction, hit by credit restrictions and the usual winter layoffs. That this has been a factor, no reasonable man will doubt. That it is the only cause, or even the main cause, may be disputed.

Increased immigration has been blamed. Once again, it is fairly obvious that an increase in the labor force, at a time when such an important sector of the economy as construction was being restricted, added to the problem, even though the newcomers were consumers seeking goods, as well as workers seeking jobs. Here, though, the increase in the number of jobless has been too great to support the theory that immigration is the main cause of the situation.

An additional factor, which some observers seem to overlook, is that for years consumer credit kept climbing sharply. In other words, many Canadians were spending more than they were earning. On more than one occasion, The Ontario Intelligencer suggested that this process could not continue indefinitely. In part, business firms may be paying the penalty today for too vigorous an exploitation in earlier years of Canadians' desires for goods and services.

Whether or not there is something wrong with an economy which does not permit people to consume all the goods they are physically capable of producing is another question entirely.

Akin to a curtailment of time buying is the reported increase in savings by many Canadians. Some of this saving may have preceded the growth in unemployment; in other cases savings may have been increased as a measure of prudence when the wage-earner noted many friends were on short time or out of work. The effect, in either case, would be to reduce immediate demand, but these savings will form a sound base for an improvement in business later, when economic conditions appear brighter.

Finally, The Canadian Press notes that "the Canadian unemployment picture is parallelled in the United States." Here, we suggest, may be the true key to the present situation. The economies of the U.S. and Canada are so closely linked that any decline in economic activity south of the border is bound to be reflected here. If this is true, then there are sound reasons to believe that the Canadian economy will soon receive a shot-in-the-arm from a resumption of economic expansion south of the border. The challenge of the Soviet Sputniks will result in millions of dollars being pumped into U.S. defence industries and they will circulate throughout the whole economy. Authoritative U.S. sources predict that by next fall the boom will be rolling again.

The Canadian economy may well fall into step. Unavoidable seasonal fluctuations should provide a damper during the winter months. But by the spring of 1959 we may be wondering why we ever worried about unemployment and be scratching our heads to discover some cure for the boil on the face of prosperity, inflation.

Adjective Explained

Montreal Gazette

The first of a series of six lectures on science, which are being given by McGill faculty members to a picked group of 360 Montreal high school students was delivered last Saturday morning. In it, Physics Professor Dr. E. R. Pounder offered a few basic figures about space flight which put the new age into perspective for students of all ages.

For generations now we have used the word "astronomical" to describe amazingly large figures, but only in this space age are our imaginations likely to be stretched far enough to appreciate the full meaning of the word. Dr. Pounder said, for instance, that it would cost about $15 billion to produce a rocket to the moon, which is, astronomically speaking, right next door to earth.

A trip to Mars, said Dr. Pounder, would take almost three years—despite the fact that the rocket vehicle would be travelling 20,000 miles an hour or more. The moon is a mere 240,000 miles away; Venus is about 20 million miles, and the distance to Mars, so often mentioned as a space-ship target, is 35 million miles. These are, space-speaking, earth's nearest neighbors.

A few more astronomical figures were provided at Tiddington, England, over the weekend, when the world's first atomic clock is already in operation. The clock can measure time down to one ten-thousandth of a second.

Measurements taken by the clock show that the earth's rotation is slowing down 50 times faster than was believed. This means that the time when the earth will stop rotating entirely and show only one face to the sun—is 50 times closer than had been expected.

The prospect is frightening until the figures are given. Until the clock provided new measurements, it was believed the earth would stop rotating in 800 billion years. The new measurements indicate this will happen in "only" 16 billion years.

The term "astronomical figures" begins to take on its real meanings.

Nature's Garbage Men

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

Imagine what the world would be like if things did not rot and decay. The ground would be covered with old leaves from countless years. We would literally be buried under piles of debris.

But Nature has taken care of that with a system of garbage collecting to keep the world new and tidy. Fallen leaves, old trees and so many of the things we discard rot and decay. The job is done by little garbage collectors—the bacteria. These midgets are everywhere. They attack any old stuff lying around. They break up organic material into simple chemicals. This is what is happening when a leaf or dead body is decaying.

When the job is done, the simple chemicals go back into the soil. They provide the food for a new generation of plants. The plants provide the food for a new generation of animals.

What Price Heroism?

Guelph Mercury

A young German immigrant who died because he tried to save his landlord's children was buried Thursday in Toronto in a pauper's grave decorated by a cross of flowers from the landlord and a wreath from the neighbor who found him dying in the snow.

In Toronto The Good, the City of Churches, so bereft of any humanitarian spirit that it could let such an incident take place? We are certain that no other community in Ontario would allow this young hero to rest in a pauper's grave because police could find no friends of the newcomer to our shores and he was jobless.

When he made his vain attempt to save his landlord's children in their blazing home in York Township, he did not know that they had already been rescued. Mrs. Jim Conway, whose husband found the young hero crawling in the snow muttering "I can't see, I can't see", attended the simple funeral, with her husband and the Gaetanos, whose children he had tried to save.

What price heroism!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In a letter to the Packsack, a reader tells of a young man who has a five year old and only son who suffers from an asthmatic condition that requires the employment of cortisone, which is a very expensive drug.

The young father has a job with one of our large industries. It is just an average job, paying average wages. In order to pay for the cortisone, this young man works all his Saturdays in a hardware store as a clerk. He also works every Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday night as a taxi driver.

He is a fine young fellow. But he has been pretty tired and thin the past couple of years. His friends find him a little depressed and thoughtful on the rare occasions that they see him, socially.

Some weeks ago, the Packsack tried to wax witty with regard to the national health schemes that are in the offing. We envisaged how put out many of us would be on having to line up periodically for our national health inspections, something like the way we line up, in April, to file our income tax forms.

"If," says the letter, "we had national health insurance, not this one young man, but thousands upon thousands of men and women as decent and devoted and tireless as he, would have some of this burden of costly drugs and medical services lifted off their shoulders so they could lead normal lives."

It pays to think thrice before attempting to wax witty.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PATIENCE

In the New Testament there is a line that has always inspired me. It is from the Epistle to the Hebrews. It says: "Let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus, the author and perfecter of our faith."

It is because of impatience that so many accidents occur on our highways. A little patience would have saved many a tragedy. We should "possess our soul with patience," as the Bible suggests. Corinne Updegraff Wells, in her inspiring book entitled "Pack Your Leisure with Profit and Pleasure," says that a careful adding up of the hours in a year may leave 2000 hours for free pleasure and earned happiness. Patience would have to be worked into her plan, but think of the extra joy and anticipation!

We have to possess patience to get along happily with some of our friends, but it always pays a big dividend. Patience has to be well distributed in this life of ours if we would gain distinction and honors. Have you ever noted that the impatient horse before the start of a race is all too often left behind? How about the story of the Tortoise and the Hare? Who won? Look it up and learn a valuable lesson in life!

Be patient and you will build character, as do those who build great bridges over rivers and tunnels under rivers! Think of the patience that is required of the many shut-ins, but who demonstrate great courage and who inspire so many of us. We must be patient with our teen agers. Tomorrow they will be running this world! Be patient. Have Faith.

UNTROUBLED

I don't believe 'twould rouse my ire
Or cause in me a fit of pique,
If I were to a banquet asked
And not called on to speak.

I can recall a lot of things
That I would censure and condemn,
But not being asked to make a speech
I'm very sure's not one of them.

I might take umbrage if I were Invited to a banquet seat
And then informed that if I went
I would not be allowed to eat.

I may be strange, and possibly
I don't know what my temper's for,
But not being asked to make a speech
I'm sure 'twill never make me sore.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 22nd., 1938

Mrs. Robert Williams of Stirling is the guest of Mrs. John Longwell, West Moira Street.

Miss Doris Smith spent the weekend with Mrs. William Luscombe, Trenton.

Pilot-Officer John Price White has returned to England to resume his duties with the Royal Air Force after spending a vacation with Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Price, McDonald Avenue.

At the first meeting of the newly elected directors of the Belleville Agricultural Society which was held Thursday evening Mr. Fred G. Chamberlain was elected treasurer of the society and Mr. R. H. Ketcheson was re-elected secretary. The following were named to attend the annual convention of the Ontario Agricultural Society which will meet in Toronto during the first week in February: President Dave Thrasher; Secretary, R. H. Ketcheson and Treasurer, Mr. Fred G. Chamberlain. This is the 30th consecutive year that Mr. Ketcheson has been appointed to the position of secretary.

Mrs. L. Robillard of Toronto is the guest of Mrs. William Hughes, Queen Street.

Mr. George Booth and Mr. Bruce McCrae, well-known young Belleville men, have opened a men's furnishing store here at 279½ Front Street. Many friends wish them success.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Fulton have returned home after spending some time in Toronto.

Mr. MacLean Haig has returned home from London, England where he spent several weeks. Mr. Jack Haig, who has been abroad since early in 1937 returned with his brother.

30 YEARS AGO

January 22nd., 1928.

William John Scott of Stirling has been appointed as constable on the Belleville police force to succeed Constable Morris who recently resigned in order to join the Ontario Provincial Force here. Constable Scott is 24 years of age; he is married and has been employed as assistant cheese maker at the Stirling cheese factory.

Mr. William McIntosh is spending this week in Montreal on business.

Mr. W. W. Down of Bowmanville is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bonisteel, Chatham Street.

Mr. William Nugent of Madoc is spending a few days in town.

Mess. Don Ketcheson and Harvey Ross were home from Queen's University, Kingston to spend the weekend.

40 YEARS AGO

January 22nd., 1918.

The City of Belleville was given permission yesterday by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board to engage in the coal and wood business, the sum of $12,000. to be invested in each commodity. The city was represented at the Board meeting by Ald. A. Robinson, Ald. Parks ~~and Mr. Thomas F. Wills~~, who was recently appointed fuel controller here.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McEvoy of Campbellford are visiting friends in the city.

Mr. Thomas Montgomery, Reeve of Rawdon township, was elected Warden of the County of Hastings by acclamation for this year.

Jack Marks, an old Belleville boy, will play hockey this season with the Toronto pros; he signed yesterday. Marks was with the Quebec Club for a number of years and played with the Wanderers this season until the Red Bands disbanded. His ability as a forward and especially in back checking is well known and he should be a strong addition to the club as he is always in fine condition.

50 YEARS AGO

January 22nd., 1908.

Mr. Frank Elvins, Herchimer Avenue, is attending a Masonic meeting in Toronto.

At the annual meeting of the Belleville Cemetery Company the following directors were elected: Sherriff Hope, A. McGinnis, W. Jeffers Diamond, J. Parker Thomas, John McKeown, John W. Walker, J. L. Tickell, W. B. Riggs and S. A. Gardner. At a later meeting of the directors J. Parker Thomas was appointed secretary-treasurer and James Macoun was appointed superintendent of the grounds. The grounds committee is composed of the following: John McKeown, J. W. Walker and J. L. Tickell.

Dr. Harper, reeve of Madoc village was in town today.

In a hockey match between teams representing the Ritchie Store and the city jewellers, the gold beaters proved to be too strong for the ribbon sellers in fact they played "rings" around them. The Jewellers, however, need not have been so aggressive; they bumped the dry goods men around in a most unladylike manner, and won by a score of 3-1. The following composed the teams: Jewellers — Bongard, Bull, Butterfield, Zufelt, Bell, Warham and Burns; Ritchie Store — Ridley, Ashley, Wilson, Bateson, Taugher, Byam and Orr.

Lowest Bid One to Take

Hamilton Spectator

The City Council last night made a sound decision when it approved the Board of Control's recommendation that the city should accept the lowest tender on steel for the Main Street West civic centre — even though the firm was not a Hamilton one.

It was a change of position on the board's part, and a wise one. Certainly it is an attractive argument, particularly when unemployment figures here are high, that a local tender should be accepted in an effort to provide more work for Hamiltonians. This was the thought of the Mayor and the majority of the controllers when, several days ago, they originally recommended that the local company be given the contract — even though its tender was $30,000 higher than the out-of-town one.

At the time, Controller Leslie Parker saw the dangers inherent in this principle of local patriotism at all costs. Later his colleagues changed their minds, rescinded their previous decision and recommended that the lowest tender be accepted. It is true that their first decision brought a powerful protest, but we prefer to think that they had given the question sincere second thoughts to arrive at the wiser judgment.

At the recent board meeting, Controller Pritchard put it this way: "In view of the fact that so much work comes to this city from contracts awarded outside Hamilton, I am now convinced that we should have maintained our normal practice and, all things being equal, have awarded the contract to the lowest bidder."

We regret that a Hamilton firm was not the lowest bidder. But we also believe it is short-sighted to erect an economic barrier around the city. This could result in wide resentment and reprisals which, in the long run, actually might operate to the disadvantage of the employment situation here.

Natural Color Restored

A Massachusetts reader reports:

"Before I was forty (I'm now 46) my hair began to turn gray. It had been brown. Year by year, it looked more drab and it seemed lifeless. About April, '56, I began taking the iodin ration as you direct in your pamphlet. I thought it might dispel that "melancholic outlook" which had come over me in recent years.

"Believe it or not — I'm afraid my friends do not, but you're no friend — I mean you don't know me from Eve, so why should I want to lie to you about this? — in the course of the last six months, my hair has become natural brown again and it has as much life and luster as ever.

"Not only that, but I'm as cheerful and happy as I was at 30 — this my friends can't deny. I doubt if any of them even suspects I'm using tranquilizers or other drugs. If any one does, she hasn't said so. "I thought I should make this report for the benefit of other women who may be as dismal and drab as I was before I discovered your column.

(Signed) ———"

No matter whether I believe it or not, as I have said here many times, it depends on how you look at it. If you're feeling fine and dandy when you look at it (in the mirror), its looks pretty good. If you're feeling worn and weary, it looks pretty bad.

I do not mean to say that restoration of the original color to graying hair is impossible. I have a fat file of reports from man and women who declare that the iodin ration has restored the original color to their graying hair.

All I can say, from my own observation, is that in any case, the iodin ration can do no harm, and in most instances, whether it has any apparent effect on graying hair or not it is likely to enliven dull spirits in the course of a few months.

Please understand, I do not advise any one to take medicinal iodine.

Christmas-Gift Mower

New York Times

Although a certain time has passed, memory continues to look back upon last Christmas morning. As usual, many things were scattered with thoughtful carelessness beneath the tree. First was a sled. It is true no one of the houshold really is of an age requiring a sled — still, the thought is part of the Christmas picture, and so there was a sled. Near by were several large packages which, as suspected by morose pre-holiday attic delvers, did indeed hold clothing. There also were tiny packages containing perfume, medium-size packages containing pipes. Alas, there were too many flat objects of long-playing size, which presently proved again that you never can tell how many drums and trumpets can be crammed onto wafer-thin records. Finally, too big to be wrapped, but bearing a large red bow in honor of the season, was a huge new power lawn mower.

• • •

Now it must be confessed that finding a power mower beneath the tree encouraged mixed feelings. To explain the matter frankly, the first was a kind of horror. It must be remembered that during the baseball season last summer — will there ever be another like it in New York?—many good games were attended because of the lack of a power mower. It was explained that after a certain age the cutting of grass by hand could be a dangerous thing — especially during sunny Saturday afternoons. It was said that someone younger, hired for the occasion, could do it well enough. It also was said, in an effort to point up the alibi, that should a power mower be discovered under the tree the summer of '58 would find its owner cutting the grass once again. At that time Christmas was a long way off, and the Dodgers were playing the Giants.

As noted, the first glimpse of that mower brought a feeling of horror. No one enjoys having a good alibi snapped like a twig. As the days passed, however, the feeling began to change. Enough of them have gone now that the new mower can be regarded with a good deal of affection. At this time of year a large share of the world reads the seed catalogues, using the gaily colored illustrations to blot out winter's ice and snow. It imagines flowers in bloom, vegetables ready for the table, and momentarily gone are the dark, dreary days which will lie between catalogue and reality. The mower improves on the catalogues. The trouble with imaginary gardens, grown from the printed page, is that real gardens must be dug each spring, and everyone knows it. The fine feature of the mower is that the lawn already is there. Testing the engine in January seems to bring June to the door.

• • •

The new mower has another excellent feature, although for the moment this had best remain a secret with the owner. Were it generally known, they would only say the matter shows too clearly the shiftiness of his low character. It is a well-known fact that in any household the younger members are the ones who enjoy mechanical things — the louder they are the better. Trying out the motor, set where the echoes will reverberate, is to call down enough racket to crack the walls. If one of the younger members of the household wishes to give up his allowance in exchange for a promise about running the noise all next summer—well, why not? There still will be ball games then, although not so many. And after a certain age noise on a sunny Saturday afternoon can be dangerous.

WHICH ROAD

We observed yesterday that The Garden of Eden story is one of the most interesting and significant in the entire Bible. In it we are told of man's fall. After the disobedience Adam and Eve hide themselves, and God, coming into the Garden calls for Adam and asks, "Where are you?"

Adam had shrugged God off his shoulders, as it were. He was out to play the game of life alone. The first result of his rebellion was that he found himself "naked" and filled with shame. That is what always follows the repudiation of moral responsibility — one finds himself deprived of his self-respect and thoroughly and fundamentally ashamed.

"Where are you?" God is still asking this question of Adam and Eve's erring, sinful descendants. It might be put in another way. "What has your sinning got you? You've had your way — now what? Was it worth while? Are you as happy as you expected to be, or indeed happy at all?"

East of Eden was where Adam and Eve finally found themselves — out of the bounds of all true happiness, banished from the love of their Creator and Father. And it is the same to this very hour. We pay dearly for our sinning. It is never worth what it costs.

Where are you? On the road that leads to happiness or on the road that leads to disappointment and sorrow?

Local Scouting Groups Embark On '58 Programs

Twenty-three Boy Scouts recently graduated from a first aid course sponsored by the St. John Ambulance corps under the instruction of Mrs. Lillian Ashley.

Graduates are Barry Simpson, Bob Weese, Denis W. Edwards, Stuart Allan Martin, Harold M. MacDonald, J. Ralph Dougherty, Dale Sullivan, Stephen Urch, Craig A. Allison, Bruce K. Jarvah, William N. Tryan, Jim W. McNamee, John A. Lupenette, Arthur Alyea, Mason Rigby, Roy Eastwood, Richard Arnott, Ted Luffman, Garnet Bird, Robert Kerr, John Holgate, Claus Demezyna and Earl Ward. The first six Scouts named received ambulance man badges.

TRAINING COURSES

A preliminary training course for leaders is well underway in the city under the direction of Art Fort, assistant regional commissioner for training. In the early stages of the course six leaders were present from Trenton and 15 from Belleville, representing 14 groups.

Some groups are not represented on the course and it is suggested that as many leaders as possible take advantage of the courses.

A preliminary training course for Cubmasters and assistants will be held in St. Thomas' parish hall on January 24 and 25 under the leadership of Flight Lieutenant Alex Jamieson, assistant district commissioner for Cubs.

Sea Scouts at Lakefield, near Peterborough, extended an invitation to local Sea Scouts to attend a bronze arrow course there last Friday and Saturday. However, because of impending inclement weather, local Scouts did not go to Lakefield.

INDOOR ACTIVITIES

A combined Ranger-Rover hobby show is planned for Scouts, Cubs, Brownies and Guides at Christ Church, February 19, 20 and 21. It will be open to the public on the evening of the 21st. This is Belleville's major Scout-Guide activity for Scout Week. Only projects of individuals are eligible. Rover Skipper D. D. Hickson is organizing the show.

Close on the heels of the hobby show comes the social evening for Scouters and assistants, who will be the guests of the Local Association. It is slated for February 22.

OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

A weekend Scout leaders' camp will be held shortly, the date to be announced. Also planned is a winter camp for first class Scouts.

APPOINTMENTS

Former assistant district commissioner for Scouts, Les Boyle, has been appointed A.D.C. for training. His former post is taken by Harry Smith, Jr., who moves up from the post of district Scoutmaster.

The new district Scoutmaster is Ralph N. Knowlton. District Commissioner is P. L. Allcorn.

NEW MEMBERS

The 1st Melrose group committee was formally accepted into the Belleville Local Association and was most heartily greeted.

WATER SAFETY CLASSES

Water safety classes are being held every Saturday in the Y.M.C.A. under the supervision of the water safety committee, chairman Lloyd G. Monteith. All Scouts and Cubs who cannot swim are urged to take advantage of these classes. Boys may also qualify for their swimmer's or life saver's badges. Arrangements to take the course should be made through leaders.

GROUP NEWS

The 1st Belleville Scout troop are sorry to announce the resignation of their leader, Scouter Austin Gonin who, it is hoped, will be able to resume Scouting activities at a later date. Orville Summers will take over as Scoutmaster and Art Fort has volunteered to act as assistant Scoutmaster. Cubmaster Betty Smith announced that the investiture of a number of new Cubs will be held January 29.

2nd Belleville: Acting assistant Scoutmaster Art Rowbotham is leading the troop which recently lost its Scoutmaster.

3rd Belleville: With 50 Cubs it has been necessary to form two packs. Already they are making plans for a father and son banquet.

4th Belleville: This group reported they planted 200 tulip bulbs as a project before the winter freeze up. They also entertained blind folk at a party. The group committee elected the following new officers — chairman, J. N. McGibbon; secretary, Hal Floyd.

6th Belleville: The following Scouts received their entertainer's badges — Allan Martin, Barry Simpson, Bob Weese and Harold MacDonald. The boys were also sucessful in obtaining their St. John Ambulance badges and Scout ambulance man markers.

8th Belleville: Cubs of this group went to the hospital a few days before Christmas and sang carols on all floors, then they distributed gifts to the children in the pediatrics ward. The gifts had been purchased by the Cubs. Stephen Flindall has passed his 13th proficiency badge admitting him to the 13th Club. Mrs. Lillian Ashley, Cubmaster, now has seven 13 proficiency badge holders.

10th Belleville: Strength of the Cub pack is 31, with vacancies for five more boys. Pack meets at Holloway church Wednesday at 6.30. Assistant Cubmaster Keith Chambers is taking a preliminary training course at St. Thomas' parish hall this weekend.

11th Belleville: F. L. Insley is the new Scoutmaster of this troop. A "going up" ceremony was held early in December and towards the end of that month flags were presented by the L.A.

13th Belleville: Paul King has been appointed Scoutmaster.

16th Belleville: The group at the O. S. D. has a very active Cub pack and Scout troop.

18th Belleville: A relatively new group, the 18th has a Cub pack organized and operated by Lou Greatrix, former C. M. at Holloway who was succeeded by Don Harvey.

1st Foxboro: A "going up" ceremony was held last month for seven Cubs, four of whom qualify to wear leaping wolf badges.

1st Avondale: The Scout troop now has seven boys after five meetings. They have had three hikes with all boys turning out. Scouter Len Furney reported that hikes include fire lighting, cooking and trailing. The Cub pack is organized and meeting with Cubmaster Legacey.

A FINE EXAMPLE

In Vancouver's Chinatown the boys of one group don't know the meaning of racial discrimination. The 32nd True Light Pack is composed largely of young Chinese Canadiens, but also includes several white boys and a set of Negro twins. They play together, study together and at camp they sleep in the same tent.

"The children think nothing of it," says Cubmaster Mrs. Olivia Chow. "It never occurs to them to look upon the others as different."

This example accentuates the fourth Scout law which says: "A Scout is a friend to all and a brother to every other Scout, no matter what race, color or creed to which the other may belong."

Don MacKinnon Again Head of Fish, Game Club

Donald MacKinnon, well known Belleville sportsman, was re-elected for a fourth term as president of the Belleville Fish and Game Club last night.

At first Mr. MacKinnon indicated that the pressure of his work (he's the probation officer) and his other activities forced him to withdraw from office. However, John Lennox, one of the club's directors, pointed out that Mr. MacKinnon, with his knowledge of the job and his keen interest in the outdoors, was the only man qualified for the presidency.

Mr. MacKinnon paid tribute to the 13 directors of the club who contributed so much to the smooth operation of the club last year. In fact, the membership-at-large were so aware of the directors' accomplishments they re-elected them by acclamation.

The honorary president of the club and a life member, Joe Shortt, paid tribute to the president and directors and acted as returning officer for the elections.

The re-elected secretary-treasurer, Kenneth Yorke, who has been ill for some time, was showered glowing tribute, too.

Directors for 1958 are Charlie and Bruce Bishop, H. Payne, Bruce Kerr, Lou Harvey, Doug Bateman, A. E. Smith, Ken Motley, John Lennox and Bruce Smith. Out-of-town directors are Lieutenant - Colonel William Davern of Wellington and Doug Sanderson of Marmora.

Warden Lloyd Price, Reeve of Elzevir township, and Mrs. Price flash victory smiles following Mr. Price's election yesterday as Warden of Hastings County. Mr. Price is the third county warden from Elzevir and the first since 1893 when the late F. J. Thompson headed County Council.

Elzevir-Grimsthorpe Reeve, Lloyd 'Bud' Price, Elected Warden of Hastings County

First representative from his township since 1893 to be named head of Hastings county council, Reeve Lloyd "Bud" Price 37 of Elzevir and Grimsthorpe townships, was elected county warden yesterday as council members met for their inaugural session at Shire Hall.

Warden Price defeated Reeve Tracey Adams of Dungannon township in a straight fight for the wardenship. Later, in open council, councillors made the choice unanimous. He succeeds 1957 warden Leslie McLaren.

Reeve Price is only the third representative from his township to be named warden in the history of the county, and is the first since 1893, when the late F. J. Thompson had the honor.

SON OF MINISTER

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Price, the new 1958 warden's father was a former United Church minister and he is one of the youngest reeves to receive the wardenship. He is commencing his fifth term at county council and has been in municipal politics only seven years.

Three of his four years at County council had seen Warden Price a member of the finance committee, of which he served as chairman in 1956.

In private life Warden Price, with his brother Bruce operates the Log Cabin restaurant at the intersection of Highways 37 and 7 at Actinolite. He is married with four children, Marian, Elizabeth, Janet and Harold.

Escorted to the warden's chair by two of the older members, Reeves Tracey Adams of Dungannon and Charles Buskard of Deloro, Warden Price noted that there had been many changes since Elzevir township had its last warden in 1893.

"But through these years Hastings county has carried out democratic government of a high standard and it will continue to do so," he said.

However to do this, he said, it was necessary for citizens to take a greater interest in civic affairs and not leave government entirely up to the elected officials.

CHANGING ECONOMY

Referring to the county economy Warden Price noted that in the early days lumbering had been the first industry. Later farming took the lead and was still one of the most important industries. Recent years, however, had seen manufacturing and mining become increasingly important.

The county was blessed with many lakes and rivers which had made it a tourist attraction with new roads to its outlying lakes it was expected soon to rank with the Muskoka area in popularity.

The warden paid tribute to the work of the Moira River Conservation Authority and urged that it consider a museum to perpetuate county history.

A nominating committee of Reeves J. B. Harder of Sidney, Earl Sager of Madoc, and Chas. Brown of Tyendinaga, was named by the warden.

Deputy Reeve From Bancroft Is Welcomed

Hastings county council had its membership increased from 31 to 32 members with the inaugural sitting on Tuesday when members welcomed the new deputy reeve from Bancroft village.

The northern village has now attained the population necessary entitling it to a second representative on county council and accordingly Deputy Reeve Clifford Broad took his seat alongside that of Reeve J. N. Brown.

The 1958 council body has six new members. These include Deputy Reeve Broad; Tweed Reeve Douglas Spencer; Deseronto Reeve Arnold Walker; Tyendinaga Deputy Reeve Martin Doyle; Frankford Reeve George Spencer and Reeve Victor Hughson of Wollaston township.

The council body includes two reeves with the name of Spencer and two councillors with the name Wilson. Douglas Spencer from Tweed is a new face to council but George Spencer of Frankford sat on council several years ago and is now back for another term. Elmer Wilson is Huntingdon township reeve, while A. G. Wilson of Boulter represents Carlow township.

Legally the county council could have its membership increased by several more members. Thurlow township has the population necessary entitling it to four members on council, while Sidney also could have another member.

Yesterday when the certification of population for Thurlow was read at council, Reeve Alfred Wickett noted that his municipality had no intention of increasing its membership in council.

Mental Health Subject of Talk To Kiwanis Club

PICTON — One out of every twelve children alive today will some day be in a mental institution permanently or temporarily. This year one of the Kiwanis objectives is mental health, and Monday night's special speaker, Fred Ward, Q.C., addressed their meeting.

Mr. Ward described the dangers of poor mental health and said people with mental problems are much more common than we realize.

Mr. Ward outlined the types of mental illness which he has observed in his experience in legal circles. Alcoholic amnaesia, one of the most common, lowers the IQ over a period of time and some day, somewhere, a serious situation may result because of the deterioration in intelligence. The manic depressive who is subject to a great state of excitement followed by an abyss of depression is likely to find himself in trouble during one of his extreme moods. The paranoid imagines he is being persecuted and may retaliate against society in order to get even.

Mr. Ward said that all should watch out for and check these people by corrective measures in mental health. "Let us not let some fellow walk the streets for four or five years, and then if something happens, say we should have done something beforehand," he said.

President Jack Ward reminded the club that this week marks the forty-third anniversary of Kiwanis International.

Kiwanians Don Whalen and Don Stanton are trying to establish a Minor Hockey Association in the county—something which has been lacking for a number of years. It is hoped that in time this project will develop, with boys and girls of all ages participating in organized hockey. This is one way of helping combat juvenile delinquency.

Macs Battle Smith Falls To 3-All Tie

PICTON — The new Prince Edward County Centre saw its first hockey game Monday night when Smith's Falls and Picton Macs battled to a 3-all tie in an intermediate OHA fixture. Six hundred attended though short notice was given of the game being played. Second game here Thursday night sees Kingston Flyers as visitors.

Opening ceremonies saw the scarlet-coated Odd Fellows band play "The Queen." Teams lined up on the ice while Mayor H. J. McFarland and Lorne D. Cook, OHA president, faced off.

Picton opened the scoring at 9.50 in the first period with Menard driving in a pass from Bryant. At 14.20, Smith's Falls evened the score when Halpenny drove in a pass from Lavender and Richardson. Macs outshot the visitors 10-6 in this period.

Lone marker of the second period was scored by Picton, by Scott on a pass from Hull. The visitors had nine shots on goal, Picton eight.

In the third period, the game was tied at 11.40 when Wiseman drove in McKinney's pass. At 14.10 Smith's Falls took the lead with Richardson scoring from Wiseman and Bryce. Five seconds later Picton tied it up on a goal by Mulholland from Hull. There were six penalties, evenly divided between the two teams. Shots on goal for game were Smith's Falls 25, Picton 27.

Hooper, Smith's Falls netminder, and Claude Carr in the local net were among the stars.

Howard Gyde Chosen Warden Of P.E. County

PICTON — Reeve of the township of South Marysburg, Howard Gyde was chosen Warden of Prince Edward County for 1958 at the inaugural meeting of County Council. All members of Council were nominated and all withdrew in favor of Reeve Gyde to give him an acclamation. The new reeve has served in that office for three years. Married, and 34 years of age, Warden Gyde has four children. He farms near Milford. Warden Gyde succeeds Warden Melvin Pulver of Ameliasburg township who did not seek re-election to County Council.

Named to the road committee were Calvin Hughes, Leland Doxsee and Dwight Reynolds; to the County Home committee, Clare Platt, Clifford Smith and Arthur Moore; to the Fair grounds committee, Kenneth Wood, Ern Ward and Gordon Parks; to the finance committee, Ern Ward, Harmon Montgomery and Kenneth Wood; to supply committee, Carman Scott and Gordon Demore.

Representatives named were Carson Scott and Kenneth Wood to Children's Aid Society; Carman Scott, Melvin McConnell and Arthur Moore to Board of Health; Gordon Parks to hospital board; Kenneth Woods and Gordon Demore to agricultural council.

Florida Tops The List as Vacation Spot

What appears to be the most popular destination for Belleville's winter vacationing clan?

A survey of local travel agencies revealed that Florida tops the list.

Airline travel seems to be the most popular mode of travel this year. But many people motor south annually. Ship passages south are almost non-existent this year.

Although most people head for Florida, a few of the more adventurous ones go to California or the West Indies. No "unique" vacation trips have been booked in Belleville this winter, but a woman went to Hawaii by ship last fall out of San Francisco. And no one appears to be going on African big game safaris, either.

A number of local folks are going to Europe this year, planning to take side trips to the Continent. "Go now and pay later" plans are patronized mostly by new Canadians desirous of bringing a relative over from Europe.

Beginning April 1, airlines will offer return passage to Europe for $444.

For a while this winter some local citizens planned to vacation in the Bahamas, but when trouble broke out there they changed their plans.

What is the most popular summer vacation spot? Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

Belleville Ties Peterborough At Badminton

Keen competition featured play here last Saturday night as the Belleville Garrison Club played host to Peterborough in a badminton tournament at the armouries.

The total score for the evening was 12-12.

Belleville ladies won their matches 4-2 while the men also defeated Peterborough 4-2. In mixed play the visitors were victorious by an 8-4 count however giving each team 12 wins at the completion of play.

A social evening followed with refreshments served in the officers' mess. Dancing completed the evening's entertainment.

CULTURAL PACT

A cultural agreement between Israel and Norway was signed at Oslo late in 1957.

Appointment of Glen E. French, P. Eng., as Municipal Engineer at Kingston is announced by the Ontario Department of Highways. Mr. French has been municipal engineer, Bancroft district, and prior to that was assistant municipal engineer there.

Born at Dresden, Ont., Mr. French attended schools there and, after overseas service with the Royal Canadian Engineers, entered University of Toronto to receive his degree in civil engineering. Upon graduating in 1950, he joined the department.

Charge Russia Tries to Scare Mid-East Lands

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's attack on United States participation in Middle East defence plans was branded by officials here Tuesday as an effort to confuse and intimidate next week's meeting of the Baghdad pact at Ankara, Turkey.

State Secretary Dulles will attend the Ankara session as chief American observer. His trip is designed to demonstrate U.S. support for countries in the regional defence system.

Russia accused the United States of trying to unite "under one roof the aggressive military blocs of NATO, SEATO and the Baghdad pact." It also told Middle Eastern nations that the United States plans to establish nuclear and rocket bases on their territory and said this would be a threat to their existence.

State department officials said they regard the Moscow blast as a tactic similar to one which preceded the NATO summit conference in Paris last September.

Y.T.C. Holds Rally, Elects 1958 Officers

On Friday evening last, a number of young people and their supporters from the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington, met at the YMCA, Belleville, for their YTC rally and installation service.

Mr Floyd Milton of Cannifton, YTC president, conducted the evening's activities.

Greetings and a cordial welcome were extended to members and guests on behalf of the YTC and the WCTU by Miss Myrtle Barnum, county YTC secretary.

Miss Carolyn Franklin, Belleville, and Miss Mary Esther Rogers, Napanee, delegates to the Temperance Federation convention held in Toronto, in December, gave interesting and informative reports from this, the first Federation Youth Convention. Both girls were highly commended for their excellent reports.

The Rev. W. H. Farrow, of Prince Edward county, presented an interesting and educational film called, "The Choice is Yours."

Mrs. Beth McKay, Provincial Youth Temperance Council secretary of Toronto, led in the installation service. The following officers were installed: president, Floyd Milton, Cannifton; secretary, Beverly Salisbury, RR 7, Belleville; vice president, Mary Esther Rogers, Napanee; treasurer, Garry Rorabeck, R. R. 1, Milford; vice presidents for counties: Lennox and Addington, Barbara MacTaggart; Prince Edward, Sandra Minaker; Hastings, Jean Campbell; county pianists: Lennox and Addington, Lorna Craig; Prince Edward, Faye Wellbanks.

Miss Beth McKay gave a helpful and inspirational talk on the Youth Temperance Council, — "Building High."

A sing song was led by Miss Mary Esther Rogers. Mrs. Quentin Minaker and her group conducted a lively recreational period.

Refreshments were served.

The president expressed his thanks and appreciation to all who had assisted in making the evening's program successful.

Hospital Auxiliary Reports Show Successful Year

The annual luncheon meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary was held yesterday at the Hotel Quinte with 200 members and guests attending. The president Mrs. W. H. Finkle welcomed the speaker, Dr. G. A. W. Currie and Mrs. Currie, other head table guests and visitors from Picton, Trenton, and Foxboro. Mrs. Lennox Smith introduced the guests at the head table which included Mayor Gerald Hyde, Frank Domenico, chairman of the Hospital Board, the Rev. R. W. T. Middleton.

Following the luncheon, Mrs Finkle conducted the annual meeting and the reports of the chairmen of committees were received: The secretary Mrs. L. B. Fonger reported 115 members with 11 new members during the past year. In her report the work of various other committees was included.

The treasurer, Mrs. W. H. Dallas reported a net profit of $4,084.56 for 1956-57.

The Opportunity Shop convener, Mrs. Fred Beeby reported that the work of the Shop was carried on by 50 volunteers. $3,000 was handed over to the Auxiliary during the year.

The Coffee Shop convener, Miss Nellie Merry reported a successful year and thanked all committee members for their co-operation, and thanked all those members who had donated time and food for the carrying on of this service.

AIR CONDITIONER ADDED

Miss Ivy Dickens, treasurer of the Coffee Shop, reported she had handed over $800. to the Auxiliary and had installed an air-conditioner in the Coffee Shop at a cost of $300. for their year ending October 31st.

Miss M. Peart, superintendent of Nurses, reported five Bursaries given by the Auxiliary to nurses-in-training during the past year. Mrs. Finkle added that this was the largest number of bursaries given by any Hospital in Ontario.

Mrs. E. Hall reported that she and her committee had made 260 puppets during the year, 150 of these were given to the patients in the pediatric wards and the remainder sold to finance the project.

In the president's report emphasis was laid on the harmony with which the committees and members had carried on the extensive work of the Auxiliary both within the organization and with the Hospital Staff and Hospital Board. She expressed her appreciation for the loyal support she had had from all.

Mrs. Finkle introduced Mr. Kenneth Box, Administrator of Belleville General Hospital, who has been appointed the Ontario representative to the Board of American Hospital Association.

Mrs. E. G. Kennedy presented Mrs. J. E. Buchan with a gift from the Auxiliary in appreciation and acknowledgment of the work done by her in the office as president of the Ontario Hospital Auxiliaries.

The new executive for 1958-59 was introduced: honorary president — Mrs. W. C. Mikel; past president — Mrs. Lennox Smith; president — Mrs. W. H. Finkle; 1st vice-president — Mrs. B. E. Burley; 2nd vice-president — Mrs. Mervyn Jones; treasurer — Mrs. Harry Fuke; rec. secretary — Mrs. L. B. Fonger; corres. secretary — Mrs. L. G. Irvine.

Plainfield W.A. Installs 1958 Officers

The January meeting of the Plainfield W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Jack Skelly. The meeting was opened with a poem and prayer by Mrs. Skelly.

Mrs. Salmon was in charge of the devotional. Her subject was "Improvement of Time.",

Bible reading was found in Exodus 12.

It was decided to leave the $200 in the church treasury, which was loaned to the church. Also that the W.A. and W.M.S. combine meetings and that the W.A. be responsible for the devotional every three months, and to save the pennies to be handed it at the end of the year. Mrs. Harry McCreary and Mrs. Charles Treverton are to be responsible for this

The treasurer reported $1,415.45 on hand. Mrs. Hazard reported $25.45 spent in flowers and cards. She also made several calls to the hospital and various homes to see the sick

Mrs. Skelly thanked everyone for their co-operation during her term as president. She was re-appointed for the coming year.

Mr. Middleton gave a talk and asked that he be informed of any trouble in the homes or elsewhere, so he could be of service to them. There were 20 ladies in attendance.

The following officers were appointed for the year 1958, after which Mr. Middleton officiated at the installation.

President, Mrs. Jack Skelly; first vice-president, Mrs. Salmon; second vice-president, Mrs. Clare Parks; secretary, Blanche Emerson; treasurer, Mary Hall; press and corresponding secretary, Mrs. Clare Parks; temperance secretary, Mrs. McCreary; program committee, Mrs. Treverton, Mrs. Salmon, Mrs. C. C.W. League Discusses Future Events

St. Michael's Academy was the setting for the St. Michael's sub-division of the Catholic Women's League, which took place on January 13th.

The regular reports were read. The Very Rev. Dean Garvin spoke, thanking everyone for the donation to the building fund. He urged as many as possible to take part in Communion Sunday at the 8.30 Mass.

The Queen of Hearts dance was under discussion. It is to be held in February at the Club Commodore with convener Mrs. J. Gallagher, and assistants Mrs. J. Cowan, Mrs. M. F. Kelley, Mrs. J. Sheridan, Mrs. H. Brown, Mrs. E. McCallum, Mrs. D. Rorabeck, Mrs. G. Bell, Mrs. C. Reed and Mrs. E. Rivers.

Mrs. B. Burley will look after advertising.

Mrs. A. Lew, 10 Alexander St., offered her home for a tea to be held in February. The hospitality committee is to be notified.

AMENDMENT RESOLUTION

Mrs. Logan read the resolution passed at the Ontario Provincial Council of Catholic Women's League of Canada in 10th annual convention assembled, to amend a clause in the Succession Duty Act, the Old Age Pension Act and the adoptions on Child Welfare Act.

Mrs. J. Trudeau moved the meeting be adjourned.

An enjoyable lesson in square dancing followed. Refreshments were served by the ladies of Murney Ward.

Contact Club Plans Coffee Party, Bazaar

On Monday evening members of Christ Church Contact Club held a business meeting to plan events for the new season. It was decided to hold a coffee party and bazaar in May, the sale featuring handmade articles of clothing and novelties, and home cooking. A large rummage sale will be held in the near future and the popular husband and wife bowling party will once again be on the agenda, as will the spring pot luck supper. It is hoped to hold a Club Corporate Communion in April. The club undertook to make a total of 12 layettes, most of which are to be sent to northern Diocese, and also to make two dozen new confirmation veils for use in the parish.

A new member, Yvonne Mathers, was welcomed to the Club.

Going Shopping?

January certainly is the month for the canny and cautious shopper. With the cost of living where it is on the index, it is more and more essential that values relative to cost must be carefully scrutinized. The Canadian housewife is the Canadian shopper and on her depends largely how far the dollar will go. The shops in Belleville and Trenton have wonderful bargains for the thrifty buyer. If you do your own sewing or if you have your sewing done there are bargains in woollen yard goods for dresses, coats and suits. We saw some splendid values in long remnants. Soon the cottons and spring fabrics will be along so this is the time for winter clearance. Along with yard goods, there are sales of women's car coats, and sports jackets also clearing for spring merchandise.

On our shopping jaunt we took a look at shoes. A glance informed us that the pointed toe is going to continue taking an important place in women's wear. The pointed toe, however, is not going to be so prominent as to exclude other types of toes. One feature we gathered is that in color, navy blue is going to have a more popular demand. This color has not been favored for quite some time but it promises to make a comeback this spring.

We hope our readers heeded the warning in T & T a few weeks ago about citrus fruits. The unseasonal frost in Florida has taken its toll and the law of supply and demand can be seen at work. Citrus fruits are both scarce and expensive. They are being procured from other places or not at all. Articles such as green peppers are so scarce as to have to sell at almost three times as much as usual.

The hard to beat Canadian apple, however, is in good supply and sometime we forget that there are few fruits in the world as delicious and as nutritious. We have been advised that the apple crop last fall was greater than anticipated with the ever popular Canadian Spy and McIntosh probably topping the list. T & T is always happy to find an excuse to refer to apples. They are close to home. They are a local product and it is difficult to substitute for our local grown product. Therefore if we miss the citrus fruit, try a good Canadian apple pie, apple sauce or just plain delight from the raw fruit. There are few if any far away hills any more green than those of the Trent and Moira River valleys.

A new item on the beauty market will likely prove quite popular. It is a nail polish that is applied like a lipstick. It comes in its own container which makes it simple to carry and easy to use. The polish is applied by tilting the container at a slight angle which makes a small brush stick out forward with enough polish for one finger nail. For each additional application, the user tips the container back and then forward again. It is as simple as that.

Good Shopping!

• •

We wonder if our imagination is running away with us. T & T goes to Trenton once each week, Tuesday mornings to do the broadcast from CJBQ's Trenton studios. Every once in a while we imagine that the drive is shorter. When we time ourselves or check the speedometer, this seems simply a figment of our imagination. Yet, it persists. Do you suppose that the slow, steady, almost imperceptible development taking place on the Trent Road between our two sister cities has anything to do with it? Are we steadily approaching the point when Trenton and Belleville will form another twin city municipal community. There is no doubt that wide spaces between houses are becoming more and more scarce.

Our district is growing wherever you drive. Both sides of the bay are becoming what might be called in the nature of suburban developments stretching out towards each other from the two cities. There is something exciting to be living in a youthful community, a young nation and the challenge this provides, as well as the sense of responsibility. We believe it is real that the distance between Trenton and Belleville grows shorter even though the clock and speedometer insist the Trent and Moira are just as far apart.

Perfect footnotes to a pretty resort dress, these shoes forecast what will be worn with summer dresses at home later.

The omber effect of these linen pumps, shaded from red [illegible] palest pink, is achieved by making the toe with pink, then following it with a series of tucks that get progressively darker, ending in a red heel. A tailored bow is an added attraction. The shoes also come in moss to water green or royal to sky blue.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Newton J. — I'm a model kid.

Mrs. L. J. — Barbara has too much influence over him.

• • •

Newton J. — I can't figure out what's wrong with my parents. The don't know a good thing when they have it — namely me.

I don't want to brag, but I have to say it. I am really a model kid. I'm 17 and I've never given my folks any trouble. I've always done well in school, I get along with everyone and I'm quite co-operative at home. Even my mother has to admit that I'm neat and I never throw things around.

What have they got against me? Only this. I'm going steady with a real nice girl. They admit she's nice, but they complain that she has too much influence over me. Now if she were a bad influence, I could understand, but she happens to be a really swell girl. She makes me save my money. She tells me to study harder and to go out for school awards. What [illegible] wrong with that?

• • •

Mrs. L. J. — Most of what Newton says is true. He is really a good kid. His girl isn't a bad sort either, but we do feel that she has entirely too much influence over Newton.

I heard Barbara bawling Newton out one day about not having done his algebra homework and I was really shocked. She gave it to him good and proper. What was worse was the way Newton took it. He acted like a little boy who knew he deserved a spanking.

That's not too bad, I suppose. It was all in a good cause. But Barbara has just as much control in other ways. Newton had picked a particular college that emphasized engineering. Barbara decided that engineering was not a good career for him. She has made him change his mind about his vocation and has picked two other colleges for him to apply to. He didn't even consult us about this.

• • •

The Council: Researchers tell us that this is a common current problem. Young men who date steady tend to fall right out of Mama's arms into the arms of a young lady fully prepared to become his manager.

It does not seem to be a very happy situation. The young men enjoy the security of having a steady girl and of being cared for, but this early domestication must take its toll. The boy never learns independence, nor the joy of finding his power and range in thought and feeling. The girl is similarly tied down by her role of mother-substitute and general boss. Both are likely to feel rather bitter about lost opportunities in later years.

The only way we can see out of this situation is for the L. J.'s to explain to Newton that they are less interested in his being a "model kid" than they are in seeing him discover his own individuality and potentiality. They should show him that they can take minor slip-ups and misbehavior on his part in stride, but they take a very dim view of perfect behavior under a dictatorship.

It will not do to oppose Barbara's edicts on general principle. These parents should, instead, insist that Newton investigate different possibilities before arriving at a decision on any matter.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

RISE, YOUNG WOMAN, IN COURTESY TO OLDER WOMAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please answer a question for me, so that, if I did the incorrect thing, I won't repeat the impropriety? Last Sunday afternoon my sister and I (she is 24, I am 22) went to a delightful tea-party where there were quite a few guests. About a half hour after we arrived, a former Sunday School teacher of ours, a very charming woman who is, I should say, in her middle-sixties, brought over to introduce to us a young man, her nephew, who, she explained, had lately come to live in our neighborhood.

My sister rose as Mrs. L— approached us, and remained standing during the introduction. I did not rise, because I have always understood (and, incidentally, I am quite sure that I have read this in your column several times) that a woman does not rise when a man is introduced to her.

My sister and I have argued about this. I say she was awkward, and looked awkward, when she rose to accept the introduction, as if she were too eager to meet this young man. She insists I was awkward, looked awkward, not to rise to greet Mrs. L.— and to acknowledge the introduction. Was I right, or was my sister right? — E. and F.

Your sister was right. You were the socially-awkward one. You too should have risen when this older woman approached with the young man she was going to introduce to you . . . and courteously you should have remained standing during the introduction and for as long as she was standing with you. You are right in thinking that under usual circumstances, a woman does not rise when a man is introduced to her. But in this situation you mention, you should have risen, not to acknowledge the introduction, but out of courtesy to the older woman.

You will show a very attractive and very becoming social grace, if you remember this: A young woman should rise when an older woman approaches, particularly if the older woman stops to speak to her, and most particularly when the older woman is standing and introducing a man to the younger woman. A little right thought about this, and, believe me, you'll feel mighty awkward, discourteous, if you don't rise.

TO INCLUDE TELEPHONE NUMBER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm going to order some general-use letter-paper with my name and address printed at the top of the sheets. It would be, I think, extremely convenient all around if I included my telephone number on this utility paper. Would this be proper? — T.S.

Yes. This is correct on this kind of paper, and most convenient, practical.

REFRIGERATOR PARKER HOUSE ROLLS

Scald ¾ cup milk stir in 6 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, 5 tablespoons shortening. Cool till lukewarm. Meantime measure into a bowl ½ cup lukewarm water, stir in 2 teaspoons sugar and then sprinkle the contents of 2 pkgs. granular yeast over the liquid. Let this stand for 10 minutes and then stir well. Stir in the lukewarm milk mixture. Add 1 well-beaten egg and 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour and beat until smooth. Stir in an additional 2 cups (about) sifted all-purpose flour. Place in a well-greased bowl; brush the top with melted shortening. Cover tightly with waxed paper or foil. Store in the refrigerator for at least 2 hours, or overnight. (This dough will keep for 2 to 3 days) To use, punch down and cut in half. Cut into 12 equal pieces; and form into smooth balls. Roll each ball into an oval approx. 2½ x 3½-inches and fold in half crosswise. Place on a greased baking sheets and press edges together lightly. Brush lightly with melted butter. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk. (about 1½ to 2 hours). Bake in hot oven 400 deg. F. about 15 minutes.

To change your routine a little try your hand at the recipe for whole wheat bread which I shall label No. 2, for it differs from the 100% whole wheat that the bread-makers in this column know so well.

WHOLE WHEAT BREAD No. 2

Scald ¾ cup milk and stir in ½ cup lightly packed brown sugar and 4½ teaspoons salt and ½ cup shortening. Cool to lukewarm. In the meantime measure into a bowl 1½ cups lukewarm water. Stir in 2 teaspoons sugar. Sprinkle on top the contents of 2 pkgs. of granular yeast. Let stand 10 minutes. Then stir well. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture. Combine 4 cups whole wheat flour and 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour. Stir in ½ flour mixture into yeast mixture and beat till smooth. Stir in remaining flour mix. Turn out dough on lightly floured board or canvas. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl; brush top with melted shortening Cover. Let rise in warm place free from draughts until doubled in bulk — about 1 hour and 15 minutes. Punch down dough, turn out on lightly floured board or canvas. Divide into 2 — shape into loaves. Place in greased bread pans 8½ x 4½-inches top inside measure. Brush lightly with melted butter. Cover and let rise in warm place until slightly higher than edge of the pan. (about 1 hour). Bake at 400 deg. F. for about 40 minutes.

Christian Science Heals Grief and Loneliness

To those suffering loss or separation, Christian Science comes with merciful and unending blessing.

Through devoted study of its textbook

SCIENCE AND HEALTH with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy

many have found a steadying light that pierces the dark. They have found comfort in a path which grief and loneliness can no longer shadow.

Christ Jesus' words, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly" (John 10). now take on fresh assurance.

Mrs. F. Wilson President of Holloway WMS

Holloway Street W. A., convened for their January meeting in the church parlors with the past president Mrs. Brown presiding.

Mrs. Hubbs favored with quiet music at the piano. Mrs. Brown extended a welcome to all and read a poem, "Another Year for Thee".

Mrs. Ellis had charge of the worship service with Mrs. Smith giving the Scriptures from different portions of Deuteronomy and Mrs. Ellis giving the meditation.

"Looking back and forward, we close one chapter and open another. Will the new one be better? That depends on what condition our minds and spirits are in to accept it.

"Just recall the best of the past, blessings, friendship, kindnesses, pleasant things. Let us forget the misunderstandings, grudges, failure and mistakes.

"Life is a journey. The road ahead will be hills and valleys. The high and the low contribute to our lives, and the happiness of this year ahead is uncertain, but God is ever watchful over us. Let us put our hand in God's hand. He knows the hills and the valleys even unto the end. How much confidence can we place in the year ahead? We must face the year with faith in God as our guide." Unto the hills do I lift up my longing eyes was sung and Mrs. Ellis closed with prayer.

The business of the meeting consisted in part of the yearly report read by Mrs. Symons. The W. A. had 134 paid members last year.

Mrs. Cook read several thank you letters from members for cards, flowers and calls received while ill or bereaved.

Mrs. Scott reported on flowers sent out; Mrs. Digby for the evening group; Mrs. Ellis, the girls work board and announced the mother and daughter banquet, on January 28 to be held in Holloway Street Church.

Mrs. Brown read the treasurer's report in the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. Campbell. This showed a successful year, financially.

She thanked the group leaders and every one for their splendid work and co-operation during her term in office.

Mrs. Symons thanked the members for making her a life member and presenting her with the life membership pin which she would always wear with pride.

Mrs. Downs favored with a lovely solo, "This Is My Task".

GIFT RECEIVED

Mrs. Coulter's group received a gift for having the largest attendance during the year.

Mr. Coleman spoke on the splendid work of the W.A. and complimented Mrs. Brown on her fine leadership of the past two years.

The 1958 officers were installed by Mrs. Coleman:

Honorary president — Mrs. Coleman; past president— Mrs. Brown; president — Mrs. F. Wilson; 1st vice-president — Mrs. Ellis; 2nd vice-president — Mrs. Smith; secretary — Mrs. Post; treasurer — Mrs. Campbell; correspondence secretary — Mrs. Cook; press secretary — Mrs. S. Westover; pianist —Mrs. Hubbs, Mrs. Townsend; parsonage committee — Mrs. Hitchon, Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Lowther; flower committee — Mrs. Denyes, Mrs. Scott; M. and M. Representative — Mrs. Coulter; United Church Observer — Mrs. Brown; Christian fellowship and visiting — Mrs. C. Smith; social convener — Mrs. Hick; Christian education — Mrs. Dobbs; V.O.N. — Mrs. Hitchon; girls work board — Mrs. Ellis; evening group — Mrs. Joblin.

The new president, Mrs. Wilson took charge giving a fine address and asked for the help and co-operation of each member to carry on the work for the coming year and invited the executive to meet in her home on Tuesday to make plans for the year's work.

After the meeting closed a social half hour was enjoyed.

Botanist Spends Time Studying Air Photos

OTTAWA (CP)—A pretty Port Credit housewife-botanist spends her spare time studying aerial photographs as her contribution to a giant survey of Canada's dwindling northern caribou herds.

Mrs. Dorothy Beckel uses her experience with the Defence Research Board in the north and her training as a botanist to determine from the pictures the amount of caribou food available in the areas photographed.

Findings of the pretty housewife, who studies the pictures in her home between chores and raising her one-year - old son, John, are correlated with findings of ground crews working on the survey.

Mrs. Beckel with her husband, William, also a biologist who teaches zoology at the University of Toronto, was in Ottawa Tuesday for the first national gathering of Canadian biologists from across the country.

ROUGH TOOL

She said "air photo interpretation" was a "pretty tough tool," but by studying the photographs she could analyze the vegetation and soil content of areas pictured

She studied aerial photography at Cornell University before taking on the job for the Canadian wildlife service a year ago.

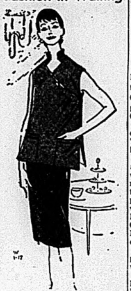
Population of the western sub-Arctic caribou in a 600,000 square mile area between Hudson Bay and the Mackenzie River Valley has dropped to under 300,000 from 670,000 since 1949.

An intensive survey to determine the cause is necessary because the big animal—it weighs between 150 and 200 pounds—is an essential source of food and clothing for northern Eskimos and Indians.

ROYAL NAME

Lake Louise in the Canadian Rockies was named after Princess Louise, wife of the Duke of Argyll, governor-general 1878 to 1883.

Fashion In Waiting



By VERA WINSTON

A wide range of cleverly designed, beautiful clothes is stocked in maternity departments and shops devoted to the mother-to-be. Here we have maternity separates designed for home entertaining. The skirt is of black velveteen, the blouse of the same fabric in red or turquoise. An easy surplice closing with rhinestone buttons points up the pretty neckline with stand-up collar.

The plastic bags that protect your dresses and suits should be wiped frequently with a sponge through thick soap or detergent suds to keep them clean.

Mrs. G. Kerr New Pres. Plainfield WMS

The January meeting of the Plainfield W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Harry McCreary on January 15, with 26 present. The president, Mrs. Grant Kerr, presided.

Mrs. Emerson was in charge of the devotional. Mrs. Charles Treverton read the Scripture lesson, Philippians 2:19-30.

Mr. R. W. T. Middleton led a discussion period on "Who were the Gentiles of New Testament Days?" He also installed the officers for 1958 as follows: president, Mrs. Grant Kerr; 1st vice - president, Mrs. Arnold Dilts; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Charles Treverton; secretary, Mrs. Clarence Marshal; treasurer, Mrs. Stanley Hazard.

Roll call was answered by the paying of fees. The collection was then taken.

Reports were given by Mrs. Hazard, Mrs. Emerson; Mission Band by Mrs. Hazard; Baby Band by Mrs. Dilts and Christian stewardship by Mrs. Clarence Hall.

It was decided to hold a pot-luck dinner and quilting on January 22 at Mrs. Grant Kerr's.

Mrs. Coulter, treasurer of the Bay of Quinte Presbyterial, gave a talk on Christian stewardship.

Mr. Middleton closed with prayer. A social period was enjoyed with refreshments served by Mrs. McCreary, assisted by some of the ladies.

Mrs. Emerson thanked Mrs. McCreary for opening her home for this meeting.

Women's Activities

CHRIST CHURCH E.B.W.A.

On Monday evening 40 members and friends of the Evening Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary of Christ Church spent a pleasant evening in the parish hall.

After being welcomed by the new president, Mrs. A. Bongard, games of court whist were much enjoyed with prizes going to Miss V. Shambo, Mrs. H. Luttrell, Mrs. D. Domosly, Mrs. C. Reid, Mrs. B. Wells and Mrs. C. Musclow.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Spencer, Mrs. W. Edwards, Mrs. P. Pope and Mrs. Musclow.

The vice-president, Mrs. H. Stevens, expressed appreciation to the social and refreshment committees for the arrangement of the party.

Woman Pilot Taken 51,000 Feet in Air

STEWART AIR FORCE BASE, N.Y. (AP) — Ruth Nichols, a pioneer pilot, flew as a passenger Tuesday at an altitude of 51,000 feet, believed to be the highest ever reached by a woman.

Headquarters of the Eastern Air Defence Command said she was on a routine orientation flight in a U.S. Air Force TF-102. The headquarters said the highest a woman had flown previously was believed about 48,000 feet.

Miss Nichols, 56, a lieutenant-colonel in the Civil Air Patrol, began flying in 1919 and in 1931 tried to fly the Atlantic but cracked up in Saint John, N.B.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Dan Gerber (MOTHER OF 5)

All mothers and dads need time out from baby—no matter how charming the cherub. However, some first-time parents are reluctant to trust the newcomer to a sitter in the early months. But if baby gets accustomed to care other than yours when he's young, he's less apt to protest your nights off when he's older. After all, baby-sitting has become a full-fledged business, and with a bit of care you can find a reliable sitter. Getting away makes baby more fun to come home to.

Look-toy tips. Along about 3 months, when baby's eyes begin to focus—dangling glint and glitter toys fill one of baby's first play needs. And, contrary to some "old wives" tales, baby won't get cross-eyed from looking at moving objects. Points to remember:

- Don't hang toys right over baby's nose. He'll see 'em better if they're just out of arm's reach.
- Shapes should be fairly large and simple since baby's eyes are not ready to take in tiny objects.

Has baby been put on egg yolk yet? If so, you'll find Gerber Strained Egg Yolks a tasteful dish for your darling . . . a great convenience for you. For baby's eating pleasure, they have a creamy, custard-like texture, and a delicate fresh-egg flavor. For his nourishment, Gerber Egg Yolks are rich in iron, vitamin A; have some protein. "WHAT DO YOU LOOK AT FIRST, BILL?"

"You mean in this Toronto Daily Star?".

"Yes, I'm curious."

"Well, I don't think I slavishly follow any particular routine, but I get a grasp of the NEWS first—especially the Pictures."

"Same here. I see they've added a new full page of pictures."

"Then I go for the sports pages—the financial news and comments and then I want the writings of the Star's special contributors."

"In the meantime I know who is reading the second section!"

"You've guessed it. My women folk can't do without their fashions—beauty hints—home care and cooking, and so many other features in a woman's world."

"Don't forget mention of the serial story . . . and the comics, too."

"Say! when one starts to go over even a few of the contents of the Toronto Daily Star, isn't it amazing how much the Star gives—in News, entertainment and education."

"Sure is! . . . and all for a dime."

Full Time Job Looking After Hailey Family

TORONTO (CP)—When you're married to Canada's most successful television playwright and exposed to writing 24 hours a day it seems a natural reaction to want to write also.

That's the case with pretty Mrs. Sheila Hailey who did her [illegible]e of writing in earlier years. [illegible] is more than tempted to resume her writing activities these days because her husband Arthur has his working headquarters in their Toronto home.

"But I haven't succumbed as yet," she explained, "because I've got a full time job just looking after Art and the children."

HAS TWO CHILDREN

The Hailey family consists of two small children, Jane, 3, and Steven, 1.

"I'm a very difficult and demanding husband," Art said.

"He really is," agreed Sheila, "but he's improved a lot since we were married."

Atuhor Hailey has divorced himself from household duties in order to write, his wife said. Actually this doesn't upset Mrs. Hailey in the least. Furthermore she makes sure his rigid demand "no interruptions of any kind whatsoever" is carried out.

[illegible] Art accomplishes more in 10 [illegible]nutes than many people do in an hour," she said with envy. "He's one of those people who spring from bed at the crack of dawn, avid for their typewriters. By 5 p.m. he's through for the day and ready to enjoy himself It gives us a much more ordered life."

Sheila said in her working days she had to drive herself to the typewriter and consequently got a late start which would find her burning the midnight oil much to her husband's exasperation.

IN EDITORIAL WORK

Sheila's writing days go back to before, and during her first year of marriage. At that time she was one of the assistant editors of a monthly magazine.

When she left her job it was to free lance in company publications. She did this until Febru[illegible] 1955, almost a year after [illegible] was born.

[illegible]e household began to change in 1956 when Mr. Hailey made his home his official working headquarters. It was around that time he sold his first TV play.

His workshop would stir envy in the heart of any journalist. The room, added to their ranch house last year, is 22 by 24 feet with a large modern brick fireplace. It has its own private bathroom and sports two glass walls looking out to the patio and garden.

UN OFFICIAL STABBED

NEW YORK (AP)—A secretary of a French United Nations delegate was stabbed in the back Monday in Central Park by a teen-aged boy. The victim wasn't even aware she'd been injured until she reached her office. Po[illegible] could find no motive for the a[illegible] on Mrs. Odile Villars, 28, secretary to Georges Picot, France's permanent UN representative. The wound was not serious.

Pick Citrus Colors

By ALICE ALDEN

It's a citrus season all right, with most designers picking oranges and lemons for their color models. Miss May uses bright orange leghorn straw for a pretty first spring bonnet. The upturned back brim is piped with matching velvet and an orange silk rose dangles from the tiny velvet ribbon banding the crown. Nice topping for a dark outfit, it is a good winter tonic.

Italian Fashion Show Features Outfit for Princess Margaret

FLORENCE, Italy (Reuters)—A silk three-piece outfit—shirt, skirt and shorts — destined for Princess Margaret's summer wardrobe was modelled in Florence's Pitti Palace Monday night during the Italian high fashion showings.

The ensemble was designed by Bertoli, whose ribbon - embroidered skirts the princess has worn in the past. It is of pale orange silk printed with an all-over design of tiny orange and red umbrellas.

It does not follow the new Italian "clothes-peg" line, which is a narrow sack, but the skirt, belling into a band of narrow orange velvet ribbons, is the new knee-glimpsing length.

MATCHING SHORTS

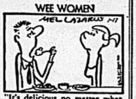
The mannequin who wore the model unhooked the skirt behind, stepped out of it and revealed a very short pair of matching shorts. A matching shirt of classic design was worn with both skirt and shorts.

The buyers and fashion writers were amused at the effect that modelling next summer's high-necked black wool bathing dresses had on the models.

They refused to show Bikinis.

A blonde model who was to have removed a short Baldini cloak of white cotton with hand-painted blue stripes to display the briefest matching Bikini allowed one section of the audience a swift provocative peep, closed the cloak again with coy outrage and stumped off the rostrum muttering to herself.

WEE WOMEN



"It's delicious no matter what it does to me, dear . . ."

Harwell Base Being Used To Harness for Peace Power of Atomic Fusion

By NORMAN MOSS

HARWELL, England (AP)—From a bleak, windy airfield nestling in the hills outside this village, RAF planes once roared off to startle the world with the first 1,000-plane bomber raid.

Today this field, still bleak and windy, is once again a place where history is being made.

The base now is Britain's atomic energy research establishment, where scientists are making vital advances in understanding and using the atom.

The latest of these experiments may prove the most important yet. This was aimed at harnessing for peace the immense power of atomic fusion, the power of the hydrogen bomb. An announcement of a victory in this field is expected Thursday.

Harwell is a working community of scientists run the way scientists want it run.

Tweed - suited, youthful-looking men talk about their work enthusiastically, and set about it in an easy-going manner. Dramatic things are being done here, but nothing is done dramatically.

ONE OF THEIR NUMBER

In 1945, the British government decided on a program to give this country peaceful atomic power, and its own atom bomb, too. But scientists, many of them pulled out of university lives for war work, were not enthusiastic.

Some insisted they would come in only if the centre were run by one of their number, Sir John Cockcroft, and not by a government official as a civil service department.

Cockcroft, a mild - mannered physicist and Nobel Prize winner who helped build the first atom bomb, is a representative of a new type of man the post-war years have thrown up: A brilliant scientist and an able administrator, who knows his way around the invisible world of the atom and the high circles of government.

In 1946 the scientists moved in and started building the first nuclear pile in a cold and muddy hangar.

The hangars are still there, though transformed and no longer recognizable.

Now Harwell has a staff of 6,000, and is organized into divisions, each with its own field of study. These range from nuclear piles to medically useful isotopes, from fundamental research to atomic safety. The work is all research; Britain's atomic electricity and atomic weapons are produced elsewhere.

AHEAD OF WORLD

Harwell's scientists have put crowded, power - hungry Britain ahead of the rest of the world in the peaceful development of atomic power. The eyes of Britain are on Harwell men and Harwell achievements, as they were on the men of that wartime airfield, and this helps keep morale high here.

In one of these white brick laboratories, a team of scientists led by an Australian, a Canadian and an Englishman are believed to have carried out an experiment that resulted in the fusion of two atoms of processed hydrogen into one atom. This released a microscopic amount of energy.

But this microscopic amount may be of world-shaking significance. At Bikini, a billion hydrogen atoms fused. They produced the explosion of energy that dissolved the atoll and threw up to the skies the biggest and most terrifying mushroom cloud the world has ever seen.

MAJOR BREAK THROUGH

Ever since then, scientists have sought a way of fusing just a few hydrogen atoms, and so producing this energy in small, manageable quantities. The Harwell experiment, if it proves successful, as expected, will be the first time this energy has been tapped on a non-explosive scale. Though H-power for industry may still be 10 years of work away, this would be a major breakthrough.

The Australian who led the team working on this is Dr. Peter Thonemann, who dreamed of H-power 13 years ago. A tall, bespectacled man, Thonemann studied the physical properties of the stars, and envisaged the day when mankind could produce power for itself the way the stars produce it —by an atomic fusion process.

The Canadian is Dr. William Thompson, a 35-year-old Belfast-born British Columbian who came to Harwell from Canada's atomic research station at Chalk River Ont.

The Englishman is the oldest of the three at 47, Dr. Donald Fry, one of the "old bunch' at Harwell, who came in the mud and kerosene fire days of 1946, and helped devise Britain's uranium atom power stations.

ATOM MAKES MAGINOT LINE USEFUL AGAIN

France's Maginot line, which proved so futile when it was outflanked during World War II, is being kept in a state of preparedness. Here is an entrance to the Hackenberg section of the line, near Thionville in the Moselle department. The extensive underground network, which includes factories, arsenals and depots over 100 feet below ground level, could easily be adapted to atomic war defence and perhaps attack. In the Hackenberg "factory" section of the line visited by newsmen, which is over ten miles long, 1,200 men can stay below ground for a period of at least three months. The entire line is several hundred miles along.

Lawyer Tells Of What He Calls $35 Offer

OWEN SOUND (CP)—Toronto lawyer Lewis Duncan said Tuesday that counsel for William Lyle Kennedy, given suspended sentence last summer on a charge of vagrancy, told the prosecuting Crown attorney in front of the attending magistrate that there would be "$35 coming to you."

Acting for Kennedy in a series of actions resulting from the vagrancy conviction, Mr. Duncan said a cheque was sent to Magistrate Otto McClevis for the Crown attorney. Kennedy's lawyer in the vagrancy case was Russell McAvoy. The Crown attorney was J. W. Freeborn.

More would be said later about the $35 later in the hearing, Mr. Duncan said.

Kennedy, a 46-year-old Arran Township farmer, has brought actions against Constable Ivan Wade of the provincial police for false arrest and malicious prosecution and against Magistrate McClevis for false imprisonment and acting without proper jurisdiction. He was arrested for vagrancy last May 30.

Also involved in claims by Kennedy are Arthur E. Brown and John St. Ellis, Bruce County justices of the peace, Archie Ferguson, Bruce County jailer, and Crown Attorney Freeborn, all of nearby Walkerton.

In addition, Kennedy has brought a suit against his wife, Isabel; her father, Edward Chappell, and lawyer William Roy Tomlinson of Port Elgin for money he alleges was paid to his wife for sale of their farm.

Mr. Duncan earlier in the case asked unsuccessfully for an adjournment of Kennedy's actions, claiming Magistrate McClevis had no legal existence because the magistrate had made no legal application to change his name, which was actualy Otto Conrad Marklevitz.

BIG FUR THEFT

MONTREAL (CP) — Furrier Denis Grosvenor Tuesday night estimated at $250,000 the value of furs stolen from his factory by thieves who chopped two holes in the wall of the three-storey building at 1247 Metcalfe St. in downtown Montreal.

Syria, Egypt Plan to Unite

DAMASCUS, Syria (Reuters)—Foreign minister Salah Bitar said Tuesday Syria and Egypt are fully agreed and determined to bring into existence a "unified Arab state."

Bitar, who returned to Damascus Tuesday after talks in Cairo, said there are no major or minor hardships blocking the path to unity.

He described his talks in Cairo as "entirely successful" and added, "what we really drive at is positive Arab unity for all other Arab countries."

STILL ASLEEP AFTER 13 YEARS

A victim of encephalitis, Paul Sowa, 19, of Chicago, is shown completing 13 years of sleeping. His mother is tending him in their home. Paul is now five feet eight inches and normal in every way except that his brain is asleep. Doctors hold little hope for his recovery, but say that he may live to be 50 without awakening.

Duncan to Head United Kingdom Trade Council

OTTAWA (CP) — Members of the Canadian trade mission to Britain, called to Ottawa, to complete their final report, have formally proposed formation of a new trade link with Britain—the Canada - United Kingdom Trade Council.

The new organization, headed for one year at least by James S. Duncan of Toronto, Ontario Hydro chief, is to launch a new drive for increased exports from Britain. Mr. Duncan was deputy leader of the mission's month-long tour of Britain last November-December.

Plans for the body were outlined Tuesday at a press conference.

It is being formed by expanding the long-established Dollar-Sterling Trade Council which Mr. Duncan also headed. The council's present membership of 25 businessmen is to be doubled. Headquarters of the new organization will be in Toronto. It will be bolstered by a deputy chairman, executive committee, regional directors and committees.

The council is also to have a permanent secretary, to be appointed later. The mission announced the federal government has offered to pay the secretary's cost. It appeared likely the offer would be accepted although no final decision had been made.

TO REORGANIZE DEFENCE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary Neil McElroy said Tuesday three officers who have headed the joint chiefs of staff and three civilians will join him in a "top priority" search for ways to reorganize the U.S. defence department. McElroy said the whole operation will take several weeks.

Coat Hanger Fixed Stalled Express Train

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP)—He doesn't know how it was done, but Jack Higgins of Hyannis, just home from a train trip to Chicago, says he got back because his coat hanger got the train going.

He said the New York Central train stalled just outside of Cleveland, and he stepped out on to the platform to see what was wrong.

A workman who had just crawled out from under the car asked Higgins for a coat hanger. Higgins obliged after returning to his compartment to get one of his wife's hangers.

The workman disappeared under the car.

"Well, that ought to do it," he said when he reappeared.

The train rolled on its way seconds later.

Says He Saw Scott's Wife In Brantford

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An affidavit was filed Tuesday on behalf of a man who said a woman he met in Brantford, Ont., in 1956 told him she was Mrs. Evelyn Scott, 63, who vanished from her home here in May, 1955.

Meanwhile, the district attorney's office said that actor Leo Carrillo reported two men had tried to induce him to swear he had seen the missing woman in Rio de Janeiro recently.

Mrs. Scott's husband, L. Ewing Scott, was arrested last year by border police at Windsor, Ont., convicted of murdering her and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Carillo, reporting the incident to the prosecutor's office, said the men told him they needed a statement "from a prominent person or Scott will spend the rest of his life in San Quentin."

Lawyer Basil Lambros, who is seeking a new trial for Scott, filed the affidavit from a man named Aloysius Eugene Francis Patrick Mozier. He was not further identified. Mozier swore that a woman in Brantford told him she was Mrs. Scott.

The district attorney ordered an investigation of Mozier's story and a search for the two men described by Carrillo.

SEEK TRADE

TORONTO (CP)—A delegation from Jamaica seeking to improve trade relations with Canada flew here Tuesday night. At the airport to make them feel at home was a calypso trio. The 18-man delegation, headed by Willis O. Isaacs, Jamaican trade and industry minister came to Canada at the invitation of the Canadian government.

CLAIMS INFRINGEMENT

LONDON (AP) — Britain has told Moscow she considers that Soviet scientists infringed British territory in landing recently on Zavodovski Island in the South Sandwich group. A foreign office spokesman said Tuesday night the advice was given in a note delivered to Moscow three days ago.

National Body Of Wildlife Experts Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — A two-day meeting in Ottawa has taken the initial steps towards formation of a national organization of wildlife biologists.

Biologists from universities, industry and federal and provincial government departments gave a six-man committee the job of working out detailed plans including a constitution, for the proposed Canadian Society of Wildlife Biologists.

The gathering, which ended Tuesday, also discussed formation of a national organization for all 1,300 biologists in Canada, but as a first step settled for the smaller body for the 300 or so whose specialty is wildlife.

Dr. Dave Munro of the Canadian wildlife service, chairman of the committee, said the group would admit to membership, at an annual fee of $7, persons in the wildlife field, including teachers, museum workers, students and field men.

The potential membership of 300 would produce $2,100 annually in fees, about $1,000 of which could be saved every year for future projects such as scholarships, publicity and national meetings.

DROPS 100 FEET

TORONTO (CP)—Joseph Mombourquette, 31, was severely injured early today when his truck missed a bridge on Highway 401 and plunged 100 feet into a ravine on the northern outskirts of the city. Hospital authorities said he suffered a skull fracture, crushed chest and broken ribs.

Mistake Causes Power Failure In Bahamas

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP) — A general breakdown of electrical power—through a mistake—and two cases of possible intimidation are the latest developments in this resort city's continuing general strike.

Alan Kennedy, manager of the New Providence Island power plant, said the power failure came Tuesday "when a man from the frigate Ulster, unfamiliar with the layout, pulled the wrong switch in the power station." Most service was quickly restored.

Sailors from the frigate are helping operate the power station. The warship arrived last week on what was called a routine visit.

A striker meanwhile faces trial for allegedly beating a union taxi driver, and a picket outside a tobacco shop claims he was knocked down by an automobile driven by the owner's son.

Pickets continued to march today in front of shops along Bay Street, the city's principal shopping district. Tourist hotels remained shuttered and business generally was at a standstill.

A walkout by the taxi union Jan. 11 was the actual start of the general strike by the Negro workers of this island colony 100 miles east of Florida's southern tip. General unrest among the Negro population, which makes up almost 90 per cent of the Bahamas' 85,000 people, is regarded as the major cause.

Issue Warrant For Klan Chief

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — South Carolina minister, one of those indicted on charges of inciting a riot between Ku Klux Klansmen and Indians, did not surrender Tuesday as ordered. Sheriff Malcolm McLeod said the minister now is considered a fugitive from North Carolina.

Judge Clawson Williams signed an order for arrest mailed to officers at Marion, S.C., asking that Rev. James Cole, self-styled KKK leader, be arrested immediately and held for North Carolina police.

Cole, at his Marion, S.C., home would say only that his lawyer had advised him, "Don't do anything until you hear from me."

Armed Indians, incensed by reports that the Ku Klux Klan's planned rally near Maxton last Saturday night was intended as a warning to them against "race mixing," broke up the rally by firing into the air and roughing up the Klansmen. Four persons were reported wounded, none severely.

A Robeson County grand jury here Tuesday indicated Cole; James Garland Martin, a Reidsvill, N.C., tobacco plant worker, and others allegedly of the Klan group "unknown to th stat," on charges of inciting a riot.

Democrats Blamed for Jap Attack on Pearl Harbor, Lag In Missiles and Korean War

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States congressional election campaign is under way and already, hot—and confusing—although the voting is not until November.

President Eisenhower is asking the Democrats to leave defence problems out of the campaign. Meanwhile his chief assistant Sherman Adams, goes about blaming the Democrats for the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, the U.S. lag in missiles and the Korean War.

It appears that Eisenhower, following his custom, will try to steer away from the more brutal aspects of the campaign. The political infighting will be done by such spokesmen as Adams and Vice-President Nixon.

ACHESON EMERGES

This at least indicates a settled Republican strategy. The Democrats, who control Congress despite the popularity of the Republican president, have yet to come forward with a clear and unified policy.

Dan Acheson, secretary of state under former President Truman, has felt is necessary to repudiate proposals on the cold war recently enunciated by George F. Kennan, once his right-hand man in the state department.

Until recently little had been heard from Acheson, who is a highly successful lawyer in private life, since the Republicans took power. But he has remained active politically in a quiet way and now has emerged with a new book and public statements aimed at knocking down Kennan's theories.

STEVENSON SILENT

Kennan, in a series of lectures broadcast by the BBC, proposed that the Atlantic Pact powers and the Soviet Union withdraw their forces from the heart of Europe, that a zone be established in central Europe from which nuclear weapons would be barred and that a reunited Germany have only a limited military force.

Acheson, believing that military and economic power is the basis of political strength, repudiated these ideas on behalf of the Democratic party. He called them "mystical."

In Canadian eyes, it seems odd that Adlai Stevenson, titular head of the Democrats, has not expressed an opinion on Kennan who was ambassador to Russia as well as a state department policy - maker when the Democrats were in power.

Perhaps Stevenson felt that Acheson, as Kennan's former boss, was the man to reply, especially since their names have been closely linked on important Democratic policy in the past.

POLITICAL SUICIDE

Kennan's plan for withdrawal of foreign forces excited wide attention in Europe, including West Germany, where several of the lectures were printed in full by newspapers. But Dr. Heinrich von Brentano, West Germany's foreign minister, reacted angrily against some aspects.

Acheson has been at pains to point out that Kennan, now attached to the institute of advanced studies, Princeton, N.J., speaks only for himself, not the Democrats. He holds that "our withdrawal from a position once strongly held would indicate to the Russians an abandonment of any intentions to dispute the position."

And in any case, says Acheson, it would be political suicide for the Russians to agree to such a withdrawal of their forces now because it would lead to an upheaval among the satellite countries that could well spread to the Soviet Union itself.

No one knows this better than Nikita Khrushchev, hence Kennan's plan is impractical from any viewpoint, in the contention of Acheson.

Impose Curfew After 20 Killed In Caracas Riot

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A dusk-to-dawn curfew went into effect in Caracas Tuesday night, and government troops were ordered to fire on anyone disturbing the peace after an outbreak of rioting and shooting during a general strike.

(Reports reaching the United States said 20 persons were killed and 100 injured in street fighting in a workers' area of Caracas Tuesday. They said 1,000 persons were arrested after the clash. Strict censorship prevailed.)

The strike was called by underground opponents of President Marcos Perez Jiminez, who three weeks ago survived a short-lived revolt by the air force and some army units. Since then Caracas, has been in a continual state of tension.

CLAIM NO RESPONSE

The interior ministry claimed Tuesday night that the people had not responded to the general strike call. In a broadcast the ministry conceded there had been "disorders and offences" in Caracas and disturbances in Los Teques, Valencia and Pueblo Nuevo, but said the rest of the country was normal.

Businesses in downtown Caracas began closing about noon Tuesday and crowds gathered in the city's main square. Heavily armed police used tear gas to clear the square after the crowds taunted them with anti-government slogans and stoned buses.

Newspapers were on strike and most students stayed away from school either in support of the strike or in fear of violence.

The interior ministry said outbreaks Tuesday were "characterized by plundering of some business places, especially small establishments, without there having prevailed any political objective except the indiscriminate desire to rob."

Want Convention

NORTH BAY (CP)—City council has agreed to help finance dinners for visiting convention delegates. Mayor Merle Dickerson says if the word gets around North Bay may get more conventions.

Council moved Monday night to contribute 50 cents a person towards the dinners for conventions of more than 50 persons and at least two-day duration.

Mr. Dickerson said the move may cost the city between $1,500 and $2,000 a year.

Cyprian Labor Group Strikes After Slayings

NICOSIA (Reuters)—The Pan-Cyprian Labor Federation today called an island-wide 48-hour strike in protest against the shooting of two left-wing Cypriots by masked gunmen Tuesday night.

Left-wing workers left their jobs in Limassol, Larnaca and the east Cyprus port of Famagusta as soon as they heard of the shootngs. Laborers employed by British military authorities at Dhekelia, south Cyprus, also stopped work.

Mass protest meetings were held and many stores were shut.

In Larnaca several hundred left-wing workers marched in procession behind the Green flag carrying banners saying "Down with the Murderers."

MASKED RAIDERS

The shootings occurred during raids by masked gunmen on two villages.

Five gunmen burst into a coffee shop at Komatou Yialou, near Famagusta, lined up the customers and wounded two brothers, Elia and Nicos Tofari. Elia died later in hospital.

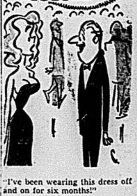
At Lyssi, east of Nicosia, three men entered a taxi office and opened fire with a shotgun. One Greek Cypriot was killed and two others wounded.

Motive for the attacks was not immediately established.

HE MISSED

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — An impatient motorist drove into a service station Monday, fired a shot at an attendant who apparently didn't move fast enough, then sped away. He missed the attendant.

"Jest a Second"



"I've been wearing this dress off and on for six months!"
"Which is it tonight?"

Vote-Padding Case Ready To Go to Jury

TORONTO (CP)—Trial of Mrs. Kathleen Vollum, 50, facing four charges in alleged vote-padding in Toronto's St. Paul's riding in last June's federal election, was expected to go to an Ontario Supreme Court jury today.

Special prosecutor C. F. H. Carson ended the crown's case Tuesday.

Mrs. Vollum facing two charges of forgery and two of uttering, testified Tuesday she signed names to voters' list application forms at the request of a friend, Mrs. Nora Conacher Gamble, a Liberal party worker.

She said:

"Nora said the people wanted to get their names on the voters' list and I thought they had given her authority to have their names added. So I did it on her instructions . . ."

SAYS VOLUNTARY

Mrs. Vollum said she received no payment for any of her voluntary work, performed in Mrs. Gamble's private office at the campaign headquarters of James Rooney, defeated Liberal candidate.

"I trusted Nora," Mrs. Vollum testified. "I had no intention of doing anything wrong. I had nothing to gain or benefit."

She said she knew nothing about the formalities involving the addition of a person's name to the voter's list although she had acted as a deputy returning officer and an enumerator.

Mrs. Gamble, 50, and George Ewing, 37, also face trial on charges similar to those against Mrs. Vollum.

Mrs. Vollum was arrested after a judicial inquiry into alleged pre-election irregularities in St. Paul's.

Prince Charles Back at School

LONDON (Reuters) — Prince Charles, nine-year-old heir to the throne, rode back to his school Monday night in a second-class railway car.

His boarding school, Cheam, reserved the second-class car for pupils returning to classes after the long Christmas vacation.

Eight persons must squeeze on the cushions in a compartment on a second-class car while six persons get the same space first-class. Second-class seats are a little less cushy and compartment decorations are plainer.

But Charles didn't seem to notice his surroundings. He greeted his school chums with a smile and indulged in small talk and giggles.

Parents of about 40 other youngsters accompanied their children to the train but the Queen and Prince Philip didn't come. Elizabeth has a cold.

Charles was taken to the station by a bowler-hatted Buckingham Palace official.

3rd Hillier

3rd HILLIER — The Hillier Institute met on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Alex Rattray, of Consecon. The district president, Mrs. Clifford Smith, of Little Kingston, was guest speaker.

Owing to illness in the president's home, the 1st vice-president, Mrs. John Monaghan, had charge of the meeting.

The February meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Delbert Boyle, when the Institute members will have an exchange of aprons at 25 cents each.

The young people of Christ Church had a skating party at Pleasant Bay on Saturday afternoon and met at the home of the superintendent, of the Sunday school. Mr. A. Best, where several of the parents attended as well.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Root spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Benway.

Christ Church Guild held its first card party at Hillier Town Hall on Friday evening. Good prizes were given and a lucky prize also. The members of the Guild served refreshments.

The next card party will be held on January 31st in the hall.

The February Guild meeting will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Wesley Wright, of Hillier.

The Rev. Russell Gale will give his farewell sermon on Sunday before he takes charge of the parish at Stirling, on January 26.

Mrs. James Way is much improved in health since her recent operation at Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. Wilmont Davis, of Lake Shore, spent a few days with her grand-daughter, Mrs. D. Roote and family.

Miss Jean Hardy, who has been ill with the flu at Trenton Memorial Hospital, is home much improved in health.

The Rev. J. Rennison of Consecon and Carrying Place had service at Christ Church on Sunday morning at 9:30 a.m. Next Sunday the service will be at St. Andrew's Anglican Church at 11 a.m.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sandercock were Thursday evening callers of Mr. Bill Harry of Johnstown, who has been ill.

There was a good representation at the Bayside Home and School Club on Tuesday evening with Quinte View School having the most parents present.

Master Bill Hunt has been ill with influenza and is still confined to his home.

The Bay of Quinte Women's Institute met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hogle, of Trenton, recently, with a good attendance.

Mrs. Casey Ketcheson opened her home on Wednesday for the January meeting of White's Woman's Association.

Mrs. Frank Sandercock was a Wednesday visitor of her daughter, Mrs. Clifford Millar.

Mrs. W A. Jeffery opened her home on Thursday for a quilting, with several ladies in attendance.

Child's Snowball Rolls Skier To His Death

GENEVA (Reuters) — A 24-year-old Swiss was killed by a child's snowball while skiing in the Jura Mountains, it was learned here Tuesday.

Martial Etienne was skiing with his fiancee Monday when children playing higher up the slope let a snowball roll away from them downhill.

By the time it hit Etienne it was a giant some eight feet in diameter. It picked him up and carried him away as it sped down the hill.

Etienne was dead from suffocation by the time rescuers dug him out of the mass of snow.

Asks Retaliation If U.S. Imposes Metals Tariffs

OTTAWA (CP)—H. W. Herridge, CCF Commons member for Kootenay West, B.C., a big base metals producing area, Tuesday night called for "some retaliatory action" if proposed United States tariffs on Canadian lead and zinc go through.

Mr. Herridge, speaking on a grievance in the Commons, said retaliation should be taken with respect to nickel, asbestos and other metals that Canada holds in great quantities.

However, he did not elaborate on the type of "retaliatory action" he would propose, but presumably it would involve export quotas for nickel and asbestos or similar governmental action.

Earlier, James Byrne (L—Kootenay East), a former mine worker, said that if Canada cut off shipments of Canadian lead and zinc to the U.S., it would mean more than half the American supply of those two metals would be eliminated.

Base metals supplies, he said, cannot be turned on and off like a tap. The only way to expand mining operations was to break down tariff barriers.

Works Minister Howard Green said the government is taking every possible step to persuade the U.S. administration that it should not impose higher tariffs on Canadian lead and zinc imports.

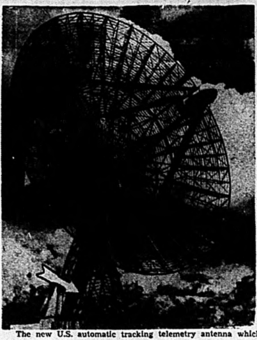
BUILT TO TRACK FASTEST MISSILES



The new U.S. automatic tracking telemetry antenna which towers higher than a seven-storey building dwarfs the tiny figure of a man (arrow) at its location in Melbourne, Fla. The "Dish" antenna, 60 feet in diameter, is mounted on a steel tower 38 feet high and 20 feet wide. It's one of five being built for the USAF at sites along the 5,000-mile test range of the air force missile test centre at Cape Canaveral. The equipment will be used to track U.S. ballistic missiles launched from the cape and will also be used in the earth satellite experimentation of the International Geophysical Year.

Newsman Hired To Study Other Pension Plans

OTTAWA (CP) — At least a year's study will be required before the government can decide whether to bolster Canada's old age pension plan with a contributory scheme such as the one in the United States, Professor Gordon Huson has made clear.

The 44-year-old former British newspaper man, now a professor at the University of Western Ontario, told a press conference Tuesday his preliminary fact-finding investigation into foreign schemes will take about a year. After that, it will be up to the government to make the next move.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker told questioners in the Commons last week when he announced Prof. Huson's appointment that he did not know how long it would take to have the report completed. He wanted to have it done as quickly as possible.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the House that while Prof. Huson would be free to study most foreign pension schemes, he would be asked to concentrate on the American one. Under the U.S. scheme, retired single workers receive an average of $76 a month. Aged couples can get $128. Payments are made to men reaching 65 and to women reaching 62.

Under the Canadian scheme, the $55-a-month payment can be obtained universally only on reaching the age of 70. Those of 65 and over can obtain it also if they can show they lack financial means of support.

Plans to Appeal To Chou En-lai To Free Her Son

HONG KONG (AP) — Word that the Chinese Red Cross has advised Mrs. Ruth Redmond to appeal in person to premier Chou En-lai for her jailed son's release aroused speculation today the Reds may be preparing to free him and two other Americans.

Mrs. Redmond, of Yonkers, N.Y., said by telephone from Shanghai that she will fly to Peiping Wednesday to intercede with Chou on behalf of her son, Hugh, 38, serving a life term in Shanghai on spy charges.

She said the Red Cross declined to predict what Chou's decision might be. It appeared unlikely, however, that the Red Cross would advise such a trip without Chou's full knowledge.

It was the Red Cross which suggested earlier that Mrs. Redmond and two other American mothers visiting sons imprisoned in Red China apply for a week's extension of their visas. The extentions were granted promptly.

In Peiping Mrs. Redmond will join Mrs. Jessie Fecteau, Newfoundland-born resident of Lynn, Mass., and Mrs. Mary Downey of New Britain, Conn., whose sons, Richard Fecteau and John Downey, are serving sentences of 20 years and life, respectively, in Peiping.

Downey's brother William, who accompanied his mother to Red China, said Monday she and Mrs. Fecteau had also requested an interview with a top official but had not yet been informed whether it has been granted.

Dairy Industry Prospects Good For This Year

QUEBEC (CP)—Prospects of prosperity for Canada's dairy industry appear good this year, the Dairy Farmers of Canada annual convention was told Tuesday.

D. B. Goodwillie, head of the federal agriculture department's dairy products merchandising section, predicted milk and butter production would be higher this year than last.

Text of Mr. Goodwillie's speech was released to the press in advance.

He said milk production should be up to the record levels set in 1957.

He said milk production seems likely to top the record 318,000,000 pounds reached in 1955. Consumption — 320,000,000 pounds last year—and production were likely to be more closely balanced than for a number of years.

Mr. Goodwillie predicted less cheese will be made in 1958 and consumption would be up, cutting the present surplus and benefitting the industry.

Labor Minister Says Figures Misrepresented

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister Michael Starr complained Tuesday that there is a "great deal of misrepresentation" about unemployment figures in Canaa.

He said the only official figure on unemployment is the one prepared by the bureau of statistics.

The bureau reported Monday the number of unemployed at mid-December was 386,000. At the same time, in the Commons, Mr. Starr reported that the National Employment Service had 796,371 applications for jobs on file at Jan. 9.

The official explanation for the difference between the two figures is that many persons looking for new jobs through National Employment Service already have other employment but want to change jobs.

Mr. Starr said Tuesday the latter figure of 796,371 relates to operations of the unemployment insurance commission. Use of this figure as a jobless total had a "serious effect on public confidence."

COMPLAINS OF STORY

Mr. Starr complained specifically about a Canadian Press story in Tuesday's Toronto Globe and Mail, the headline on which said: "796,371 Canada jobless record for postwar period."

(The CP Ottawa dispatch said that this figure does not indicate absolute unemployment and then gave the figure of 386,000 issued by the bureau of statistics.

Mr. Starr said it was not the policy of the former Liberal government to issue the National Employment Service figure. The Liberals had made it plain that the only official figure is that prepared by the bureau of statistics.

The government was not responsible for the two sets of figures.

Mr. Starr said that because the Liberals had established the official figure he was asking them to accept it as they had when they were in government.

Like Father, Like Son, Staff Smythe's Trade Mutterings Have Effect

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A FINE TRIBUTE

The fame and exploits of Dickie Beare and his "1,000 leather-lunged" members of the McFarlands Booster Club is spreading over the hockey countryside. Not a few tributes have been paid the red-tammed Boosters by the press and radio. Incidentally Prexy Beare says there is a demand for membership tickets. These can be obtained at Moe Benoit's Coffee Emporium, and Bill Cook's Tobacco dispensary.

Ron Craig, Pembroke Observer sports editor was here recently, and here are his remarks after seeing and hearing the Boosters in action.

"Where there's life, there's hope and there's plenty of both down in the banana belt where the Belleville McFarlands hold forth. The reason for the upsurge of hockey interest in Belleville can be accredited to the Macs' Booster Club, whose members take great delight in rocking the rink with their war chant of 'More Macs More.'

"The sole purpose of the club is to help the Belleville Macs Senior 'A' club both morally and financially in any way it is possible. They more than fulfill their aims.

"At the beginning of the present season, Ike Hildebrand was wooing Barton Bradley, the Macks' pocket size centre, and running into a little financial difficulty. It seems that Bradley's bosses wanted a small hatful of lettuce before they were willing to part with BB. Hildebrand felt that Bart would be a great asset to the club and he told the boosters so.

"The club took Ike at his word, raised $500 towards the purchase price and, as it has turned out, it was the smartest $500 the Macs have spent in many a moon.

"The club is composed of 1,000 leather-lunged individuals who make it their business to see that their boys get a square deal from the refs and opposition. Pembroke fans have seen the demonstrative Wren Blair go through his act. Well multiply that by 1,000 and you get the idea of how this booster club behaves at a game.

"They chant, yell, roar and shout and, as one scribe so aptly phrased it, "when a Mac shoots at the net, there are 1,000 spirits behind that rubber trying to push it past the goalie."

"Other than by the voice, how can you pick out a booster? It's simple! The members have chosen a bright red beret as their trade mark. Looking down from the press box and scanning the crowd, 'tis indeed an impressive sight to see the red heads bobbing and weaving among the excited throng below.

"Perhaps the most valuable service given the hockey club is the apartment searching done by the boosters. Before the schedule opener, players had difficulty finding places to stay so the boosters took over and did the rest. In some cases they went so far as to produce jobs for players interested in working."

A FINE RECORD

The Whitby Dunlops finished their Eastern Ontario Senior "A" league 36-game schedule in a blaze of scoring glory.

Their record was 27 wins, 6 defeats and three ties, for a total of 57 points.

Their record to date in a home-and-home series with the OHA-NOHA group is six wins and two losses.

The Ottawa-Hull Canadiens, by virtue of three points per win, and 1½ points per tie, take over the unoffocial lead of the eastern circuit. Neither Canadiens nor Whitby will take part in the group's playoffs.

That makes the Belleville McFarlands the nearest threat to amass more scoring points than the Allan Cup winners. The Macs with 36 points, have 17 games to play. They must win eleven to top the Dunlops.

Pembroke has 35 points, with 16 to play; Kingston, 29 points with 12 games left, and Cornwall 24 points with 16 left.

The Dunlops scored 197 goals or an average of nearly 5.5 per game in the 36-game schedule. Their goals-against record was 116 or an average of 3.2. Their biggest single-game explosions were 10-2 over Cornwall and Belleville and 10-8 over Ottawa Canadiens. They registered one shutout, a 7-0 win over Pembroke.

Pembroke proved the Dunnies' biggest stumbling block. The Lumber Kings defeated them three times and tied once. Belleville whipped the champions twice and Kingston once.

Individually the Dunlops dominated the league's scoring race up to the time of schedule end. Attersley, Gagnon, Burns, Smith and Samolenko were included in the top ten points-getters.

Attersley led in assists with 35, and Gagnon topped goal-scorers with 28. Bobbie had a points total of 62, Gagnon 55. Other leaders were:: Burns 24-28—52; Smith 24-19—43; Samolenko, 15-25—40; Tom O'Connor, 13-25—38; Jack MacKenzie, 13-17—30; Ted O'Connor, 3-26—29; Myles, 12-16—30, and Bonello, 6-18—24.

Roy Edwards, youthful goalie, has a goals against average of 3.00 for seven games. Long John Henderson, 23 games, 76 goals for 3.30. Donlevy, seven games, 25 goals for 3.57. Henderson recorded the Dunlops' lone shutout.

BROWNS LOSE O'CONNELL

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Tommy O'Connell, 27, Cleveland Browns' quarterback and top National Football League passer last season, Tuesday became the backfield coach at the University of Illinois. O'Connell said he sent his resignation Monday to Cleveland coach Paul Brown.

SIGNS FOR 11th SEASON

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran quarterback Charley Conerly Tuesday signed for his 11th season with New York Giants of the National Football League. Conerly, 36, completed 128 of 232 passes for 1,712 yards and 11 touchdowns during the 1957 season.

Broadcast Rumors Chadwick Armstrong Were Washed Up, Result, Both Play Like Stars

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto Maple Leafs may play a different style of hockey since Conn Smythe relinquished control but the little pistol's policies are still evident in some aspects of player-management relations.

Smythe had some strong theories on the control and discipline of the National Hockey League player and apparently son Stafford, spokesman for the "committee of seven" which now guides Leaf destinies, subscribes to many of them.

The senior Smythe was given to muttering dire predictions about the future of unproductive players to nearby newspaper men and in the last 10 days Stafford has taken a similar course.

PROTEGE OF CONN

After a series of weekend games with Boston Bruins Jan. 11-12, Smythe was quoted as telling Bruins' Lynn Patrick that Leaf captain George Armstrong "can't make our team" and Armstrong, a protege of Conn, was supposed to be on his way to Boston.

The younger Smythe let rumors of the trade simmer for a few days and then announced he had no intention of letting Armstrong go and had only told Patrick that the Big Chief could not make the Leafs the way he was playing at that particular time.

While the stories were still in the air Armstrong repeatedly told the sportswriters nobody had told him anything, but he assumed he was on his way out.

Similarly, goalie Ed Chadwick avowed he was completely in the dark after his boss said "you have to almost be an all-star to be an NHL goalie these days and Chadwick isn't playing like an all-star."

"I READ ABOUT IT"

He said Leafs would like to get another netminder. Chadwick said "no one has said anything to me, I read about it."

Many observers feel a player's morale is bound to be undermined by indirect criticisms and vague trade-rumors, but Smythe can point to the performances of Chadwick and Armstrong in weekend games to support his tactics.

Saturday Armstrong scored as Leafs beat Detroit Red Wings 2-1 for their first win over Wings this season. Chadwick played magnificently in that one and well on Sunday though Leafs lost 5-3 to Chicago Black Hawks.

Tonight the theory will be further tested as Toronto is host to Montreal Canadiens. Canadiens may be without Henri Richard, out with a hip injury, as well as brother Maurice, but they are favored to increase their league lead to 19 points.

Leafs have recalled forward Earl Balfour from Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League for tonight's game. Leafs are down to nine forwards through injuries and Balfour plays either wing.

Yvon Durelle Will Be Fit In Few Days

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Canadian and British Empire light-heavyweight champion Yvon Durelle was tested under heavy fire Tuesday for the first time since ptomaine poisoning forced postponement of his bout with Tony Anthony in New York, Jan. 20.

Chris Shaban, Durelle's manager, said he is satisfied with the way Durelle looked during a workout here. Yvon did a pair of two-minute rounds each with Norman Gautreau, Maritime welterweight champ, middleweight Nick Kovac and heavyweight Bob ..dgett.

Yvon said he felt a little tired after the drill. But he said that after a few more days here plus glove work in New York "I'll be in good condition."

Durelle lost about five pounds as the result of the poisoning, blamed on shrimps. He said his present weight is around 175, a little low. He usually weighs about 178 and then works his way down to the 175-pound limit.

Durelle and Shaban will move to New York Saturday to continue training for the Jan. 31 meeting with Anthony.

TO REPORT WITH TEAM

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Braves reassessed their medical reports on Billy Bruton's right knee and decided Tuesday the speedy centrefielder will report March 1 along with the rest of the squad. However, Bruton will undergo a special training routine. He was injured last July at Pittsburgh in a collision with Felix Mantilla.

Lady Curlers From Scotland Win in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — A touring team of 16 women curlers from Scotland Tuesday played an exhibition match against women members of the Royal Canadian Curling Club, winning the event 36-30.

The Scots, returning a visit made by a combined United States and Canadian team in 1955, were piped into the rink by members of the Toronto Girls' Pipe Band.

The visiting team has played in Montreal, Ottawa and Peterborough and leaves here for exhibitions in Hamilton, Niagara Falls, Guelph and London, Ont.

Teepees Shade Biltmores 4-3, Increase Lead

ST. CATSARINES (CP)—St. Catharines Teepees increased their lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series to 14 points Tuesday night, defeating the last-place Guelph Biltmores 4-3.

Although outplayed by a wide margin, Biltmores were kept in the game by the sensational goaltending of Bruce Gamble. Gamble saved 38 of the 42 shots fired at him while Dennis DeJordy had a relatively easy night with only 18 shots.

Defenceman Wayne Hillman and right winger Stan Mikita shared the Teepee scoring with two goals apiece.

Rod Gilbert scored all three Guelph goals, one in the first period and two in the third.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Holly Mims, 10-year ring veteran, tonight meets Bobby Boyd of Chicago in the City Auditorium.

Boyd, ninth - ranked middleweight in the nation, hung up a decision over Mims in their only previous meeting, April 18, 1956, and the Chicagoan is expected to enter the ring a 3-1 favorite.

Mims has won 42 of 63 fights.

Boyd, known as a hard puncher with a soft chin, won 47 of 57 fights. In 1956, Joey Giardello broke his jaw. Last year Rory Calhoun flattened him in short order.

The fight goes on at 10 p.m. EST and will be televised by ABC.

Teepee Trio Still Tops in Junior Race

TORONTO (CP)—Ed Hoekstra, Jack McKenzie and Matt Ravlich, three big guns for the league leading St. Catharines Teepees of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, are still on top of the league's individual scoring race.

Hoakstra has piled up 67 points 28 goals and 39 assists—to hold top place by a three-point margin. McKenzie holds second place with 26 goals and 38 assists for a total of 64 points.

Ravlich rounds out the trio with 54 points for third spot. He has 28 goals and 26 assists.

Barrie Flyers' Bill Forhan is fourth with 49 points from 28 goals and 21 assists. Stan Oliver of Hamilton Cubs is next with 48. He has scored 17 times, assisted 31.

The league's goalies are led by Toronto St. Michael's Cesare Maniago. He has had 88 goals scored against him in 29 games for an average of 3.03. Dennis DeJordy of St. Catharines is second with 3.23 goals a game. He was beaten on 110 shots in 34 games. Promoter Tells Champ Manager 'Quit Kidding'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Matchmaker George Parnassus of the Olympic Auditorium Boxing Club today caustically asked manager Cus D'Amato to "quit kidding the fight fans" of the nation and let his world heavyweight champion, Floyd Patterson, meet a logical contender for the title.

Parnassus was particularly incensed when he read a report from New York quoting D'Amato as saying he had never received an offer from the Los Angeles matchmaker guaranteeing him $200,000 for Patterson to meet Zora Folley of Arizona in Los Angeles this year for the title.

Parnassus two days ago agreed to boost the guarantee to $250,000 to meet the winner of the newly-signed fight between Eddie Machen and Folley in San Francisco March 17.

When this offer was made public, D'Amato said "no comment" and added that he had never heard of a previous $200,000 offer from Parnassus for Patterson to box Folley.

Parnassus said he had a copy of a telegram he sent to D'Amato Jan. 11 from Phoenix, Ariz., making an offer of $200,000 and 40 per cent of the gate for Patterson to meet Folley. He said the copy had been stamped by Western Union.

Dunlops Whip Americans 6-3 In 1st Dress Rehearsal Game

HIBBING, Minn. (CP)—Whitby Dunlops held off a fighting United States National hockey team here Tuesday night and took a 6-3 decision in the first of a two-game Canadian-American series. They meet again in St. Paul tonight.

The Ontario squad took a commanding 3-0 lead in the first period and held the U.S. team on even terms for the rest of the game.

The Canadian line of Bob Attersley, George Samolenko and Bus Gagnon was the major victory factor, accounting for five of the six Whitby scores. Charlie Burns got the other.

The big line got all three first-period goals to set up the lead, Samolenko scoring twice after Attersley got the opener. Gordie Christian of Warroad, Minn., finally broke the spell for the Americans at 5:54 of the second period with brother Rog Christian giving him the pass that beat Canadian goalie Roy Edwards.

DOWN THE MIDDLE

Attersley then blasted one straight down the middle from the blue line at 17:20 with Gagnon and Al Treen helping.

In the third frame the two teams squared off at two goals each. Dick Meredith scored first for the Americans at 1:54.

Playing a man short, the Canadians caught the Americans napping at 7:28 with Burns stealing the puck near the blue line and getting through unassisted. Paul Johnson got that one back for the Yanks at 17:03.

Gagnon closed out the scoring at 18:14 with Attersley and Samolenko assisting.

John Henderson was in the nets for the Canadians in the third period and had seven of Whitby's 21 stops. John Rigazio had 25 in the American nets.

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The first - place Chicoutimi Sagueneens fell 6-2 to Shawinigan Falls Cataracts in Tuesday night's Quebec Hockey League action while Quebec Aces shaded Montreal Royals 5-4.

Claude Labrosse scored three goals to pace Cataracts to victory at Chicoutimi, a win that cut Sagueneens's lead over the second-place Cats to eight points.

The win for the third-place Aces gave them a four-point lead over Royals.

Marlene Enters At Coral Ridge

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—The Helen Lee Doherty Challenge Cup golf tournament, one of the oldest in the state, begins today with qualifying play over the 6,250-yard Coral Ridge course.

Joane Goodwin of Haverhill, Mass., 1956 winner, is among the 69 women amateurs entered but the defending champion, Anne Quast of Marysville, Wash., was missing. Miss Quast was unable to leave her college classes.

Former Canadian and U.S. amateur champion Marlene Stewart Streit, Toronto, is entered.

The 36 - hole finals will be played Sunday.

WINS FOURTH STRAIGHT

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Lew Hoad gained his fourth straight victory over Pancho Gonzales Tuesday night in their final match of a professional tennis tour in Australia. Hoad won 12-10, 9-7 to an 8-5 lead in the 100-match series.

Will Change National League Ball Schedule

CINCINNATI (AP) — The National League has thrown out its current schedule of 1958 baseball games because of 16 changes by the Los Angeles Dodgers and plans to submit new dates to members next Saturday.

Dave Grote, head of the league's service bureau, announced plans for revisions Tuesday and said the present schedule is obsolete.

He said a revised schedule will be submitted to National League members this weekend in New York. It may be two weeks before the new schedule is ready, he said.

Grote said the changes came after Los Angeles picked the Coliseum for its home games, and said the intense summer heat in Southern California was a factor in changing playing dates and the number of night and Sunday games.

McFarlands Tie For Second Place After 9-4 Victory Over Kingston

Brilliant Four-Goal Effort By Paul Payette Features High-Scoring Senior Battle

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Paced by the brilliant four-goal effort of Paul Payette, the Belleville McFarlands decisively defeated their ancient rivals from Kingston by a 9-4 score here last night.

The McFarlands' first-string centre scored the perfect hat-trick with three consecutive goals before adding his fourth counter, three goals later. He also earned an assist.

The McFarlands' victory earned them a second-place tie in the league standing since the Pembroke Lumber Kings trounced the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens 8-3 to maintain their point-in-arrears third place position.

The winners raced into an impressive 3-1 first period lead with the teams splitting four goals in the second frame. They opened their offensive wide in the third chapter, scoring four times with a single reply from the CKLC's.

Adding to the Macs' biggest score of the season were Wiener Brown and Floyd Crawford with two goals each and Gerry Goyer with one. Ike Hildebrand and Joe Lepine each had three assists with Bart Bradley and Eddie Marineau collecting two each. Botley, Menard, Kowalchuk and MacDonald had singles.

The game lacked some of the usual fire of a typical Belleville-Kingston senior battle but the clubs divided fourteen penalties, all minors. The McFarlands outshot the CKLCs 44-29 on the night's play.

Billy Colvin topped the Kingston markers with two goals, with Roy Partridge and Bob Paul getting the others. Anderson collected two assists.

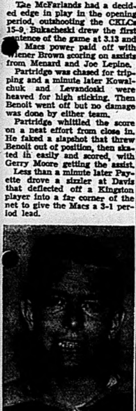
The McFarlands had a decided edge in play in the opening period, outshooting the CKLCs 15-9. Bukacheski drew the first sentence of the game at 3.13 and the Macs power paid off with Wiener Brown scoring on assists from Menard and Joe Lepine.

Partridge was chased for tripping and a minute later Kowalchuk and Levandoski were heaved for high sticking. Then Benoit went off but no damage was done by either team.

Partridge whittled the score on a neat effort from close in. He faked a slapshot that threw Benoit out of position, then skated in easily and scored, with Gerry Moore getting the assist.

Less than a minute later Payette drove a sizzler at Davis that deflected off a Kingston player into a far corner of the net to give the Macs a 3-1 period lead.



FLOYD CRAWFORD
Two for the Road

Paul Payette racked up the perfect hat trick with his third goal in a row at 1.13 of the second period with Hildebrand and Lepine drawing assists.

The checking was rugged and Thomson stopped Brown cold in centre ice with a bone shaker while a minute later Benoit tossed over his shoulder in a perfect parabola. At 3.25 Botley and Senior were chased for roughing but both defences held and no damage was done.

At 8.22 Bukacheski was sentenced and the Macs poured on the power. They swarmed around Davis in a neatly-patterned passing play which culminated in Wiener Brown taking Lepine's pass to blast a sizzling high shot into a corner to give the Macs a 5-1 lead.

Kingston battled hard to cut the lead and gave Gordie Bell some busy moments. They cut the margin to 5-2 at 12.42 when Billy Colvin stole the puck off Menard's stick in front of the goal and drove it home.

Kowalchuk was heaved but two minutes after his return, Kingston scored their second goal of the period when Colvin got his second marker. Bell came out of his net and the puck got loose. It lay there for a second before Colvin flipped it into the net. The Macs outshot Kingston 15-11 in the period.

Payette racked up his fourth goal of the game after six minutes of the third period culminating a passing play with Hildebrand and Crawford. Three minutes later Wiener Brown whipped a perfect pass across the goalmouth to Crawford who drove it into the net with Marineau in on the play.

Menard got the gate and the CKLC's battled desperately to cut the margin, they whipped rubber at Gordie Bell but failed to hit paydirt, until with seconds to go Bob Paul blasted a drive in the net from near the blueline. Anderson and Thomson were given assists.

The Macs broke away from the Kingston pressure with Gerry Goyer making it 8-4 at 14.16 on a three-way foray with Kowalchuk and MacDonald. Gerry Moore broke into the clear and raced in on Bell alone but the Macs goalie kicked out his drive.

With less than two minutes to go Crawford sunk his second goal of the night with a high backhand shot from well out with Payette and Hildebrand getting assists.

With seconds to go Crawford and Bukacheski were chased for roughing, and a scuffling match broke out in the corridor as the players went to the dressing room. No punches were thrown and no penalties given.

The line-ups:

Kingston — Goal, Davis; defence, Levandoski, Thomson, Paul; forwards, Colvin, Partridge, Moore, Bukacheski, Toppazzini, Bellringer, Anderson, Youngberg, Senior.

Belleville — Goal, Bell; defence, Crawford, Lepine, Benoit, Botley; forwards, Payette, Menard, Kowalchuk, Goyer, Marineau, MacDonald, Bradley, Brown, Hildebrand.

Dunlops Liked Booster Club Hospitality

The following letter speaks for itself:—

Mr. R. Beare, President
McFarlands' Booster Club.
Dear Mr. Beare:

The Whitby Dunlop Hockey Club is now enroute to St. Paul, Minnesota, and will return to Whitby on Saturday, January 25th, after completing a series of games in Northern Ontario.

Mr. Wren Blair has asked that I express to you on behalf of every member of the team, our appreciation for the beautiful floral horseshoe presented last Friday night to our club. The boys are still talking about the hospitality extended to them at the party.

It is encouraging to know that we will have your support in the World's Championships and we sincerely trust that we will live up to the expectations of your Booster Club and win the World's Championships.

W. Hannah,
Club Liaison Officer,
Whitby Dunlop Hockey Club.

Eastern Senior 'A' Division Standings, Scoring

Whitby Dunlops not only dominated the O.H.A. Senior "A" eastern division at the end of their 36-game schedule, but also placed five players in the top ten individual scoring race. Bob Attersley, Bus Gagnon and Charlie Burns were in the win, place and show positions with 62, 55 and 52 points, while Sid Smith was sixth with 43 and George Samolenko tenth with 40 points. Attersley led the loop in assists with 35, while Gagnon's goal total of 28 topped that department.

Kingston's CKLC's Billy Colvin is in fourth spot with 48 points, including 26 goals, while Bob Boucher of Ottawa-Hull, is close on his heels with 46. Don Bellringer holds down the seventh position with 42, while Ted Toppazzini, also of Kingston, is tied with Moe Savard of Cornwall and Samolenko for the final spot, each with 40 points.

Badman Russ Kowalchuk of Belleville, upped his minutes-in-penalties total to 140 minutes.

Roy Edwards and John Henderson, Whitby goalies, left the loop while topping the average race. Edwards had a 3.00 mark and Henderson 3.30. Gordie Bell, of Belleville, follows with a 3.70 average. Lynn Davis, Kingston, has registered a pair of shutouts.

Aussie Stars May Quit Overseas Tour

SYDNEY (AP)—Two top Australian tennis stars, Neale Fraser and Ashley Cooper, have threatened to bolt the official Australian overseas tour because of a decision to reduce their pocket money in the United States.

The Australian Lawn Tennis Monday recommended allowing players $5 a day pocket money while they are playing in the U.S. and taking over payment of all necessary expenses. The U.S. Lawn Tennis Association pays the Australian association an allowance of $25 a day for each player. Previously the players were allowed $7 daily for incidentals.

Cooper and Fraser informed the Australian selectors Tuesday they are reconsidering whether they will be available for the five-month tour, which covers the French, Wimbledon and U.S. championships.

If they do not go on the official tour, they may make a private tour. Players travelling privately usually get higher expense allowances than official team members.

Wolves Shade Trappers 2-1, Dutchmen Edge Maroons 4-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goaltender Johnny Albani of Sudbury Wolves, once told by Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League he was too small for big-time hockey, Tuesday night played his 200th consecutive game in the Wolves' net.

The game also brought a victory—2-1 over North Bay Trappers.

At Kitchener, the Dutchmen, OHA-NOHA Senior A series leaders, pushed their lead to eight points over Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds, edging Chatham Maroons 4-3. Greyhounds, league leaders until four weeks ago, crashed 7-3 to Windsor Bulldogs.

In the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A eastern series, Belleville McFarlands defeated Kingston CKLCs 9-4 and Pembroke Lumber Kings whipped Ottawa-Hull Canadiens 8-3.

Albani, 22, a five-foot, six-inch, 155-pounder, has scored 19 shutouts in his career, which includes 160 league and 40 playoff games.

In the three years since he graduated from the Leafs' junior farm team, Toronto Marlboros, he has led the league in goals-against average each year. This season, with Sudbury last place in the series, he has the third-best average and leads in shutouts with five.

North Bay centre Gerry Cabana put Trappers into a 1-0 first-period lead, but Jim Logan and Norm Guimond gave Wolves a second-period edge when they held through a scoreless third.

Rightwinger Buddy Horne paced Dutchmen to victory banging two goals past netminder Don Head. Jerry Theberge and Don Rope scored the others. Jimmy Connelly, Fred Pletsch and Lloyd Ferguson scored for Chatham.

Windsor burst into a 5-1 lead in the first period then coasted to victory. The win tied Bulldogs in third place with Maroons.

Wally Maxwell and Lou Bendo each scored two for Windsor, singles going to Pete Pilote, Lionel Henrich and Andy Milne. Soo marksmen were John Lumley, John Bailey and Tommy Walker.

Paul Payette scored four goals, including the hat trick, for Belleville. Weiner Brown and Floyd Crawford each scored two, Gerry Goyer adding a single. Billy Colvin, with two, Roy Partridge and Bob Paul scored for the CKLCs.

Bob Rousseau, with two, and Terry Gray scored for Ottawa. Lumber Kings' sharpshooters were Vic Fildes, Jim Maxville, Gerry Plamondon, Lionel Barber, Denis Menard, Frank Chiarelli, Bernie Limoges and Jack Giesebrecht.

Tony DeMarco May Retire After Bad Beating by Akins

BOSTON (AP) — Virgil Akins, the battling church deacon from St. Louis, was headed for the welterweight elimination tournament today after blasting former champion Tony DeMarco into probable retirement.

"We're going to go along with our original agreement with the National Boxing Association and the world committee to enter the championship tournament," said Bernie Glickman, co-manager of Akins.

While the 29-year - old Akins looked forward to the title trail, DeMarco was attempting to shake off the effects of a vicious beating absorbed before being stopped in the 12th round Tuesday night.

Despite the advice of four doctors that he stay in hospital for "at least a couple of days," DeMarco checked in at a hotel and spent the night under the watchful eyes of handlers.

THROUGH FIGHTING

"As far as I'm concerned, Tony is all through fighting," said manager Rip Valenti. "Even if he wants to fight again, I'm the guy who holds the contract and I'm going to decide this time."

Akins, who knocked-out DeMarco in the 14th round less than three months ago, again had too much ring knowledge and too many fistic bombs for the 26-year-old Boston slugger.

Akins floored DeMarco three times before referee Eddie Bradley mercifully called a halt at 1:53 of the 12th round.

Glickman said that Akins would not agree to any other "title" bout which conflicts with the NBA-World Committee tournament agreement.

"We made the agreement and plan to meet George Barnes (of Australia) or Vince Martinez," he said. "Virgil will be ready to go again in four weeks."

The World Committee and the New York State Athletic Commission refused to go along with a recent NBA vote sanctioning a championship bout between Isaac Logart and the winner of the Martinez-Gil Turner fight, won by Martinez. The NBA also ruled the winner of the Logart bout should meet Akins with the championship at stake.

More than 15,000 fans jammed the Garden but official figures listed the attendance as 11,833, with a gross gate of $80,815 and a "net" of $63,107. The bout was not televised or broadcast.

National League Owners Agree to Meet Players

TORONTO (CP) — Doug Harvey, vice-president of the National Hockey League Players Association, says league team owners have agreed to meet player representatives in Florida next month in an attempt to settle the differences.

Harvey, all - star defenceman with Montreal Canadiens here for a game tonight against Toronto Maple Leafs, said Tuesday owners agreed last week to the Feb. 4 meeting.

Harvey said Senator Hartland Molson, new owner of Canadiens, led the move to arrange the meeting.

"Senator Molson met with Canadiens players and we presented a list of 24 demands," Harvey said. "He said a couple of them seemed a little unreasonable but nothing that couldn't be discussed."

Harvey said owners agreed to bring player representatives to Florida, where many club officials are vacationing. He did not mention a specific site.

He said the Feb. 4 date was chosen so the players association could drop its $3,000,000 anti-trust suit against the NHL, its clubs and owners, i fsuch was decided and owners, if such was decided uled to go before a U.S. court Feb. 18.

Goose Gosselin, Lamirande Acquired by Whitby Dunlops

WHITBY (CP) — George (Goose) Gosselin, two-way left-winger for North Bay Trappers of the OHA-NOHA Senior A series, will join Whitby Dunlops Sunday, before they go overseas to represent Canada in the world hockey championships.

Whitby manager Wren Blair has been negotiating for Gosselin for several weeks but the Trappers, still fighting for a play-off spot, were hesitant to let him go.

They finally decided, however, to release him if it meant he could help the Canadian team at Oslo when the championships start Feb. 28.

Gosselin joins Jean-Paul Lamirande of Quebec Aces, the defensive replacement Blair was seeking.

In return for Lamirande the Quebec Hockey League club will get two players from Springfield of the American Hockey League, defencemen Bud Hillman and Bob Duncan.

Babando Quits Soo Greyhounds

SOUTH PORCUPINE, Ont. (CP) — Pete Babando has returned here after a disagreement with Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds of the OHA-NOHA Senior A series.

Babando, a former National Hockey League player, was purchased recently by the Hounds from Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League.

The left winger said he took his family to the Soo immediately after learning the Greyhound management had purchased his contract, under the assumption "they promised me a furnished apartment."

"But when I got there with my wife and two children, I found out that furnished apartment was nothing more than a room in a hotel," he said. "I decided that if they wanted to deal like that, I didn't want to play for them so I came home."

Fontana Enters Court Tourney

HAMILTON (CP) — Davis Cup star Don Fontana of Toronto has been seeded No. 1 for the Thistle Club's invitation indoor tennis tournament. The three-day event starts Friday and finals will be held Sunday.

Besides Fontana, the entries for the singles include Johnn Swann of Vancouver, Frank Mott-Trille, former British West Indies Davis Cup player now of Toronto, Jim Bentley and Don Platt, both of Toronto. The lone American entry is veteran Ned Stafford of Niagara Falls, N.Y.

On the Tracks

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hasty House Farm's Melody Mine carries high weight of 121 pounds in the $20,000-added Jasmine Stakes at Hialeah Park today but favoritism is expected to go to Calumet Farm's A Glitter.

Melody Mine won the Mademoiselle and was bought last month by Mr. and Mrs. Allie Reuben of Toledo, Ohio, owners of Hasty House, for a chunk of cash and three horses.

A Glitter won her first three starts as a juvenile and was an odds-on favorite in the Selima at Laurel, but drifted wide and finished third. Champion jockey Willie Hartack will make up most of the 118 pounds on A Glitter in the six-furlong sprint.

If all 14 entries start, the race will have a gross value of $26,350 and net the winning owner $18,925.

"Pal Joey" opens Thursday

Rita Hayworth, Frank Sinatra and Kim Novak—a glittering array of star power, exceptional even in this day of multi-star motion picture productions—share sellars honors in Columbia's "Pal Joey," opening Thursday at the Park Theatre, for its first Eastern showing. The Technicolor musical brings to the screen the long-awaited movie version of the famed Broadway hit, "Pal Joey", with book by John O'Hara, music by Richard Rogers and lyrics by Lorenz Hart, produced on the stage by George Abbott.

O'Hara tenderly tough saga of night club entertainer Joey Evans, who has a way with women, reportedly has been brought to the screen with all the exciting color of the original, and the wide-ranging motion picture cameras give it a lushness and richness it never had on the stage.

Miss Hayworth, one of the loveliest women on the screen, is seen as the beautiful socialite who responds to the rowdy appeal of "Pal Joey", the role which brought Sinatra back to Columbia, the studio that cast him as Maggio in "From Here to Eternity," for which he won an Academy Award. And, to round out the perfect casting that marks "Pal Joey," there's Kim Novak as the beautiful chorine who gets under the egotistical Joey's skin to teach him that he has a heart after all.

Everybody sings—and dances — in "Pal Joey". The magnificent score is paced by such beauts as "Bewitched, Bothered and Bewildered," "I Didn't Know What Time It Was", "There's a Small Hotel", "The Lady Is a Tramp", "My Funny Valentine" and other notable Rodgers and Hart hits.

Some of the highlights of "Pal Joey" are, of course, Sinatra's compelling singing of the great score, a make-believe strip and a real shower bath by Miss Hayworth and strip dance by Miss Novak. The film is set in San Francisco and there are location shots of the Golden Gate's Sausalito Yacht Basin, the International Settlement Street, Fisherman's Wharf, Coit Tower, St. Francis Yacht Basin, the Oakland-San Francisco Ferry, Market Street and the Spreckels mansion.

An Essex-George Sidney production, "Pal Joey" was written for the screen by Dorothy Kingsley. George Sidney directed and Fred Kohlmar produced the film.

LAMBS BLESSED

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius today blessed two lambs brought to him in a wicker basket adorned with flowers and ribbons. The lambs, symbol of St. Agnes, were taken later to the convent of St. Cecilia in Rome where they will be raised. Eventually their wool will be clipped and used to make sacred palliums, the broad bands worn by the Pope and archbishops around their neck and shoulders.

AT THE BELLE — Joan Woodward, sensational new star, in the picture that has voted her the best actress of the year "The Three Faces of Eve", co-starring David Wayne and Lee J. Cobb. "The Three Faces of Eve", playing tonight for the last times at the Belle, reveals the strangest true experience a young girl in love ever lived. The co-feature is "The Badlands of Montana".

Jesse Lasky Was Producer Of Some of Greatest Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Pioneer producer Jesse Lasky once gave this observation of film making:

"The public wants sheer entertainment with a little uplift, a little hope. It does not want depressing stories, unhappy endings (with an occasional exception) and it does not care much for fantasy.

"But that is only a formula. To find stories that contain those elements is another matter."

Lasky devoted the last 25 years of his life to such a quest. Broke and removed as head of Paramount, which he helped found, he devoted his intense enthusiasm to finding suitable film subjects and selling them to the studios and the public. As long as he kept his formula in mind, he generally succeeded. He often failed when he attempted something apart from "sheer entertainment."

One of his first films as an independent at Fox was The Power and The Glory, which told its story in flashback after the death of the hero, a technique later used by Orson Welles and others. Lasky starred a young actor who had got in trouble with the studio by disappearing when he was supposed to report for his first film. The Power and The Glory started Spencer Tracy on the road to an illustrious career.

Lasky had signed tenor Nino Martini at Paramount, later dropped him when he couldn't find a film for him. At Fox, he starred the singer in Here's to Romance, a commercial failure.

Undaunted, Lasky tried again with The Gay Desperado when he joined forces with Mary Pickford to produce movies. This time Martini paid off as a big hit.

During a lull in his producing career Lasky decided to dip into radio. He promoted a show called Gateway To Hollywood, in which unknowns were given a chance to act dramatic roles opposite well-known stars. Two of the winners were Josephine Cottle and Lee Bonnell, who later married and now have four children. Mrs. Bonnell is better known as Gale Storm.

The producer got back into films in a big way with Sergeant York. He followed this with two other successful biographies at Warner Brothers — The Adventures of Mark Twain and Rhapsody in Blue, the George Gershwin story.

Taking his company to RKO, Lasky starred Claudette Colbert and John Wayne in a rollicking comedy, Without Reservations, made at a time when Wayne was just beginning his climb to top stardom.

The next film was not such a hit. Lasky had bought the novel Miracle of The Bells and got the inspiration to cast the bobby-sox idol, Frank Sinatra, in the non-singing role of a priest.

"It was a good showmanship and it was a mistake," Lasky recalled. "Frank gave a perfect performance, but bobby - soxers who had come expecting their idol to sing were so disappointed that their word-of-mouth publicity undoubtedly discouraged others from seeing it.

"I was accused of wasting a good singer in a non-singing role. It's ironic that after I did my own picture an injury . . . his career should reach its zenith in his academy award performance in From Here To Eternity."

In his long career, Lasky was seldom at a loss for words. But he liked to recall that it happened once, when he visited President Roosevelt with Sgt. Alvin York, the First World War hero. FDR complimented him on the York picture, then asked, "By the way, Lasky, did you ever find that scenario I sent you in 1923?"

The reddened producer remembered that Roosevelt had sent him a treatment of John Paul Jones' life, I Have Just Begun to Fight. The script was lost and never found. Lasky finally replied: "If we hadn't lost it, you might be a scenario writer now instead of president of the United States."

San Luis Rey Show Failed To Pose Wilder's Question

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The Bridge of San Luis Rey, presented Tuesday night on CBS-TV, was a "Show of the 'Month" which might have been a show of the season.

Producer David Suskind's idea of dramatizing Thornton Wilder's complex novel in 90 minutes on the home screen was an extraordinarily ambitious undertaking. But it was marred as a drama by a failure to establish its theme and character.

Wilder wrote his novel in the form of five stories about five persons who plunged to their deaths in 1714 when the finest bridge in Peru collapsed. The profound philosophical question posed by the novel was whether we live and die by accident or by some grand design, but for some reason best known to the adapters this question was never forthrightly stated in the television version.

GOOD PERFORMANCES

Under the direction of Robert Mulligan, however, there were convincing performances by Judith Anderson as the Marquesa, Eva Le Gallienne as the Abbess, Hume Cronyn, the London, Ont., native, as Uncle Pio, and Viveca Lindfors as Camila. Sandra Whiteside, a newcomer to television, will doubtless be in demand following her memorable performance as Pepita.

Miss Le Gallienne's closing speech finally brought out the point of the drama when she said:

"There is a land of the living and land of the dead, and the bridge is love, the only survival, the only meaning."

Perhaps "the Bridge," which has had two poor motion picture adaptations, is one of those stories which cannot be translated from the form of the novel. Nevertheless, "Show of the Month" deserves credit for such an ambitious undertaking in this television season of generally mediocre drama.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Wednesday, January 22

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—A little time spent quickly by yourself will reveal certain important things which must be done that have heretofore eluded you. Attend to them and then seek the companionship of dearest friends for a lovely evening.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Seek out that wonderful, philanthropic friend who dearly loves you today for additional advice on vital matters, or for support you need. Use quickly and lift yourself out of present straits, live again!

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Anything of a civic or mundane labor would be best with which to occupy your day today. Aspects are fine for expressing your ideas and views with all persons of power who wish to hear them, assist you, in all spheres.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—Here is the ideal day to contact that new acquaintance who intrigues you because of fascinating manner and novel approach to things. First read your paper, then get into an illuminating discussion, cement better relations.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Look into your money matters now and put everything in fine shape. Make collections and pay indebtedness to best of ability, using great discretion and wisdom. P.M. be most loving and kind to important person in your life.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — The day is splendid for impressing others, particularly close ties and associates with your savoir faire, wisdom in business matters, and highest ideals. Their added respect for you brings success in the future.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — That little artistic touch, added bit of speed and neatness, etc., you apply to regular work will pay big dividends now. Don't loaf one minute, for every moment counts today in getting the fine benefits possible in chosen line.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—This morning you arise feeling quite justifiably pleased and happy with yourself and everything in general. Since it has not been so for some time, share your warmth with others, bring greater happiness to them, increase yours.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Opportunity is present now for that upswing. But greater harmonious relations need to be brought about with closest ties and friends first. Come through with your end of bargains and all will be straightened out forthwith.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — The day hours must be spent in actively going about making your calls, writing, buying, selling, all outside work of a most constructive nature. Then you can happily spend the evening with dearest comrades and be joyful.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—The time is ripe for making those repairs to possessions, wardrobe, etc., that will increase their value, your prestige. Also, get down to real figures and make your budget a workable one. Get your larynx in good condition, too.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — The wisest thing today is to go to the best beauty or barber shop and pamper yourself to the nth degree. Also, put apparel in spanking clean condition. Then out to meet royalty if necessary to further your career.

If your child is born today... The child born today is the delightful, dynamic kind who could never find real happiness and peace unless you take every pain in giving a well defined education to take in the spiritual, moral, scientific laws to early dispel any fears or inhibitions. Depending upon the background will be the future of this child of Destiny, who could very easily reach the highest positions in the land.

HARD TO SPEND

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A thief stole more than $1,000 in cash from the farm home of C.T. Carr but he'll have a hard time spending it. He took 1,000 old coins, valued at $1,000, and two old-style large dollar bills.

Cross, Fretty Baby

If baby is cross or fretty, it is usually a sign that something in his or her little system is "out of order". And in many cases, mild, gentle Baby's Own Tablets can promptly "put it right". That's the reason more and more modern mothers keep Baby's Own Tablets on hand for instant use when minor ailments, colic and upsets, due to need of a corrective, cause baby to be fretful, feverish and restless. Clinically and time-tested, Baby's Own Tablets are thoroughly dependable. Just see for yourself how quickly these easy-to-take sweet-tasting little tablets have baby feeling happy and comfortable again. Ask your doctor about them. Get a package at your druggist.

● NEW! BABY'S OWN COUGH SYRUP made especially for babies. Soothing, quickly relieving... pleasant... won't upset digestion

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was writing names on the back of a piece of paper, saying to pop, William, I've been going over our social obligations in my mind. In fact I've been going over them on paper, and low and behold it's our tern to entertain 3 cupples, which meens 6 peeple. Of course I could invite each cupple to dinner separately, but they're all sutch bores when you are face to face with them alone, she said.

So what? pop said, and ma said, The perfect solution would be to have them all together for a sociable after dinner evening of bridge and television, because the 6 of them and the 2 of us would make 2 tables of bridge, but the Puckleys and the Rorers dont play bridge, and the Berdhouses think television is some kind of dedly poison for nitwits and morons. And it's hopelessly old fashioned to invite peeple to sit under your roof just for mixed conversation and refreshmints, she said.

So what? pop said, and ma said, Well, if we invited them all to a big dinner at one full swoop it would please all 6, because they're all cheerful eaters, but it certainly wouldn't please me. I'd be a mental and fizzical wreck after an ordeal like that. I'd fall flat on my face as I was opening the frunt door to let them in. In other werds it's impossible to please everybody, especially when you include yourself, she said.

For the 3rd time, so what? pop said, and ma said, I wish I knew.

I wish I could tell you, pop said. Being the end of the subject.

"It's just one of those days when nobody feels like working!"

AIRPORT TYPE

Another speaker said tricky currents around the Iroquois lock in the seaway "look like suicide" for big 700-foot great lakes ships.

Veteran ship master Capt. James S. Walton of Port Colborne, commodore of Colonial Steamships' inland fleet of canal and lake vessels, said a three-mile-an - hour current flows through the Iroquois control dam, threatening ships leaving the Iroquois lock.

Difficult and hazardous currents at each end of the Iroquois lock will make expert captains think twice before tackling the seaway, Capt. Walton said.

"It seems to me some one has slipped very seriously in not thinking of the big ships."

One ship may try the trip as an experiment, but "we're not going to risk $3,000,000 worth of ship under these conditions."

Last summer, 15 to 20 smaller canal boats—250-feet long compared with the 700-foot lakers—ran aground in the area because of the unpredictable currents, he said.

HITS CHICAGO PLAN

A Cleveland official said Canadians do not realize the significance of Chicago's plan to wash away sewage by diverting 1,000 cubic feet of water from Lake Michigan every second.

Admiral Lyndon Spencer, president of the Lake Carriers Association, said the Chicago plan affects shipowners, power output, navigation and private citizens.

Chicago's application to divert the Lake Michigan water into the Mississippi River system is pending before the U.S. congress. The Lake Carriers Association is opposing the application.

Admiral Spencer said he personally feels there should be no tolls on the seaway.

"It's not the shipowners who will pay the tolls," he said, "It will be the shippers and producers, and ultimately the consumers," meaning that the public will pay a lot more for the seaway in the long run.

"Let's pay it off in taxes and be done with it."

A smoke regulation code aimed at clearing the air around Detroit and Windsor is under study by the International Joint Commission, it was learned.

The smoke comes chiefly from old hand-fired coal burning cargo ships sailing the Detroit River with iron ore, coal, grain and limestone, said Dr. Morris Katz of Ottawa, chairman of the Canadian section of a technical advisory board set up in 1949 to investigate air pollution.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down—take things easy—watch your diet—get more rest. It's still good advice. But these days you can face fifty with many interesting and active years ahead,—active, that is, if you can avoid backache and the "tired-out" feeling, due to kidney and bladder disorders, that often develop around that age. For more than 60 years Dodd's Kidney Pills have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order,—helping them to feel better, to work better, and get more fun out of life. If you are approaching fifty, or past it, Dodd's Kidney Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Dodd's. 54

BANKER KIDNAPPED, BEATEN BY THUGS

I. A. Keays, manager of a bank in South Mountain, Ont., was kidnapped and held as hostage as robbers cut through locks in the bank's safety deposit vault and escaped with an unknown number of valuables. Keays walked into his home at 10.30 p.m., to find his wife, son and mother-in-law tied and gagged. Five robbers then forced him back to the bank and after extracting the loot left him bound on the bank floor. A passer - by released him then both were set upon by the robbers and badly beaten with gun-butts.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

LIBERAL AND CCF

Voting were 107 of the 113 Conservatives, 95 of the 106 Liberals, 24 of the 25 CCF members, 17 of the 19 Social Credit MPs, and the two independents. Speaker Roland Michener, a Conservative, had no vote.

Lionel Chevrier, former Liberal transport minister, said the Conservatives want to be defeated by the opposition to get an election "to escape the responsibility of dealing with urgent problems."

Justice Minister Davie Fulton, winding up the debate amid clamor from all sides, called the Liberal motion a "weak, reedy, half-baked ramshackle contraption of compromise and confusion."

He said the Liberals, despite their national convention last week, were afraid not only to face the Commons but the Canadian people too.

Mr. Fleming said that if the Liberals had "the courage of their convictions to challenge the government" the Conservatives would be ready for an election.

"These Liberals just can't stand the sight of ballot boxes. . . . If we get them there it will only be by dragging them kicking and screaming to the polls."

Unemployment was the key issue of the arguments on both sides.

Mr. Chevrier said that if the government had the courage it would present a comprehensive program to meet unemployment instead of dealing with it piecemeal.

Paul Martin, former Liberal health minister, predicted that unemployment insurance payments in the next couple of months will be almost double those of a year ago.

He said the government is not entirely responsible for the situation. Unemployment had been rising before it took office last June.

But the Conservatives had charged the former Liberal government with responsibility for the situation instead of doing something now about it. The government could not escape the fact that "we have higher unemployment than in any year since 1933."

Mr. Fleming listed steps the government has taken, including provisions of cash advances on farm-stored Prairie grain, extension of seasonal unemployment insurance benefits, expansion of unemployment assistance aid to provinces and funnelling of money into house construction.

He said that despite the government desire to cut unnecessary expenditure, "we have said that there shall be no reduction in expenditure where it means jobs."

Then he referred to the possibility of budgeting for a deficit next year. Last Dec. 6 he forecast an $80,000,000 budget surplus in the current year ending March 31.

Mr. Fleming said the Liberals have misrepresented the extent of unemployment. They ignored the fact that numbers of persons with jobs set monthly records every month from June to December last year.

REFER TO SPEECHES

During the debate there were repeated references to Monday's speeches of attack and counter-attack by Mr. Pearson and Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Chevrier said the prime minister had heaped scorn on the new Opposition leader through disappointment the Liberal motion had not sought to precipitate an election.

"The government is endeavoring to fool the public by means of a quick election before the public can catch up with what has happened."

Mr. Fleming countered that Mr. Chevrier could not repair the "irreparable damage" done by the prime minister's "masterful" speech.

"All of Chev's forces and all of Paul's men, won't put Mike together again," he said, referring to Paul Martin and to Mr. Pearson's nickname of Mike.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Pearson "stood toe to toe and emasculated each other with truth."

ATTACK ACTION

Both Mr. Martin and Mr. Chevrier attacked the action of Mr. Diefenbaker Monday in making public a confidential economic report prepared in March, 1957, for the Liberal cabinet by government advisers.

The prime minister used the document to claim Canada was on the economic slide before the Liberals left office. He charged that the Liberals took no action on the warnings and that they "concealed information" from the public.

Mr. Martin said the prime minister had broken parliamentary tradition and destroyed the traditional anonymity of civil servants by making public the report. It was "unworthy" of the prime minister to suggest the Liberals had been concealing information.

MAKE REPORT

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet scientists have made a full report on information obtained from Sputnik I to world headquarters of the International Geophysical Year, Tass said Tuesday. The Soviet news agency said one important conclusion is that the danger from showers of meteors in space is much less than was thought.

Mother Kills Three Children, Then Herself

HIBBING, Minn. (AP) — A housewife shot and killed her three small children as they lay in bed Tuesday and then took her own life in the family's cottage at Side Lake, 23 miles north of here. The husband was at [illegible] at the time.

Deputy Sheriff Ray McDermott said Mrs. Fred Lautizi, 30, wife of a construction worker, left a pencilled note detailing her emotional illness and said she wanted to do away with her family because of it.

Hold U.S. Tariff Policies Cripple Canada's Growth

Reds May Force Change Says Gordon Commission

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Canadian authorities say a tough United States tariff policy is crippling Canada's potential industrial expansion but the rise of Soviet economic power may force the U.S. to reduce her import barriers.

That thesis was set out in a special 344 - page study prepared for the Gordon economic commission and made public today. Authors are Professor Irving Brecher of McGill University and S. S. Reisman, the finance department's director of international economic relations.

The report, containing one of the most penetrating analyses yet made of Canada - U.S. economic relationships, sharply criticized American tariff and farm programs. It warned that U.S. surplus giveaway and other schemes may lead to further losses of Canadian export markets during the next few years and impose new hardships on Canadian farmers.

The long - range future appeared more optimistic. But the commission was told that although present American farm policies may not persist over the next quarter - century, this was not to "dismiss the danger of lasting injurious effects on international trade relations and on the economies of the world's major trading nations."

CANADA SENSITIVE

The report questioned whether in fact the U.S. could really avert major depressions and concluded that although Canada has grown in stature, she will be for many years "highly sensitive" to ups and downs in the American business cycle.

It criticized American handling of its tariff laws and said that on some consumer goods the U.S. tariff is 100 per cent of the product's value.

"In many cases, customs administration has been so restrictive as to price the Canadian products completely out of the U.S. market."

The high American tariff, aimed particularly at manufactured products, tended to force some plants to be located in the U.S. rather than in Canada.

Many Canadian manufacturers had to be content to supply only the relatively small Canadian marke.

COST DISADVANTAGES

"Being geared, accordingly, to the needs of a comparatively small market, they labor under the cost disadvantages inherent in short and non-specialized production runs.

"The basic effect of U.S. commercial policy, therefore, has been to deprive potentially significant Canadian industries of the scale economies which would make a vital contribution to their competitiveness in world markets."

But the situation might change. There was a tendency in the U.S. to look towards more generous treatment of foreign producers.

Soviet economic power had increased at such a "remarkable pace as to call into question the traditional assumption of the automatic and indefinite maintenance of Western economic supremacy."

TIME FOR CHANGE

"Indeed the time for bold Western measures on the economic front may be fast approaching and it is difficult to see how the U.S.—given its overwhelming economic power and an understanding of the political and economic facts of international life—can long avoid taking the lead with strong unilateral easing of the conditions of access to the American market."

OTTAWA (CP) — International unions with headquarters in the United States are the dominant force in Canadian organized labor, the Gordon economic commission was told in a report made public today.

But the report said Canadian branches of those unions have wide freedom to make their own decisions, and there is no indication that the international unions try to force Canadian employers to pay the same wages obtained south of the border.

In fact, Canadian wages ran about 25 or 30 per cent below those in the U.S. and that gap had been continuing for some time although membership in international unions had increased greatly

The labor study was included in a report on Canada-U.S. economic relations by S. S. Reisman of the finance department and Professor Irving Brecher of c-Gill University.

TO SHED LIGHT

"The prime objective," said the authors, "is to shed some light on one basic question: namely, whether international unions in Canada under American influence seek and impose wage and employment conditions which reflect the more productive American industrial structure and which therefore prejudice the efficiency and competitiveness of Canadian industry."

They concluded that such is not the case. Of some 1,268,000 union members in Canada in 1955, 894,000 belonged to groups with international affiliation, a fourfold increase from 1939.

But in 1955 average weekly earnings in Canadian factories totalled $59.25 compared with $76.5 2in the U.S.

CONTINUOUS INFLUENCE

The report also said:

"It is entirely clear that the trade - union movement in the U.S. has exerted a powerful and continuous influence on Canadian organized labor . . .

"It is no less clear that, subject always to some exception, the Canadian membership of international unions exercise a wide and substantial measure of autonomy in the pursuit of their basic objectives; this, despite the important constitutional powers vested in international headquarters."

Today's Chuckle

Said the Leaning Tower of Pisa to the Clock Tower of Westminster Abbey: "If you've got the time, I've got the inclination."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Storm centres lie south of Nova Scotia and in extreme southern Texas. Rain is falling over Nova Scotia and along the Bay of Fundy while it is snowing lightly in the interior of New Brunswick and Eastern Quebec.

Otherwise fair weather prevails over most of Canada. Temperatures are well below zero across Northern Ontario and Manitoba while mild weather continues in Alberta and southern British Columbia.

Ontario Doctors Vote to Endorse Hospital Scheme

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario doctors have apparently resolved their differences about the province's hospital insurance plan, scheduled to start in 1959.

A two-day closed meeting of directors and provincial representatives of the Ontario Medical Association ended today with an OMA statement giving unanimous support to the scheme.

Professional Toastmasters Have Decided to Butter Own Toast

LONDON (AP) — London's professional toastmasters have decided to butter their own toast in 1958.

"Toasts are going to cost more because we want more money for our toasts," said Harold Dean, president of the Society of London Toastmasters.

The London professional toastmaster is a unique calling—and as essential to public dinners and luncheons as salt and pepper.

Dressed in scarlet coats dripping in gold braid, they introduce the guests and speakers and do it so grandly they can make mister sound like marquess.

NOT EASY

"It's not easy work," Dean explained. "Have you ever considered what it takes out of a man to introduce 800 guests in a loud clear voice and get all their titles right?"

He cited the annual lord mayor's banquet, the derby of all the dinners. It usually includes the prime minister, cabinet ministers, the Archbishop of Canterbury, ambassadors, assorted peers, judges, baronets, knights and a lot of just plain people.

"A mistake in title or precedence is unthinkable," said Dean. "Everything has to be correct and it is correct."

After each guest is announced, the toastmaster takes his position behind the lord mayor. With each toast—and they are numerous—he must thunder this preamble:

"My lord mayor, my late lord mayor, your grace, your excellencies, my lords, aldermen, sheriffs, ladies and gentlemen . . ."

To this the toastmaster must add the name of the speaker. For instance: "Pray silence for the Right Honorable Harold Macmillan, the prime minister."

Dean said the demand for higher fees is not based on the breath consumed, but rising costs.

"Before the war a scarlet tailcoat cost 12 guineas (then $50.20). Now they cost 45 guineas ($132.30)."

The president of the toastmasters took up his gavel, the main tool of his trade.

"Even this," he said, "costs two guineas. It used to be two shillings."

The toastmasters charge from four to five guineas for each function. They want at least a guinea more.

HOUSE DEBATE ON FARM PRICES GETTING LOUDER

2 Saskatchewaners Hook Up on Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—The continuing Commons debate on the government's farm prices stabilization bill is beginning to sound like a boilermakers' shindig.

So fakr no one has lost his temper, but the verbal punches tossed back and forth Wednesday fifth day of general debate on the measure—were pretty sharp.

There was a main event between a couple of Saskatchewaners: Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton and Hazen Argue, CCF whip.

It started when Mr. Argue cocked a suspicious eyebrow when Mr. Hamilton argued that the bill does all that the Progressive Conservatives promised farmers before the last election.

"A lot of bull from a bull frog," Mr. Argue butted in.

"The honorable member is an authority on the sort of thing he has just mentioned," Mr. Hamilton fired back.

"KNOW THAT GUY"

He said Mr. Argue reported that western farmers promised a march on Ottawa to protest against the measure. He added that when he asked Prairie farmers about that they told him: "You know that guy—he's always hooting off at the mouth."

Mr. Hamilton described the CCF as a party that "breathes suspicion, lives suspicion and preaches suspicion."

Mr. Argue charged that the bill is "political window dressing," and attacked the provision whereby Agriculture Minister Douglas Harkness would be empowered to set farm support prices, expressed as a percentage of a 10-year moving price average.

This, he said, could mean that the minister could fix high prices in election year and lower prices at other times.

Fuchs and Team Leave South Pole

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—Dr. Vivian Fuchs and his British team left the South Pole at noon today to continue an overland trek across the Antarctic continent, reports reaching here tonight said.

Fuchs was accompanied by a team of 11 men, the New Zealand Herald correspondent at the pole reported. They are travelling in Sno-cat and Weasel tracked snow vehicles.

They are headed for Scott Base, on the Ross Sea, some 1,250 miles from the pole. Between the pole and Scott Base they will have to cross miles of featureless polar plateau with only mountains seen occasionally on the dim and distant horizon to break the monotony of crevasses.

Fuchs hopes to arrive at Scott Base March 1," if we are lucky."

He set out in the face of warnings of grave risks that the expedition might be trapped in the icy wastes by the onset of winter.

NEW REPRESENTATIVE AT U.N.

United Nations secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold, left, accepts credentials from Charles Ritchie, new permanent representative from Canada to the U.N. at the secretary-general's office. He succeeds Dr. R. A. Mackay.

York Man, Brutally Beaten, Refuses to Sign Big Cheque

TORONTO (CP) — Arthur Hill, 56, of suburban North York said he was pistol whipped, beaten with a broom and slashed with a knife Wednesday night by two thugs who attempted to force him to endorse a cheque for $140,000 he received from the recent sale of his farm.

Hill, who lives alone in his farm home, held out and the men left with only $8, all the money he had with him at the time.

He said he staggered half a mile to a service station where he called police.

He was taken to hospital where 40 stitches were required to close scalp wounds and gashes in his hand and foot.

Police investigating the incident said it was the worst beating they had ever seen. Thire was blood on the floor and on a wall.

Hill told police two men came to his door asking to use a telephone. He told them he did not have one but they demanded he let them in.

Hill said he blew out an oil lamp and ran to the basement. When he tried to get out a window a light was shone in his eyes. He returned upstairs and found the men had broken in and relit the lamp. The house is not serviced with electricity.

After giving up trying to force him to endorse the cheque, the men took the $8 Hill had in his pockets, bound and gagged him and left. He said he worked free in about 20 minutes.

New British Cabinet Split On Welfare Costs Reported

LONDON (Reuters) — A new split was reported in Prime Minister Macmillan's government today over costs of Britain's welfare program.

Newspaper reports of the new row among the Conservative ministers came as Parliament prepared to open a debate on the economic situation this afternoon.

The Labor Opposition has introduced to a government motion an amendment which asks the House to declare it has no confidence in th capacity of its ministers to pursue policies which will secure expanding production, full employment and a stable pound. It is certain that the amendment will be defeated.

Overshadowing the debate is the recent resignation of the chancellor of the exchequer, Peter Thorneycroft, and two of his junior ministers. They quit in protest over a proposed increase of £50,000,000 in government spending for the 1958-59 financial year.

Now a new row, political correspondents report, has blown up over the same issue—government spending. The reports were denied emphatically in government circles.

The speculation centres on the fact that two non-members of the cabinet — Health Minister Derek Walker-Smith and Pensions Minister John Boyd-Carpenter—have attended three cabinet sessions in the last eight days.

The reports say the two mintions that there should be big economies in social service spending.

According to the political correspondent of the pro-government London Daily Mail, one of the ministers threatened to resign. Both submitted their own plans for paring social services in the financial year beginning in April.

These plans did not satisfy Thorneycroft earlier, says the Daily Mail correspondent, and they have not satisfied his successor, Derick Heathcoat Amory.

Hees' Views on Seaway Tolls Are Like Those of Shippers

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP) Transport Minister George Hees created mild surprise Wednesday night at a shippers' meeting when he told them his personal views on tolls for the St. Lawrence seaway are "much in keeping with your own."

Mr. Hees was speaking at a joint meeting of the Dominion Marine Association and the United States Lake Carriers Association.

He said:

"My own personal view is much the same as yours, namely that the seaway will not be able to fulfil its purpose unless it is economically possible for a large volume of shipping to use it."

MAY BE HINT

His remark is the first by Canadian government spokesman sympathizing with the lake industry's stand, and was interpreted as a hint of current government thinking on the matter.

Last year Hon. C. D. Howe, then Liberal trade minister, said there would be no possible chance of a seaway being operated without tolls.

Mr. Hees said "The economy of Canada is very much dependent upon cheap water transportation."

He said at a press conference later that he planned an immediate investigation of DMA warnings that the seaway may not be ready in 1959 at its fullest extent.

DMA officials have expressed fear that dredging work — only 56-per-cent complete in December—may not be far enough advanced to permit full navigation of the 27-foot-draught waterway from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes.

Mr. Hees said he also would look into reports of tricky currents at the Iroquois lock, 115 miles west of Montreal. Capt. James S. Walton, commodore of Colonial Steamships inland fleet told the shipper. Tuesday that the currents "look like suicide" for large lake vessels attempting to enter or leave the Iroquois lock.

Wednesday, a U.S. shipping official, who asked that his name be withheld said that Canada's plan to collect tolls on the Welland Canal is "just begging the United States to impose retaliatory tolls on American channels."

The U.S. official said American authorities might use the same argument for tolls to cover $140,000,000 in dredging work in the U.S. channels connecting the upper Great Lakes.

STUMPS FOR WOMEN

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—Mrs. Lakshmi Menon, Indian deputy foreign minister, said during a visit here today that women make better politicians than men because they are less liable to corruption and manoeuvring.

SAYS AMERICANS MUST TIGHTEN BELTS FOR YEARS

'No Blinking Away Enormity of Task'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans were called on today to "tighten our belts . . . perhaps for years to come" as a Senate subcommittee neared the end of its investigation of United States defence preparedness.

Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, leading Republican on the preparedness subcommittee headed by Senator Lyndon Johnson (Dem. Tex.), said in an interview that "there is no blinking away from the enormity of the task we face."

"We must advance the availability date of quantities of new, more powerful weapons. We must prosecute a vigorous space program."

Bridges said the subcommittee hearings have developed information on "extremely impressive" Russian achievements that could not be "dismissed lightly."

U.S. SUPERIOR

However, the consensus, "shared by the best-informed witnesses, seems to be that the over-all military strength of the United States is today superior to that of the Soviet Union."

Notwithstanding that, Bridges added the consensus also seems to be that the U.S. is "lagging behind the Soviets in certain specific areas of weapons development, such as in the intercontinental and intermediate ballistic missile, as well as in the field of orbiting scientific satellites."

"If these deficiencies are allowed to continue, the peace of the world will be seriously endangered. Our planning must recognize that the measures which we take today will reflect our military posture one to five years from now.

"It is unthinkable that Americans would begrudge the dollars and the effort required at this time to protect and defend our country against destruction and to preserve the peace."

Cause of Blast Proves Puzzle

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) Baffled investigators studied a gaping crater here today for the cause of a huge explosion that ripped through a railroad freight yard and injured more than 60 persons Wednesday.

There were some indications that the blast may have come from a subsurface pipe bearing chemicals underground in this highly industrialized city, but any ready evidence seemed to have been blown away.

The blast shattered a line of chemical tank cars being switched in the yards of the Niagara Junction Railroad.

DENY CAR EXPLODED

One of the cars appeared to have exploded, but a chemist for the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours and Company, which owned the contents, said the cars contained dimethyl formamide, a non-volatile solvent.

Although the explosion burst downwards, blast waves spread out over a wide area, shattering windows two miles away.

Most of the injured suffered superficial cuts from flying glass. About half of them were school children in their classes.

Rescuers Outside Burning Building Catch Shower of Falling Babies

CHICAGO (AP)—A fire and explosion spread havoc through a crowded south side apartment building early today and in the frenzy to escape many children were dropped from windows of the four-storey building.

One infant died and at least six other children were unaccounted for. One man also was missing. At least 21 were injured, including nine children.

"The babies were falling like raindrops," said Jack McMillan, 3 1, who rushed to the scene where he said he caught five children dropped from windows. He fractured a thumb while catching one child.

Fire officials said there were 150 occupants in the building's 27 apartments.

Cause of the blast was not determined immediately but authorities said there was no connection between the explosion and the accidental sale of a gasolin-mixture as fuel oil on the west side, where an alarm was sounded Wednesday night warning purchasers of potential danger.

Tenants in the south side apartment building, which was coal - heated, said they were awakened by a heavy thump, and that almost at the same moment the building was aflame.

Some tenants jumped into fire nets and others were rescued by firemen who brought them down ladders.

There were numerous stories of heroism. One tenant, L. D. Dixon, 30, dropped to the ground from the third floor, then caught his wife, Alberta, 27, and their seven-year-old son.

Harvey Lee Lawrence, 30, threw his six children one after another into arms of spectators, and then rescued nine other children by dropping them from a window.

Residents of the neighborhood said the blast "shook the whole block." A tavern owner said windows of his establishment more than a block and a half away were shaken by the explosion.

Dictator Flees But Venezuelan Riots Continue

Civilian Revolt Leader May Not Back New Junta

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Military leaders overthrew the dictatorship of President Marcos Perez Jiminez today after a bloody revolt of civilians led by a newspaper reporter.

Perez Jiminez, ruler for nearly 10 years, fled with his family and aides to the Dominican Republic. Another ex-dictator, Juan D. Peron of Argentina, to whom Perez Jiminez had given refuge, was reported fleeing to Colombia by car.

The revolt, which began with an abortive air force uprising New Year's Day, erupted anew in a civilian-led general strike Tuesday. Hundreds were killed and wounded in rioting and pitched street fighting while Perez Jiminez manoeuvred in vain to hang on.

FRESH WOES AHEAD?

There was no certainty that the flight of Perez Jiminez would end the trouble.

A military junta, headed by Rear-Admiral Wolfgang Larrazabel and including four colonels, was sworn in as the executive power.

But the civilian patriotic junta, led by 31 - year - old Fabricio Ojeda, a reporter for the newspaper El Nacional, declared it would support the military only conditionally.

The conditions included the holding of general elections as soon as possible, the formation of a national union government in the meantime, arrest of persons responsible for crimes under the deposed regime and restoration of freedoms, including freedom for political parties.

MOB SLAYS POLICE

The pandemonium that broke out in Caracas at the dictator's downfall resulted in even more bloodshed.

A determined mob stormed headquarters of the national security police, most hated division of the dictatorship, to liberate prisoners. Security agents inside the building fired on the crowd, killing three. The mob burned several police cars and several agents were badly beaten when they came out of the building.

After a gunfight outside, the mob forced its way into the building and set secret police files afire. Some security agents were shot down, others beaten.

Civilians armed with rifles and machine-guns fought a pitched battle with police in a housing project a few blocks from Miraflores palace Wednesday afternoon.

Other serious gun fights took place in other parts of the city. The strong fight put up by these groups drew the support of younger military officers and led to the overthrow of the government.

The new governing junta, sworn in today, immediately appealed for restoration of calm, and began restoring some of the liberties taken away by the dictatorship.

At early dawn the streets were packed with thousands of cars and trucks racing with honking horns in celebration. Flag-waving crowds on the sidewalks cheered and shouted. Police and soldiers waved the joyous mobs on.

No Need to Fear Lack of Things To Do--Frost

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Premier Frost said Wednesday night there is no cause for the people of Ontario or of Canada to have anything but confidence in the future of their country.

He said much of the talk about recessions arose from a lack of confidence, as well as from fear and timidity.

"In Ontario, where we have less than 6,000,000 people, where we have an empire of land and resources, there is no need to fear that there are not things for us to do," he said at a political meeting in support of Ronald K. McNeil, Progressive Conservative candidate in the Jan. 30 provincial byelection in Elgin riding.

Dealing with the water resources of Ontario, Premier Frost said that through the Ontario Water Resources Commission his government has embarked upon a program involving the expenditure during the next 20 years of $2,500,000,000.

HUGE POWER NEEDS

On power resources, the premier said it was estimated by the Gordon economic commission that developments during the next 20 years will call for an expenditure of about $500,000,000.

"All these things spell work, wages, a better standard of living, opportunity and development into an even greater country.

"We need greater than anything else confidence that we as residents of Ontario can do the job that lies ahead and avail ourselves of the many opportunities."

Manager Forced To Open Safe For 3 Gunmen

ST. THEODOSIE, Que. (CP)—Three hooded gunmen trussed up a bank manager's family early today, forced him to open a safe and escaped with $2,600.

Manager Joseph Gaudette of the Provincial Bank of Canada said he was awakened at 3 .m. by the sound of the bank door being broken. He lives above the bank in this community 32 miles southeast of Montreal.

Going downstairs to investigate, he was confronted by the armed, black-hooded men.

Mr. Gaudette's wife, his son Jean Guy, 18, and two daughters, 6 and 9, were tied up. The trio forced him to open the safe and then bound and gagged him.

CITY and DISTRICT NEWS

GIFT OF CHILDREN MUCH APPRECIATED BY SHRINE CLUB

Slightly belated but none the less appreciated was the gift of money to the Belleville Shrine Club's crippled children fund by a group of carol-singing youngsters.

Gerald Fraser, Yeomans Street, Tommy Locke and Ricky Jewell both of Lemoine Street made the gift possible to Shrine Secretary Lionel Crawford the other day. It amounted to $4.14.

The boys collected the money while singing Christmas carols in the North Parkdale district.

"Mrs. Doris Jewell mother of Ricky brought the money" secretary Crawford said. "The reason for the delay was because of a death in the family."

"The Shrine Club and its crippled kiddies deeply appreciate this fine gesture on the part of these boys" he added.

CHILD DARTED IN FRONT OF CAR

Bonnie Maracle, aged 5, of 211 Coleman Street, suffered chest injuries early Wednesday afternoon when she darted across the street in front of her home into the path of an automobile.

The little girl was taken to Belleville General Hospital, where she was admitted.

City police said the little girl darted from the west side of the street into the path of a car driven by Fred Reid of Orchard Drive.

Art Classes For Children Open Saturday

ART CLASSES L. T.ni

Children's Art classes will be conducted this Saturday morning in King George School under the direction of Miss Mary Moult, well known Belleville artist, the Recreation Committee announced today.

This is Miss Moult's second year for teaching children's art classes. She has instructed at the Belleville night school and in many of the neighboring towns. Mary Moult has studied under many noted artists and has had pictures sent on art tours and hung in galleries.

Classes will be from 9:30 to 11:30 for the ensuing 10 Saturday mornings.

Many boys and girls have registered, but the Recreation Committee said there are still a few vacancies. For further information call the committee at WO 2-1403.

There is a $5 registration fee which includes instruction in water colors and provides all equipment.

Members Hear Fine Address

Members of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association heard an eloquent informative address on "The Needs of Children" at the regular monthly meeting on Tuesday

The address which appears verbatim on another page of this edition was given by Dr. Evelyn Williamson, MD, CM, 193 John Street and greatly appreciated by association members.

Dr. Williamson was introduced by Principal M. M. Hackett with association appreciation expressed by Mrs. Robert Boyce.

During the business session of the meeting it was reported that the November skate sale realized $16.15. It was also announced that the next meeting of the association would take the form of "Open House".

The room count was won by Mrs. Marner's class, Grade 1.

Mrs. B. Stenson, association president, was in charge of the meeting with principal Hackett extending the usual welcome to parents.

Refreshments were served by grades V and VI under the convenership of Mrs. Art Hobb and Mrs. May.

ETNA EXPLODES

CATANIA, Sicily (Reuters)—Explosions of exceptional violence shook Mount Etna early today as Europe's largest active volcano flung fragments of rock and molten lava nearly 5,000 feet into the air. Experts of the Etna Volcanological Institute said the explosions were probably caused by large pockets of gas trapped under the rising lava.

Council to Consider Request For International Plowing Match in County in 1961

Hastings county council before the conclusion of its January session on Friday will consider a request from local agricultural organizations to extend a formal invitation for the International Plowing match to be held in the Belleville district in 1961.

At Wednesday morning's session, councillors heard a three-man delegation consisting of Dr. J. Russell Scott, president of Belleville Fair, Mr. Syd MacDonald, county agricultural representative, and Mr. Jack McArthur, representing the Belleville Chamber of Commerce asking that the county extend the invitation.

The invitation, if approved by the council body, would be extended at the time of the plowmens' association convention to be held in Toronto in February.

Dr. Scott told council the many agricultural and other organizations which had sat in on preliminary fact finding meetings had been unanimously in favor of the plowing match being brought here in 1961.

The benefits would be many to the district, he said, not the least of these would be the worth of the co-operation between the various organizations in working out plans for the event. The county would get tremendous advertising value.

Mr. MacDonald said agriculture would benefit as would manufacturers and local dealers of farm machinery.

Mr. McArthur noted rural church organizations would stand to reap a big financial return from food catering to the big crowds attending.

No location for the match had yet been considered but Dr. Scott assured this would pose no problem as many sites would be available.

The matter will be further discussed by council members and a decision made before the end of the session.

Councillors Feel New College Not Needed

Hastings county councillors do not feel that a new agricultural college is necessary or required to fill the needs of agriculture in the Central Ontario district.

Accordingly they took no action Wednesday on a Durham and Northumberland county resolution calling for more facilities to assist specialized farming techniques in Central Ontario.

Councillors were not quite sure of the exact meaning of the resolution with Reeve William Davis saying that if it meant more educational facilities he did not approve.

Half the young people going to O.A.C. at Guelph now do not remain on the farm, it was noted, but accept positions in other jobs or professions.

Reeve J. B. Harder of Sidney, pointed out that there was already an experimental station at Smithfield doing research on canning and fruit crops.

Council concurred in a Sarnia resolution calling for uniformity in the commencement and ending dates for daylight saving time.

Reeve Irwin McCoy of Marmora township, said it didn't make much difference anyway. Rural people would still go by standard time, he said.

Council also concurred in a Kent county resolution asking that swine be included in the provisions of the Livestock Protection Act.

It was noted that many pigs were being killed in the province by dogs, but under the act farmers could claim no compensation from the municipality.

Council Favors Long Term Program of Renovation For County Court Buildings

Hastings county councillors are likely to favor a long term renovation program for the county court biuldings rather than carry out all recommendations of the Grand Jury at one time.

This was suggested Wednesday at the January session of council after county clerk-treasurer Erle S. Denyes read the Grand Jury report given two weeks ago during the Supreme Court sitting.

The report covered a long list of renovations for the courthouse. Presiding judge, Mr. Justice Moorhouse, at the time urged members of the Grand Jury to follow up their report to see if their recommendations were carried out.

Madoc township reeve Earl Sager said that it seemed more than a mere coincidence that a 13-page list of recommendations for the courthouse from the local Bar Association, then criticism of courthouse conditions from the Supreme Court Judge and the Grand Jury report should come almost at the same time.

He noted that during the December session the Bar Association recommendation had been left with the finance committee and he urged that no change from this be made by council.

"As time goes on many of these things (Grand Jury recommendations) will be straightened out," he said. "The committee should check and determine what they feel should be done first."

WORK ON ROOM

Sidney Reeve J. Byron Harder, last year's finance committee chairman, noted that the barristers' room was already in the course of complete renovation with a separate washroom to be provided.

The Grand Jury report had suggested a phone for the barristers' room, but Reeve Harder said if this was wanted he suggested the local Bar Association be responsible for costs.

He agreed that new washroom facilities on both floors of the court house were needed immediately as was an exhaust fan to carry off cooking odors from the jail kitchen.

Referring to the complete list of recommendations in the Grand Jury report, Reeve Harder said he did not know where the county tax rate would go if they were all carried out at the same time.

"The work would have to be done in stages," he said.

County clerk-treasurer Denyes noted that over recent years considerable work had been done at the court house.

Included in this program had been renovation of Judge Anderson's quarters, and the offices of the magistrate, county clerk, the county sheriff and the crown attorney's office. All these officials were satisfied, he said.

NEW HEATING UNIT

In addition a $20,000 heating unit had been installed, $8,000 spent on re-wiring the courthouse and costly roof repairs had been completed.

"Apparently we are getting no credit for that," he said. "You'd think that the county had done nothing."

And the county clerk added that "after all the hubbub," the county had received a letter from the assistant inspector of legal offices in Toronto noting that nearly all recommendations from the inspector's department had been carried out.

Warden Lloyd H. Price admitted that there was still much to be desired at the county courthouse "but we must consider where the money is coming from."

Reeve Harder added that the county was spending what it could, within reason, to bring the courthouse up to standard.

He suggested that the council finance committee tour the courthouse and determine where new toilet facilities could be placed.

Council accordingly referred the Grand Jury report to the finance committee.

MRS. LEO CALLAGHAN

Suffering an illness while visiting with her family in Toronto over the Christmas holiday Mrs. Kathleen Callaghan, 298 Charles Street in this city, died in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, early Wednesday morning. She had resided in this city for the past 33 years and was well known and highly regarded in the church and social life of this community.

Mrs. Callaghan was born in Brussels, 62 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wilton. After receiving her early education she entered the profession of teaching. After her marriage she moved to this city and at once took an active interest in her new community. After the death of her husband, Leo Callaghan, in 1952, she returned to the teaching profession and was a valued member of St. Joseph's School staff at the time of her death.

She was beloved by her pupils and the members of the school management board. She took a very active interest in the work of St. Michael's parish and was a member of the Catholic Women's League, the Altar Society and the Benevolent Society. In all these societies she was ever ready and willing to give of her time and ability to their advancements.

Surviving are one son, John Leo Callaghan of Toronto; two daughters, Mrs. Stewart (Kathleen) Manard, and Mrs. Allan (Alice) Kahnert, both of Toronto, and one sister, Mrs. Margaret Birtles, also of Toronto. Also surviving are twelve grandchildren.

Resting at the Funeral Residence of George F. O'Brien, West Moira Street; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

ARTHUR W. BAKER

Uxbridge

Following a short illness Arthur W. Baker died in Ross Memorial Hospital at Lindsay on Wednesday, January 15th, at the age of 71 years.

He was well known in the Stirling district, having bought livestock there for a number of years.

He operated a farm in Brock township until eleven years ago when he moved to Udora (near Uxbridge.)

He is survived by his wife, the former Annie St. John, also two daughter, Bertha (Mrs. Norris Woodward), Toronto, and Eleanor (Mrs. Scott Rennie), Pefferlaw.

The funeral was held from his late residence on Saturday. Burial was in St. John's cemetery.

Three Tree Commissioners Will Be Named by Council On Last Day of Session

Appointment of three tree commissioners to enforce the provisions of the county tree cutting by-law, will be made by Hastings county council on Friday.

The matter came up for discussion on Wednesday but was laid over until the last day of the session to allow reeves to contract men in their municipalities who might be interested in the jobs. The men, when appointed, will be paid on a per diem basis of $8 per day together with car mileage.

The tree by-law, passed by the county last year, sets out minimum sizes for certain species of trees below which commercial cutting of timber is not permitted.

Just what the duties of the tree commissioners would be, posed a problem for many of the councillors who wanted to know if these men would prefer charges against men found to be contravening the provisions of the tree cutting by-law.

Some councillors felt that the tree commissioners should act only in the role of inspectors and report their findings to the county agricultural committee, which in turn would confer with legal authorities to see if charges should be laid. This was the feeling of Mr. Michael Chubb, field officer for the Moira River Conservation Authority which was instrumental in having the tree by-law passed by the county.

On the other hand other councillors felt this would weaken the position of the tree commissioner. These members claimed the commissioners should be able to decide whether prosecution would follow.

SHOULD POST BY-LAW

All were agreed, however, that tree commissioners would investigate only after complaints of contravention of the by-law were received.

Reeve Tracey Adams of Dungannon township said there was a belief in his municipality that the inspectors would mark trees, which are to be cut.

"Something should be done to get this out of their minds," he said.

He suggested that copies of the by-law be posted in all rural post offices and this thought was also forwarded by Reeve William Davis who said a lot of harmful things were being said about the by-law.

"There have been bad impressions circulated as to what the intent of the by-law is," he said. "The by-law does not interfere with the rights of the individual in any way."

He did note, however, that timber was being cut on Crown land which would not be permitted under the county tree cutting by-law and said that when this is noted the matter should be brought to the attention of the proper authorities.

Reeve Kinlin also stated that there was a misconception by farmers in his municipality as to what timber could be cut under the by-law. "A lot of people are under the impression that even a dead or dying tree cannot be cut if it does not measure a certain size."

Councillors pointed out that the main purpose of the by-law was to prevent clear cutting by timber operators and that it had little if any effect on the individual wishing to cut trees for his own use.

"It is suggested that the tree commissioners to be named should represent all parts of the county with one each from the northern, central, and southern section.

City and County Councillors Entertained by 'Y' Directors

Directors of the Belleville Y.M.C.A. entertained city and county councillors at a banquet last night in the Y. Idea of the meeting was to acquaint representatives of the municipalities in Hastings County of the rapid growth of the Y.M.C.A. here and to tell them that more facilities are required by 1960.

Alderman Jack Ireland, chairman of the Y.M.C.A. public relations committee, pointed out that membership and attendance at the Y has tripled since 1952.

"This shows the building is rocking and rolling at its seams," he said.

Increased activity within the Y has minimized space available to other organizations. Total meetings by communty groups in the Y.M.C.A. last year numbered 320, compared to 335 the previous year and 373 in 1954.

Ald. Ireland stated that the Y's annual budget is about $30,000 and "it costs the Y.M.C.A. about $3? to maintain each membership when you consider 962 people belonged to the Y last year."

The public relations chairman paid tribute to the "excellent" work being done by D. G. Diamantides, the Y's professional secretary, and Don Williams, president.

The Y. M. C. A. will be 100 years old in 1960. "By then," Ald. Ireland said, "the board of directors is going to have to figure out what to do with it as it is bulging at the seams."

Y.M.C.A. directors were hosts to 28 county councillors, 10 city fathers, Warden Lloyd Price and Mayor Gerald Hyde, as well as the district governor of the Y's Men's Club, Rob. Clark, vice-president of the Y's Men's Club, Ron Moorman., president of the Foremen's Club, Lionel Blaker, the vice-president of the Foremen's Clubs of Canada, Hugh Jones, and Joe Shortt, oldest member of the Y present and a former Y.M.C.A. secretary.

PRESENTED WITH MEMBERSHIP

The Board of Directors presented Mayor Hyde with a 1967 Y.M.C.A. membership for his infant son. President Don Williams made the presentation.

Mr. Diamantides stated that "no member pays his or her full share of the costs of maintenance of this Y." Of the 962 members last year, 40 were residents of rural areas. He said the Belleville YMCA has helped Tweed organize a summer day camp which over 180 children attended in 1957.

"This city will go places," he said, "but the YMCA needs your support."

The 'Y' secretary said that the increased number of youths using the Y's facilities warrant the consideration of a new YMCA building in the city. And he pointed out that Orillia and Kingston have conducted drives to procure monies for building new YMCAs.

Arnold Ward, national executive secretary of Foremen's Clubs of Canada, "chatted" for a half hour and sketched the aims of the 114-year-old YMCA movement.

A graduate of the Y's Sir George Williams College in Chicago, Mr. Ward said that about three million Canadians are between the ages of 17 and 26 years and that in the next few years they will have to make four crucial decisions. They must decide on a career, they must consider what adult leisure they will follow, they must choose their adult friends, including their life partner, and they must decide on a philosophy of life. He cited the Y as being a good place for these young people to go for guidance, for, at the YMCA they are offered four basic opportunities: the chance to make new friends; the opportunity to learn new skills; a chance to be of service to others, and a chance to become leaders.

DIRECTS MOTIVATION

Mr. Ward said the Y.M.C.A. directs the motivation of young people in a Christian way so that they will be able to realize their need for recognition, new experiences, affection, security, power and achievement.

Young people today, he asserted, are subjected to three major influences toward their conduct and attitude. The home is, perhaps, the first place where children begin developing their personalities, but community institutes like schools, churches and the neighborhood are also very influential. But the most influential are a child's own play mates. It is the latter "influences" which the Y.M.C.A. attempts to direct into proper channels.

"Ever since it was founded," he said, "the Y has been operating on beliefs. It has organized camps and many activities for year-round enjoyment. But the main aims of these activities are to strengthen the heart, mind and body."

Mr. Ward said that young people are searching for their rightful places in society and congratulated the Belleville Y.M.C.A. for its accomplishments toward that end. He wished the Y continued success.

The speaker was introduced by Director Leslie Reid and thanked by Director Bryson Leslie.

Mayor Hyde and Warden Price thanked the board directors for entertaining the councillors.

IN MEMORIAM

LUCAS. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Eleanor Lucas, who passed away January 23rd, 1948.

Many a lonely heartache,
Often a silent tear;
Always a beautiful memory,
Of the one we loved so dear.
God gave us strength to fight it,
And courage to bear the blow;
Oh what it was to lose her,
No one will ever know.

—Ever remembered by son Roy and family.

CARDS OF THANKS

Mrs. Mary Twining wishes to thank her many friends for the lovely flowers, gifts, cards and letters sent to her during her recent illness.

We wish to convey our deep felt thanks for cards and flowers, and the many who visited Mr. Thomas Moore during his stay in Belleville General Hospital.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market edged lower in the lightest morning trading in six sssions.

Price changes in all sections were narrow with losses holding a strong majority over gains. Golds, however, managed to buck the lower mining trend and posted an index gain of nearly a point.

Giant Yellowknife featured golds with a 60-cent jump to $5.25.

Industrials were 1¼ points lower on index. General Dynamics, one of the less-active stocks, lost 2½ points at 60½.

Winnipeg and Central Gas was again active, off 30 cents at $2.95 with a turnover of 9,350 shares. It touched an all-time low of $2.75 shortly after the opening.

Mines were generally lower but there were a few exceptions among low-priced stocks. Little Long Lac gained 16 cents to $1.90. Senior base metals were down in a fractional range and uraniums slipped a bit.

Western oils were quiet with few price changes.

Gasoline-Oil Mixture Sold By Mistake

CHICAGO (AP) — A house-to-house search enveloped a west side area Wednesday when fire officials learned that 1,300 gallons of an explosive gasoline-fuel oil mixture had been mistakenly sold to scores of residents as stove fuel.

By late Wednesday night nervous residents had turned in 950 gallons.

No explosions were reported in the area but Harry Mohr, deputy chief fire marshal, oarned that chief fire marshal, warned that "a great potential for explosion" been recovered.

The fuel was purchased by residents of a densely populated low-rent district who live in flats mostly heated by space stoves, conducted the search, knocking on doors and broadcasting warnings with loudspeakers mounted on fire trucks.

Oil company officials could not explain how the accident occurred It was discovered when an official smelled gasoline fumes from a wholesale dealer's truck which had supposedly been filled with fuel oil.

Gen. H.D. Graham Officially Cuts Ribbon to Open New Canadian Legion Hall

TRENTON — One of Trenton's most famous sons returned home yesterday to officially open the new Canadian Legion Hall in a ribbon cutting ceremony last night which climaxed a day of receptions and speeches.

Lieutenant-General Howard D. Graham, C.B.E., D.S.O., E.D., C.D., LLB, Q.C., arrived by plane at 4 pm. yesterday and was greeted at the air station by Group Captain R. M. Cox, Commanding Officer of RCAF Station Trenton, Group Captain T. S. Spurston, Commanding Officer of 6 RD; John Farrell, president of Branch 110, Trenton, Canadian Legion; Senator W. A. Fraser and Legion Padre Rev. C. W. Bryce.

The Very Rev. Dean J. O. Anderson, Immediate Past Dominion President of the Canadian Legion, who dedicated the hall, accompanied the General on his flight to Trenton.

Taken to the new Legion Hall for a reception party the distinguished guests were greeted by Air Officer Commanding Air Training Command, Air Vice Marshal J. G. Bryans and Air Commodore J B. Harvey.

Following the reception, the General was feted at a private supper at the Hotel Gilbert and the party later returned to the hall for the official opening ceremonies which commenced at 8 p.m.

In his speech to the gathering, which overflowed the hall, General Graham said he "was always glad for an opportunity which brings him back to Trenton, for to me, this will always be home."

"But tonight," the General said, "I am particularly happy to return to take part in these important ceremonies because they concern my own branch of the Canadian Legion, a branch which I joined in its very early days, and of which, by reason of the generous action of its members I am now a life member.

"This afternoon and evening I have been able to meet many old comrades and to become acquainted with many new ones. Of course an event of this sort strikes the chords of memory, reminds me of those days some 30 years ago when we met in the room over a drug store on Dundas Street.

"Some of those who met there have moved away, some have passed on, but still a few are here and I am delighted to see the much greater number of younger veterans of the Second World War.

HOPES WARS WILL CEASE

"It was from the first great war that the veterans came who formed the British Empire Service League, of which this and other branches of the Canadian Legion are a part; it was from the second great war that many veterans came who have increased the numbers and added new strength and vitality to this great organization.

"So it has been — will it be so in the future? Must this great and powerful Legion depend for its future, for its continued existence, on veterans of armed conflicts between Canada and other nations of the world? God forbid that this should be so. My hope is, and I am sure it is the hope of all Canadians, that the Legion will live on and on far beyond the time of any of us here tonight, but our prayer is that its members in the distant future will be those who have served in Her Majesty's Canadian Forces at sea, on land or in the air, successfully preserving the peace, rather than in bloody battles."

General Graham also told the audience of the many forces Canada now has in different areas of the world, where they are acting under the United Nations and serving as "ambassadors of Canada" in different roles in preserving international peace.

He also spoke briefly of what other Canadians are doing, on domestic and international posts, in Canada's increasing efforts to preserve peace and which may eventually eliminate the causes of war.

In closing his address General Graham expressed his hope that Branch 110 would continue to grow and prosper and that they may continue to be a powerful force for good in their community.

Following his address General Graham was thanked by Fred O'Brecht, provincial president of the Canadian Legion. He also presented the General with a gift from the local branch in commemoration of his visit here.

During the official opening program greetings were brought from the various governments and a telegram from Prime Minister John Diefenbaker was read which congratulated the members of the branch on the opening of their new hall.

Tonight the Ladies Auxiliary will hold their banquet in the new hall with the men taking over the duties of serving at the tables. A dance will follow.

Two Men Die in Maze of Tunnels As Fire Hits London Meat Market

LONDON (AP)—Two firemen were killed today fighting a stubborn blaze in a maze of tunnels underneath the huge Smithfield meat market in central London.

Eight others were carried out unconscious, overcome by thick, fatty smoke despite the breathing apparatus all were wearing.

The centre of the fire was a 2½-acre labyrinth of underground passageways in the basement of the Union Cold Storage Company building. Smithfield market houses most of the meat which feeds London's millions.

Wood impregnated with fat smouldered along many yards of corridors, and crates of turkeys and other poultry, stacked from floor to ceiling, sputtered in the intense heat.

HEAT "UNBEARABLE"

One fireman who came out of the maze of tunnels said: "To get lost down there now means almost certain death. One can see nothing and the heat is unbearable."

Firemen hosed so much water into the flame-filled labyrinth of corridors that many fire-fighters faced danger from drowning.

Ten hours after the blaze began, flames were still leaping 20 feet from the entrances of the corridors.

In the crowds, freed political prisoners greeted friends. They told of tortures at the hand of the political police.

Perez Jiminez took off at 3:08 a.m. on his flight to the Dominican Republic.

RIOTS CLAIM 100

He left behind an estimated 100 dead and hundreds injured in two days of rioting and clashes between anti-government demonstrators and troops and police.

The government radio announced that all branches of the armed forces and the military schools had united with the civilian fighters to overthrow Perez Jiminez.

As word spread of the president's overthrow thousands poured into Caracas streets for an unroarious celebration. Ignoring radio announcements that a curfew was still in force, they blanketed the city with happy bedlam.

The radio appealed repeatedly for an end to the looting, burning and other disorders of the last two days. It called all striking newspaper men back to work immediately to get out special editions.

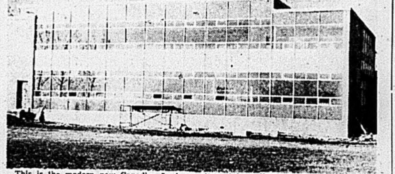
Open New Legion Hall



This is the modern new Canadian Legion hall that was officially opened Wednesday night in Trenton by Lt.-Gen. Howard Graham, chief of staff of the Canadian Army and one-time mayor of the town. The building is situated immediately to the rear of where the old hall was located and affords a magnificent view of the Bay of Quinte and a municipal park.

Participation in Junior Farmer Work Shows Increase

Participation in Junior Farmer, 4-H Club and Homemaking Club activities in Hastings county showed a 24 percent increase in 1957 over that in 1956, members of Hastings county council were told yesterday by Mr. Syd MacDonald, county agricultural representative.

It was Mr. MacDonald's first appearance before county council since his appointment to the role of agricultural representative on January 1st. He succeeds Mr. A. O. Dalrymple, who has been transferred to Northumberland.

He appeared before council in request of the annual grant for junior extension work in the county. Last year 646 boys and girls participated in junior activity in the county.

County juniors had given good account of themselves in provincial competition with one, Harry Danford of Springbrook, placing high in swine judging at the Royal Winter Fair. The county swine judging team of which Harry was a member, placed fifth.

The successful junior farmer was introduced to council members and told of his club activities in recent years during which time he had completed 15 projects. He said his work had been both interesting and educational and expressed his appreciation to council for the financial assistance to junior extension work in the county.

Assistant agricultural representative Jack Riddell also spoke briefly to council, adding his thanks for financial assistance toward the junior program.

Requests for a grant of $1,000 for junior work, $125 for crop and field improvement work, and $25 to the annual spring show at Peterborough were referred to the ways and means committee.

Stirling Group Asks County For $500 Grant

A grant request for $500 to the Stirling Centennial Committee to assist in staging the centennial celebration to be held in that village on August 3, 4, 5, 6, was heard Wednesday morning by members of Hastings county council.

A Centennial committee of chairman Don Rogers, with Duncan Montgomery and Doug Patterson, was introduced to council members by Stirling Reeve J. V. Holt.

Members of the delegation outlined plans for the centennial program to be staged to celebrate Stirling's 100th birthday.

Mr. Patterson said that already 1,200 invitations to former residents had been sent out with much interest being shown by the number of replies received. One reply was received from as far away as Long Beach, California.

Mr. Montgomery, chairman of the centennial booklet committee, said 1,000 booklets were being printed, these to be sold at the time of the celebration.

Mr. Rogers and Reeve Holt said Stirling was the oldest incorporated village in the county, the former expressing the hope that in the intervening years Stirling had contributed something to the county.

The committee was going "all out", he said, to perpetuate the memory of the pioneers who had settled the area.

The request for the grant will be dealt with later during the council session.

GOVERNMENT AND PRIVATE ENTERPRISE

"I am not so sure that some who live by the standard of private enterprise are not spending considerable time and effort looking to government to minimize the chances taken, and to cushion the results of mistakes when made; in other words to underwrite the success of the enterprise."

Some rabid socialist speaking?

Not at all. Those are the words of Robert Winters, who before June 10 was best known to Canadians as minister of public works in the Liberal Government, but who is now president of one of the country's wealthiest private enterprise organizations, the Rio Tinto Mining Co. of Canada Ltd.

Mr. Winters made these remarks as he addressed the Canadian Club at Toronto on Monday of this week.

He had, he said, recently become a member of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and he commended to his listeners the policy declarations of that body. The first paragraph of "this very good booklet of declarations entitled 'Freedom of Enterprise'," he said, states that "freedom of enterprise is positive and dynamic and imposes on the individual the necessity of being enterprising." Another sentence, he continued, says that private enterprise "is the freedom of the individual to make up his own mind, to take his own chances and at times to make his own mistakes." Mr. Winters endorsed these views, and then voiced his belief that sometimes private enterprise looks to governments to take the chances.

We find this address particularly gratifying because Mr. Winters was dealing, on a large scale, with an attitude whose minor manifestations have more than once earned criticism in these columns. Every time some group in the business world seeks special consideration, in the form of licensing or other regulation aimed at reducing competition, it gives painful evidence that it does not really believe the tenets of the private enterprise system to which it gives lip service.

Mr. Winters, though, speaking with his broader knowledge resulting from his experience at Ottawa, goes somewhat further than this. He says, "I felt many times that private enterprise was asking the Federal Government to do things that could have been done more appropriately by itself."

One of Mr. Winters' special interests as minister of public works was housing. This, Mr. Winters told the Canadian Club, is really a provincial, rather than a federal, responsibility. Later, however, he intimated that he felt the first responsibility lay on other shoulders.

"When I was in the Government it sometimes seemed to me that there is a feeling in private enterprise, conscious or otherwise, that it should concern itself primarily with the material side of its operations, but that many other problems respecting its people are the responsibility of Government. Through its social security program the Government has already taken off the shoulders of private enterprise many of the responsibilities that might otherwise rest there. In the development of new projects, for example, so often industry looks to the Government to provide housing People, of course, are the most important ingredients in any undertaking yet I was often struck by the fact that accommodation was provided for vehicles, tools, stores and other equipment but that no provision at all was made for housing which, it was considered, should be an automatic charge against the taxpayers generally."

Mr. Winters does not lose sight of the fact that heavy government expenditures handicap private industry. "The government," he said, "now requires so much for the conduct of what is normally regarded to be its business that it must dip deep into what would otherwise be reserves of those who operate in the field of private enterprise. This is in itself a factor in the increasing degree to which private enterprise comes to lean upon the government whether it wishes to or not."

There appears to be a vicious circle here and many critics would make a point of the fact that private enterprise is more efficient than government enterprise. Mr. Winters does not agree. "My experience is that the business of the Federal Government in Ottawa is efficiently conducted and that it can easily stand comparison with good privately operated businesses," he said. "Its backbone is our competent and devoted civil service which is unsurpassed in the world."

That view, though, does not prevent Mr. Winters from preferring private enterprise to government enterprise, although he feels that "because of the nature of our country there are of necessity some things done by government here which, in some countries, are done by private enterprise."

What Mr. Winters would like to see, one gathers, is that the number of these things be kept to the minimum made possible by our circumstances. "I do not think the real danger is that the government wishes to encroach on the field of private enterprise," he said. "Any tendency so to encroach will be discouraged if we in private enterprise conform to the concept of 'Freedom of Enterprise' enunciated by the Chamber of Commerce. But in many cases the encroachment is on the invitation, if not in fact on the urging, of some segments of private enterprise and to the extent that is the case, I believe that private enterprise's role is in danger not from government, but from private enterprise itself."

Rising to Emergencies

Montreal Gazette

It was a bitter wintry day for the Royal Mail coach in the west of England, as it rolled on towards the city of Bath. The coachman was Charley Hawkes. He was no stranger to the rigors of driving; he was said to have "the pluck of the devil in him" and was one of "the best whips" on the English roads. But the cold was cruel that day and showed him no mercy. Stiffly he came down from the box and opened the coach door. "Any gentleman that can drive inside?" he asked. "If not, we must stay here. I can't hold the reins."

The passengers, cold enough even inside the coach, heard these words with dismay. But one of them spoke up. "Yes," he said in a cheery voice: "I can drive. Give me your wraps and gloves, and I'll do it.

He was a thin little man, a London lawyer. When he put on Charley Hawkes wraps they weighed him down, and it seemed that he might have placed both his hands in one of the big gloves. But he mounted the box, took up the reins, and in a minute the Mail Coach was rolling once more on its way.

Had the coach been left on the road, the proprietor might have lost his contract to carry the Royal Mail. But it drew up at the White Hart Inn in Bath scarcely a minute late. And the little London lawyer, exhilarated by his triumph, called for Charley Hawkes and bought him a bottle of champagne.

There is always a special zest and drama when a person rises to some emergency and shows resourcefulness that he himself might scarcely have suspected he possessed. And the satisfaction that follows may linger on through a lifetime, even though no other such emergency may ever rise.

Sometimes the emergency may be a test of wits, the quick thinking of some fantastic solution to a difficulty. And yet the solution may really come off.

The English artist, Harry Furniss, had been engaged to draw the illustrations for "Sylvie and Bruno" by Lewis Carroll (a book that was to be a sequel, of sorts, to "Alice in Wonderland"). Lewis Carroll — really Rev. Charles Lutwidge Dodgson of Oxford University —decided one day to call on Furniss to see what progress had been made.

It was a crisis. Furniss, busy with other assignments, had not done a stroke of work on the illustrations. "Now," said Mr. Dodgson, "for the studio."

They went through the drawing room, down the steps of the conservatory, to the studio door. Harry Furniss reached for the handle. Then came his fantastic solution. He paused, turned his back to the door, and addressed the astonished Mr. Dodgson:

"Mr. Dodgson, I am very eccentric—I cannot help it! Let me explain to you clearly, before you enter my studio, that my eccentricity sometimes takes a violent form. If I, in showing my work, discover in your face the slightest sign that you are not absolutely satisfied with any particle of this work in progress, the whole of it goes into the fire!

"It is a risk: will you accept it, or will you wait till I have the drawings quite finished and send them to Oxford?"

Mr. Dodgon was given to stammering. Confronted with this startling declaration, he said: "I-I-I ap-preciate your feelings. I-I-should feel the same myself. I am off to Oxford." And off he went.

Harry Furniss snowed originality in many ways, but he himself always recalled that improvised speech at the studio door with a very special satisfaction.

Actors, of course, may be called upon at any moment to deal with some crisis. And on the stage the line between drama and absurdity is always very slight; this makes any crisis an appalling menace.

Such a crisis faced the American actor Edwin Booth, one night when he was billed to play Hamlet in a town not far from New York. All the company arrived by special train, but the baggage was found missing.

The audience was growing restless and noisy. At last Booth persuaded the manager to go out and explain matters. He was to say that anyone who wished to leave the theatre could do so and get his money back at the door. For those who preferred to remain, Mr. Booth and company would do their best to give a rendering of the play, without benefit of props or costumes.

Most of the audience remained to see what would happen. Booth would say, in speaking of that night's Hamlet: "I felt the whole thing could so easily become ridiculous that I was on my mettle, and my cutaway tweed jacket and cane for a sword kept me up to the mark. It was a horrible strain; every movement was new; there was no cloak, no chain, nothing—"

Yet looking back upon that night Edwin Booth did not think of it as an agony, but as a triumph, not as an evening to be forgotten, but as an evening to be cherished.

"I never acted so well in my life," he would say. "It was the theatrical triumph of my life, I am sure of that."

In the play that night he had not only proved something to his audience; he had proved something to himself.

THAT GOLF

Golf is a wonderful game. I was a little late in starting it, but I had the joy of some twenty years before I gave it up. It is a mighty mind conditioner. It calls for patience, courage, temper control, and for the happiness in companionship Often I used to play a bad hole after completing several good holes, but alas! we had to wait for another day, for once a hole has been played you can't go back to it. It's like so many days in life. We can't go back to them. But we can hope to do better next time.

I shall never forget overhearing a player's remark as he entered the clubhouse. He said: "Next to winning a game of golf yourself is to lose to a delightful companion!" Why can't we carry that gentlemanly sentiment with us throughout life? Life is the greatest game of all. Then let's make it a glorious, useful and happy game. Let's forget all the regrets and keep doing better with all that we are and have. Let's be the kind of a sport that all the world delights to honor!

Another thing. Golf is a great revealer of character. If you want to learn much about a man, invite him to a game of golf with you. You will discover plenty! There is more to it than merely playing a game. You are playing into the hands of your opponent, and he in yours. It works both ways and between holes you can do much thinking. It's a game that you can put plenty of good solid thinking into. You can take out your dreams and play with them as you walk about the open fields and tread the beautiful earth The most difficult hole of all, however, is the 19th hole! Any player of golf will get what I mean.

PEOPLE WHO KNOW ME

If the people who know me best
Are glad when they see me come,
The king, with his white plumed crest,
Announced by the sound of drum
And greeted with deaf'ning cheers,
Is honored no more than I.
My joy is of the heart, not ears;
Of mind, not the dazzled eye.

For what is the world's applause
Compared to the love of friends?
Come, name me a greater cause,
And cite to me nobler ends.
Are the plaudits that greet a king,
Any sweeter to him, I pray,
Than the love that a few friends bring
To me at the close of day?

Give me the smiles of the few
And I'll ask you for nothing more.
To have them believe me true
Is all that I'm striving for.
I seek not the heights above
Nor the power with which kings are blest
If only I have the love
Of the people who know me best.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 23rd., 1938

Mr and Mrs. H. Williams, who have resided here for the past 11 years, are leaving shortly to reside in Owen Sound. They have been active in the social, church and club life of the city and many friends regret their departure.

Mr. Charles L. Hyde was elected chairman of the board or education at a meeting of the board last evening. He has been a member of the board for six years, and during four years he was chairman of the sites, building and repairs committee. Mr. Hyde has had considerable municipal experience having served as a member of the city council for five years during which he was chairman of the fire committee.

Mr. P. C. MacLaurin, principal of the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School, was honored Friday evening at a banquet given by the staff to mark the completion of his 25th year as principal. The banquet was held at the New Queen's Hotel and sixty persons were present. Mr. K. S. Hill presided and numerous speeches of congratulations and good wishes were made and a short musical program enjoyed. A pleasing part of the evening was the presentation to Mr. MacLaurin of a handsome gold wristwatch. Mr. A. D. Archibald made the presentation on behalf of the staff. Miss Clara Hitchon, M.A., who was a member of the staff when Mr. MacLaurin came to the school, was a guest of honor and was presented with a purse and umbrella by Miss N. P. Merry on behalf of the staff. The arrangements for the event were in charge of Miss Wallen, Miss Brown, Mr. Hill and Mr. Ferguson.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

If you want my opinion, Maria Callas may very well have developed a sore throat there in the Rome opera house that night. It's a wonder to me that any of those high sopranos can sing a whole opera through. Now look: a man with a good big fat natural baritone is one thing. He can chop his way through an opera the way a good big fat natural Jamaican can chop his way through a jungle with a machete.

But what have sopranos and tenors got? They've got what is more of a gimlet than machete. A drill. I don't mind a soprano gimletting her way through a song like that one about Napoli; or a tenor drilling inch by inch through the armor plate of a song like The Lost Chord. But to expect either of them to pierce their way through an entire opera without getting sore throats is like asking oil drillers to dig with brace and bit. Of course, I speak with prejudice. Sopranos and tenors give me a sore throat. Sympathy, I suppose. For instance, when Lily Pons used to sing, my throat would immediately start to ache. Presently, a pain would develop at the back of my nose. By the time she ceased, I had suffered far more than she from those high notes.

When I was a boy, my family were half Anglican, a quarter Presbyterian, and a quarter Methodist. I had a terrible time dodging and ducking from one denomination to the other, escaping the sopranos, female, male or boy. By the time I was sixteen, they let me off with a Bible class attendance only, where there was no singing at all.

Maria, here's to your sore throat!

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Name Your Narcotic

1. A boy being supported by his parents has no right to squander money on smoking. If his parents are overburdened with it, the surplus should be used to help some less fortunate person.

2. Athletic coaches do not sanction smoking by boys in training. Even though moderate smoking may not seriously harm the health or the wind of a boy over 18, there is no reason to think it can do a boy any good.

3. Saying "No, thank you, I don't smoke" is good character development for a boy.

A boy doesn't take his first drink because he "needs" or "craves" it, but generally because he hasn't sufficient character to decline — he's afraid someone will call him "chicken."

The user who "needs" or "craves" a drink needs it only to make him forget for a while how weak, wretched, inferior or unfaithful he is. The narcotic—whether it be morphine, heroin, alcohol — benumbs higher brain centres, dulls conscience, impairs judgment. Free from these controls he is likely to do something which will bring shame and sorrow to his family, his friends or himself.

Alcohol never acts as a true stimulant to the brain, the spinal cord or the nerves. Scientific study has proved that alcohol is in no sense a true stimulant to the circulation. It does not enable a person to work out a difficult problem. It does not give a person courage to face up to danger. It does not help one to ward off fatigue or exhaustion. Only in 19th century novels and elderly movies on TV does the brandy flask heal the wounded, restore the sick or revive the dead.

In the gay '90s, some people took their booze under the name of Peruna, Celery Compound, Hostetter's Bitters, Damiana Bitters, Mayer's Sarsaparilla, Duffy's Corn Juice or the like, and defended their drinking by quoting their accommodating medical advisers who called liquor "stimulants." Their delicate constitution required a shot several times a day just as some poor souls under questionable medical care today require a dose of digitalis every day to keep the heart beating.

The users of "stimulants" were pretty miserable if, for any reason, their supply of liquor was cut off. The poor souls who believe life depends on the daily dose of digitalis suffer only mental distress for a few days if their supply of digitalis is cut off; but if they get an optimal daily ration of vitamin B-complex (a real heart tonic), they feel better and are really healthier than they have ever felt under the digitalis obsession.

Okinawa Folk Discontented

New York Herald Tribune

When they were under Japanese administration for many years prior to the end of World War II, the residents of the Ryukyu Islands had little, if any, chance to express their sentiments in democratic elections. Now, under a United States army administration, they have been given an opportunity to elect a certain number of executive and legislative officials.

And paradoxically enough, in the latest election — that for Mayor of Naha, the capital of the largest island, Okinawa — the voters have chosen a candidate who wants a return of Japanese civilian administration in what is one of our most important military bases in the Asiatic area.

What appears to have been a policy of paying little or no attention to the needs and aspirations of the Okinawans over a period of six or eight years has now been proven wrong, even though the occupation authorities have shown a more active interest in the past two years in the wishes of the residents.

The island's per capita income may be higher than that of Japan, yet the Okinawans still have what they consider their grievances. The first is their anomalous status — they are neither part of the United States nor of Japan; they cannot have their own flag; they would like some positive identification, and apparently consider that, despite their past experiences, the best way is to come under civilian administration by the Japanese.

The second grievance is economic. Land which has been taken over by the United States for military and quasi-military installations has been paid for in a lump sum, whereas the owners would prefer to have the deal on a rental basis, thus providing continuing income for lost farm lands and also indicating that eventually the land would not be lost forever to Okinawa.

The third is political: a desire for somewhat more local autonomy rather than having ordinances of their own vetoed by American authorities, who then impose their own ordinances upon the local population.

It is against this background that an anti-American candidate won the Naha election.

Okinawa is the chief Asiatic base for our Air Force and Marines, and the Navy and Army are also well represented there. If we are not to repeat the mistakes other nations have made in such areas, if we are to retain the good will of the majority, perhaps it might be wise to make a few concessions on the three basic issues.

But at the same time, in view of the Communist threat to the free world, it should be made clear that we have no intention of withdrawing from this important base.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A CREED BENEATH ALL CREEDS

Creeds have their place in life. The contempt some people love to express for the established creeds of the Church is unwise. Creeds are an honest and seriously considered attempt of theological specialists to make Christian faith reasonable.

Yet behind the official creeds of the Church, probably every individual has his own private creed. And even beneath his private creed, almost everybody has a conviction which undergirds and supports everything he believes, thinks and does.

How about this for a basic, fundamental, all-supporting creed: "I believe in goodness?" or, to put it another way, "I believe in the rightness of right."

What this means is that the universe is built in such a way that wrong-doing never comes out right. It may take a long time for evil to accomplish its appalling purpose, but in the end "the wages of sin is death." Right struggles, sometimes for centuries, but in the end it is victorious. In a universe presided over by a righteous God, right is right and although we may be long in learning the truth and seeing its triumph, in the end right vindicates itself.

Think about this if you are tempted to compromise or to take some wrong course. It will turn out wrong as sure as there is a God in heaven — and because there is a God in heaven.

Right is right in God's universe and must triumph.

County Council Considers $1,200 Grant to C.N.I.B.

The story of how the Canadian National Institute for the Blind works to assist persons without sight was told to Hastings county councillors Wednesday morning by Mr. Preston I. Timmins, district organizer for the CNIB.

Mr. Timmins appeared before the county council speaking in support of the county's annual grant for the work among the blind in Hastings county. Amount of the grant requested was $1,200, up $300 from last year, the request being referred to ways and means to be dealt with later in the session.

Mr. Timmins told councillors there were 77 persons in the county, outside of Belleville and Trenton, receiving assistance from the CNIB. In addition there are 47 blind registered in Belleville and 10 in Trenton.

Rehabilitation training is one of the more important aspects of blind work, according to Mr. Timmins. Many of the blind are elderly people also afflicted with arthritis, so the rehabilitation cannot be as high as might be hoped, but four county blind are gainfully employed.

In one instance a Sidney township blind boy obtained gainful employment in a Hamilton factory following CNIB training at Toronto.

The greatest contribution in the field of blind rehabilitation training, however, was said to be in the home by the blind teacher.

In one instance a blind mother with a two-year-old son had been trained to look after her household tasks.

Other work by the blind was among the blind children where every facility possible was afforded both to retain what sight was left and to fit them for useful lives.

"Talking books" on records were filling a big need, especially among bed ridden blind persons.

Blindness prevention through fitting of glasses both for children and adults, was also a big item of the Institute's work.

Five county blind persons, including one from Belleville and one from Trenton, are now resident in the St. Lawrence blind residence in Kingston.

Slippery Road Cause of Crash

Two Belleville youths, passengers in a car driven by Donald Denike, 28, of 18 Howard Street, were treated at Belleville General Hospital for minor injuries Wednesday afternoon after their car went out of control on No. 37 highway one mile north of Corbyville.

Injured were Robert, McCoy, 400 Bridge Street East and Bruce Ferguson, 48 Everett Street. Police said the car went out of control on the slippery highway and crashed into a telephone pole. Provincial Constable W. G. Willis of Belleville investigated.

Pres. Gault Slides 1st 'Rock' As New Curling Club Opens; Schedule Play Starts Monday

By GEORGE H. CARVER

Sports Editor

The stocky pleasant-faced man with the bow tie adjusted his position. His glance swept down the ice, then back. He crouched then with a gentle motion pushed his arm forward.

And the first "rock" in the history of the new Quinte Curling Club slid slowly down the ice and came to rest inside the "house."

President Bill Gault smiled at executive member Steve Flintoff and Steve had the honor of "firing" the second stone.

The club was unofficially open.

A large number of the members were present at the impromptu ceremonies and later the first two rinks went into action.

Yesterday afternoon the club was again the centre of curling activities with members getting the "feel" of the new rinks. Brand new stones recently imported from Scotland met with the general approval. New members "tried their hands" or took silent instruction from veteran curlers.

Organized curling will not start until next Monday night according to president Gault. The rest of this week will be utilized in "potluck" games with members playing for the fun of it.

Starting Monday the four rinks of the new club will see action every night, with scheduled games being played on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights with some Saturday afternoons included.

The ladies' division of the club, some 80 members strong, will use the rinks Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons.

Saturday nights will be devoted to mixed curling while Wednesday and Sunday afternoons and most Saturday afternoons will be "open dates."

The date for the official opening of the club has been set for Saturday, February 15, it has been announced.

Special ceremonies for the opening have been arranged, while an invitation bonspiel will be one of the features.

Rinks representing twenty-four curling clubs of Ontario will take part in the play which gets under way Friday evening prior to the opening.

The four-rink ice surface with its colorful "houses" and other markings, has met with the whole-hearted approval of club members. Large scoreboards have been installed at the western end of each rink.

Ice over the fives miles of pipe was "made" in almost record time under the supervision of Joe Roberts, veteran ice-maker and curling rink expert, who was associated with the Oshawa Curling Club for a dozen years.

"The surface," commented President Gault, "is well-nigh perfect. Most 'first' ice surfaces have their faults, but this one was right from the first flooding. Veteran curlers of the club are well satisfied while new curlers will have something close to perfection for their learning period"

When not playing, members can "kibitz" in warm comfort in the club lounge situated on the second floor, and watch other members in curling action through plate glass panels which stretch from wall to wall.

Furnishings and interior decor are not yet completed in the lounge while work is going on apace on the ground floor where the ladies' and men's locker rooms are situated.

This work will be completed, it is expected, within a short time if not by the date of the official opening. "Our first objective," president Gault said, "has been attained, and that was getting the playing surface ready for members. Now that this has been accomplished, we can turn our attention to other work."

Members are looking forward to the three-day visit of Garnet Campbell, member of the famous Saskatchewan rink of Campbell Bros., well known in national curling circles. Mr. Campbell is touring Ontario visiting curling clubs and giving oral and practical instruction to veteran and tyro alike. He will be here for a three-day visit starting February 2.

Battered Body Found Under Pile of Coal

HAMILTON (CP) — The battered body of a 51-year-old unemployed carpenter, missing since Friday, was found Wednesday under a coal pile in the basement of his condemned home.

Police said William Perry had been beaten on the head with a sharp instrument. They found the body while investigating a fire which swept through the kitchen Sunday night.

Arson squad investigators who searched the old house Tuesday returned Wednesday when tipped by a neighbor that a cellar existed under the building. They found a trap door covered by a rug and uncovered the body in the coal pile.

SHOWED MONEY

Police said Mr. Perry had not been seen since Friday when he showed friends at a club a roll of money he said contained $150. He said he intended to go to Buffalo for the weekend.

There was no trace of the money on the body.

Mr. Perry, separated from his wife, lived alone in the house. A 14-year-old daughter lives with her mother in Hamilton.

City pathologist Dr. R. L. Foster, who examined the body, will perform an autopsy today. He said cause of death appeared to be a deep cut at the back of the skull.

Police said no weapon was found.

All Committees Re-Appointed

MARMORA — The inaugural meeting of Marmora village council was held on the evening of January 9th with all members present. The reeve and council took the oath of office and were duly sworn in.

The committees named last year were re-appointed for 1958 and are as follows:

Legal and finance, A. F. Fraser and J. R. Reynolds; property, J. R. Reynolds and A. F. Fraser; fire, C. E. Heath and Charles Campion; streets, Charles Campion and C. E. Heath; relief and hospitalization, Reeve W. A. Shannon. The reeve is by the power of his office a member of each committee.

A motion was passed that Jacob Coens be granted a licence to run a pool room.

By motion, Mr. James Shannon was re-appointed resident taxpayer on the Board of Health.

Mr. M. H. Borland was re-appointed as village representative on the Centre Hastings High School Area.

Reeve Shannon was appointed delegate to Ontario Water Resources Commission to consider the next course of action re the waterworks in the village.

There were 31 births and 8 deaths in the village in 1957 and the population is 1374. Accounts were passed for payment amounting to over $700. Council adjourned.

PICTON — Some vital and perhaps interesting statistics were gained as the petitions of cattle owners in the Brucellosis Control Area canvass were analyzed. The number of people keeping cattle has reduced over thirty percent in the past ten years. On the other hand the number of cattle has diminished 15 percent. According to the survey 1,110 cattle owners keep a total of slightly over 21,000 cattle within Prince Edward County. The average herd size was also of interest — 11 percent own over forty cattle; 25 percent own between 20 or 40 animals and 64 percent maintain herds of less than twenty cattle.

Police Blotter

Property damage amounting to approximately $400 resulted Wednesday, noon at the corner of Jane and Coleman Streets when vehicles driven by Dirk Bylsma, 22 Boswell Street, and Dennis Bain of Millbrook, Ont., were in collision. Damage to the Bylsma car was about $275 and to the other vehicle about $150

Barricades and repair equipment owned by the Canadian National Railways, were thrown down an embankment and safety flares were extinguished at the Sidney Street overhead railway bridge last night.

Railway workmen this week have been engaged in repairing the flooring of the bridge and the equipment was being used in connection with the repair.

Women's Institutes

QUINTE W.I.

The Quinte Women's Institute held its January meeting Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Sandercock, Dundas Street East, with 33 members and two visitors present, and the president, Mrs. K. Vivian, presiding.

Correspondence and thank-you cards were read from sick members and a lovely letter from Barbara Greatrix, who is a daughter of Mrs. M. Greatrix, one of the past presidents of the Institute, who is in Arizona for her health.

A presentation of a lovely cup and saucer was presented by the present president to the retiring president, Mrs. C. Reid. A letter was also read from the Unitarian Service asking for layettes for Arab refugee babies and pullovers for children in Korea, which are greatly needed. These do not have to be new. Each member present gave 25 cents to go towards the layette.

The program conveners, Mrs. C. Reid and Mrs. H. McMullen conducted an interesting program with Mrs. C. Reid taking charge.

The motto, "Nothing will ever be attempted if all possible objections must first be overcome," was given by Mrs. A. Mitchell.

Mrs. C. Reid conducted a quiz on the handbook which revived each member of the Institute work.

Mrs. N. Brown gave a reading, "Receipt for Twelve Good Months."

Mrs. C. Reid and Mrs. H. McMullen rendered a lovely duet, "How Great Thou Art."

Mr. Brenton, electrical contractor from Corbyville, showed films on Hydro, which were interesting.

The president closed the meeting and all enjoyed refreshments prepared by the hostess, Mrs. E. Sandercock and her group, Mesdames R. Bunnett, C. Grass, L. Roluf and A. Docters.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative Lawrence H. Smith, Wisconsin Republican, collapsed and died Wednesday. He was 65. Smith was the fourth member of Congress to die this year.

Bridge Street J.E.A. Holds Annual Meet

The first meeting of the Jubilee Evening Auxiliary for 1958 was held in Bridge Street United Church on Tuesday evening with Miss Grace Kenny presiding

After a bountiful supper served by Mrs. Locke and Mrs. Earle's group, Miss Kenny welcomed all members and visitors.

After the report of the December meeting, the secretary gave the yearly report which showed an average attendance of 52 and called to mind the many good programs put on by each group.

The report of the treasurer showed the sum of $955 sent to the Presbyterial secretary. Mrs. O'Neil, community friendship secretary, gave the report of her work; the number of visits made to the sick, Miss Grace Houston gave the Christian stewardship report.

Following the taking of the offering, a motion carried that Mrs. Leona Wilson be associate members' secretary, with Mrs. Marion Davenport as her assistant.

The most important event of the evening, the installation of officers conducted by the Rev. H. Davis, took place at this time. In his address following the installation ceremony, Mr. Davis extended congratulations to the officers and congratulated the auxiliary on the work done and gains made during the year "If a church is to keep alive it must keep on growing. Christian life in a church should show signs of growth and vitality."

"In Canada we are privileged as people in few other countries are. We should feel gratitude to God for his care and protection through the years. We are receiving so much love and help from God that we owe a debt which we can pay by giving and working for others. Let us think of, and remember, the words of the installation service — 'to give sacrificially until it hurts'."

Miss Joy Nichols gave the supply secretary's report: quantities of children's clothing were put in the bale for overseas relief.

Mrs. Ross Schryver gave the report of the Explorer Group which showed 38 members with an average attendance of 34.

The Baby Band superintendent, Mrs. Helen Jones, reported 262 members, aged from less than one year to six.

The new Missionary Monthly secretary reported a subscription list of 37 for 1957 and 43 so far for 1958.

University Women's Club, Ballet Guild Report on Joint Meeting

"To give courage, confidence, and opportunity to the arts in Canada". That is the job outlined by Miss Veda Peene for the Canada Council of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences, a new and important part of Canadian life. Miss Peene was speaking to a joint meeting of the University Women's Club and the Ballet Guild of Belleville and district. Her talk was a most illuminating and encouraging account of the Canada Council, the council with a hundred million dollars to spend.

CANADA COUNCIL

"The Canada Council is the direct result, of a recommendation in the Massey Commission on Canadian arts and culture, that a group be established to encourage and make available the live arts in all parts of Canada. To do this, an act of parliament was passed last March which gave a constitution to the council and made an outright grant of one hundred million.

"At first hearing, this seems enough money to provide anything that Canadians want in the field of the arts. However, 50 millions of this amount, is reserved for aid to universities, an essential expenditure at this time of unprecedented expan sion. Already, under the chairmanship of Mr. Brooke Claxton, nearly four million dollars of this money have been spent, always on the condition that the university match the amount of the grant. For example, Carlton College in Ottawa, has been granted $400,000 to build a library and the university of Saskatchewan is being aided in the construction of an art gallery.

"The other 50 million dollars have been invested, but are earning ten thousand dollars a day. Only the investment income from this money may be spent.

POST-GRADUATE SCHOLARSHIPS

Among other activities, the collectors to work on anthologCanada Council has established a number of post-graduate scholarships, and has enabled music collectors to work on anthalogies of Canadian folk songs. The council has made substanial grants to the work of the Canadian National Ballet, the Opera Festival, and the Canadian Players.

Miss Peene was most emphatic in stressing that the Canada Council is not intended to replace local committees to encourage the arts.

Particularly, she praised the work of Mrs. Tanner and the Belleville Branch of the Ballet Guild. Without this activity in education and ticket selling at the "grass roots", the arts in Canada would die, not from lack of money, but from lack of participation. It has been conclusively proved that money alone will not keep creative activity flourishing.

ACTIVE IN ARTS

Miss Peene is herself, a member of the Canada Council. She has been active in many fields of the arts and humanities — as a director of the Red Cross, the Drama League, the Opera Festival, and the Ballet Guild. In her introduction of Miss Peene, Mrs. Tanner pointed out that if Peene held such a record of service in England, she would surely have been created a dame.

Mrs. Barbara Floyd expressed the warm appreciation of the Ballet Guild and the University Women's Club for Miss Peene's address.

During the business meeting, of the University Women's Club, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Irene Haig, a most interesting proposal was made. Mrs. Bunting suggested a plan for the teaching of oral French in the grade schools of Belleville. Quoting the principal of University College, University of Toronto, she said that "a person who cannot speak French is only seventy per cent Canadian."

GRADE SCHOOL FRENCH

She pointed out that there is constant criticism of the results of high school French in the fact that after five years of classes, very few people can ever begin to speak it. Considering the size of classes, and the length of periods, this is not surprising since the amount of time spent in actual conversation by a student over a five year period is probably not more than seven hours. The Department of Education is in favor of French in grade school and requires only that the local board approve, and that a competent teacher be engaged. In this province next to Quebec, there is surely no shortage of teachers and Belleville school board has a tradition of providing good facilities for its students. The University Women's Club was enthusiastic in its support of Mrs. Bunting's proposal.

Unit System Described at H-S Assoc.

The Home and School Association of Sir Winston Churchill School held its January meeting on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Wanda Sine, primary supervisor of Belleville Public Schools, described the philosophy and mechanics of the unit system of teaching in the primary department.

A panel of four members of the teaching staff outlined the course planned in their respective units. Miss M. Bristol, Units 1-2-3; Miss I. Horton, Units 4-5-6; Mrs. A. Graham, Units 7-8-9; Miss O. Elson, Units 10-11-12.

The principal, Mr. E. S. Fairman, and Mrs. W. Sine answered questions during a lively discussion that followed, pointing out the value of the system in progressing a pupil at his own rate of learning.

It was an informative and helpful program, particularly to those parents with children coming from other schools where the unit system is not used.

Miss M. Bristol's Grade 1 class won the attendance prize for the third consecutive month.

Coffee was served at a social hour following.

Club Activities

EGGLETON M.B.

The January meeting of the Eggleton Mission Band was held at the school on Friday afternoon with Audrey Stapley presiding.

The Scripture lesson, fram Galatians 3 was read by Isobelle Prest. Marilyn Stapley gave a reading, "For Me."

Grades 2, 3 and 4 sang "Evening Prayer," with Sharon Reide as pianist.

Next meeting will be held on Friday, February 21st.

As the roll was called, each member paid his or her dues and was presented with a membership pin by their leader, Mrs. M. Clancy.

A reading, "Whiter Than Snow," was given by Sammy Danford.

All the Mission Band officers were asked to come to the front of the school for the service of installation, conducted by the leader.

Mrs. Clancy told the story, "Happy New Year," from the study book, after which all joined in playing a Japanese game.

Mite boxes were handed out to each member. These are to be brought in at the Septembr meeting.

The papers, "World Friends," were distributed by Marilyn Stapley, Diane Prest and Sheila Clarke.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by Isobelle Prest and Marilyn Stapley.

Mr., Mrs. J.E. Darvell Mark 25 Years of Married Life

On January 18th the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Darvell, 133 Burhham Street, was gay with the happy voices of nearly 175 guests who came from time to time during the afternoon and evening to congratulate them on the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary, and to extend to them best wishes for the years ahead.

The hostess, Mrs. Darvell, attractively attired in turquoise blue faille with corsage of pink Sweetheart roses, assisted by Mr. Darvell, wearing a white carnation boutonniere, received the guests at the door. Also assisting in receiving were Mrs. R. Thompson of London, Mrs. Darvell's sister, who had been her bridesmaid 25 years ago and Mrs. Ray Frederick of Port Rowan, Mr. Darvell's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Darvell were married at the home of the bride's parents, ex-mayor Harry Hill, and Mrs. Hill, of West Bridge Street, by the Reverend Robert Hall, pastor of John Street United Church, which was destroyed by fire a few years ago.

They have no children.

Mrs. Darvell is active in her church work at St. Andrew's Presbyterian, while Mr. Darvell as fire inspector with the local fire department, maintains his vigil over man's best friend, but worst enemy.

They were the happy recipients of many beautiful gifts including silver, glass and floral bouquets.

Among those who poured tea from the prettily appointed tea table with its central floral arrangement, flanked by white tapers in crystal holders, and silver services; the lovely all-white anniversary cake topped by a white satin bow, sitting in state at one end, were Mrs. Harry Elvidge, Mrs. W. H. Judge, Mrs. E. Jones and Mrs. Walter Elliott.

Those who served included Mesdames Jack Thompson, Gerald Boyce, Harry Yorke, Harold Taylor, Harold Arnott, Gerald O'Brien, George Beitboehmer, Yorke Bushell and Mrs. Hugh McKay. Those arranging plates, Mrs. Joseph Chapman and Mrs. J. W. Hearns.

Miss Marjorie Taylor and Miss Gail McDougall were door attendants.

Congregational Meeting

EGGLETON UNITED CHURCH

MADOC JCT. — The annual congregational meeting for Eggleton United Church was held on Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Clancy with a fair number in attendance.

The pastor, Mr. George Dyson, presided and opened the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Maurice Clancy was appointed secretary for the evening.

Mr. Dyson called for the reports of the various organizations.

Mrs. W. Harlow gave the report for the Sunday School with a balance on hand of $80.42.

Mrs. Carl Bridges read the WMS report with $65.30 sent to Presbyterial treasurer.

The WA report was read by Mrs. Warren Harlow. Balance at end of year $60.77.

Mrs. Maurice Clancy gave the Mission Band report with $32.27 raised during the year.

As the church secretary and treasurer, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Reide, were unable to be present at the meeting the treasurer's report was read by Mrs. Clarence Fitchett for them, showing a balance of $133.81.

The M. and M. report was read by Mr. Carl Bridges, with $89.70 being contributed during the year.

Mr. George Dyson read the parsonage report which told of the work done at the parsonage during the year and showed a substantial balance on hand.

Mr. Clarence Fitchett, speaking on behalf of the local church board spoke of the work done at Eggleton church this year and made a motion that a record be kept of the names of all those who had given so freely of their time to re-decorate the interior and some repair work on the outside.

A motion was made by Mr. C. Bridges that church envelopes be ordered for 1958.

Mr. Dyson spoke a few encouraging words on the year's work; also gave the number of families taken into membership of the church, also the number of baptisms, marriages and deaths during the year.

OFFICERS UNCHANGED

Motion made by Mr. C. Fitchett, seconded by Mr. Maurice Clancy that all officers remain the same.

Mr. Dyson closed the meeting, after which the hostess served refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Fat Free Dinner Party Menu

By Mary Moore

One of our guests was on a very strict fat free diet and I was posed with the problem of preparing a dinner party — minus butter, egg yolks, cream or fat of any kind.

I was so surprised at its succes I decided to tell you some of my little tricks. I know too well there are plenty of readers who cannot tolerate fat and another group who should not eat it for they have too much of their own.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Oven Barbecued Pork Chops or Spareribs; Spinach; Cream Diced Parsnips; Emem's Bran Muffins (see Monday); Rosy Strained Applesauce (cook with skins on) until tender; Coffee.

SUNDAY

Beef Tenderloin (see Thursday); Baked Mushrooms (see Thursday); Baked Potatoes; Tomato Aspic Moulds on bed of Lettuce garnished with Ripe and Green Olives; Apple Dumpling in Syrup with Pouring Cream; Coffee.

I made one compromise because one of the invited guests was from out of town and had never eaten creme brulee and sent a message by way of Pete requesting it. So having decided the fat-denied patient could eat the fruit to go with the creme, I made it. Those not on the diet wallowed in it.

FAT FREE DINNER PARTY MENU

Consomme, Roast Beef Tenderloin, Baked Mushrooms, Frenched Green Beans, Squash Souffle, Salad Greens, French Dressing passed at the table, Creme Brulee and Byng Cherries, Coffee.

ROAST BEEF TENDERLOIN

The beef tenderloin is the important item you are going to rave over once you have decided to order it. Cost was $4.80 for a big 4-lb. one. Twenty-four hours in advance I sprinkled it with meat tenderizer — I wanted it as tender as our own baby's skin — garlic salt, Worcestershire sauce and let it marinate in that in the refrigerator loosely covered. By chance I waspadding around about 3 a.m. checking on my baby grandsons so I quietly opened the refrigerator door and turned the tenderloin over. After the guests arrived I put it in the oven on the rack in the broiler pan at 430 deg. F. Twenty minutes later I tested it by turning it over and cutting ⅔ of the way through at the thickest part. It was bright pink — just how I wanted it, so I snatched it from the oven, plopped it on its hot platter and surrounded it with the vegetables and poured the [illegible] forget those succulent slices under Pete's carving knife — dark brown edges shading to a bright pink centre, with a little of the mushroom sauce over each serving.

BAKED MUSHROOMS (no fat)

Wash 1 lb. mushrooms in gallons of running water using a soft brush — they require no trimming if they are well washed. Turn into a medium casserole with cover. Pour over ½ cup boiling water in which you have dissolved two chicken bouillon cubes. Cover and bake at 350-375 deg. F. about 25 to 30 minutes. Time and temp depending on other things in oven. The mushrooms are served on the platter around the tenderloin, with the juice poured over the tenderloin.

SQUASH SOUFFLE

Bake 2 pepper squash until tender. Remove skin and seeds and mash until pulp is smooth. There should be 3 to 3½ cups. Add 2 tablespoons powdered skim milk, 1 teaspoon salt and rosemary leaves, shake of Accent and pepper, 2 teaspoons sesame seeds and fold in 4 stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into casserole and bake 35 minutes at 375 deg. F. Serve at once. Note: The Byng cherries for spooning over the Brulee were canned Byngs— drained and the juice thickened and sweetened, then flavored with lemon juice and almond flavoring and well chilled.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TO THE HOSTESS

The guest every hostess likes: the one who, a day or two after a party, writes the hostess a warm-hearted note of thanks for the hospitality, expressing enthusiastic appreciation of the party. That's a fine courtesy.

FROM WHICH CITY TO MAIL THE MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENTS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to be married in Alberta, when my fiance graduates there. I have lived and worked in Alberta for several years. Because my mother and father are not in good health, they will not be able to be present at the wedding. (Only my fiance's parents and a few friends of ours will be present at our very simple wedding — in the clergyman's study; no reception.) Since none of our relatives or friends will be present at the ceremony, we are planning to send formal announcements. Of course I want them sent in the name of my parets, and therefore it seems to me that they should be mailed from the city where my parents live. But since the wedding will not take place there, we are not sure from which city the announcements should be mailed. What is your advice? — Katherine

Since I judge that the announcements of your marriage will be ordered by your parents (or by you, for them) in the city where they live, it is correct, and certainly most convenient, for them to mail the announcements there. I think also that this would give most honor and compliments to your parents, to have their city post-marked on the envelopes.

HOSTS SHOULD PROVIDE FOR NON-DRINKERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At my sister's wedding reception, we are planning to serve champagne, and highballs for those who prefer. But quite a few of our friends and many of the groom's friends (his parents, too) are teetotalers. What is the proper provision of service for them? — Reader

Today when many people are teetotalers, anyone planning a reception or other party should provide non-alcoholic drinks. Most often a fruit punch is served, and or sparkling grape juice fruit, or ginger ale, a "cola" drink, tomato juice and or orange juice.

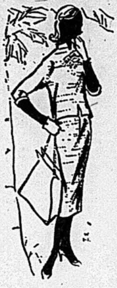
"R.s.v.p." NOT FOR USE ON INFORMAL NOTES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to write notes of invitation to a birthday party I am giving for my sister. I would like to have answers to these invitations, so that I can more or less plan the amount of refreshments to be provided. I'm wondering if it would be proper to write "R.s.v.p." below and to the left of my signature? — Dorothy

No, "R.s.v.p." is correctly written only on invitations written in the third person, or invitations written on visiting-cards or informals. When you write your notes, of invitation, include a request for an answer by writing, for example, "I do hope you can come . . . please tell me 'Yes, I will be there.' "

Year-Around White Style



By VERA WINSTON

White is making itself at home in town during the winter, so one doesn't have to go south or take a cruise to indulge in the joy of wearing spanking, sparkling white. Fine for resort or town is this winter white, silk and wool two-piecer with a middy look to the top. The high-rising neckline suggests a mandarin collar and a notched V marks the center of the loose - hanging overblouse. The skirt is straight.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. L. B. — I am dying to see our son and his child.

Mr. L. B. — I can't face him.

• • •

Mrs. L. B. — Our son Herbert married two years ago at the age of 20. My husband and I were very much opposed to the marriage, not only because of his youth, but because this girl belongs to a different faith. Aside from that, she is sickly and will be a handicap rather than a helpmate to him all his life.

At the time they married, my husband and I said we would never see Herbert's wife. We said he could come to see us any time he liked, but we wouldn't visit him. Herbert said that if we wouldn't acknowledge his wife, we just wouldn't see him again.

Well, now they have a baby and Herbert has asked us to come to visit. I am dying to see my son and his child, but my husband says he won't go back on his word.

• • •

Mr. L. B. — I was willing to compromise. I told Herbert we would come if his wife wasn't present. He wouldn't give in. He said his wife had to be there or we couldn't come.

The way I look at it is this: Herbert's wife must hate us like poison. She knows how we feel about her. Surely she doesn't want us coming to her home. Herbert has talked her into it, but she certainly can't welcome us. How can we face here? What will we say to her? I hardly know how to face our own boy. I don't know what to say to him after all this time.

Fortunately, we have a younger son and daughter. I tell my wife we've got to think about them and tear Herbert out of our hearts. Otherwise this thing will always be a torment.

• • •

The Council: Unfortunately, there is no painless way out of this problem. "This thing" is likely to be a torment one way or the other.

We do think, however, that there is more hope for less torment through a reconciliation.

The L.B.'s wronged themselves and their son when they took such a violent position. They could have been firm in their opposition to the marriage without committing themselves to any future line of conduct. They should have foreseen the day when they would be driven by a desire to see their son and his child.

As the years go on, reconciliation becomes more and more difficult. Even now, we feel that Mr. L. B. is not so much concerned about going back on his pledge, as he is afraid of the emotional scene involved in seeing his son again.

The reconciliation might be made a bit easier if the L. B.'s suggest that Herbert come to see them first by himself. There will have to be some tears on both sides. The strain of having Herbert's wife present on that occasion may be too much.

The L. B.'s should recognize that their son's position at this time is entirely justified. He cannot ask his wife to leave their home so that his parents can visit. The L. B.'s must accept Herbert and his wife as a unit. They should make every effort to see this woman's good qualities. Through the years they may gradually build up a relationship of tolerance and respect with her. But it will take a real effort on both sides.

Ladies!

Now there's no excuse to pass us by,
We're right downstairs to catch your eye,
There's no stairs, to climb, not far to go,
To see what clothes we have to show.

Our new styles have just come in,
Styles so smart, to wear this spring.
Or if it's the cold weather you're thinking of,
We still have woollens, in styles you'll love.

We have dresses in sheaths and full skirts too,
For work or play they'll be right for you,
Or if a party dress is your desire,
We have any style that you may require.

Now for sports, school or the office it's true,
That skirts and sweaters are smart and comfortable too,
For the smartest skirts, and sweaters to wear,
You can shop at Winnie's without a care.

We've knitted suits to catch your eye,
And what's more they're a wonderful buy,
And we also want to let you know,
We have lovely reversible skirts to show.

Now if you need a formal gown,
And you haven't been looking around,
Drop in and see us, they're lovely, reasonable too,
In styles and colors, all pretty and new.

So no matter if your feet are sore,
Come in and see our downstairs store,
Our prices are low, our quality high,
It's still Winnie's where you'll get a good buy.

Think Child an Individual Not Part of Assembly Line

Editors Note: Following is an address in part on "The Needs of Children" given on Tuesday evening to the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association by Dr. Evelyn Williamson, MD, CM, 193 John Street. Dr. Williamson is a graduate in medicine from Queen's University and took five years post-graduate work in psychiatry in Canadian universities and hospitals. Dr. Williamson is the wife of Dr. H. S. Williamson.

The child in the beginning is entirely selfish. His needs are many and great and he is concerned only in having them satisfied. During the first months of life his body needs rest, food and warmth, in order to grow. Food, warmth etc, are needed, not for development of body structure but for expansion of its size, for the body structure, itself, with few exceptions, is already complete at the time of birth.

Such is not the case with personality structure. At birth the child has only the faintest rudiments of personality structure. The brain, which serves as the area of the body in which the personality gradually takes shape, is like a clean slate ready to be written upon by experience, or, viewed in a three-dimensional way, a bare plot of ground upon which an edifice will be constructed.

During the first months of life, then, the body needs rest, food and warmth not only because of their importance for physical growth but also for the tactile pleasure derived therefrom. A sufficiency of food of the right kind, given at regular intervals and administered by one who loves the child, is needed to lay the groundwork for a relaxed personality which feels the world to be a friendly place.

If, on the other hand, there is insufficient food on a sudden change in the type of food or method of feeding, or if there is impatience or hostility on the part of the one who feeds the child, then the distress of hunger or of cold, or the lack of emotional warmth produces anxiety — an unpleasant feeling associated with fear.

FIRST YEAR

The 1st year, the child does all the demanding, then toward the end of the first year demands are made of him; he is asked to make some efforts towards feeding, dressing, and obeying, for example; he is asked to begin toilet training and at this time he needs a great deal of affection, patience and tolerance. This is a very important time in the education of the child and in the development of his personality. Often mothers and maids become angry and disgusted when the child does not become trained quickly enough and they make such an issue of rapid conformity to an established routine that the child can be made most tense and apprehensive lest he displease. In the child who is forced to be too compliant out of fear of punishment, temporary disapproval, or permanent loss of love, there are many possibilities for the development of unhealthy personality traits.

Between two and three years of age, interest in himself and the outside world has increased. He wants to know the why and wherefore of things with an ever-expanding curiosity and his big need at this time is information. He must from here on have opportunity to learn new things and lead an active well-rounded life; he must be taught how to get along with people, be encouraged to form healthy friendships and be introduced to healthy personalities whose traits and qualities he may imitate and incorporate into his own developing personality, you may say.

What are the laws of psychology which must be applied to assure his development is a normal, healthy one?

There are no hard and fast rules of do's and don't's in the handling of children which if carried out to the letter will guarantee the development of a perfect, normal, healthy child.

Many intelligent but neurotic parents bring their children up according to the directions outlined in manuals of psychology only to rear a child with a behavior problem which later becomes a neurotic illness. On the contrary many well-adjusted couples who love each other and love their children never see the inside of a book on child-raising and are rewarded with emotionally stable offspring. The point, of course, is that the atmosphere of the home, and later the school, which the child absorbs is ever so much more important than any psychological precepts which can be obtained from books.

We know then, that at various ages and phases of personality development, the child needs love, affection, patience, tolerance, warmth, information and good ideas which he gradually integrates according to the patterns he feels and sees around him.

We also know that, while a child needs over and above everything else, love, affection and friendliness, these alone are not enough. Something more is needed from the adults who have charge of his life.

A child needs to be thought of as an individual with feelings, yearnings, desires, dislikes, who needs understanding, guidance and support from all of us.

MAKE OWN DECISIONS

He needs at times to make his own decisions to assert his independence and satisfy his pride, and to prepare him for the time when he, as an adult, is expected to make sound decisions easily. If he has never had to make decisions or never been allowed to make decisions, how can he, as an adult, be expected to judge things for himself? We have all known adults, men and women, who couldn't decide anything for themselves. They had first to consult mother or father.

On the other hand, he should not make all the decisions for himself as a child or he may fail to realize that he can't always have the last word, that at times other people must make decisions concerning him which he must abide by.

Again, we have all known people who could not get along in any group unless they made all the decisions. If the names chosen to sit at the head table didn't agree with the names they had chosen, they left in a huff and resigned from the club.

At other times the child needs to have decisions made for him, so that he may be protected from making a poor, wrong or foolish choice and because of it be the object of shame, criticism or ridicule. At all times a child should be protected from being shamed, ridiculed or made to feel inferior. He needs to be made to feel that he is accepted for what he is and that he is an integral part of the group in which he moves.

During a child's development one of the major things he must learn is the control of his behavior, so that he may become an accepted member of the community. His personality, or more specifically, that part of his personality which is called ego, to a lesser degree that part termed super ego is responsible for this control. This ego and super ego part of the personality, in every child, even the most normal and wonderful one, develops gradually and over a long stretch of time and during this lengthy period of development is in need of a great deal of support from all about him.

Many times during each twenty-four hours, his ego is confronted with the task of behavioral control and the child must be helped by all around him to make the right decision. The way in which any one of us acts, scolds, interferes or in any way handles any child has some effect on his developing ego. Sometimes it is a positive effect, sometimes a negative effect.

Now you say, how can we give his developing ego the support it needs? What is good for him?

The average adult, who does not approach this question as an expert but as a parent, board member, or taxpayer, usually has quite firm and clear convictions on this point. That is, he needs more discipline; he needs a job to keep him busy; he needs more freedom, he needs to he himself enjoyed as a child. ing pole.

If pressed, the adult would probably admit that he considers "good" for the children what he himself enoyed as a child, or learned to enjoy and what the community within which he lives would regard as being of value.

Now, if we turn to the people who are experts, not in child study but in the cultivation of specific skills, we find equally clear-cut opinions, only sliced in a somewhat different direction. It seems without doubt that most "experts" in certain skills consider quantities of what they themselves happen to be interested in as the safest prescription for what the child needs. Everybody seems to recommend as being "good for children" the very commodity he happens to present on the market of recreational services. Thus, the athletic director of a playground is convinced that youngsters should have plenty of that; the art instructor is sure that more cultivation of art and art appreciation would be a safeguard against delinquency. The cherisher of good music recommends classical programs for all school children as the greatest blessing for the nation's youth. And every summer, thousands of Canadian children in hundreds of camps, shiver in the cold morning air before their pre-breakfast dip, even though so far, no known research has discovered any connection between goose pimples and character formation.

It is clear, of course, that the question of what is good for children is difficult to answer. For things are not just "good" or "bad" for people, they are liable to have a quite specific effect which is related to specific conditions. Neither salami nor sulpha is good or bad for everyone, it all depends.

Generally speaking, all children need, with slight variation, the same basic things in the way of eating, sleeping, playing, studying, working, worshipping, etc.

NEED OPPORTUNITY

They need opportunity to study and learn things other than at schools. They need opportunity to work and play with others; they need a sound foundation in religion so that they may learn of all that is good and true and be able to judge the real values in living. They need constructive hobbies and recreations — not all work or they don't know what to do to relax or what to do when illness strikes. Their hobbies should not be all solitary ones, or they don't know how to enjoy themselves with people, nor should they be all group activities or they don't know how to occupy themselves when alone.

They need to be kept busy with interesting constructive things, so that they don't become bored and seek unhealthy, mischievous activities. On the other hand they shouldn't be given too lengthy or too complicated projects for their age and intelligence lest they become frustrated in their inability to complete the performance. In this line they need instruction, guidance, assurance and encouragement to make them feel secure. If more is demanded of them than they are able to give or if they are compared with others to their disadvantage, they feel frustrated, inferior and insecure and their efficiency becomes even less than before because of the emotional involvement.

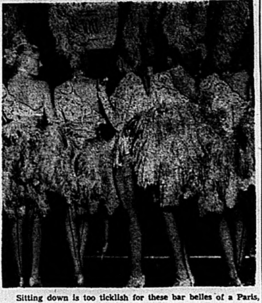
All these general needs can readily be met today with our schools, playgrounds, churches, libraries, recreation centres, groups such as Guides, Scouts, hobby centres, etc., if parents (and teachers) provide the necessary guidance, encouragement and interest.

However, what the specific needs of any one child are, may be quite different from the specific needs of any second child.

If we think of all children as just parts of an assembly line who all need the same thing added in the same way, at the same time, then I'm afraid we fail in supplying them with many of their specific needs.

If, on the other hand, we are observant, sympathetic and understanding think of each child as an individual, and used a little common sense, we will usually be able to meet these specific needs by the manner in which we handle him.

LESS TICKLISH STANDING UP



Sitting down is too ticklish for these bar belles of a Paris, France, cafe, so they take their nourishment standing up. Ostrich feathers, which are the major part of their costumes, are responsible for their reluctance to sit.

VISION RESTORED TO MOTHER OF TWO

Ten years ago, the eyesight of Mrs. John Newell of Lowell, Mass., began to fail due to corneal ulcers. By the time she had children she was living in a world of blurred images. Recently she underwent a corneal transplant in her right eye and doctors say she will see again. Her two sons, Gary, three, and George, six, can't wait for the happy day.

Canadian Legion LA. Elects Officers

Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, Branch 99, held the installation of officers for the ensuing year last evening in the Legion Hall, Pinnacle Street, by the Deputy Zone Commander, Dr. McVicker, of Deseronto, and Zone Commander William Bailey, of Belleville.

The officers are: past president — Mrs. C. Jeffs; president — Mrs. W. Bailey; 1st vice-president — Mrs. D. Bradford; 2nd vice-president — Miss R. Blair; treasurer — Mrs. J. Ash; secretary — Mrs. G. Hughes; sergeant-at-arms — Mrs. H. Beaumont.

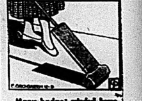
The 1958 executive members are: Comrades Eastman, Legacey, Meeks, Hodge, Clark, Potter, Dawkins, Reed.

After the installation ceremony, Dr. McVicker spoke on the aims and objectives of the Auxiliary, stating that the Belleville Auxiliary was one of the finest in the Province of Ontario, and suggested that this Branch should be able to increase its membership during the present year.

Mrs. Jeffs, the retiring president, extended appreciative thanks to the various committees of the Auxiliary for their fine co-operation during the past year.

After the close of the meeting a delicious supper was served by ladies of the Auxiliary.

Wife Preservers



Many budget-minded homemakers wash their own rugs these days, especially if they have a household full of snow-and-mud-tracking children. Frequent shampooings (some experts advise one every three months) make rugs last longer, as well as look brighter. The job can be done standing up, too—with a new-on-the-market plastic applicator full of rug detergent. Three hours later the dried foam is vacuumed away and the rug is clean.

Want Woman On Commission

TORONTO (CP) — Appointment of a woman to the Ontario hospital commission was one of several requests placed before Premier Frost Tuesday by a delegation of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Ontario

The 21 delegates met with Mr ost, Education Minister Dun- Welfare Minister Cecile, Reforms Minister Dymond, Travel Minister Cathcart, and Ray Connell, minister without portfolio.

Trecia Kyle of Toronto advocated abolishing the federal women's central penitentiary at Kingston. She also asked that the Ontario government seek arrangements at the next federal-provincial conference for a system whereby federal women prisoners would serve their sentences in their own provinces.

Elsie Gregory MacGill of Toronto urged that juvenile and family courts be established in Lanark County and in Victoria-Haliburton counties. She also asked that the legal age of juveniles be raised to 18 from 16 years.

Women's Activities

UNITED CHURCH W.M.S.

The W.M.S. of the Deseronto United Church was held on the afternoon of January 14th in the church parlor. The meeting opened with the new president, Mrs. R. Barker, leading in prayer. The Scripture lesson, Philippians 2:19-30 was read by Mrs. Gaynor Rendall. The study book chapter was taken by Mrs. W. Neelands. The offering was taken and the roll call showed an attendance of 15 members. Members paid dues for the new year.

Mention was made of the World Day of Prayer service fo. February 21 and the Presbyterial meeting being held in Trinity United Church in Napanee on February 7th.

Groups were formed to include all members to carry on the missionary program for the year. Each group includes a leader and a secretary-treasurer and one group each month will be responsible for the devotional and program section of the meeting.

FREE PARKING

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) —A number of motorists parked for free on a parking lot here when an automatically-operated exit gate was smashed by a car. Drivers entered through the exit and saved themselves a 35-cent parking fee.

Pot Luck Dinner Held By Salem W.A.

The January meeting of Salem W. A. was held in the church hall in the form of a pot - luck dinner and quilting, with a splendid attendance of members present, including several men.

The president opened the meeting in the afternoon with a poem, "The Year Ends." Fees were paid, and a greeting card from the Beckel family was passed around, and depicted the interior of his church in Regina. Correspondence was also read.

Mrs. Orval Jackson will act as hostess, assisted by Mrs. Frank McGee, and Mrs. Bert Heagle for the February meeting.

The president tendered thanks to all who had assisted in the new floor.

It was decided to quilt another quilt in the near future.

Mrs. Lorne Hagerman gave the treasurer's report in full, and Mrs. Bert Heagle, Mrs. George Sine, Mrs. Harold Holden, Mrs. Ivan Sarles, and Mrs. Murney Johnston were named to act as an entertaining committee.

Mrs. Albert Twiddy took charge of the program, with Scripture reading from Matthew 2:1-12, was given by Mrs. Arnold Ray and the explanation notes by Mrs. Everett Sine, followed by prayer by Mrs. Stan Thompson.

Mrs. W. J. Johnston gave a reading, "The Old Year", and Mrs. Murray Roy, "The New Year."

A missionary story was given by Mrs. Thomas Clements, followed by a duet by Mrs. McGee and Mrs. Mayo.

Miss Edna Tanner gave the topic on "The New Year."

Mrs. Harold Holden expressed thanks to the hostess, and to Mrs Cecil Carter and her assistants for the success of the day.

The dinner receipts amounted to $14.48.

The January meeting of Group 1 of the W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Robin Adair with a good attendance. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Adair.

The devotional was given by Mrs. Ross Bush and the Scripture reading was read by Mrs. Earl Walt, Mrs. Bush reading, "Thinking Things Through."

The guest speaker, Mrs. Roy Taylor, brought a fine message on "Missionaries."

Refreshments were served by the hostess and a social half hour enjoyed by all.

LOST HOME

HAMILTON (CP) — Fire destroyed the trailer home and all the possessions of Gerald Jinks, 56, of Hannon, the other day. He saved only the clothes he was wearing. Three years ago another trailer was destroyed by fire.

Deseronto

DESERONTO — Mr. and Mrs. George Sweanor and family also Mrs. Oliver Sweanor, all of Trenton, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sweanor.

Mr. Ken Tyrrell, of Ottawa, visited with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tyrrell.

Mrs. Bertha McDonald and Mr. James Sager attended the funeral of the late Mr. Buchanan, of Napanee.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Blewitt and family in the loss of his mother Mrs. Roger Blewitt, who passed away last Thursday.

Canon Coleman has been allowed to return to his home here from Kingston General Hospital. His condition is reported as satisfactory.

Tweed

TWEED — Hastings County Council met on January 21st for the first session for the current year. Reeve Lloyd "Bud" Price, of Elzevir, and Doug. Spencer, of Tweed, attended from the immediate district. Filling the position of Warden Leslie McLaren of last year, is Lloyd "Bud" Price, who was elected to this office on Tuesday of this week. This is Bud's fifth term as Reeve of Elzevir.

Mr. Robert "Bob" Hunter and Mr. William Silverthorne left on Wednesday for Quebec Province on business. Mr. Hunter is general manager of the Hunter Veneer firm as of recent date, while Mr. Silverthorne is plant superintendent. Mr. Hunter was secretary-treasurer of the firm for four years 1949-52, when his late brother, Kent Hunter, was the president.

Sympathy is extended at this time to the bereaved ones in the passing on January 19th of Mr. Henry Elmore Wagar, formerly of Tweed and the father of Mrs. Edwin (Violet) Foster, of Belleville, formerly of Tweed. Mr. Wagar was 76 years of age and passed away in the Belleville General Hospital. He had lived in Tweed for a period of 30 years and had only resided in Deseronto for the past five years. He was a member of St. John's United Church in Tweed, and was also a member of the I.O.O.F. Lodge.

Misses Colleen LaFontaine and Noreen Quinn are in Toronto this week on business for the department store of Quinn and Quinn, on whose staff they are employed.

Wallis Moffat was installed as president of the Kiwanis Club at last week's meeting. He succeeds Mr. Ernest Carter. The group from Port Hope who inducted and installed the new slate of officers was headed by Lieut.-Governor "Bill" Carey of that town. Mr. Carter introduced and welcomed the lieut-governor as the retiring president. The officers were presented with pins by the past presidents of the service club.

Gore

GORE — Farm Forum met Monday evening at Victoria school.

The sympathy of all goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Smith Brown of the 2nd concession, who lost their home, with all its contents, by fire on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Brown is a patient in Trenton Memorial Hospital having had a serious operation on Thursday, and Mrs. Brown had gone with her son Harvey and family to visit him. The house burned during their absence. The cause is unknown. Besides the household effects, a valuable collection of antiques fell prey to the flames Mrs. Brown is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Montgomery celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on January 22. They were at home to their friends during the afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Winston Pulver entertaind the Centre W.A. for its January meeting, on Wednesday. There was a good attendance.

4 Canadian Entries in Top 10 of Government Division Of Fire Prevention Contest

BOSTON, Mass. (CP)—Atomic Energy of Canada Limited at Chalk River, Ont., placed first among 102 entries in the government division of last year's Canada-U.S. fire prevention contest.

Other Canadian entries were in the top 10 in the government division. Shaughnessy Veterans Hospital in Vancouver was fourth, Queen Mary Veterans Hospital in Montreal seventh and Deer Lodge Veterans Hospital in St. James, Man., 10th.

Ottawa ranked first among 588 Canadian communities in the municipal fire prevention competition, with Vancouver second and Kitchener third. Phoenix, Ariz., won the similar U.S. competition.

RCAF Station, Greenwood, N.S., won the grand award in a special competition for the Canadian defence department.

The contests are sponsored annually by the National Fire Prevention Association of Boston. Its 17,000 membership is drawn principally from Canadian and U.S. business and industry, fire departments and government officials.

Entrants compete on the basis of year-round fire prevention activities.

The association gave special recognition to three Canadian administrative units for work in 1957: The federal works department (Fire Commissioner C. A. Thomson), for a special report on administration of five prevention activities; Halton County, Ont. (F.F W. Shaw, co-ordinator), for outstanding county-sponsored fire prevention programs and Quebec province (Ed Gaudette, provincial fire commissioner, for the participation of its communities in fire prevention activities—its total of 307 communities was the highest of all states and provinces.

Ranking of top Ontario communities:

1. Ottawa 3. Kitchener; 8. Hamilton; 9. St. Catharines; 12. Brantford; 14. Schumacher,Ont.; 18. Guelph; 23. Welland; 30. Cobourg, Ont.

Kitchener led cities of population between 25,000 and 100,000; Arvida, Que. led in the 10,000-25,000 range; Port Alfred, Que., in 5,000-10,000; Ocean Falls, B.C., in 2,500-5,000; and Tadanac B.C., in places under 2,500.

Longer Term for High School Students This Yr. Says Dept.

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Dunlop has announced a longer term this year for Ontario high school students and promised even longer ones in the next few years.

Eventually, he said Wednesday, the school term will cover 10 months a year. This year, students will have to stay at the books one week longer.

Promising that the education department intends to "put more work and more time into school subjects," Mr. Dunlop said that in the not too distant future exams, now held in June, will be written in July.

The practice of granting able pupils in Grade 13 exemption from exams would be discouraged. Pupils from grades nine to 12 lost too much instruction time through recommendation.

CLOSES LATER

June 13 instead of June 6 is the date set this year's close. A directive sent to secondary school principals sets June 16 as the first day exams may be held in Grade 9, 10 and 11 subjects and diploma subjects in Grade 12.

In schools where no students are excused by recommendation from writing Grade 12 subjects or diploma subjects of Grade 11, exams may start June 9.

Exams in Grade 13 subjects will start June [illegible] but the "heavy" exams, written by most students, will not get under way until June 16.

Mr. Dunlop said that at one time pupils were kept until the last day in June and wrote examinations in July. Following complaints examinations were switched to June.

There was a "considerable loss in instruction time" because Grades 9, 10, 11 and 12 students were promoted through recommendation.

"This year," he said, "if the system had been followed, all the pupils in Grades 9, 10 and 11 and 12 would have been out of school by June 6."

Representatives of the Ontario School Superintendents' Association, the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, the Ontario Secondary School Headmasters' Association and the Ontario School Trustees' Association agree with the new measure, Mr. Dunlop said. It was designed to make the school term a full 200 days instead of 194 or 195 as in recent years.

But the longer term—Ontario secondary school students now have one of the longest on the continent—will affect Grade 13 students counting on summer employment at resorts.

J. Edward Wright, president of the Association of Tourist Resorts in Ontario, said the measure will mean "we will have to employ more university and Ryerson Institute of Technology students."

J.N. Yanover Vice-President Of Hotel Group

TORONTO (CP)—Ted Miron of Kirkland Lake was re-elected president of the Ontario Hotel Association at the association's annual convention Wednesday.

Also re-elected were vice-presidents Jack N. Yanover of Belleville, J. Ross Fisher of Hamilton and John Chaput, MPP, of Etur- and John Chaput, MPP, of Sturgeon Falls.

Reg Lancaster of Oshawa was elected secretary and George A. Wilson was elected treasurer.

Executive directors: Joseph Zuber, Kitchener; Angus MacKinnon, Toronto; Eber Rice, St. Thomas; Dalton J. Caswell, Sundridge; Robert Cooper, Windsor; William Stuart, Toronto and Gordon Snider, Niagara Falls.

Nick Kaneb of Cornwall was elected chairman of the board and Clint Melville of Toronto managing director.

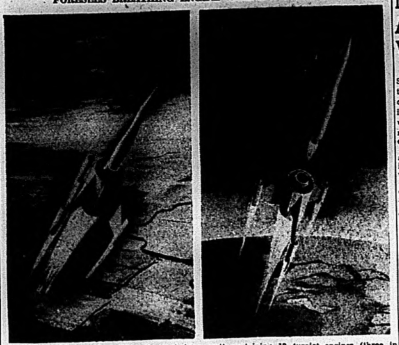
Ottawa's Chateau Laurier received the award of the Commercial Travellers Association of Canada as outstanding hotel of 1957.

TO SAIL AROUND NORTH AMERICA

AROUND THE NORTH
CONTINENT IN A

John H. Bremer (white hat) and Kai Petersen, both of Lake Zurich, Ill., have announced plans of sailing around the North American continent. They are holding a map showing the direction of the 10,000-mile route. They will attempt to skirt the continent in a clockwise direction in an 18-foot craft powered by outboard motors.

FORESEES BREATHING ENGINE AIDING ROCKETS



Air-breathing engines like the turbojet will complement rockets in the development of space flight and ballistic missiles in the future, General Electric official John B. Montgomery has predicted. He said that the "breathing" engines could lift an ICBM or space vehicle from a launching pad up through the heavy layers of air that surround the earth. The drawing at left visualizes a boost unit containing 12 turojet engines (three in pods and nine nested together in fuselage of the boost unit). Drawing at right demonstrates that once the boost unit is beyond the dense layers of atmosphere, the missile or space vehicle could separate at high speed from the boost unit and continue on its way under rocket power. The recoverable air-breathing boost unit could then be returned to the launching pad to be readied for another flight.

Has No Memory Of Shooting Man, Accused Says

WELLAND (CP) — Thomas Sidey, 41, of nearby Port Colborne, testifying Wednesday at his murder trial, said he has no recollection of shooting Orson Sauder or of making a statement when he was arrested.

Sidey, charged in the Oct. 4 shotgun slaying of Sauder, testified his wife left him in August, had been drinking heavily and had been seen in "compromising situations" with Sauder.

He said that on the night of the shooting he loaded his shotgun at a Port Colborne dump where he had been target shooting. Later he saw his wife's truck parked outside Sauder's residence in Welland.

He said he removed the screen door from Sauder's house intending to frighten the couple and Sauder shouted and cursed at him.

He said he remembered nothing more until he found him self on a road in Crowland Township and found two empty shells in the gun.

He had no recollection of making a statement when he was arrested, he added.

A statement taken by provincial police who arrested him in Port Colborne shortly after the shooting, was admitted as evidence earlier.

Sauder and Mabel Sidey were both felled by shotgun blasts at the dead man's home. Sauder died nine hours later and Mrs. Sidey was severely wounded but recovered.

Iva Sauder, widow of the dead man, testified Sidey telephoned her the day of the shooting. She said she told him she was not interested in her husband, or Mrs. Sidey's relationship with him.

She said she had been separated from her husband since November, 1956.

'Big Beer' Back In B.C. Taverns

VANCOUVER (CP)—The "big beer" is coming back in British Columbia taverns.

But it's not anywhere near as big as in the good old days when a thirsty quaffer could get a "Mae West" goblet holding three glasses for 25 cents, or order his cold brew by the $1 jugful, 12 full glasses at a time. That faded out in the late 1930s.

Now, after hearing argument pro and con, the provincial liquor control board has approved use of double-size glasses in B.C. beer parlors. The new glasses, holding 12.4 ounces, go into use in licensed premises here today at 20 cents a glass. Other centres get them later.

But for the fellow who just wants to wet his whistle with a small one, the present 7½-ounce glass will be available at 10 cents a throw.

PC Rank-and-File in Dark As to Likely Election Date With Cabinet Said Divided

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is understood to be having a little trouble making up its mind about when to call an election.

Progressive Conservative Commons members held a caucus Wednesday but afterwards the rank-and-file appeared to have scarcely any more idea of the cabinet's election intentions then before.

It is understood there are conflicting views in the cabinet as to when the election should be called.

One view apparently would favor an immediate appeal to the people for a new mandate. Another faction would rather wait until sometime in June. Others also are understood to be thinking in terms of the fall, about September.

Meantime Prime Minister Diefenbaker was non-committal after the caucus over reports he may ask soon for dissolution of Parliament and a snap election.

He told reporters he knows only "what I read in the newspapers."

It was reported that Conservative MPs were asked to find out quickly what public works projects were needed in their constituencies and could be started with little delay.

There were also reports that some Conservative MPs attending the caucus complained that recent broadcasts by the publicly-owned CBC were "pro-Liberal."

It was reported that cabinet ministers would be asked to make representations to A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC board of governors, to seek a more balanced cross-section of opinion on political programs and commentaries.

Canada Studying Possibility Of Building Atomic-Powered Ice-Breaker, Hees Reveals

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Canada may be the second country in the world to harness atomic power to an ice-breaker to carve winter ship channels in the Arctic and on the eastern seaboard.

Transport Minister Hees announced in a speech Wednesday night that the possibilities of a nuclear-propelled ice-breaker are under study.

"We definitely intend to use nuclear power as soon as it becomes practical," he told reporters later.

Only Russia has tried to use atomic propulsion for ice-breaker service. The Lenin, a huge ship with atomic engines, was launched in Leningrad last year.

TREMENDOUS RANGE

An atomic ship, freed of the need to make frequent refueling stops, has tremendous range. An ice-breaker using atomic engines would be able to spend months in the Arctic without having to make costly side trips to port for fuel.

The initial cost would be expensive, the minister said, but in the long run it would pay for itself by keeping ice-bound ports open longer in wintertime.

Mr Hees said improved marine aids to help winter navigation are being developed. At the same time, a group of ice forecasters is being trained and more aerial ice surveys are being made to help keep track of winter ice as it affects navigation.

Canada's study will be made by a committee soon to be established by the transport department, Mr. Hees announced at a joint session of the Dominion Marine Association and United States Lake Carriers Association.

The committee will investigate nuclear propulsion "with a view to application of nuclear power to Canadian ice-breakers in the future." It will also work with private Canadian companies interested in nuclear-powered ships for general commercial use.

The minister did not elaborate, nor did he say whether any Canadian shipping lines are considering such projects at present.

AUTO WORKERS STRIKE

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (Reuters) Nearly 6,000 automotive workers were sent home Wednesday following a wage strike by factory transport operators. Production at the firm, Fisher and Ludlos, came to a standstill. The firm is a part of the Morris-Austin concern. The strikers are claiming a £2 weekly raise.

Mrs. K. Vollum Acquitted of Vote-Padding

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court jury has acquitted Mrs. Kathleen Vollum on four charges of forgery and uttering in vote-padding by Liberal party workers in Toronto's St. Paul's riding during last June's federal election.

She had testified: "I may have acted very stupidly, but I had no idea I was doing anything wrong."

When the all-male jury delivered its verdict Wednesday, tears appeared in the 50-year-old Mrs. Vollum's eyes. Two persons, Thomas Middleton, 49, and Bernice Price, 27, have been convicted of similar charges. Two more, Mrs. Nora Conacher Gamble, 47, charges. Middleton received three months sentence and Miss Price one month and a $300 fine.

Mrs. Vollum told the court she did only as instructed when she signed names to applications for the voters' lists.

"There were no false intentions on my part.

"Nora Conacher told me it was all right to sign these people's names."

OF ADDING NAMES

Mrs. Vollum was accused of making false applications to have two names added to voters lists. Evidence was there was no record of such persons.

Mrs. Vollum said she understood the forms she signed would be mailed or sent to the applicants who she thought had given permission for the applications to be made on their behalf.

Asked why she had altered her signature, she said:

"It was because I tried to imagine the people whose names I was writing, and tried to put some of their characteristics in the signature."

Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow in delivering the verdict said he hoped she would not become involved in a similar predicament again.

Works Minister Says Toronto Report Wrong

OTTAWA (CP)—Works Minister Howard Green Wednesday described as "completely wrong" a Toronto report of federal government participation in a proposed housing development in the Toronto suburb of Scarborough.

The report was to the effect that the federal government plans to release enough land held by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation and provide direct mortgage financing for 5,000 dwelling units in Scarborough.

Mr. Green said no such plan is in contemplation.

The Toronto report said mortgage financing for the suggested project was expected to run from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000.

In Toronto, a local official of the CMHC said the land in question is jointly owned by the federal and Ontario governments and is held in trust by the federal housing agency.

The official, who asked that he not be identified by name, said any development of the land would require approval of both governments and there had been no discussions along that line.

He said he had checked with Ottawa and had been advised the federal government has no intention of allowing private interests to develop CMHC land in the Toronto suburbs.

Critical Decision On CF-105 Future Faces Govt.

OTTAWA (CP)—A decision on whether to proceed with production of the CF-105 supersonic jet fighter plane is one of the most critical facing the government, authorities said Wednesday.

The decision is not expected to be made by the cabinet until this summer and it will be based mainly on the latest intelligence reports out of Russia, they added.

It is hoped that these reports will show whether Russia plans to continue turning out bombers. The CF-105 has been designed as a bomber interceptor.

The decision will be critical from an economic as well as military standpoint. A mistake could result in wastage of hundreds of millions of dollars on an aircraft that might not have any useful role to perform.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has said a single CF-105 will cost about $4,000,000. Officials estimated that re-equipping Canada's nine home defence squadrons with the CF-105 would cost at least $1,000,000,000.

Prime Minister Strijdom Leaves No Doubt S.A. on Way To Becoming a Republic

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Prime Minister Johannes Strijdom and some of his cabinet ministers have left no room for doubt that South Africa is well on the way to becoming a republic.

It remains to be seen if, as a diversion to apartheid (segregation), the question of a republic will make an issue in the campaigning for the April 16 general election. Whether or not it is, political observers seem united in thinking that a republic will be declared by 1960, if not before.

The longer - term question is whether South Africa ultimately will sever its ties with the British Commonwealth.

Both Strijdom and his predecessor as prime minister, Daniel Malan, declared the Nationalist party's belief that a republic, to be safe, can only be proclaimed on the basis "of the broad will of the people."

But last October, at the Cape congress of the Nationalist party, Strijdom went further and said: "We have made great progress, and we are fast on the road to a republic."

He added: "The general election will be an indication of how far we have progressed. We must get the greatest number of votes possible so that we can show the world how far and how fast we have progressed."

Supporting his leader, J. J. Serfontein, minister of posts and telegraphs, said: "We are striving for a white republic and there is absolutely no doubt that we shall achieve our aim."

C. R. Swart, minister of justice, in a recent speech took the issue even further. "First," he said, "we will decide to become a republic. Then we will decide what course to take—whether to break away from the Commonwealth or not, a final decision will be in South Africa's best interests and on the vote of the people."

It has been suggested in the English - language section of the South African press that Nationalist party leaders already have drawn up a blueprint for a republican constitution.

The political correspondent of the Johannesburg Sunday Times recently wrote: "It is certain that as far as the Nationalist leaders are concerned, this year's general election will be the last fought under South Africa's existing constitution.

"Thereafter, a special election will be held solely to decide whether the union should, or should not, become a republic."

The correspondent suggested that such an election might be held in 1960 when the 50th anniversary of the union will be celebrated, and that if an over - all majority of the voters say "yes," a republic will be proclaimed to commemorate the jubilee.

Experts are of the opinion that there has been a steady buildup towards a republic. They say that the steps already taken, and yet to be taken, to break South Africa's ties with Britain will render the inauguration of a republican regime, when it comes, a "painless process."

Outstanding among these steps taken last year were the government decree that the Union Jack no longer is an official flag in South Africa and the banning of the playing of God Save the Queen.

The union's official flag has a small Union Jack in the centre, and there is a move in the Nationalist party to remove even that.

South Africa's official anthem now is Die Stem (the call), for which there is music though the words are still giving rise to controversy.

In April, 1957, the Royal Navy handed over the base it had occupied for 143 years at Simonstown, near Capetown, to the South African Navy.

The crown has been removed as a symbol on army and police uniforms.

The rank of lieutenant - colonel has been replaced by that of commandant, while the rank of chief of the general staff has been replaced by the title commandant-general.

The inscription "O.H.M.S." is still used on official mail but it is being replaced on government vehicles by the words "on government service."

At least one other similar step is contemplated. P. O. Sauer, minister of lands and water affairs, recently let it be known that the cabinet will consider the removal of the Queen's head from the coinage of South Africa.

Such steps as these are opposed and criticized by Europeans of British origin but the Nationalist party "steamroller" trundles on.

The attitude of the opposition, the English - speaking United party, toward the establishment of a republic in South Africa has been made abundantly clear on a number of occasions. This attitude is crystalized in the statement of the party leader, Sir de Villiers Graaff, that there is absolute adherence to the maintenance of the existing form of government under the Crown."

$900,000 British Trainer Replaces Canadian-Built $5,052,000 Job

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian-developed trainer for the Joint Marine Warfare School at Halifax that was abandoned after $5,052,000 was spent on it is being replaced by one from the United Kingdom costing $900,000, Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes informed the Commons Wednesday.

He gave some details about a project that cost about $6,000,000, including the price of the building the trainer was to be housed in. The building will be used eventually for the new electronic trainer.

The original trainer, ordered by the former Liberal government in 1952 from Computing Devices of Canada Limited, Ottawa was cancelled in July, 1956.

The minister originally told the Commons the cost of the new trainer was $500,000, but he later changed this to $900,000.

The abandoned Canadian-produced trainer has since been turned over to the transport department, which has made arrangements for it to be converted by the same Canadian company into an air traffic control simulator.

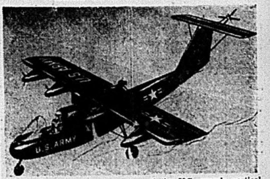
This conversion was being paid for by the Civil Aviation Authority in the United States. It was expected to be completed in April and the trainer then would be moved to Indianapolis where personnel of both the Canadian transport department and the U.S. authority would be trained in it.

Mr. Pearkes was replying to questions raised by G. H. Castleden (CCF—Yorkton) about a reference to the project in the recent report of Auditor-General Watson Sellar.

ROOSTER GEOS FREE

ALICE, Tex. (AP)—A rooster was entered in evidence Wednesday in the assault trial of Edward Cox, 25. The defence told the court that the rooster, fitted with razor-sharp gaffs, entered a free-for-all fight and inflicted the injuries Cox was accused of causing. Judge Wash Storm found Cox guilty and fined him $25 and costs.

BUILT TO GO STRAIGHT UP



Here is an artist's conception of the U.S. army's vertical take-off and landing vehicle being developed by the Fairchild Aircraft Division at Hagerstown, Md. The plane is designed to utilize the maximum lift that is provided by a vectored slip stream.

DESERONTO

Heavy Docket In Police Court

DESERONTO — A busy docket occupied the police court on Friday afternoon of last week. Clare Sero was convicted of careless driving and was sentenced to seven days in jail and costs of $30. If the costs are not paid Sero will serve an additional ten days. His licence was suspended for six months.

Mitchell Claus, on a charge of mischief, was given one year suspended sentence and assessed $25.50 costs. A similar charge against K. Allison and W. Young was withdrawn.

William Young and Keith Allison, on a charge of breaking and entering, were remanded for sentence until January 23. They will receive their sentence in Belleville.

Cecil Green and John Martin, on a charge of theft, and E. Beauchesne on a charge of possession of stolen goods, had their cases enlarged to January 20th in Deseronto Police Court.

A. Kimmerly, appearing on a charge laid by the RCMP of failing to file income tax return, was fined a total of $55.50.

Full Agenda For Members Of Town Council

DESERONTO — All members of the Town Council were present for the first regular meeting which was held in the town hall on Monday night.

In the correspondence read was a letter from the residents of North Brant Street requesting that a street light be placed on that street. The letter was referred to the streets committee with power to act. The Public Utilities informed the council that the town was responsible for the removal of trees held to be dangerous and informed the council that they would be held responsible for any damage caused the power lines by the falling of trees.

Council granted the request of the firemen to be paid once a year instead of monthly. A number of hospitals accounts caused some discussion with the result that some were paid and some refused. During one of the votes a short skirmish took place between the mayor and councillor Marks, when the mayor took the councillor to task for not casting a vote. For the information of the new members of the council the mayor read the Rules of Order the ruling to the effect that each councillor must vote either for or against each motion. On a second vote on the question all members voted.

APPOINTMENTS MADE

J. W. Spence was appointed to the Board of Health to replace A. Lord; J. S. White was appointed to the Library Board to replace Mrs. C. J. Brennan and the Rev. C. W. Neelands was reappointed for three years. S. Wessman and O. Fitchett were reappointed to the Cemetery Board for two years and T. W. Jackson was appointed for one year. A special meeting of the Court of Revision was set for Feb. 4th at 8.00 p.m. There was some discussion regarding an advertising folder for the town and the publicity committee were appointed to investigate and report at the next meeting.

After some consideration of the problems of the Streets Department, Council decided to call for tenders for the collection of the garbage so that the town truck could spend the full week on the streets. Reeve Walker then addressed council on the advantages of two meetings each month and after polling an opinion of the council the motion was passed. In future the council will meet on the first and third Mondays of each month with the exception of the summer months.

WILL CLEAR POND

On the question of sports for the youngsters of the town, several opinions were brought forward but council decided to leave the matter with the Chamber of Commerce and to give that body their support. On the suggestion of councillor Neal the town will clear a rink on the Mill Pond for the youngsters to use for skating.

J. D. Dawson addressed council regarding the yacht basin he is constructing on the bay front. This basin will accommodate fifty yachts and there will be [illegible] feet of docking space for transient craft. He asked the council to give consideration to supplying light and water facilities for the dock. The matter was referred to the industrial committee to investigate and report.

On the recommendation of the mayor the council passed a motion giving approval to the March of Dimes campaign.

There was a slight flurry over the painting of the town hall. The contract for this work was let last summer but the work is only now being done and members of the council felt that it was a waste of money. A chairman of the property committee Councillor Neal felt it was not his responsibility as he had nothing to do with letting of the contract. It was finally left to him to have the painting deferred until warmer weather.

WILL TRADE CAR

In view of the fact that the insurance adjusters had made a satisfactory adjustment on the damage to the town police cruiser council decided to call for tenders for a new police car. The successful tenderer is to take as part payment the present police car as is.

Councillor Neal brought to the attention of the council the condition of one of the tires on the tractor and was advised that the purchase of a new tire was the decision of his department. F. J. Toppine addressed the council regarding the stand of the Public Utilities on the question of dangerous trees.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was reeding a book after dinner, and she said to pop, Guess what I'm reeding, William?

Another merder mistery, pop said, and ma said, You couldn't be more mistaken. I'm reeding a sycology book that Maud Hews lent me. It's called You Are What Your Habits Make You, and it's true, William. We are just bundles of habits, and there's no use trying to change them by making good resolutions, because our habits are stronger than we are. There's only one way we can possibly change our ways, and that is to form new habits to take the place of the old ones, she said.

By gollies that's good sound sycology pop said, and ma said, I think so too, and that's the method I'm going to use.

What habit are you trying to brake away from? pop said, and ma said, The habit of spending too mutch money. It's eazy to see how I fell into the habit when you realize the fassination of being able to get a whole armful of luxuries in exchange for one light bill that I can hold between 2 fingers without even feeling it, she said.

Have you fixed up some new habit of holding your money to make it harder to let go of? pop said, and ma said, No, I've thought of a habit of not holding it at all. I'm going to open charge accounts in every available store, so all the money that changes hands will be in the form of checks, she said.

Yee gods, that's jumping from the frying pan into bankrupsy, pop said, and ma said, Not at all, William, you know how I hate the bother of making out checks, so it wont be any time before my buying habits are compleetly reversed, she said.

Not being the end, on account of pop thinking diffrent.

Accidents Levy Serious Impost On Farm Incomes

TORONTO — Thousands of dollars in both time and money, to say nothing of physical suffering, is lost to the farm economy of Ontario each year as the result of accidents that could have been prevented according to reports reaching the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Frequency of farm accidents is such that farm workers have a higher accident rate than industrial workers, a fact which should make the farm worker resolve to take remedial steps without delay.

Many mishaps around farm buildings are caused by dangerous stairways and ladders. Many a slip resulting in more serious injury than might occur between cup and lip has been caused by hay, leaves and dirt being allowed to accumulate on stairs. Broken legs frequently result from falls caused by ladders having loose rungs.

Farmers are frequently injured by falling through open feed chutes, a type of accident readily prevented by building trap doors or covered chutes at the edge of the mow to handle hay and straw with safety.

Electrical hazards on the farm are continually increasing as more and more uses are found for this convenience commodity. It goes without saying — or should — that electric wiring and equipment need to be checked periodically and kept in good condition. Fire and shock hazards are created by carelessness, lack of maintenance and ignorance. The increased use of heat lamps for brooding poultry and hogs has added another serious fire hazard around the farm. Such lamps should be suspended by a chain and placed no closer than 12 inches from the litter. Light bulbs in hay-mows and granaries need to be equipped with dust-tight globes to prevent fires. Similarly, an accumulation of dust in the windings of electric motors will cause heating and eventually burn out the motor. More sensitive to electricity than humans, live stock are frequently found dead in their stalls as the result of electric shock.

In Ontario farm buildings must have three-prong, ground-type convenience outlets and all portable equipment should be provided with three-wire cords and plugs. This feature of insurance against shock hazards is all too frequently ignored.

The fire hazard can be reduced by locating new buildings at least a hundred and fifty feet from existing structures and never in line with them, so that in the unhappy event of fire, flames cannot sweep from one building to the next.

CITIZENS FORM CO-OP TO OPERATE TOWN INDUSTRY

In Tilbury, Ont., citizens are trying to raise $1,000,000 among themselves to buy out the one major industry in the town and keep it operating. The industry is the Chatco Steel Products, which went into receivership last year and is now operated by a trust company. Employees of the company and other citizens have formed a co-operative to finance and operate Chatco, and they will bid for ownership as soon as they have collected enough funds. Russell Setterington, left, Bruno Bedard and Dr. Ernest Sparling were elected directors of the co-op and they are selling shares in $200 lots.

CLAIMS HE WAS JAILED FOR WEEK ON FALSE CHARGE

In a civil action suit brought against his wife and five others, William I. Kennedy testified in court in Owen Sound, Ont., that he had been arrested on May 22, 1957 and charged with vagrancy. He said that $237 which he carried with him was taken from him by guards at the Walkerton jail and that he was held for a week without opportunity to put up bail.

TWEED

Kinette Club Enjoys Chicken Dinner, Slides

TWEED — The Tweed Kinette club held its regular meeting at the Tweedsmuir Hotel Monday evening, with the president, Mrs. Pauline Hughes, and 19 members present.

Following a chicken dinner, Mrs. Ann Way showed colored slides of her trip across Canada, and Mrs. Jean Belch showed slides of her recent trip through Europe. The films were presented by Mrs. Sue Cotton.

The president extended thanks on behalf of the club to Mrs. Mary Bancroft, convener of the Snow Queen float in the Tweed Santa Claus parade last month.

A general meeting was held, during which members voted to pay the room and board for three students taking the swimming course sponsored by the Canadian Red Cross at Albert College, Belleville, during Easter week. The club hopes to send at least two delegates to a recreation meeting to be held in Trenton, January 25.

Reports were read concerning the presentation of much-needed articles to needy families, and plans were formulated to help others in the near future.

HUNGARIAN FAMILY IN TEARS

Mrs. Julia Farkas is shown with her three children, Pumde, two; Hajnalka, eight, and Atila, six, at the hostel where they and seven other Hungarians found refuge after they entered Britain illegally and were ordered deported. They stowed away on a Britain-bound ship but were caught on arrival in England. They were to have been deported on the same ship, the Monarch of Bermuda, but the liner had already left when they arrived at the docks. Mrs. Farkas and the children have now been allowed to stay in England until Mrs. Farkas has the baby she is expecting. The others will be deported, Mrs. Farkas' husband included.

Farmer States Police Court Record Wrong

OWEN SOUND (CP) — A 46-year-old farmer Wednesday denied he pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy on which he was convicted last May.

An Ontario Supreme Court hearing was read what was called an official record of proceedings of the magistrate's court which heard the vagrancy charge against William Lyle Kennedy.

Russel McAvoy, then Kennedy's counsel, was quoted as saying:

"We plead guilty and offer no defence or explanation for we do not want to aggravate matters."

Kennedy, who has brought a series of actions as a result of his arrest and conviction testified Wednesday, McAvoy "said no such thing."

Elmer Best, who testified he was at the trial last May, said Kennedy nad pleaded not guilty.

Best said he could not remember what charge was read at that time or whether a court reporter was present.

Earlier in the trial Wednesday Kennedy's lawyer, Lewis Duncan of Toronto, agreed to the dismissal of an action for conspiracy against Kennedy's wife, Isabel. Defence lawyer John Brooke of Toronto, contended a man cannot sue his wife for conspiracy.

Action against Mrs. Kennedy's Port Algin lawyer Roy Tomlinson are still before the court. Kennedy says they owe him money from the sale of a farm

He is also suing Constable Ivan Wade of the provincial police for false arrest and malicious prosecution, Magistrate O. C McClevis for false imprisonment and acting without proper jurisdiction, and Crown Attorney J. W. Freeborn of Bruce County.

ARTIST DIES

ABINGDON, Eng. (Reuters)—Robert Gibbons, bearded Irish author and artist, has died near here at the age of 68. He claimed to be the first artist to make pencil drawings under the sea. In 1938 he drew on roughened celluloid sheets 20 feet under water. He also found fame as a sculptor and wood engraver.

STIRLING

Recent Bride Honored by 33 Friends

STIRLING — On Saturday evening Mrs. Glenn Morrow, of Stirling R.R. 4, entertained 33 of the River Valley folk in honor of a recent bride, Mrs. George Harris (nee Enid Coombes.) This included Mrs. Morrow's two sisters, Isobel of Brampton, and Laureen of Bancroft.

The home was decorated with pink and white streamers and wedding bells.

The program opened with a poem, "Wedding Bells," read by Miss Elaine Lindenfield, and Mrs. Ernest Carr read an appropriate selection.

Miss Isobel Archdeacon, of Brampton, contributed a vocal selection and played her own accompaniment. Miss Marilyn Conley rendered a piano solo Four Morrow sisters, Misses Helen, Margaret, Lois and Ruth sang with the former as accompanist. Mrs. J. R. Donohoe conducted a novel clothespin contest, entitled "Blue Monday," on which each guest wrote "advice to the bride."

At the close the honored guest was presented with the pins complete with clothespin bag.

Mrs. Donohoe then conducted an outdoor game contest and the winners were Mrs. R. Coombes, Miss Betty Hanna and Miss Greta de Jong.

Miss Helen Morrow read an address of appreciation and the bride was the recipient of a large array of linen gifts. Enid voiced thanks for the lovely gifts after which delectable refreshments were served. A humorous story "All About the Bride," was then read and caused a lot of merriment.

Swift's Layers

. . . every pullet picked to lay

Every Swift's layer chick has high egg production in its future. As surely as science and the human eye can make it . . . every pullet is picked to lay!

Before leaving the hatchery, each bird is individually checked for vigour and sound condition. It's examined just after it comes out of the incubator . . . again when it's boxed for delivery. The chicks you buy from Swift have to be good!

* For example—in tests during 1956-57, Swift's new Sky-Hi 314A averaged 289.8 eggs per hen, had less than 2% mortality to 17 months of age, and showed a feed efficiency of 3.83 lbs. of feed per dozen eggs. The nearest competitive layer in the test averaged 18.2 eggs less than the Sky-Hi 314A.

Truly, Swift's layers are the Pick of the Nation's Bloodlines!

You can get Swift's fine chicks at:

Nanjo Singh Charged With Wife Murder

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police Wednesday charged Nanjo Singh, 49, with the murder of his wife, whose battered body was found on the kitchen floor of their apartment.

Singh, a former professional wrestler who once carried on a prolonged battle with Whipper Billy Watson of Toronto for the British Empire Championship told police he discovered the body of his wife, Betty, 37, Tuesday after he awoke in their apartment. The dwelling is located above a taproom which Singh operates.

At a hearing Wednesday, police testified Singh's underclothing was bloodstained.

On the Tracks

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Jockey Ray Broussard rode five straight winners Wednesday at the Fair Grounds track in New Orleans to boost his total for the meeting to 53.

Broussard, the leading jockey of the season, won on Bubble Fame ($8.60) in the first race, Capital Ace ($6.20) in the third, I Step ($2.80) in the fourth, Little Hunk ($3) in the fifth and Change Girl ($7.20) in the sixth. He had no mount in the second.

TORONTO (CP) — Race-goers here will have 12 days this summer during which they can watch flat racing at New Woodbine in the afternoon and trots at the Old Woodbine track in the evening.

Dates announced Wednesday by the Ontario racing commission show the schedule for both tracks overlaps from July 1 to July 12 inclusive. New Woodbine will open June 2 and run until July 12. The trotters will perform for 50 days between July 1 to Aug. 27 at Old Woodbine.

The federal department of agriculture has approved dates for only the first four thoroughbred meetings of the Ontario Jockey Club. Racing season at Fort Erie begins April 7 and ends May 3.

Chevies Whip Baby Habs 7-5, Wolves Defeat Trappers 5-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sudbury Wolves, with eight wins in 12 games since Coach John (Peanuts) O'Flaherty joined them, have jumped out of the OHA-NOHA Senior A cellar and into a fifth place tie with North Bay Trappers.

A 5-2 win Wednesday over the Trappers, beaten 2-1 by Sudbury Tuesday, was the Wolves' third straight victory and fifth in six games—the best streak the team has managed this season.

At Chatham, the Maroons were beaten 5-1 by Windsor Bulldogs and dropped into fourth place. The Bulldogs remain in third.

In the OHA Eastern Senior A series Cornwall Chevies defeated Ottawa-Hull Canadiens 7-5.

Nick Tomiuk, succeeded by O'Flaherty as Sudbury coach, scored two goals against North Bay. Bobby Forhan, Jim Logan and Frank O'Grady added the others for Wolves. Chico Cabana and George Gosselin scored for the Trappers.

LAST-MINUTE SCORE

Only a last - minute goal by Chatham's Jim Connelly stopped Windsor netminder Marv Edwards' shutout bid. Bulldog scorers were Frank Bathgate, Lou Bendo, Mickey Roth, Walt Pawlyshyn and Wally Maxwell.

Moe Savard fired three goals in leading Cornwall to victory over the Canadiens. Guy Henri, Ray Labelle, Reg Grigg and George Aitken scored the other Cornwall goals.

For Ottawa, Bob Rousseau counted two, singles going to Ralph Backstrom, John Annable and Terry Gray.

DEFEAT SCOTS CURLERS

TORONTO (CP)—A team of Canadian women from various Ontario clubs defeated a touring Scottish women's team 48-42 Wednesday in two six-end curling matches. The Canadians won the first half 27-21 and the teams tied 21-21 in the second. The Scots, who have played 15 exhibition games in Canada, lead 267-238. They left Wednesday for Niagara Falls, Ont.

Hockey's Big Seven

Russ Invite U.S. Track Team

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio said Wednesday Russia has invited a United States track and field team to compete in a big international meet in Moscow July 5 and 6.

The broadcast said 300 top athletes will take part in the meet. Moscow radio also said Russia will enter the European track and field championships in Stockholm, Aug. 19-24.

In New York, Daniel J. Ferris, chairman of the Amateur Athletic Union's foreign relations committee, said the AAU has not received the invitation but negotiations are under way for a U.S.-Russia dual match in Moscow. He said the AAU would be interested in competing in the international meet.

APPOINTS SCOUT

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League western division announced Wednesday the appointment of Ernie Churchhouse of Hamilton as scout in Hamilton and Niagara Peninsula.

Mims, Boyd Fight to Draw

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The stage was set today for a rematch between Holly Mims, veteran Washington scrapper, and Bobby Boyd, lanky puncher from Chicago, to decide just which is the better of these two mediocre middleweights.

Mims and Boyd fought to a draw Wednesday night.

Neither fighter was badly damaged in the 10-round scrap that saw Boyd hit the canvas midway the eighth round after a solid right to the chin.

Mims, who weighed 156 to Boyd's 161½, crouched and ducked and tied up his taller foe with arm locks that kept referee Eddie Coachman busy separating them throughout the fight.

Giants Have Biggest Advance Sale in History

NEW YORK (AP) — Flushed with the largest advance sale in giants' history, Horace Stoneham Wednesday promised San Francisco baseball fans a "highly improved ball club" led by Willie Mays and backed up by two power-hitting youngsters.

"Everyone knows that Mays carried our club during the last few seasons in New York," said the Giants' president. "This year (manager) Bill Rigney's chief concern will be to line up some guys who can help Willie out.

"We think we have the men in Orlando Cepeda and Willie Kirkland. We're giving the first base job to Cepeda right off the bat and Kirkland, if he hits the way we think he can, will start in the outfield."

Cepeda, 20-year-old Puerto Rican, batted .309 with 25 home runs for Minneapolis last season. Kirkland, in the army in 1957, stroked 37 homers for Minneapolis in 1956.

Broken Ankle Will Not Affect Williams' Career

BOSTON (AP)—Ted Williams and two prominent doctors have quashed reports that the 39-year-old Boston Red Sox slugger's baseball career is endangered by broken ankle bones.

Williams told Boston sports writers by telephoning from his Florida home Wednesday that he sprained the ankle on a fishing trip in Labrador last fall but he denied any bones were broken.

His comments were in reply to a report in the Boston Traveler that his future baseball status was "in jeopardy" because of two small broken bones in his right ankle.

The 1957 American League batting king said the ankle is still sore but he expects to be ready for the 1958 season.

Ted was backed up by Drs George Bennett of Baltimore and Russell Sullivan of Boston who viewed x-rays of the ankle.

"LOT OF NONSENSE"

"The x-rays are all right, and as for Ted's career being endangered, that's a lot of nonsense," said Dr. Sullivan who treated Williams for a shoulder separation in spring training in 1954.

Dr. Bennett, a Johns Hopkins Hospital staff member and friend of Williams, said there was no break, but the x-rays did show "real small pieces of bone—not big enough to be really called chips."

He said the tiny splinters probably have been in the ankle for years and won't bother Williams' play.

Americans Note Soccer Upsurge In Colleges

NEW YORK (AP)—A big upsurge in soccer, especially in schools and colleges, may return the booting game to the heyday of some 30 years ago.

With approval of the National College Athletic Association, a playoff tournament to determine a national champion will be held next season.

More than 200 colleges, many of which dropped football, now are fielding soccer teams on a varsity basis.

The sponsoring of junior soccer clubs in such centres as New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, New England and St. Louis also has helped develop the game.

In New York there are about 50 teams participating in regular junior, juvenile and boys' competition. Soccer teams at New York City high schools far outnumber those with football teams.

The 1957-58 competition for the national challenge cup, open to professional and amateur teams, drew a record entry of 148 clubs, breaking the old mark of 139 set in 1939. There were 170 entries for the national amateur cup, five fewer than the record number in 1946-47.

KLU BETTER

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirates said Wednesday a physical examination of first baseman Ted Kluszewski shows he has made "good progress towards recovery from his slipped disc."

Marlene Good For Ninth Spot

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Barbara Romack Porter of Sacramento, Calif., matched women's par with a 76 Wednesday to capture medalist honors in the qualifying round of the annual Helen Lee Doherty Challenge Cup golf tournament.

While damp greens and a stiff wind sent other scores soaring, Mrs. Porter had 38-38 to win the medal by three strokes over a trio of other women, Joanne Goodwin of Haver Hill, Mass., who won the tourney in 1956; Grace DeMoss of St. Augustine, Fla., and Barbara McIntire of Lake Park, Fla.

Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto had 43-40—83, good for ninth place.

Brawl Features Wrestling Bout; Two Injured

NEW YORK (AP)—Two men were injured and the management of the St. Nicks Arena was given a summons Wednesday night following a series of fights which broke out among the spectators during a tag wrestling match.

The two men were treated at a nearby hospital and sent home. Police gave a summons to the arena management for permitting a disorderly disturbance on a licensed premise.

The trouble started after Chris and John Tolas, brothers from Canada, had wrestled Pat O'Conner and Chief Red Cloud for about 12 minutes. Each had one fall.

Booing, stamping, whistling and shouting started when one of the Tolas brothers apparently pushed his hand and fingers in the Chief's face. The disturbance quickly turned into numerous individual fights among the crowd, estimated at about 2,000.

By the time six radio cars and an ambulance had answered the call for help, 15 minutes later, the fighting was over. Police Sgt. Salvatore Yannotti said he gave the summons to the area because the management didn't call police quickly enough.

It was the second time within two months that police were called in to quell a disturbance at a wrestling match in New York.

Carmen, 'Sugar' Sign Today For Big Fight

CHICAGO (AP) — Champion Carmen Basilio and Sugar Ray Robinson are to sign formally today for their March 25 middleweight title fight here.

The rematch, which will mark the fifth time the 37-year-old Robinson will fight for the 160-pound crown, is being heralded by the International Boxing Club as a million-dollar show.

Basilio, who lifted the middleweight crown from Robinson on a split decision Sept. 23 in Yankee Stadium, will get 30 per cent of the proceeds. So will Robinson. Each expects to pocket nearly $262,000.

Meanwhile, Sugar Ray is beset with debt and managerial law suits. And the U.S. government has tied up almost $400,000 of Robinson's purse for the last Basilio fight for anticipatory taxes.

Norris Urges Action in Heavy Ranks

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Norris, president of the International champion Floyd Patterson's manager to "fight for any promoter, but let's get the heavyweight division activated again."

The IBC and Patterson's manager Cus d'Amato, long have been at odds, although Norris says any grievance has been imaginary on d'Amato's part.

"D'Amato says he won't do business with the IBC because we failed to live up to an agreement to get bouts for some of his preliminary fighters," said Norris.

"I thought I straightened that out after Patterson defeated Archie Moore for the heavyweight title. But I suspect this attitude of d'Amato's all was planned and if it wasn't that point he would have picked another argument to back away."

Aussie Won't Fight Akins

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Australian George Barnes, contender for the world welterweight boxing title, said today International Boxing Club officials could forget about an offer being made to him to meet Virgil Akins in world title elimination in New York March 7 or 14.

Barnes said: "They can forget it. They have no money there for me. They would pay my plane transportation, but I would have to meet my own expenses. These might run into a lot of money."

Big Field To Compete In Swim Meet

HAMILTON (CP)—More than 200 Canadian and United States swimmers will compete Saturday in Hamilton's annual "all-star" meet.

Joe Alkire of San Diego, Calif., 16-year - old protege of former Olympic swimmer and movie star Johnny Weismuller, heads the list of United States entries. Alkire currently holds U.S. freestyle records from 40 to 100 yards. Several Canadian record-holders also are expected to compete.

George Park of Hamilton holds the Canadian 100-yard freestyle mark while Brantford's 16-year-old Sara Barber holds Canadian records in freestyle, backstroke and butterfly events.

OPEN LETTER TO PARENTS

Dear Mom and Pop:

Starting Saturday, right across Canada, kids and adults will celebrate "Minor Hockey Week in Canada."

Just like kids all over the country, we in our town will be holding special events. It's our way of telling everyone that minor hockey is doing a lot to make us better citizens . . . and better Canadians.

Minor hockey teaches us that it takes teamwork to be really successful; it teaches us that just as in life rules can't be broken without paying a penalty; we learn the value of a healthy mind and body; we learn to lose as well as win, and we learn to have respect for people in authority. Oh, yes! All the time we're learning we're having fun.

We want you and everyone to know that a lot of swell fellows, young and old, are spending a lot of time and money so that we have the chance to learn these things. Gee whiz, us kids are lucky to have so many people working for us to organize, coach, manage, referee and provide money so that we can learn and have fun at the same time!

So you see we're really proud enough about our game of hockey to try to tell everyone about it. I guess that's what "Minor Hockey Week in Canada" is for. It gives us all a chance to learn more about minor hockey, and to appreciate what it is doing for kids like me.

Most likely you understand already but we need your help to tell everyone else. So, please, Mom and Pop, how about telling all your friends about minor hockey. Our manager says that every parent should take a real interest in what minor hockey is and what it does. We hope that when our special event comes off next week that you and all the rest of the folks in town will get behind us.

Our coach sez "Minor Hockey Builds Better Citizens," and us kids sure feel he's right! We hope you'll agree and support "Minor Hockey Week in Canada."

See you at the rink!

Love,

(Signed) JUNIOR

* * *

In Eastern Ontario minor hockey has made tremendous strides and is now providing healthful recreation and valuable training for an estimated 6,500 boys ranging in age from 7 to 18 years. In competition for Ontario titles there are some 45 teams east of Peterborough, while in local or town leagues an additional 4,000 boys are learning the basic skills of our winter game.

Eastern Ontario boys are fortunate in having interested and talented men to organize, supervise and finance their winter sport. Without the often unsung and unheralded services of hundreds of coaches, managers, referees and sponsors we would have no minor hockey for our youngsters. Minor hockey week offers the public an opportunity to find out just how much their boys are learning. Every adult who is interested in the future of their community should make it a point to attend a minor hockey game, we feel it would be an experience not soon to be forgotten.

Some of the more important principle which are stressed in minor hockey art: good living — a boy must be in good physical condition if he is to take part; respect for the rules and for those in authority—just as they will be expected to have respect for our laws and moral standards in later years; to learn that it takes teamwork, practice and ability to win . . and that it takes a real man to lose gracefully.

In eastern Ontario there are developing some of the best hockey teams in Canada both in senior and junior classes. The fans who crowd arenas to cheer the senior and junior teams should remember that the success of their teams in the future will depend greatly on the success of the youngsters of today. With the proper support and encouragement this area can produce some of our nation's best hockey players. Perhaps more important is the fact that we can also develop some of our greatest citizens.

The theme of this year's minor hockey week is "Take—Don't Send, Your Boy to a Minor Hockey Game." The kids are grateful for the support they receive, but it takes more than money can buy to see and understand that look on a boy's face when Mom and Pop are there to see him score his first goal. We will wager a good deal that if Pop ever catches that look in his son's eye, Dad will be a confirmed minor hockey fan.

Habs Blank Maple Leafs 2-0 With Goalies in Star Roles; Armstrong Talk Cost $75

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Jacques Plante and Ed Chadwick are a couple of goalies with popularity problems.

Plante is boosted by coach Hector (Toe) Blake of the Montreal Canadiens. But everywhere else around the National Hockey League he's simply a lot-of-luck guy playing behind the strong Montreal defence.

Chadwick has been eyed enviously by Boston Bruins and praised by other teams. The best he can get from Stafford Smythe, chairman of Toronto Maple Leafs hockey committee, is that he'd better produce like an all-star or join one of the other clubs.

However their teammates agree both are standouts in a tough profession.

That was the case Wednesday night as Montreal shaded Toronto 2-0, with Plante turning in his seventh shutout of the season.

STEWART'S SHOT HURTS

The 29-year - old Shawinigan Falls, Que., native stopped only 20 shots but they included sizzlers from Barry Cullen and a blast by Ron Stewart that forced him to retire for 10 minutes with a groin injury.

Chadwick made 26 saves, several of them spectacular, and the teams appeared to be on the way to a repeat of a scoreless game they played Dec. 4.

Then defenceman Bobby Baun got faked out of position by league - leading scorer Dickie Moore with less than six minutes left and Moore hit the corner with a backhand shot. It was his ninth goal this season against the Leafs and 25th of the year.

Montreal's Jean Beliveau wound up the scoring when he came in alone and casually faked Chadwick out of position.

Earlier the 24-year-old native of Fergus made spectacular stops on Marcel Bonin, Andre Pronovost and Dollard St. Laurent.

19 POINTS IN FRONT

The game was the only one scheduled and increased Montreal's lead over the second-place New York Rangers to 19 points. Toronto remained in a fourth-place tie with Boston Bruins four points behind Detroit Red Wings. Chicago Black Hawks are in last place three points back.

Referee Frank Udvari cracked down on arguing and Toronto's George Armstrong received a 10-minute misconduct for arguing and game misconduct for continuing the debate. He will pay $75 in fines.

Montreal's Bert Olmstead and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion each talked themselves into misconducts and $25 fines.

Plante, who has won the Vezina Trophy the last two years for allowing the least goals, is leading the Vezina race again and first in shutouts.

Quebec Hockey

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — A third-period goal by Jean Paul Denis gave the second - place Shawinigan Falls Cataracts a 2-1 victory over the tail-end Trois-Rivieres Lions Wednesday night in the Quebec Hockey League.

The winning goal came at 18:00 of the third, 10 minutes after Rollie LeClerc had squared the count 1-1 for the Lions.

Gene Mekilok of the Cataracts opened the scoring at 2:39 of the second period. Rollie LeClerc tied it up in the third.

Ed Johnston was spectacular for Shawinigan, turning aside 44 drives.

Dutra Takes Two-Stroke Lead In PGA Golf

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Mortie Dutra of Calexico, Calif., took a two-stroke lead in the annual U.S. PGA Seniors' golf championship with a three-under-par 69 Wednesday.

But with the huge field of 260 split into two sections, Dutra, 58, a former seniors champion, will not know until today whether he is the first - round leader. The golfers 55 and over played Wednesday; those 50 through 55 take over today.

Walter F. Hall of Hyannis, Mass., had a 71. He was the only other player to break par among the 110 who finished 18 holes Wednesday. William Lamb of Toronto led the Canadian contingent with 81. James Johnstone of Markham, Ont., had 83 and Mark Sandow of Midland, Ont., carded an 87.

With the split field it will take three more days to complete the first 36 holes.

Bisons Beaten By Springfield; Reds, Bears Tie

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Only five points separate the leading Hershey Bears and the second-place Cleveland Barons in the American Hockey League today but the big battle is a three-way affair for the fourth and last playoff position.

Following Springfield's 5-2 victory over Buffalo Wednesday night in one of the league's two games, the Bisons hold the fourth spot by a margin of only one point over deadlocked Rochester and Springfield.

In the circuit's other game, the Bears and Providence played a 2-2 overtime tie.

Playing coach Cal Gardner scored two goals for Springfield and assisted on another in the victory over Buffalo. Floyd Smith and Gerry Ehman were the other marksmen for the Indians. The Buffalo goals were by Pete Conacher and Don Ward.

At Hershey, Bruce Clint opened the scoring for Providence and Ed Stankiewicz and Willie Marshall shot the Bears into a 2-1 lead before Jim Larivee got the tying goal for Providence.

Yanks Hold Dunnies to Tie In Second Exhibition Game

ST. PAUL, Minn. (CP) — A United States national hockey team was tabbed today as one to watch in the coming world tournament in Oslo following its surprise 2-2 tie here Wednesday night with Whitby Dunlops, who will represent Canada in the world competition.

The Americans were cheered on by a crowd of 5,044 as they battled the Ontario team to a draw, holding the Dunlops scoreless for the first two periods. In the first meeting of the two-game series, at Hibbing, Minn., Tuesday night, the Canadians won 6-3 thanks to a 3-0 lead rung up in the first period.

Wren Blair, manager of the Whitby entry, said after Wednesday's game that "I am much more impressed with the U.S. team at this stage than I am with the Russians." He thought the Americans stand an "excellent chance against any of the top contenders at Oslo."

TO BE FEARED

"I consider the U.S. team 20 per cent better than the best senior A teams we have met in Ontario," Blair added. "This tie should convince Canadian fans that we have more to fear in the world tourney than just Russia."

Don Rigazio, star of the U.S. Olympic team in 1956, stood out for the Americans in goal, turning back all Whitby attempts until George Samolenko opened the scoring at 2:37 in the final period.

The U.S. team came back at 9:15 to tie it up when Johnny Mayasich beat John Henderson with a 35-foot shot. Connie Broden put the Canadians ahead at 12:05 but the U.S. tied it up, for good this time, a minute and a half later when Roger Christian scored while Whitby was shorthanded.

Each goalie stopped 33 shots. Eight penalties were handed out, six of them to Whitby.

SIX ON ROSTER

TORONTO (CP)—Six Canadian-born players were on the 39-player roster released today by Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League. The Canadians are lefthanded pitchers Jackie Bowes and Ron Stead, righthanders Paul Langlois and Bryant Wasdell, catcher Jim Baker and outfielder Lawson Mitchell.

January 25-February 1 Designated As Minor Hockey Week In Canada

Designed to Focus Attention On Advantages to Youngsters And Men Who Assist Them

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The week of January 25 - February 1 has been designated by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association as "Minor Hockey Week in Canada." The observance will take place from coast-to-coast.

In Ontario, the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, the largest of its kind in the world, in conjunction with the Ontario Hockey Association and the CAHA, is sponsoring the movement.

Its purpose is to focus attention on the physical and mental benefits of hockey for youth. By drawing public attention to these benefits, the parent organizations hope to develop more support for the valuable work being done by hundreds of coaches, managers, referees and others across the country.

It will stress the fact that hockey is recognized as a sport which teaches youth to develop competitive spirit, co-operation, body-building and respect for authority.

The Belleville Minor Hockey Association will observe "Minor Hockey Week" on Wednesday night, January 29, and Saturday morning, February 1.

FAITH IN BOYS

The men who carry out this work come from all walks of life in city, town, village and hamlet. They have two things in common, love of boys and interest in hockey. In many instances these men work long hours early and late, often at personal expense. These are the unsung heroes who have unbounded faith in the game they love.

Hockey is a second - nature sport to Canadian youngsters. Figuratively they're born with a stick in their hands, and teething on a puck. There is not a community across Canada that does not have a community centre, arena, open-air rink, a pond or "crick" on which Young Canada learns his favorite winter game.

Last May in Edmonton, the CAHA minor hockey chairman reported to the annual meeting that for the 1956-57 season there had been 81,500 players registered under CAHA rules and regulations.

This is only part of the story. There are many groups affiliated with or recognized by the CAHA which take care of thousands of youngsters. Principal among these is the Ontario Minor Hockey Association which administers to some 25,000 youngsters.

Taking into consideration all the groups and affiliated groups it would not be any exaggeration to say that nearly 200,000 Canadian lads are playing hockey under properly supervised conditions.

The same is true financially. The CAHA reports over $40,000 spent on minor hockey promotion last year. This figure however is but a small porton spent for the operation and promotion of minor hockey. Believe it or not the Ontario Minor Hockey Association spent an estimated $250,000 in its administration of hockey for the kids last season.

FIRM FOOTHOLD HERE

Closer at home, minor hockey now has a firm foothold in this part of Ontario (facetiously termed "Lower Canada" by OMHA wags from the jungles of other parts of the province). It Sam Curry, Tweed publisher and Sam Curry, Tweed published and sportsman took over the job of organization. Sam laid the foundation, started the building then handed the torch to an equally capable successor. Doug Patterson of Stirling. Around Peterborough way OMHA executive member Albert Watkin is doing yeoman services for the hockey moppets of his district.

Here in the city the Belleville Minor Hockey Association under the able guidance of president Mel Richards, vice presidents Bill Gault and Bill Brennan, treasurer Bill Hurst, secretary, Robert Smith, aided by Recreation Director "Red" Doran and assistant director Kay Homan, are doing splendid work in the administration of minor hockey.

The association takes care of 32 teams and roughly 1,000 boys. Classifications range from squirt to juvenile, inclusive. The conveners are squirt, Mel Richards; peewee, Harry Rollins; bantam, Neil Hallam: midget, Tim Williams; juvenile, Rob. Burrows.

Thousands of youngsters are registered with the OMHA in the Eastern Ontario district exclusive of Belleville. From Peterborough east to Gananoque some 6,500 boys are playing organized hockey. Sixty - four teams will take part in playoffs while 4,000 of this number are learning the game and what it represents under the aegis of Doug Patterson and his able assistants.

Here, too, labor the men who devote a lot of time to coaching, managing, organizing and financing hockey for the kids. The only reward they, like their counterparts in other parts of Canada ask, is the knowledge their efforts are helping to develop strong Canadian boys. They are the backbone of the OMHA and deserve the plaudits of every hockey-loving Canadian.

These include; — Bancroft, Ed Arbic, the Rev. S. Snowden; Cooper, Ross Rollins, John Thompson, Lorne Irwin; Campbellford, Jeff Mills, Geno Pace, Alex Rutherford; Frankford, Herb Rankin, James Howard; Hastings, Bob Scriver; Havelock, D. D. Kirk; Marmora, Charles Clemens, Charles O'Neill, Glen Lavender, Bill Lavender; Madoc, Doug Pigden, Harry Tufts, Ray Smith; Stirling, Doug Robson, Ken Gillies; Norwood, Gladwyn Irving; Tweed, Charles Lynch; Trenton, Marty Halloran, Charles Drake; Warkworth, W. J. Isaac; Wellington, Wilson Ainsworth; Warsaw, Mel Wood, Joe Watts.

The sprawling Eastern Ontario district is not as well blessed as yet, as its Western Ontario counterparts with regards to artificial ice facilities, lesser transportation costs etc. Yet "Lower Canada" has produced some splendid OMHA representatives, some champions, not a few, runners-up. However with artificial ice arenas opening all over the district it should not be too long before this section will be able to hold its own with those of other parts of the province.

While many tributes will be paid to the community men who have done and are doing, such a fine job for minor hockey, it should not be forgotten that all this would not have been possible without the outstanding efforts of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association and its down through the years capable executives.

The name of past president Jack Christie is synonymous with minor hockey and this good and faithful servant who toiled for years as secretary and two years as president, was not misnomered "Mr. Minor Hockey.

Many fine presidents have come and gone and each and all has rendered yeoman service with their executive bodies to the cause of minor hockey.

Labor Minister Unhappy at Way Figures Presented

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor minister Starr Wednesday criticized the publicly-owned CBC for the way it has presented government figures on unemployment in Canada.

It was his second criticism of jobless publicity in two days in the Commons.

Mr. Starr's complaint about the CBC was on the claim that this agency was using as the jobless figure the total of persons registered for work with the government's National Employment Service.

Mr. Starr announced to the house Monday that 796,371 persons were registered for work with the employment service at Jan. 9. On the same day, the bureau of statistics estimated persons without work and seeking jobs totalled 386,000 at mid-December.

NOT A GAUGE

Registrations with National Employment Service are not regarded as a gauge of absolute unemployment, since they contain a proportion—never estimated officially—of those shifting from one job to another.

"Once again it has been brought to my attention," Mr. Starr said today, "where the figures for registration at the National Employment Service are being used as the official government figure for jobless in Canada.

"The latest case was the case of the CBC, which recently has been using the figure of 796,000 as the official jobless figure . . .

"This figure has never been accepted as such, not by the previous government, not by the National Employment Service and not by the bureau of statistics.

"The official unemployment figure for Dec. 14, 1957, is 386,000, put out as such by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics."

A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC board of governors, had no comment on Mr. Starr's reference to the CBC.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was taking a Salturday walk with pop, and I said, G, pop, look, he's pritty near all the ways to the top and still going.

Meening a telefone repair man climbing a telephone pole, and I said, Gosh, pop, that's what I call grate, and everybody's walking past without even stopping to look at him.

It doesn't seem right, pop said. Our telefones ring faithfully all hours of the day and sometimes even wake us up at night, but when it occurs to us to feel thankful we feel thankful to Alexander Gram Bell and forget all about the brave repairman. He is really one of the unsung heroes of modern life, he said, and I said, That is what I want to be, pop, an unsung hero.

Sometimes they're the best kind, pop said, and I said, I want to be a stunt man in the movies, and do all the dangerous things the movie stars are suppose to be doing but aint. Like jumping on running horses and falling off again, and shooting rapids in a canoe, and rushing into berning bildings to rescue trapped gerls, and everything. And the movie stars will get all the credit and everybody will think they're grate, I said.

I congradulate you on your modesty, pop said, and I said, Sure, I can go to see the same movie a hunderd times and watch myself being grate, and I'll be the only one that knows it was me, I said. Oh boy, what a joke on everybody elts, I said.

Modesty modesty, what crimes are committed in thy name, pop said. You'd better put your mind on learning something that will bring credit where credit is due, like law or landscape gardening, he said.

Which maybe I will.

SEE WOMAN'S BODY

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The body of an unidentified woman was found Wednesday pinned to the undercarriage of an automobile. A passerby who saw the body stopped the car. Police said the woman apparently was dragged about 12 blocks. The driver told police he had no idea the woman was there. Police speculated the woman may have been struck by another car and then picked up by the second vehicle.

Briton to Help Russians Get Tennis Started

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russians, planning to make 1958 their big kickoff year in tennis, hope to net former amateur champion Fred Perry of Britain to get the ball rolling.

The Soviets seek Perry's help in organizing their first major international tennis tournament in Moscow this summer.

Victor Kollegorsky, head of the tennis section of the Soviet State committee for physical culture and sport, said Wednesday Perry has promised to help the Russians with their July 20 to 27 international tournament.

Baseball Moves Public Bribery Says Campbell

MONTREAL (CP) — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League Wednesday cited frequent "public bribery" by major league baseball teams as one of the worst of recent trends in sports promotion.

He said baseball clubs encourage bribery by promising to transfer franchises to cities where major league facilities were installed for them.

He cited Milwaukee, Kansas City and Los Angeles as cities that got major league teams by this arrangement. In most cases the taxpayers wind up bearing the costs of supporting the teams, Campbell said.

"In Kansas City a magnificent new stadium was built by a promoter who received the Philadelphia Athletics franchise," he told a service club luncheon.

"Later the promoter sold the stadium to the city of Kansas, took a lease on the brand new property and freed his working capital for other uses."

At the Park

"PAL JOEY"

A FILM OF DISTINCTION

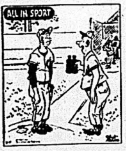
"Pal Joey," on the screen of the Park Theatre, is as much of a hit in its Technicolor motion picture version as it was on Broadway, or as a best-selling book.

Dazzling stars Rita Hayworth, Frank Sinatra and Kim Novak, a glittering score by Rodgers and Hart, and John O'Hara's exceptionally strong story and delightful characters, as produced on the stage by George Abbott, have all been combined by movie-wise director George Sidney in Columbia Pictures' "Pal Joey," for superb screen entertainment of the highest order.

Miss Hayworth has never had a more fascinating role as the ex-stripper turned socialite who falls hard for "Pal Joey," the night club entertainer played by Frank Sinatra. Miss Novak is seen as the young chorine who also attracts the interest of the egotistic "Pal Joey," but not to the point where Joey cannot take up with a wealthier romantic rival because she helps him in his night club career. As their romance progresses, Rita agrees to set him up in his own club, Chez Joey. But then Rita discovers, at pretty much the same time he does, that Sinatra's interest in the little blonde chorine is more than professional.

Miss Hayworth is superb in a role which requires her, among other audience-appealing elements, to sing and dance, do a pantomime strip and take a somewhat spectacular showerbath. Sinatra, who won an Academy Award for his acting in "From Here to Eternity," sings and dances to perfection here, and ideally portrays a gilt-edged heel with a heart of gold, in the course of his career as "Pal Joey." Miss Novak, Hollywood's newest success story, keeps a delightful pace with her fast-stepping co-stars. "Pal Joey" is perfectly cast.

Such songs as "Bewitched, Bothered and Bewildered," "I Didn't Know What Time It Was," "There's a Small Hotel," "The Lady Is a Tramp," "My Funny Valentine" and other Rodgers and Hart hits are heard in "Pal Joey," an Essex-George Sidney production. The film was written for the screen by Dorothy Kingsley and produced by Fred Kohlmar.



"Naw! I ain't gonna take you out, kid. Just brought you some glasses so you can watch the flight of the balls goin' out of the park!"

Karloff Switches His Role, First Monster, Now Master

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The laboratory looked familiar, but the monster was different. And — what's this? — Boris Karloff was playing the mad doctor.

As any student of the chiller movie knows, Karloff was the Christopher Columbus among monsters. He was the original in the 1931 trail blazer, Frankenstein, in which Colin Clive played the title role. (Don't fall into the common error of calling the monsters Frankenstein; that was the name of its creator.)

Now it's Karloff playing the title role in the futoristic Frankenstein 1970, so named to avoid confusion with the umpteen other Frankensteins.

The actor limped around his lab with fiendish glee as he experimented with his home-made monster.

"Lift your left arm," commanded Karloff, and the monster did so. It was a large one, played by six-foot-nine Mike Lane, and swathed in bandages like a mummy.

When the scene was over, Karloff resumed his identity as the urbane, English - born actor and sighed over his fate in motion pictures.

"Even though I have played all kinds of roles in television and on the stage," he said, "the producers here can think of me only in terms of so-called horror pictures. Mind you, an actor is lucky to be typed, but you would think that they'd realize I can do something else.

"I wouldn't think of playing a monster again. The monster was an interesting character at first. But then they reduced him to nothing but a stupid brute. No actor wants to play a stupid character.

"What they have done with these pictures is typical of Hollywood thinking. They have exploited them over and over again until the pictures mean nothing. Why, when they make something like Abbott and Costello Meet the Monster, yoh can see to what levels they have fallen. Not to mention this current one (I was a teen-age Frankenstein.)

Karloff feels that the "horror movie" cognomen is a mistake.

"The greatest writer in the field was Edgar Allen Poe," he remarked. "He called his stories tales of mystery and imagination. And that's what they should be: Something to stimulate the imagination. But that's not what you get in these 'horror movies' today."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, January 23

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—What a dreadful day of it you would have if you permitted that private anxiety to take hold of your mind to the exclusion of all else, and then have demands made upon your time and energy by loved ones! Replace worry with wisdom.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Here is a whale of a situation! Your ambitions are bent on fine, expensive things while you have so [illegible] dollars you could cry. O[illegible] opportunities will come. Stick to fundamentals, economize and find way to earn more quickly.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Betwixt and between a higher up and a partner. Should you say just one little word, either one would spring on you as the innocent bystander. Be wise, they are really enjoying the argument so be objective, aloof.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—Rather than use force to make partners do certain things that must be done, read up on efficient new ways that will make it possible for you to get them done personally. In this way, you avoid arguments, ulcers and they feel silly.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Develop the habit of enjoying the beautiful things in life that are free. Avoid free - spending, extravagant individuals who get nothing but the chaff at high price. Free concerts, art exhibits, lectures are all around you. Enjoy them!

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Closest ties, relatives and outsiders disagree on just about everything today. Planetary influences are in scattered directions, so keep them apart. Go about your affairs seriously, keeping promises made, living and Golden Rule.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — If you are careless in any way, you could do many damaging little things today. Be on the safe side and get your writing out of the way, sticking to regular job, but make sure you are kind to others. Keep your head!

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to May 21)—Someone you love is piqued. Get back on his or her good side. Although there are important practical things to do, your mind isn't on them. So just be the good Samaritan today and see if you can't help that strange person a bit.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — How you would love to cut down some silly-acting individual today with your typical Sagittarius linguistic sword! Don't do it, for it would endanger your present security, that of family. Talk less, labor more instead.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Lest you get into one of those moods where you let your fertile mind wander at will and dream up all sorts of imaginative non-facts, it is wise you get much work done today, write letters, get files in order, etc. Be happy.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — A really fine and outspoken friend today will endeavor to give you some good ideas concerning your home, affairs, career, but they just do not fit the present situation. Thank him or her but do as you deem best.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Here is one of those days when some wily higher up, expert, would-be expert, tests your ability to take it, as it were. See that you remain undisturbed, without letting a nerve quiver. Then all is fine.

If your child is born today . . . The child born today is the type who attracts so many different things into his or her life that there seems to be an ever-changing pattern forming about this young life. So, be sure to early teach the wisdom of accepting any conditions that may arise clear out of the blue. And if things do not always work out as anticipated, know that it is for gaining greater knowledge, success will come in the end.

REBEL LEADER HOLDS COURT

Emboldened by success, insurgent columns of Cuban rebel leader Fidel Castro have recently left their remote hiding places to strike at the sugar port of Manzanillo and lay waste to rice and sugar plantations in Oriente province. Castro (wearing eyeglasses), 31, whose rebellion is aimed at President Fulgencio Batista, is shown in his Sierra Maestra mountain headquarters as he questioned a bandit chief accused of pillaging a town. Castro says that he does not seek presidency.

SAY EMERGENCY

VANCOUVER, (CP)—The British Columbia Federation of Labor has asked Premier Bennett to declare a state of emergency and call a conference of municipalities on the unemployment situation, says federation Secretary George Home. He suggested at a Vancouver Labor Council meeting Tuesday night that labor and management send briefs to such a conference.

ROMANOFF FORTUNE CLAIMED BY WOMAN

The mystery of the Grand Duchess Anastasia, youngest daughter of Czar Nicholas of Russia, massacred with his family by the Reds in 1918, remains unsolved despite years of litigation in which Mrs. Anna Anderson, of Athens, Greece, has tried to prove she is in reality the grand duchess and entitled to the Romanoff fortune. A new development in the case came when a Greek grocer Anestic Tastanides produced this photograph which he claims was given to him in 1927 by a girl brought to him by the Russian monarchist underground at his home near Yalta. The monarchists did not say who the girl was but asked him to hide her until further notice. Shortly before they came back to take her away, the grocer claims, the girl confided to him that she was really Anastasia and gave him the phtotgraph. He kept all this secret in fear of Red reprisals but is telling the story now in the hope it may shed some light on the trial now underway in Athens.

HOUSE DEBATE

"The farmers of Western Canada are sick to death of political prices," Mr. Argue said.

MOVED AMENDMENT

There is likely to be more of this as the debate continues today. The CCF has moved an amendment which would kill the bill this session and refer the whole question to the Commons agriculture committee.

There were other skirmishes Wednesday.

Auguste Maltais (L — Charlevoix) said there appears to be a "conspiracy of silence" on the measure among Quebec Progressive Conservatives.

Roland English (PC — Gaspe) objected, saying that he spoke earlier in the debate.

"Well," replied Mr. Maltais in French, "if he had spoken louder he would have been heard."

He described the measure as "straight plagiarism" of existing price support legislation enacted in 1944 under a Liberal government, and accused Mr. Harkness of fearing to tread new paths by adjusting prices to production costs rather than to market prices.

"SHABBY PERFORMANCE"

Walter Tucker (L — Kosthern), a leading farm spokesman for his party, described the bill as "a 'shabby performance'" that does not give western farmers the same possible assistance on oats and barley as existing legislation He said he will vote against it.

The bill would allow the minister to set price supports for all farm products, except grains handled by the Canadian wheat board. It would provide a minimum floor of 80 per cent of the 10-year average price on nine specific commodities Cattle, hogs, sheep, butter, cheese, eggs and non-Prairie wheat, oats and barley.

Mr. Tucker's statement appeared to strengthen speculation that the Liberal Opposition, which so far this session has supported all government legislation, may bolt on the farm bill.

Marvin Howe (PC—Wellington Huron) said the bill "will do more for Canadian farmers than any other single bill introduced in Parliament for many years."

Clarence Milligan (PC—Prince Edward-Lennox) said there has been a tendency among opposition members to mislead farmers as to the effect of the legislation, but after explaining it to farmers in his Ontario constituency he had found they were all "quite satisfied."

GAS, INDIGESTION, HEADACHES
"FULL OF ACHES AND PAINS"

Had No Pep; Nerves On Edge; Tells of Real Relief by Taking Syntona.

"After the good results I got by taking Syntona I would recommend this medicine to anyone suffering as I did", said Mr. Ernest Fisher, 55 Brock Street, Woodstock, Ontario.

"I was rundown, always feeling tired out and full of aches and pains. Food that I ate gave me indigestion, gas and heartburn.

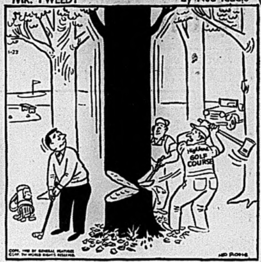
"I had tried a number of other things but nothing ever helped me the way Syntona did. It relieved the sour stomach, indigestion, gassy distress and heartburn so that I enjoy my meals. Now I don't have that nervous feeling, headaches are gone and backache and rheumatic pains are also relieved."

Has Helped Thousands

Syntona has helped so many people that anyone suffering like this should surely try it. In addition to helping the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, Syntona acts as a tonic. It is pleasant to take and the results are quickly felt.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

MR. TWEEDY by Ned Riddle



"Go right ahead, sir, don't let us bother you."

TELLS ROBBER: "DON'T BE SILLY"

When a youth confronted Mrs. Marjorie Sanford, teller in a Toronto bank, and demanded money after warning her not to sound an alarm, she said: "Don't be silly." Then she set off for the assistant manager's office to sound the alarm. The youth escaped into the crowd and police call Mrs. Sanford the bravest woman in the city.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Williams and daughters spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Williams.

Mrs. Carleton Wright is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Clarke Rodger is undergoing an operation on his knee in Belleville General Hospital this week.

Mrs. Will Fox has returned home from hospital. Mrs. Cyrus Summers is spending some time with her during her convalescence.

Mrs. N. Coombs, Friendship Link secretary of Abbott's Leigh, W.I., in Bristol, England, sent New Year's greeting on January 15th to the Friendship Link secretary of River Valley Women's Institute.

At the January meeting of Abbot's Leigh, the president, Mrs. Cottrell, asked Mrs. Coombs to convey the New Year's greetings of all their members to Canada and to express a special thank-you for the 1958 magazines which had been sent as a gift.

St. James CWL held a card party Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. S. Meeks with eight tables in play. The prize winners were: ladies' high, Mrs. J. R. Donohoe; second, Mrs. Thomas Hanna. Men's high, a tie of 84 points between Thomas Hanna and John Ryan; low, Mrs. Manson Farrell (playing as a man.) Refreshments were served at the close of euchre.

Miss Margaret Eggleton, of Beamsville, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eggleton.

River Valley W.I. Lampshade class convened last week at the home of Mrs. Vernon Harry.

The evening of January 20th the group met at the home of Mrs. Don Scott.

The newly elected officers of St. John's Ladies' Guild are:—President, Mrs. Burton Woodbeck; vice-president, Mrs. Hiram Rodgers; secretary, Mrs. Frank Harding; treasurer, Mrs. Melville Tanner; pianist, Mrs. Earl Morrow; quilt conveners, Mrs. Thos. Tanner and Mrs. S. Leonard; flower and gift convener, Mrs. Edgar Morrow.

REPORT UNION READY

CAIRO (Reuters) — Press reports here Wednesday night said President Nasser of Egypt and President Shukri el Kuwatly of Syria will make a "historic declaration or a federal union between their countries" next week. There was no official confirmation of the reports.

Believe Stassen May Convert Ike On Arms Issues

See Changes Possible In Disarmament Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is reported keeping the door open for possible changes in disarmament policy along lines recommended by Harold Stassen.

He is understood to have directed special United States government committees to check into the proposals which Stassen has been pushing as a new approach to renewed talks with the Russians. Disarmament discussions in London last year ended in a deadlock.

Stassen, a Minnesota Republican who now is White House disarmament adviser, has run into strong opposition from State Secretary Dulles. Dulles is said to regard many of Stassen's proposed changes as sensible, but has bitterly opposed Stassen's plea that the government soften its position on an end to atomic tests.

MAY SUCCEED

One official, who opposes many of Stassen's proposals, said Stassen might succeed in winning President Eisenhower's approval for up to 80 per cent of his suggested changes.

This official said Stassen might even succeed in persuading Eisenhower to modify to some extent the existing American insistence on an end to nuclear weapon production within two years as part of any agreement to end atomic testing. Stassen's plan called for ending the link between the two.

Stassen is understood to have won substantial support from a Jan. 13 meeting of the National Security Council at which his proposals were discussed.

He is reprted to have argued the administration must liberalize its proposals in anticipation of early disarmament talks—perhaps even on a high level—with the Soviet Union.

The need for added time to consider Stassens recommendations probably will rule out an earlier plan to call a meeting this month of the new 25-country United Nations disarmament commission. Many top state department officials had thought this the best way to test Soviet willingness to resume arms talks. talks.

List 17 Steps To Strengthen Defence of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seventeen ways to strengthen U.S. defences were outlined Thursday by the Senate preparedness subcommittee. The recommendations included a speeded-up missile program and re-organization of the defence department.

The subcommittee has spent more than 100 days inquiring into the U.S. defence situation in the light of recent Russian military-scientific successes.

Chairman Lyndon Johnson (Dem. Tex.) said the testimony by leading U.S. scientists and military men was that the Soviet Union now leads in the development of ballistic missiles and in numbers of submarines which can attack the U.S. with nuclear weapons.

LIST STEPS

Here are the 17 recommendations:

1. Modernize and strengthen strategic air force.
2. Step up dispersal of Strategic Air Command bases.
3. Put more effort into developing anti-missile missiles.
4. Improve early warning system for manned aircraft and accelerate development of early warning detection system for ballistic missiles.
5. Modernize and strengthen ground and naval forces.
6. Provide adequate airlift for ground troops.
7. Put more effort into submarine program.
8. Step up production of Atlas, Thor and Jupiter and accelerate the development of Titan (all ballistic missiles).
9. Reduce time in the development of weapons systems.
10. Provide for a freer system of exchange of technical and scientific information between free nations.
11. Start work at once on the development of a rocket motor with 1,000,000 pounds of thrust (enough to reach the moon).
12. Give serious consideration to the questions of shelters and stockpiles for civil defence.
13. Reorganize and strengthen defence department.
14. Provide increased incentive for retention of trained personnel in military services.
15. Accelerate and expand research and development programs.
16. Put more effort into the development of manned missiles.
17. Accelerate development of Polaris missile system.

On at least 10 of these points, the government already has made a start.

Hoffa Assumes Teamster Post In Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa took over as president of the giant teamsters union today on a compromise court settlement which wiped out charges that he had been elected by a rigged convention.

Hoffa will have to work for at least a year with a three-man board of monitors. He is under no obligation, under the settlement, to take any of their advice, but the board must report to the court which retained jurisdiction over the case.

Hoffa said the teamsters national executive board will meet here the first week in February to decide its stand on the AFL-CIO, which has expelled the teamsters on corruption charges.

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Skies are clear over most of Ontario today. Temperatures have moderated over Northern Ontario and milder weather is indicated for the entire province today and Saturday.

Deaf-Mute Girl Charged in Huge Cheque Forgery

TORONTO (CP) — The Telegram says an underworld group has established a clearing house to receive blank cheques stolen in break-ins.

The newspaper quotes a police source as saying the clearing house is the centre of a $1,000,000-a-year racket. It says the headquarters buys blank company cheques and cheque-writing machines stolen by burglars and distributes them to "passers," whose business is to cash the cheques.

The clearing house operators are said to encourage pickpockets to sell them authentic identification papers from stolen wallets. Identification is then provided the passers.

In one instance police found the cheque passers were using a young deaf mute girl to do the actual cashing. She was charged with uttering.

Huson Quits Pension Study Task, 4 Months Not Long Enough for Job

OTTAWA (CP) — Professor Gordon Huson of the University of Western Ontario has resigned from his assignment to carry out a government study of the United States social security system, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today.

The professor, who wrote to Mr. Diefenbaker that he could not carry out the task within the three to four months period set by the government, has been replaced by Prof. Robert M. Clark of the University of British Columbia.

Prof. Huson, appointed only [illegible] to make the study, was told in effect two days ago to step up his work. Mr. Diefenbaker—in commenting on a press conference statement in Ottawa by Prof. Huson that "at least a year" would be required—had told the Commons that the government hoped the delay would be no more than three or four months.

Reading the 44-year-old Prof. Huson's letter of resignation, received Thursday, the prime minister quoted him as saying:

"May I please be relieved of my assignment, as my university responsibilities must have first priority until May 1."

In view of the sense of urgency attached to the study, Mr. Diefenbaker said, the government "had no alternative but to accept the resignation."

CIVILIAN REBEL GROUP UNHAPPY WITH NEW REGIME

Venezuelan Junta Is Seeking Support

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Venezuela's new military rulers named a cabinet of civilian "technicians" Thursday night in an effort to win popular support.

But a civilian group which started the revolt that packed dictator Marcos Perez Juminez off to exile withheld support from the new regime.

The young civilian street fighters said they felt they were not getting recognition from the military junta which took over after Perez Jiminez fled Thursday. Although their intervention was the decisive factor, the military had not taken part in the general strike and fighting which led to the end of the 10-year dictatorship.

ASK ELECTIONS

The civilian group, representing political opinion from rightists to Communists, demanded formation of an interim national union government, general elections as soon as possible, freedom for political parties, guarantees of freedom of expression and arrest of "criminals" of the old regime.

The junta asked two civilians to join its membership, and more changes in its composition appeared a possibility.

However, its leader, Rear-Admiral Wolfgang Larrazabal, said his group would "act firmly . . . to avoid and wipe out any attempt to diminish its authority." The junta said it would hold free elections and restore constitutional liberties, but set no dates.

FIGHTING IS ENDED

Caracas meanwhile cleaned up the wreckage of fighting which ended Thursday afternoon with surrender of the last holdouts at secret police headquarters. Reports said 60 bodies were found in the building, about half of them believed to be those political prisoners held by the hated security forces.

A witness to the 10-hour siege of the headquarters by angry crowds said many of the prisoners were believed killed before the surviving police surrendered to army troops. Tanks protected the police from the aroused mobs, which ransacked the building and also attacked property of Jiminez cohorts at several other points in the city.

The junta ordered the freeing of political prisoners held on "unjust charges," and by Thursday night several hundred had been turned loose.

Ask Auto Union To Double Fund For Strike Use

DETROIT (AP) — A special convention of the United Auto Workers union was expected today to approve a $50,000,000 strike fund to back up demands to be made on the car manufacturers in 1958 bargaining talks.

Debate on a proposal to authorize increased assessments to build up the present $24,000,000 strike fund got under way Thursday after the convention overwhelmingly approved UAW President Walter P. Reuther's profit-sharing plan.

The union's international secretary-treasurer, Emil Mazey, outlined the strike-fund plan to the convention.

Special assessments of $5 a month, in addition to basic dues of $3 a month, to be levied during March, April and May, will raise an estimated $16,000,000, Mazey said.

MURDERED MAN FOUND IN COAL BIN

Search for William Perry, shown with his daughter Barbara 13 (above) ended when his body was found under a coal pile in the basement of his burned home. He had died of savage axe blows on his head. He had been missing for the four days that had elapsed since the fire in his home, the second in ten days.

Mrs. Mary Perry (left), estranged wife of the murdered man, said he suffered frequent blackouts and may have fallen into the coal bin. Police, however, say his death was caused by blows on his head.

Suspend Phone Rate Boost For Month, Pending Appeal

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet has suspended until March 1 a proposed telephone rate increase for Ontario and Quebec pending hearing of an appeal from municipalities, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today.

The increase authorized earlier this month by the board of transport commissioners was to have been effective Jan. 31.

It would have amounted to three per cent on the annual revenue of Bell Telephone Company, or about $10,000,000 a year.

The increase would have affected local and long distance telephone services within the two provinces. Various boosts were authorized for different types of services.

The appeal against the board judgment was taken to cabinet by 36 municipalities, including most of the major communities in the two provinces.

It was taken on the same ground as that upon which eight provincial governments—all except Ontario and Quebec — have appealed to the cabinet from a transport board decision last month awarding the railways a 3.6-per-cent increse in freight rates.

The freight rate boost was suspended by the cabinet Jan. 7 until at least March 1, pending hearing of the provincial appeal.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the Commons today the board-authorized phone increase is being suspended in a similar way because the same main principle is involved and the two cases should be considered together by the cabinet.

The issue is the board's decision to allow the phone company and the Canadian Pacific Railway to put money into a deferred income tax fund which could be employed for payment of income tax in future years.

Hundreds of Russian Subs Operating Off Coast of U.S.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Hundreds of Russian submarines, many armed with nuclear weapons, are operating off the United States' east coast, Robert Morris, chief counsel for the Senate internal securities subcommittee, said Thursday.

These vessels, he said, have been known to surface 100 miles offshore to sight potential targets by radar.

Morris said Russia now has 500 submarines, many of them equipped with nuclear weapons, compared to the 38 Germany had at the beginning of the Second World War.

In a recent statement in the Canadian House of Commons, Defence Minister Pearkes said it is known that Russia has "a considerable number of long-range submarines perhaps capable of launching missiles far from our shores at targets well inland."

There have been repeated reports of submarine sightings off the Canadian east coast, mostly by fishing craft. The navy has made no statement that its own ships have confirmed sighting foreign submarines.

Electronic Shield Protects Plane From Guided Missiles

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—An American supersonic bomber now flying can surround itself with a shield of electrons to ward off any attacking missiles.

The automatic defence system being built into Convair's new B-58 Hustler is one of the most spectacular applications of electronics in defence, Don G. Mitchell, president of Sylvania Electronic Products, said Thursday night.

"It has flown and it works," Mitchell told reporters.

The electron shield against guided or homing anti-aircraft missiles clearly will increase in important measure the attack effectiveness of manned supersonic bombers.

Until ballistic missiles now developing actually are proved as operational weapons, such manned aircraft as the B-58 will remain the major United States war weapon. How long that may be is not certain.

Sylvan in designed and developed the electronic counter-measure system for protecting the supersonic B-58—with an announced speed of 1,130 miles an tion.

A report on how it works and how it has been tested awaits security clearance. In essence, however, the shield system generates an electric-magnetic field aorund the aircraft that fouls up, disrupts and jams the guiding systems of approaching missiles.

The electronic shield systems are in production at Sylvania's Buffalo, N.Y. laboratory. Advance research and development were carried out at the company's electronic defence laboratories at Mountain View, Calif., and Waltham, Mass.

LIBERALS SUPPORT CONSERVATIVES TO REJECT MOTION

Join to Defeat CCF Effort to Kill Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—A final Commons decision was to be made today on the principle of the government's farm price stabilization bill.

A rambling debate on the measure came to a vote Thursday on a CCF motion that in effect would have killed the bill. All but three Liberals supported the Progressive Conservatives in rejecting the motion 130 to 39. Social Credit members supported the CCF.

Debate then continued until, with five minutes of the sitting to go, Agriculture Minister Douglas Harkness rose to close out the discussion. It has lasted intermittently since early last month.

The minister said CCF members have made many misstatements about the legislation, either through ignorance or for political purposes.

The Liberals, he said, claimed the bill was no improvement over existing price support legislation brought in by their former administration. Mr. Harkness said farmers do not agree with that view.

MAY BE MORE

No one was convinced that the last of the opposition criticism of the measure had been heard, although once the minister finished his speech today a vote would be taken on second reading—approval in principle.

Fred S. Zaplitny (CCF—Dauphin) offered to bet a bottle of milk — "at parity prices, too"—that Mr. Harkness would introduce further changes in the bill before it gets final approval in the Commons.

Mr. Harkness did not rise to the bait.

Main CCF and Social Credit opposition to the bill has been that it does not include a definite "parity" provision to relate support prices to production costs for agriculture products and prices of other commodities.

Hon. O. Gagnon, Finance Minister Of Que., Resigns

QUEBEC (CP)—Hon. Onesime Gagnon, 70, finance minister in Quebec's Union Nationale government since 1944, has resigned and will be called to "fill a high office," Premier Duplessis announced today.

Premier Duplessis' made the announcement in the legislative assembly. There has been widespread speculation that Mr. Gagnon will be appointed lieutenant-governor of Quebec. The appointment would be made by the federal government.

Eskimos in Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons Thursday applauded presence of six Eskimos in the gallery.

Northern Affairs Minister Hamilton said the six men are on their way to Great Whale River, Que., on the southeast shore of Hudson Bay, after taking a training course on heavy machinery.

It was the first time the men had seen the Commons in operation, Mr. Hamilton added to applause, "but I don't know what stage of evolution they think we're at."

Witness Slugs NBC Cameraman At Latest Scott Case Proceedings

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A witness and a newsreel cameraman got into a fist fight Thursday just before superior court opened a hearing on a report that L. Ewing Scott's missing wife was seen in Canada 18 months after she disappeared.

The court proceedings are preliminary to sentencing Scott to life imprisonment for murdering his wife.

The fight broke out when a seaman, Aloysius Mozier, waded into NBC cameraman Gene Barnes and sent him sprawling after photographers started taking pictures. Barnes jumped up and hit Mozier in the eye. Bailiffs separated them.

Mozier testified about an affidavit in which he claimed to have seen Mrs. Scott in Brantford, Ont., after the date the state charged she was slain by her husband.

Scott was convicted of murder although no body ever was found. He went to Canada after his wife's disappearance and returned to the U.S. last year. He was trying to re-enter Canada when he was arrested at Windsor.

Under cross-examination, Mozier said he had signed the affidavit in blank, leaving it to Scott's lawyer, P. Basil Lambros, to fill in the substance of his story. Mozier said Lambros later read the affidavit over the phone and he pronounced it accurate.

Are Years Away From Harnessing H-Bomb's Power

Britain and U.S. Both Report 'Fruitful' Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain and the United States reported today that both have achieved "fruitful and promising results" in experiments aimed at harnessing the H-bomb reaction to produce industrial electric power.

But both countries, in simultaneous statements, made it clear that attainment of such an objective is many years away.

At the same time, Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said the scientific reports released today by the two countries show that "certain comparative observations which have been published in recent weeks about British and U.S. progress in this field . . . have been not only misleading but lacking in any foundation of fact."

DENIES SUPPRESSING IT

Strauss' statement obviously referred to some press reports that Britain had forged ahead, and that Strauss exerted pressure to delay any announcement of it until the U.S. could catch up. Strauss denied exerting any effort to suppress the British report.

Today's scientific reports actually showed that each country had achieved a certain result which the other had not.

The U.S. reported achievement of temperatures higher than those reported by British scientists — 6,000,000 degrees Centigrade against 5,000,000.

Britain, on the other hand, reported sustaining the temperatures for a longer period of time —for periods of thousandths of a second as compared with millionths of a second reported by the Americans.

LONG WAY TO GO

Temperatures of at least 100,000,000 degrees — sustained for perhaps several seconds — would be required to obtain useful power from the hydrogen, or fusion, reaction.

American officials, in today's report, also said that an analysis of the British results indicated that in the particular apparatus used by Britain, an "unknown process" must be in operation.

"How this process behaves under different conditions may be of great importance in the design reactor."

Star Trustees Submit Plan To Buy Paper

TORONTO (CP) — The five trustees of the Joseph E. Atkinson estate announced today they will seek court approval of an offer to buy the Toronto Star.

The offer will be made by a company to be incorporated by the trustees and a grandson of the late Mr. Atkinson. Terms of the offer were not stated.

The trustees are Joseph S. Atkinson and Ruth Atkinson Hindmarsh son and daughter of Joseph E. Atkinson; William J. Campbell, Beland H. Honderich and Burnet M. Thall. The grandson is Harry A. Hindmarsh, son of Ruth Atkinson Hindmarsh.

EMPLOYEE SHARES

The offer of purchase will include provision for employee participation in ownership of The Star and The Star Weekly.

Toll Schedule To Be Announced Early in April

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP) St. Lawrence seaway tolls—an international question mark for years—are expected to be announced publicly by April.

The toll plan, probably incorporated in a 50-year agreement with the United States, likely will be ratified by the Canadian government without going before Parliament for approval.

An informed source said announcement of the toll schedule will be timed to give seaway customers exactly 12 months to get ready for the Queen's royal opening of the waterway in April, 1959.

It will establish charges for ships and cargoes navigating the 115-mile international seaway and the all-Canadian Welland Canal from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes.

Ever since Canada and the United States started work in 1954 on the seven-lock waterway, the issue of tolls has been hotly debated. Canada's Great Lakes shipping industry, one of the major beneficiaries of the seaway, has stoutly opposed tolls as a reversal of the country's traditional toll-free policy on inland waterways.

This anti-toll stand was reaffirmed by the Canadian shippers during a four-day international conference here attended by the Dominion Marine Association and the U.S. Lake Carriers Association. Together, the two groups represent 90 per cent of the Great Lakes shipping industry.

The rates—whether a flat fee based on cargo tonnage and ship dimensions or a sliding scale for various cargo types—will directly affect the amount of traffic on the seaway in its initial years of operation.

Two main commodities—Quebec's iron ore and western Canadian wheat—stand to gain greatly from low tolls. The toll schedule will show whether western farmers will be able to ship their grain at a cheaper rate than with present rail and water transportation. Any saving in transportation costs would help to make Canadian wheat easier to sell abroad.

May Make Grants To Municipalities

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost said Thursday the Ontario government at present has no plans to make unemployment grants to municipalities. But such grants remained "a possibility."

The premier said unconditional grants were made to municipalities during the unemployment crisis of 1955 and they might be made again. But they were "not imminent."

Junior Red Cross Raised $323,24 In Past Year

A total of $323.24 was raised by local public school Junior Red Cross Organizations during the past year, it was announced in a report submitted by committee chairman Mrs M. E. Bulger at the annual meeting of the Belleville branch Monday night.

This amount was forwarded to Toronto headquarters of the Junior Red Cross to be used for humanitarian service.

Mrs. Bulger outlined some of the projects for which the funds collected by the province's 16,-359 branches were used — for example, $5,000 was donated to the Occupational Therapy Centre in Toronto for medical treatment for 10 children; $3,000 was given to the Windsor branch for a school bus to transport children to and from the Red Cross School for Physically Handicapped Children; $25,000 was given toward the Rh Blood Factor Research Work, and $20,000 is to be spent on children with deformed faces.

During the past year, the Ontario branch of Junior Red Cross was called upon to assist three children with serious congenital heart disease. In each case funds were provided to send the child and an escort to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

A major project, which will be undertaken this year, will be the orthodontic treatment of indigent children, handicapped physically and psychologically because of serious facial deformities, she reported.

During the past year the local committee of Junior Red Cross presented Red Cross badges to seven school teachers who had each completed 15 years' continuous service with the Junior Red Cross. The teachers are: Mrs. Mabel Hayton, Foxboro; Mrs. F. M. Henderson, Cannifton; Miss Lillian McPhail, Trenton; Mrs. Hazel Wrightman, Trenton; Frank Sherbert, Trenton; Miss M. Moorcroft, Belleville and Miss Clara Wilson, Belleville.

In her report, Mrs. Bulger paid tribute to Mr. E. Dickens, and members of the Workroom Committee.

Council Will Likely Approve Additional Money for Plan Of Permanent County Roads

A supplementary roads by-law to provide additional money for a program of permanent roads construction is likely to be approved by Hastings county council this year.

The suggested additional levy for the program of permanent type paving and other construction work is one-half mill on the county rate.

Thursday at the afternoon session of council, Roads and Bridges Committee Chairman Reeve James Kinlin of Hungerford township, presented the roads committee report which called for a roads expenditure of $334-,000 for 1958. This would include an amount of $27,000 for suburban roads.

Breakdown of proposed roads expenditures for the year included $98,000 for construction; $208,540 for maintenance; $6,100 for machinery and $20,460 for incidental expenditure.

Following discussion to get an expression of opinion on whether council would later approve of a supplementary by - law for permanent type construction, the roads report was passed while a show of hands indicated council would also favor the supplementary expenditure.

The discussion was called for by Committee Chairman Kinlin who said there was a feeling among committee members that more permanent type construction should be done on the county roads system thus allowing eventual reduction on heavy road maintenance costs.

Among the reeves speaking in favor of the more permanent type roads construction were Earl Sager of Madoc township, Charles Long of Tyendinaga, Alfred Wickett of Thurlow and Deputy Reeve Harleigh Hamilton of Sidney.

Reeve Sager said that oiling sometimes did not prove too successful as this type of road was particularly rough when it went bad.

Reeve Long felt that by doing more permanent construction, maintenance costs could ultimately be reduced and in the end would save money.

"We can't hope to cut too much on maintenance," returned Reeve Sager. "It is just a case of having to find the extra money for the hardtop."

Reeve Alf Wickett said one reason maintenance could not be cut was that winter control was gradually getting more costly.

"The roads committee feel that if so much was set aside each year for premanent type construction, a definite program could be worked out."

He said that the committee wented guidance from council on the matter.

Reeve J. V. Holt of Stirling wanted to know if the extra money was raised could the roads department do the additional work without extra hiring of labor.

"That's a poor way to look at it," returned Reeve Sager. "We must do it."

Deputy Reeve Harleigh Hamilton of Sidney felt if the money was available the county could get the work done and get value for its money. Roads committee chairman Reeve Kinlin felt the same way.

County Engineer Larry Langlois felt that present county forces could do the extra work if the supplementary roads by-law was only for half a mill. "If it was to be for say two mills I would say differently," he said.

WILL WIDEN BRIDGE

Preliminary discussion on the roads report brought out that the county planned this year to widen a bridge on the Madoc road north of Foxboro at a cost of approximately $10,000 and also to replace the Milltown bridge which collapsed last year under a heavy trailer load.

To a question from Reeve J. V. Holt of Stirling, if the rebuilding of the Ridge Bridge would be completed this year, County Engineer Langlois said he doubted if the balance of the work could be done even if the highways department made the required development grant available.

Reeve Holt said his thought on the matter was that if the Ridge Bridge could be completed this year then the county could get at another road the following year. He mentioned particularly the Tweed-Sulphide Road which he said was badly in need of reconstruction.

Mr. Glenn French, new municipal engineer for the Ontario Department of highways for this district, was introduced to council.

Light Standard, Two Parking Meters Broken and 2 Plate Windows Smashed in Crash

Front Street apartment dwellers in the Front and Victoria Street area were startled from their sleep by the crash of glass and rending metal at two o'clock this morning as a car mounted the curb, knocked over a light standard and two parking meters, then spun around and crashed into plate glass windows at the Loblaw store.

Four passengers in the auto owned by Jack Ware of 23 St. Paul Street escaped uninjured although there was danger of electric shock as the broken metal light standard toppled across the car.

Spectators said that sparks from torn electrical wires spurted into the night air as the standard draped itself across the auto.

Police said damage to the auto amounted to approximately $300, the two broken plate glass windows in the Loblaw store were valued at $1,000, while damage to the two parking meters and the light standard was set at $500.

Police Blotter

Theft of a half-ton truck owned by the K. G. Smith Cartage which disappeared from the company yard some time last night was reported today by city police.

The Black Diamond Cheese Company reported the disappearance of $65.00 from its cash box yesterday. The money was believed taken during the noon lunch period.

Vandals broke into the Canadian Pacific Railways freight sheds, and broke open drawers and strew company records about the office. Nothing was believed taken by the intruders.

Police constable William Evans slipped on walk and injured his knee.

U.S. Has Softened Approach To Vital Summit Conference

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States appears to have softened its approach to the vital question of a summit conference. The negative reaction to Soviet overtures has been discarded. Instead of "no, but," the American response now is in terms of "yes, certainly, provided. . . ."

The change essentially is in emphasis rather than in fundamentals. There is no change in the basic U.S. position that the Soviet leaders must provide evidence, at the foreign ministers' level, that a summit conference would prove fruitful.

But the U.S. does seem now to be trying to convince the free world, and perhaps the Russians as well, that its position is not as rigid as it may have appeared in the past.

Diplomats and other observers in Washington detect such a shift in recent foreign policy pronouncements by both President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles. Both emphasized a positive approach on the summit question.

Eisenhower did so in answering the recent Bulganin letter. His reply expresed a willingness to meet the Russians, provided such a conference was adequately prepared, and advanced a seven-point program on which the president was prepared to negotiate.

Diplomats also found a concilliatory tone in Eisenhower's state-of-the-union message to Congress where he said Americans would "always go the extra mile with anyone on earth if it will bring us nearer a genuine peace."

Dulles, in a recent address before the National Press Club in Washington, went to great lengths to accentuate the positive side of the U.S. approach to a summit meeting. Exhibiting a flexibility and mellowness that surprised many in his audience, Dulles strongly emphasized the U.S. desire for fruitful high-level talks.

Some observers attribute the modified American reaction to heavy pressure exerted on the Eisenhower administration, both at home and from the NATO allies abroad, to soften its response to Russian suggestions for face-to-face East-West discussions.

Obituary

JAMES FRANCIS KEEGAN

A life-long Belleville resident, Mr. James Francis Keegan, 49, of 170 Mary Street, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Friday, January 24, following an illness of about a year's duration.

Mr. Keegan was born in Belleville, son of Mrs. Margaret Keegan and the late Frank Keegan. He was employed at the Belleville Harbor Commission, and was a member of St. Michael's Church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Norma Goyer; one son Robert of Belleville; and three daughters, Phyllis, Charmane and Jacqueline, at home. Also surviving are two brothers, Herbert and Arthur Keegan, both of Belleville, and two sisters, Miss Vera Keegan, of Belleville, and Mrs. Bill (Maudie) Steadman, of Toronto.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, Highland Ave.; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this issue.

ROLAND J. JARVIS

CAMPBELLFORD—The Rev. Owen G. Barrow conducted funeral services from Christ Church on Monday for Roland J Jarvis, who passed away in Campbellford Memorial Hospital on Friday, January 17. He had been in failing health for some time.

Mr. Jarvis was born in Lakefield, 62 years ago, son of Mrs. Jarvis and the late Mr. Jarvis. During his lifetime he resided at Beaverton and Oakville, but spent most of his life in Campbellford. He was a barber by trade and a veteran of both World War I and World War II. He served overseas as a gunner in the first war for three years and in Canada for more than two years during the second war. He was a member of Branch 103, B.E.S.L., Canadian Legion, and of Campbellford Lodge No. 248, I.O.O.F.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. William Jarvis, of Peterborough; his wife, the former Edna Mitchell of Campbellford, and one son, Jack, of Woodbridge. One brother, William Jarvis, of Toronto, and a sister, Mrs. G. Laplante, of Peterborough, also survive.

On Sunday evening, members of the Campbellford Lodge No. 248, I.O.OF., held a memorial service at the funeral parlors and Comrades of the Legion attended the funeral service on Monday.

The bearers were Fred Rowe, William Rowe, George Rowe, Ralph Rowe, Gerald Kellogg and Don Montgomery.

ALFRED E. STEPHENS

CAMPBELLFORD — Funeral services were conducted on Saturday, January 18th, for the late Alfred Emanuel Stephens, who died very suddenly at his home in Seymour Township on Wednesday night.

Born in 1892, he was the son of the late Wm. N. Stephens and Sophia Brown. He was a lifelong resident of Seymour and farmed for a living.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mary Emily Free, and one son, Fred, of Peterborough. A twin brother, Albert Stephens, also of Seymour, also survives. He was a member of St. John's United Church.

Services were conducted from Mr. Stephens' late residence with the Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith of St. John's officiating.

Pallbearers were Messrs. Oscar Rannie, Mel. McKeown, Carl Loucks, Ron. Loucks, Murray Meiklejohn and Jack Haig.

Burial was in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery.

MRS. FLORENCE MAY HILL

The funeral service for Mrs. Florence Mary Hill was held Thursday, January 23, 1958, in the John R. Bush Funeral Chapel, with Rev. C. W. Coleman officiating.

Bearers were Harold Smith, Gerald O'Brien, Stan Pomeroy, Robert Fair, Jack Darvell, and Charles Greatrix.

Interment was in Morven Cemetery.

Eight Fatalities During December Police Report

There were eight fatal accidents and the same number of highway fatalities in the No. 9 Ontario Provincial Police District during the month of December, it was noted today by police headquarters here from the monthly statistical report from the Attorney General's Department.

The No. 9 District covers the four counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac.

The district had 156 reportable accidents in which eight persons met death and 52 persons suffered injury. Police reported 2,510 highway checks having been made with 283 charges laid. There were 252 speeding charges and 38 charges of careless driving.

Members Defend County's Position on Maintenance, Renovations at Court House

Defence of the county's position in what was termed unjust criticism of the condition of the Hastings county courtroom, saw some rather heated discussions during Thursday's session of county council.

The matter was briefly discussed on Wednesday when the recent report of the Grand Jury calling for many renovations and furnishings for the Court House building, was read by County Clerk-Treasurer Erle S. Denyes, and was again discussed on Thursday when a detailed report from the county finance committee setting out the county's position was read in the council.

The report listed in detail renovations and repairs done on the Court House in recent years. This covered complete renovations of the county judge's office, renovations in the magistrate's office, sheriff's office and in the office of the crown attorney.

In addition the main courtroom had been repainted as well as the law library, while a second and more roomy courtroom had been provided for county magistrate's court.

Other capital expenditures had included nearly $20,000 for a new furnace; $8,000 for re-wiring of the Court House, roof repairs and floor repairs.

Since the Christmas holiday renovation of the barrister's room had been underway, this to be provided with washroom facilities.

In the light of these many costly renovations which had been undertaken in recent years, councillors felt much of the criticism the county had received was unjustified. It was noted also that while the city of Belleville and the town of Trenton share in the costs of administration of justice, there had been no request from these urban municipalities for better courtroom facilities.

Council particularly were resentful of the report submitted last December by the local Bar Association. They felt however that the criticism emanated from only a small section of the Law Association and did not represent the feeling of the entire association.

Commenting on the Grand Jury report, Warden Lloyd Price maintained that county council had done its best to comply with the requests for improvements and assured it would continue to do so.

The concensus, he said, was that the county was "trying to do a fair job."

Several councillors asserted that the century old Hastings county court house with its attractive architecture and stone construction was an imposing sight in its elevated position above Pinnacle street with some members saying it had more dignity in half an hour than many new municipal structures had in a month.

Housing Project Is Approved

TORONTO (CP) — Construction of a $1,966,200 low - rental housing project in downtown Toronto was approved Thursday by the Toronto Housing Authority.

Plans call for two six-storey apartment buildings on Carlton St. covering 3.62 acres with 72 suits. There is to be parking space for 180 cars.

Cost of the project is expected to be cut by a $144,000 grant from the Ontario government and a $241,500 federal grant.

The project will be called Regent Park annex, adjoining a similar group of buildings, called Regent Park.

Start of construction is planned for April.

Another Crime Wave Has Hit Toronto Area

TORONTO (CP) — A crime wave has hit the Toronto area, including bank holdups, armed robberies, an attempted extortion and a highway robbery.

Three youths, one of them armed with a sawed-off shotgun and another with a knife, Thursday robbed a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia in Campbellville, about 25 miles west of here, and escaped with between $10,000 and $17,000.

They entered the bang shortly before closing time and forced L. J. Hayes, the manager, to open the safe. They tied and gagged him and teller Mrs. Joyce Carbert.

Road blocks were set up in the area.

Stewart Greenleaf, 32, of Hamilton said a car forced his car to the side of the road near Oakville about midway between Hamilton and Toronto, and its occupants, one wielding a gun, overpowered him and took $40.

ROBS TORONTO BANK

A man carrying a gun in a holster escaped with $1,100 from a midtown branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank after he shoved a scribbled note and a bag across the counter to the teller, who gave him only small bills. He instructed Iris Loney, 15, to put the money in the bag. She handed over some small bills but kept those of larger denominations. Bank Manakger William Jarvis said her action saved the bank several thousand dollars.

James O'Hara, 45, of Toronto was slugged with a beer bottle in a lane and robbed of $300 after he cashed his own and several other pay cheques.

Wednesday night, Arthur Hill, 56, of suburban North York was pistol whipped, beaten with a broom and slashed with a knife by two thugs who tried to force him to endorse a cheque for $140,000 he received from the recent sale of his farm. They failed and took $8 from him, all the cash he had.

Denies Stating Tinplate Market Exists in Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Churchill Thursday told the House of Commons he did not make a statement in Wales that Canada is a potential market for tinplate.

He described as "completely and utterly false" reports that he said this while visiting Wales with the Canadian trade mission last Nov. 27.

"I was aware that there was a surplus of tinplate in Canada," he said.

Mr. Churchill said the reports were in Maclean's Magazine of Feb. 1 and in the Hamilton Spectator Nov 27.

Original sources of the reports to which Mr. Churchill took exception apparently were news stories carried Nov. 27 by Reuters, the British news agency, and The Canadian Press.

Reuters, in a dispatch from Cardiff, Wales, said:

"Canada is a definite market for British steel and tinplate, Gordon Churchill, Canadian minister of trade and commerce, said today after a visit to the giant Margam steel works at Port Talbot, near Cardiff."

Harold Morrison, CP reporter accompanying the Canadian trade mission, said in his story from Margam that the Steel Company of Wales plans to boost imports of Canadian iron ore and at the same time seek a "proper share" of the Canadian steel market.

It included these paragrphs:

"The minister (Mr. Churchill) said Canada now imports only one - tenth as much steel from Britain as from the United States and that there is a market in Canada both for sheet and for tinplate. . . .

M. J. Layton (M. J. Layton, the company's sales controller) said the company recently received an order for 3,000 tons of tinplate from a British Columbia firm for salmon canning."

ARE YEARS

The objective in both the American and British work is to get hydrogen atoms to "fuse," or join in sufficient quantities so that sufficient energy is released to generate power.

OPPOSITE OF FISSION

The process is the opposite of atomic energy released in the fission process in which atoms are split.

If the hydrogen process could be perfected, there would be enough hydrogen in sea water to supply mankind's power requirements for millions of years.

But the problems to be surmounted are twofold

1. Generating temperatures of 20,000,000 to 30,000,000 degrees for a process that would involve the least accessible kind of hydrogen called "tritium" or a temperature of about 400,000,000 degrees for a more accessible kind called "deuterium." Both are heavy forms of hydrogen. Ordinary hydrogen cannot be used.

2. "Containing" the hydrogen in gaseous form in a vessel in such a way that the highly heated material would not melt the vessel.

SEEK CHAIN REACTION

Also, the temperature would have to be sustained long enough in the initial stages to start a self-sustaining chain reaction.

The progress reported by both countries concerned these points, but the temperatures attained still are far from the objective, and so is the period of "containment."

Both said—as they have previously — that their experiments suggest that they have actually produced fusion reactions, even though for a limited time and at temperatures lower than would be needed on a practical scale.

And both indicated that if this were so, it would be an important step in the quest. But both said—as they also have said previously—that they are still not sure that this is the case, and that further experiments will be needed to establish this.

WITNESS SLUGS

Also appearing was Richard Mowry, a private investigator, who was questioned by a district attorney's investigator about an alleged perjury proposal to actor Leo Carrillo.

Mowry said he had visited Carillo last Friday night.

"I was in a bar and I got a phone call from someone who said Leo Carrillo knew a lot about the Scott case," Mowry was quoted as saying. "I went to Carrillo in the interest of justice."

Carrillo had complained to the district attorney that two men had proposed that he perjure himself by saying he had seen Mrs. Scott in Rio de Janeiro since her disappearance.

Mowry said the second man was a friend who had just gone along.

Thermal Power Plants Soon, Guests of Bata Shoe Told by Member of Hydro Commission

TRENTON — The St. Lawrence Seaway project is the last of natural sources for hydro power in the province, Honorable Ray Connell, MPP, Hamilton-Wentworth, 2nd vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission told a meeting of mayors, wardens, county councillors and town councillors at Batawa last night.

The banquet was sponsored by the Bata Shoe Company of Canada Limited and was organized by Arthur Duncan, public relations officer of the firm.

Mr. Connell informed the meeting this St. Lawrence Seaway plant is expected to start producing in September of this year and after that the province will have to turn to thermal power plants to meet the ever-increasing need for electricity in Ontario.

At present the plants of Ontario are producing 4½ million killowats and after new plants now under construction have been completed will be putting out in the vicinity of six million.

There are two thermal plants operating in the province at the present, he said, one at Windsor and another at Toronto, with two more under construction at Long Branch and Hamilton Bay.

The new plants will be using 70,000 carloads of coal per year and will be the largest of this type in the world. He said the commission is at present experimenting with the use of nuclear power for hydro plants but as yet they have not found a way which is economically sound. He said he hopes it will come in the near future.

Mr. Connell was representing the Honorable William A. Goodfellow, Minister of Agriculture for the province, who was to have addressed the meeting. The hydro vice-chairman explained the doctors had ordered Mr. Goodfellow to remain in bed for the next few days due to illness.

The highlight of the evening came with the presentation of three coats-of-arms to the different counties represented at the meeting and the city of Belleville.

D. Chipera of the Bata Shoe presented the replicas to the wardens of the counties and to Mayor Gerald Hyde of Belleville.

MAYOR HYDE ACCEPTS GIFT

In accepting the gift, Mayor Hyde told the officials of the firm it was a great pleasure to accept this coat-of-arms on behalf of the people of Belleville. He thanked them for it and wished them and their firm much success in the coming year.

Lloyd Price, warden of Hastings County and Ray Bothwell, warden of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, each received plaques for their respective counties.

Dr. C. K. Herz, president of the company, welcomed the 200 guests to Batawa, saying the occasion could also mark the 19th year of business for the firm.

He told the councillors present that county councils have been the proving grounds for many of the great men of Canada.

Among those who were seated at the head table were: Douglas McMaster, reeve of Murray township; H. J. McFarland, mayor of Picton; Roscoe Robson; Ray Bothwell, warden of United Counties; Senator W. A. Fraser; Gerald Hyde, mayor of Belleville; Group Captain Fox, Commanding Officer RCAF Station Trenton; Lloyd Price, warden of Hastings County; W. W. Barry, QC, legal adviser for the Bata Shoe Company; Hon. Ray Connell, second vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission; Dr. C. K. Herz; Group Captain Spurston, Commanding Officer 6 R-D, RCAF Station Trenton; E. Sandercock, MPP; Lee Grills, MP; D. Hipera of Bata Shoe, and Byron Harder, reeve of Sidney. From Trenton, Councillors James MacDonald and Charles Hilton, with clerk-treasurer, O. W. Larry were present.

The guest speaker was introduced by E. Sandercock and chairman for the evening was W. W. Barry, QC.

The banquet was held in the community hall at Batawa.

TO FREE CREW

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) The United Nations announced Wednesday night that Egypt is releasing the crew of the Israeli fishing boat Doran, seized in the Mediterranean last Sept. 23. A UN spokesman said Egypt has so informed Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, who had taken the matter up with President Nasser during a Christmas-time visit to Cairo.

Boy, 6, Carried On Car Bumper, Then Run Over

TRENTON — Richard Bull, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bull, Bocage Street, was detained in hospital here following a mishap in which he was carried for a considerable distance on the front bumper of a car. It was understood he was not seriously hurt.

Bert Copeland, 102 West St., reported driver of the car involved, said he had not seen the youngster who had apparently crossed in front of the car on his way to school.

When the youngster let go of the bumper of the car it passed over him with the wheel injuring his arm. X-rays were taken at the hospital but it is not believed any internal injuries were caused.

The accident occurred at 8.55 a.m. and because of the loose snow on the ground at the time it is not believed the youngster's arm was seriously injured.

The boy is a student of the Queen Elizabeth School. The accident happened in front of the school building.

Two New Stores Hold Openings

TRENTON — Two new stores held their official openings in Trenton yesterday, one on Front Street, and the other on Dundas Street West.

On Front Street, Gerrit Bruinix held a jewellery exhibition in his new premises with the store being opened for business today. Mr. Bruinix has operated a jewellery business in Trenton for the past two years, but feeling the need for expansion moved to larger premises on Front Street.

He has something new in display windows. The entire stand which displays his wares in the large front window has been put on wheels and instead of climbing into it to arrange his products, Mr. Bruinix merely has to pull the stand out and away from the window and stand in front of it to redecorate it. He built it himself, with the held of a friend, in the basement of his home.

The second business to open yesterday was the Compeau Meat Market on Dundas Street West, near the Odeon Theatre. Hundreds of shoppers turned out to take advantage of the many bargains in meat Mr. Compeau featured for his opening.

Mr. Compeau feels that customers still like to have meat shown to them instead of just picking it up off a counter.

Dutch Dramatic Club Will Present Plays

TRENTON — The Dutch Dramatic Club, T.O.G., will present a series of plays on Saturday, February 8, in the Trenton Queen Elizabeth School.

The four one-act plays will be for the Dutch people of this area and the dialogue will be in their native language.

The plays had been previously scheduled to be presented tomorrow night but because of the hall not being available it was necessary to postpone them until February 8.

These young artists are also planning to present another play in the near future about a Canadian soldier in Holland during the war years. The dialogue of this play will be in English. Representatives of the Dramatic Club said final plans for the latter show have not been completed yet but will be made public as soon as possible.

Two Men Are Injured As Metal Bar Slips

TRENTON — Two men, employees of the Quinte Machine and Repair Company, were injured when a bar of metal they were handling, slipped from their hands. Victims were Claude Brown of Gotha Street and Harry Baker of Marmora Street.

Mr. Brown was injured on the foot and Mr. Baker lost a portion of one finger. Both men are said to be resting comfortably in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Teamsters' Union Officials Targets Of Committee

TORONTO (CP) — Teamsters' union officials were targets Thursday before the Ontario legislature's select committee on labor relations.

Canadian Director I. M. (Casey) Dodds of Windsor was subjected to a cross-fire of questions from committee members after he disclosed two locals of his CLC-affiliated union still are under the trusteeship of James R. Hoffa.

Immediately afterwards the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario presented a brief accusing the teamsters of tactics "very similar to the protection rackets prevalent many years ago where the corner store operator had to pay a protection fee to an organization to avoid a brick through the window."

Mr. Dodds denied his union ever used violence or threats. He said union locals went under trusteeship voluntarily and autonomy was restored when they became stable.

UNDER TRUSTEES

Local 879 of Hamilton had been under trusteeship since 1954 and Local 880 of Windsor since 1947, but both locals had indicated recently they wanted their trusteeships to continue.

Mr. Hoffa, whose election as international president last year caused the AFL-CIO to suspend the International Brotherhood of Teamsters on the ground of unethical practices, is trustee of the Hamilton and Windsor locals. Mr. Dodds acted as administrator for Hoffa.

The teamers' leader said he knew of only two other Ontario locals which have been under trusteeship, Locals 230 and 647 of Toronto. In both cases the trusteeships were dissolved and elections held within the last year.

Committee member Robert Macaulay (PC — Riverdale) asked:

"Is it true the teamsters' union has more locals under trusteeship than any other union of its size?"

"I have no information on the number of trusteeships in the United States," replied Mr. Dodds. "I'm concerned only with Canada."

Mr. Dodds said membership of the Hamilton local had voted by secret ballot at Hamilton, St. Catharines, Kitchener and Brantford in April, 1957, to continue under trusteeship.

AMONG STEWARDS

But he added the Windsor local's vote last December was taken among 80 shop stewards and not the membership.

He said his union feels trusteeships should be dissolved whenever a local is able to stand on its own feet. But they were maintained if the membership wanted it that way.

"Then a local could be kept under trusteeship indefinitely?" asked Mr. Macaulay.

"Could be," replied Mr. Dodds.

He said trusteeships were necessary to give locals "financial and moral support," when asked whether locals were eligible for loans from international headquarters if they were not under trusteeship, he replied.

House Reduced To Rubble by Gas Explosion

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. David McTaggart can't go home. Their two-storey, suburban Scarborough house was reduced to rubble Thursday by a gas explosion.

The McTaggarts were staying in Toronto with their son Robert because of accident and illness.

Witnesses said the walls of the house blew out and the roof fell straight in. Flames following the explosion set fire to houses on either side. Their residents were also absent.

Firemen brought the two-alarm blaze under control in less than 30 minutes. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

Mrs McTaggart, 84, an invalid, had moved to stay with her son after her 81-year - old husband broke his leg shortly before Christmas.

TALKED INTO STAYING

Mr. McTaggart was released from a nursing home five days ago and was talked into staying at his son's residence.

"It was an act of God that they are alive today," Robert McTaggart said. "They wanted to go home after Dad was released but we talked them into staying here."

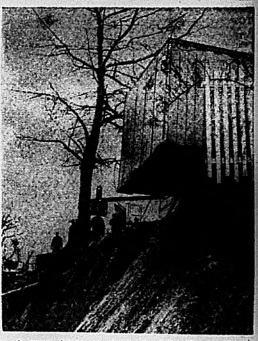
An official of the Consumer's Gas Company said the explosion followed the accidental breaking of a gas pipe by a contractor laying sewers.

Residents on Blantyre Avenue said the explosion rattled windows, shook their homes and showered glass over the area.

Mrs R. G. Bundy, who lives across the road from the demolished house, said she felt the blast and rushed to the window.

"Within minutes the whole place was on fire," she said. "It practically disintegrated before my eyes."

LANDSLIDE THREATENS MORE BUILDINGS



A garage hangs over the bank of the Thames River at Chatham, Ont., one of four buildings menaced after a collapse of the bank.. The landslide took a slice of soil 200 feet long, 30 feet wide and 30 feet deep, and cracks indicated more slides may be expected. A nurses' residence is among the buildings endangered.

Would-Be Space Conquerors Face Risk of Prosecution

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's growing number of youthful would-be space conquerors face the risk of prosecution by federal authorities.

H. P. Kimbell, chief inspector of the explosives division of the federal mines department, said Thursday that youths who experiment with deadly rocket fuels will be prosecuted under the Explosives Act.

He said the new "get tough" policy will be instituted in an effort to stamp out a serious increase in accidents caused by rocket-fuel explosions.

The Explosives Act declares illegal the manufacture of explosives without a federal licence. Persons convicted of illegal manfuacture are liable to fines ranging from a minimum of $50 to a maximum $500, a maximum jail sentence of six months or both a fine and imprisonment.

ONE PROSECUTION

Since 1944 there has been only one prosecution under the act for illegal manufacture of an explosive. This involved a Montreal youth who was fined $35 last November for building and setting off a home-made bomb.

The latest accident occurred in Ottawa Wednesday night. Andre Lamirande, 20-year - old laboratory technician with National Research Council, suffered severe face and hand burns when a rocket fuel he was putting through a kitchen meat grinder exploded prematurely.

"I thought I was on to something," he said from a hospital Thursday. "Before I reached what I was trying for, static electricity touched the mixture off."

That touched the house off. Seconds later a length of the house's facing hung in a tree, the bath in the adjoining bathroom had been blown some distance from the adjoining wall, part of the roof had been blown off and the house's walls were bulging, glass from the windows lying in the street.

MAY BE ONLY WAY

"We don't like to prosecute but it seems the only way to prevent the illegal manufacture of rocket fuels by Canadian youths," Mr. Kimbell said.

Previous warnings by the department did not appear to have impressed youthful scientists.

Mr. Kimbell said best results could be obtained if prosecutions could be launched before accidents occurred. The department would welcome information about illegal experiments.

Ingredients used in rocket fuels were dangerously sensitive to friction and impact when mixed together.

Mr. Kimbell appealed to parents to forbid experiments in their homes and urged school teachers to stress their danger to students. He also asked pharmacists to stop selling rocket fuel materials such as sulphur and potassium chloride to juveniles.

Canada's Dairymen Discuss Ways of Raising Production

..QUEBEC (CP) — Canada's dairymen looked into the future today to discuss ways of increasing production to meet the demands of Canada's growing population.

Increasing production was foreseen Thursday at the Dairy Farmers of Canada, annual convention as the main problem of the future. The five-day convention ends Saturday.

Erle Kitchen of Toronto, secretary-manager of the association, said Thursday that by 1980 Canada will need 45 per cent more milk than now is being produced. This production will have to be properly proportioned to give needed amounts of cheese, butter and other dairy products.

Vice-President W. B. Rettie of Fergus, Ont., said domestically-produced butter is falling behind consumption. New producers must be attracted, primarily through higher price supports, to supply the demands.

MAY BE CHANGES

Dr. J. A. Charlton of Ottawa, parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Harkness, said there may be changes in the type of dairy products used in the future but consumption would continue to expand.

F. J. Reynolds of Ottawa, president of the National Dairy Council of Canada, warned that a growing market because of increased population would not bring easy days.

"Our sales departments and promotion men are going to have to work harder than they have ever worked before if they are to move the quantity of product that will be available."

WANTS FORMULA

Mr. Rettie said that floor prices for dairy products should be tied to a flexible formula "so that when the costs of goods and services to the farmer go up, the support prices will go up automatically."

"Likewise, when costs of goods be reasonable that support prices would be moved downward. In other words some system should be devised which would keep support prices in proper relationship with producer costs . . .

"It is evident that the present price for butterfat isn't sufficiently high to be attractive to producers.

"The domestic annual consumption of 330,000,000 pounds of creamery butter is a market for milk, which, if not supplied by Canadian producers, will be supplied by imports or substitutes, either of which would be just as damaging to the price structure of the Canadian dairy industry as our butter surplus of a few years ago.

"Just what is to be considered a fair price for butterfat will be one of the conclusions you must reach in your discussions this week."

Bag Must Be Empty

OTTAWA (CP) — Jake Schulz doesn't like the government's farm price stabilization bill.

The CCF member for Springfield, Man., said "I can't even describe the emptiness of this bill."

It reminded him of a story. A woman — "a rather heavy woman"—weighed herself on an out-of-order scale. It showed only 60 pounds. Two boys looking on were amazed until one finally decided the answer was that "the old bag must be empty."

SETS HIMSELF HARD TASK

Professor Gordon Huson of the University of Western Ontario, who has been appointed by the Diefenbaker Government to study foreign pension schemes, says he has a "personal prejudice" against the "means test."

Well, good for him. Most Canadians dislike it, too.

But when things can not be cured, they must be endured, and unless Prof. Huson is able to come up with something startlingly brilliant, we do not see how the means test can be eliminated entirely from any pension scheme which does an adequate job.

Canada has already eliminated the "means test" for those pensioners 70 years of age and older. The test to which Prof. Huson objects is that which determines whether a Canadian is entitled to an assistance pension between the ages of 65 and 70.

"Providing benefits during that five-year gap is probably our main pension problem," Prof. Huson told a press conference at Ottawa.

We wonder, though, whether Canada is rich enough to be able to afford paying an adequate pension to all Canadians between the ages of 65 and 70.

And, even if this were done, we can be sure that it would not be many months before there would be considerable pressure on the government to provide pensions for needy citizens in the age gap between 60 and 65.

No matter what age is set for universal pensions, there will always be a case for assistance to a small group who, often through no fault of their own, face a waiting period of poverty-stricken years before they are entitled to a pension.

Most Canadians will agree that the nation should assist those in real need. But the national treasury cannot finance every citizen. Somewhere the means test must be applied. It is unavoidable.

WOULD PROTECT RABBITS

The Waterloo Rod and Gun Club will forward to the Department of Lands and Forests a resolution seeking a ban on the sale of rabbits and a daily bag limit of three.

The club members were annoyed by a recent instance where more than 400 jack rabbits were shot in the Galt area and shipped to Toronto.

The members' indignation is understandable. Jack rabbit drives in which animals are slaughtered in such numbers certainly ought not to be dignified with the name of sport.

Sometimes, though, there is a reason for such drives. In fruit-growing country, jack rabbits can cause irremedial damage to young orchards. In search of food during periods of heavy snowfall, they chew the bark of the young trees, ringing them and causing them to die.

Mostly, though, these rabbit drives start when a few hunters, lacking a dog, discover that there is an easier and more exciting way to hunt rabbits than the exhausting and unproductive process of jump-shooting. A "drive" that starts with half a dozen hunters may, after a few weeks, grow into an outing with a hundred guns or more each weekend.

Except where necessary to protect orchards, that kind of hunting should be banned. There is, too, nothing wrong with prohibiting the sale of wild rabbits, just as the sale of wild ducks is banned.

But is there not something absurd about a limit of three rabbbits when 400 rabbits can be shot in a single area, and when the facts of the breeding habits of the rabbit are well known?

As any jack rabbit hunter will tell you, that three-rabbit bag limit may represent several days of hard hunting, even if a good hound is doing the leg-work; on other occasions, it may be the result of a minute's wild firing in a patch of swale.

CURE FOR CONCEIT

Go to the graveyards, boastful man,
And look about you there and see
The restful slumber couches of
The many men who used to be.
Go read their names, and contemplate
The greatness of the dead and gone;
What they were once behold, and note
This busy world keeps going on.

In countless tombs today there sleep
The greatest heroes of their days—
The giants of their time who led
Their fellows safe through troubled ways.
Go read their names, and then reflect
As you their records gaze upon,
Though all these men have passed away
This busy world keeps going on.

Let tombstones teach you humbleness,
If nothing else about you will.
Gaze on these silent arms of death,
Grim tributes to men's worth and skill,
Then think if you are more than they—
Those countless thousands—to your one.
Do you not see that when you die
The world will still keep moving on?

Soviet 'Unity' Deceiving

London Spectator

A year ago confusion and faction prevailed in the Communist world. What has happened since then that we are now faced, at least to all appearances, by a Soviet Union confident and aggresive abroad, solidly supported by the other Communist states and headed by a united and forthright leadership?

We can now see pretty clearly the effect of the two latest and most publicized events in Russia — the sputniks and the Moscow conference of Communist parties — on Soviet policy; and hence what we are going to have to cope with in the immediate future.

Level-headed is not an adjective that most people would think of applying to Khrushchev. But at least we have been able to congratulate ourselves that he is not a dangerous maniac like Stalin in his latter years.

Now, however, we find his utterances getting more and more violent, irresponsible and pig-headed. The propaganda effects of the sputniks are one thing. The military implications are nothing like enough to give Russia an unchallenged position of strength.

Yet Khrushchev is not merely making the false statement that Russia "has won the arms race," but he is actually behaving as if he believed it. The achievement really does seem to have gone to his head in a dangerous way.

• • •

Work on the sputniks has no doubt been going on since Stalin told Col. Tokaiev of his intention to develop a rocket capable of smashing the United States. Though Khrushchev is taking credit, it seems that neither the party nor the Russians educational system (as footlingly suggested by some commentators) should get the credit.

The scientists certainly did their job. But at bottom it is a triumph of the allotment and organization of technological resources (with most of the basic work presumably done under Beria's control by the so-called Ministry of Medium Machine Building, who also built the world's first hydrogen bomb.)

Accounts have now been published about what actually went on in the recent Moscow negotiations between the Communist leaders.

The East German Communist paper Neues Deutschland tells us that Mao Tsetung maintained that a leader was necessary for the Communist parties and modestly disclaimed any Chinese desire to pro . idtellev.dese desire to provide it. He nominated Russia for the post and was supported "unanimously" by a list of Communist leaders — from which the Poles and the Hungarians were omitted. The Yugoslavs had not even consented to be present.

The resolution denouncing the West (and with a muddle of reservations denouncing "revisionism," too) was drafted by the Russians and Chinese. The Poles signed it with some reluctance, and it was they who drafted, with the Russians, the second "peace" statement, ccuched in terms of vague good will, which even the Yugoslavs found it possible to sign.

Such are the signs of argument and concession which prove that Moscow cannot, as in the bad old days, just issue its orders.

• • •

But prominent as rapporteur was the Stalinist doctrinaire Mikhail Suslov. His position is only one of the many signs of an important change in Soviet policy.

Khrushchev has, in effect, gone back to the Stalin line, having currently reached the stage which Stalin had got to about 1931. There is no bloodbath yet, but discipline is being tightened enough to make one possible if required. And in foreign policy, even down to the specific abuse hurled at ourselves by the Americans, we are roughly where we were in 1947-48.

Various things have made this possible. Krushchev's victory over his immediate rivals, Molotov, Malenkov and then Zhukov, have gained for him for the time being some security at home. The total failure of the West to develop a European policy while the Russians were retreating and regrouping has enabled him to start off again, combining threats about what his missiles could do to France or Britain with those much-publicized offers of mutual withdrawals of troops which we are now, like clumsy Molotovs, unprepared to counter with any more constructive proposals.

• • •

There is no need for us to be overwhelmed by this display of dynamism and unity. The struggle for power in the USSR is not over, and further feuds will inevitably destroy the present appearance of unity.

Nor is the patched-up alliance between the Communist parties and regimes comparable with the tightly disciplined machine of Stalin's time. Whatever the Chinese say, they do not in fact carry out Russian orders. Nor do the Poles. And the Yugoslavs are not willing even to pretend that they do. Such unity as has been produced is for these parties a more or less voluntary accord due to the pressure of circumstances. Like all negotiated agreements, it carries the unspoken protocol "until the times do alter."

Certainly the fact that an obsessed totalitarian ruler possesses devastating weapons is a frightening one. But it is not a new one.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

INFLUENCE

Little do we realize how much we owe to influence. The influence of our parents, our friends and the very great debt we owe to the influence of books. We are even influenced by the weather. The wonders of nature influence us to a very great degree. We are often unconscious of this fact, nevertheless, it's there. A field of flowers, a waterfall, or the majesty of a mountain range. A glorious sunset, the sound of the sea upon a clear day, a beautiful garden. There is love behind them all.

We are influenced greatly by the life and occupation of men and women whom we have never met, just from the books they have written — some of their books long ago having become classics. I had a classmate in college who told me the reading of Victor Hugo's great novel "Les Miserables" changed the whole manner of his life.

I have many books in my library that I look upon as friends and whose counsel I often heed and by which I have been influenced no end.

Music has a powerful influence on our lives. A great musician has a unique influence in the way he, or she, appeals to our emotions through his or her skill and magic. We love the song of birds because they make us feel we are a part of their world, as we certainly are. And they are such brave creatures, especially the way in which they take the weather and the loss of their homes through storms and evil enemies.

The fragrance of flowers, and their beauty, creates memories that long live within our heart. How wonderful it is to have influence, and to spread it far and wide!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Having been victimized for four years by a stationary or fixed TV set which sits like a pot-bellied permanent boarder in our living room, we were delighted the other day to discover that you can get portable TV sets which you can lift up by the scruff of the handle and chuck into a closet, or banish, as you would a noisy child, to another room.

"How long has this been going on?" we asked the salesman.

"Oh, months and months," said he. "Haven't you noticed them around among your friends?"

"We haven't been doing much visiting around," we confessed, "since that old fat Buddha has been suatted in our living room."

So he showed us the portables, which can be easily disconnected from the usual wires and plugs. Since we have been trained, or indoctrinated, by a 21 inch, and most of the portables were 17, we enquired how we could invite a casual visitor into the house in the 21 inch size.

"Easy," said the salesman, pushing forth a pretty little carriage or taboret on wheels. "You just sit it on this. And you shove it out of sight as easily as you would a tea wagon."

So out goes old Buddha, old Cheops, old Bull of the Woods. And in comes a pleasant, agreeable occasional visitor.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 24th., 1938

Miss Leona Riggs and Mrs. R. L. Brown will be the hostesses at the Badminton Club party this evening in the armouries.

A successful dance, sponsored by the members of the Holy Name Society was held in St. Michael's Auditorium last evening. There was a large attendance and the event was most enjoyable.

Members of the Belleville Retail Merchants' Association entertained at a banquet at Hotel Quinte on Friday evening at which the guests were Mayor Bone and the members of the city council, Warden Larkin and the county council, the Chamber of Commerce, the Public Utilities and the Parks Commission. Also honored guests were Mr. Charles A. Cameron, M.P., Mr. R. D. Arnott, M.P.P., and Dr. H E. Walsh, M.P.P. The president of the Retail Merchants' Association of Belleville, Mr. R. J. Hennessey, presided in an able manner. The main event of the evening was the interesting and inspiring address of Mr. George A. Hougham, the secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada. Ald. Laurie Lewis of this city is the president of the Ontario Retail Merchants' Association. The Rev. A. L. Geen of this city was the first Dominion President of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada and he was honored by the gathering when he rose to make a brief address. It was a most enjoyable banquet — a real get-together, and will stimulate co-operation in all lines of business.

'Inner Space' Real Problem

Brantford Expositor

While many people are becoming increasingly concerned with problems of outer space, one of the world's leading botanists has warned us that "our future security may depend less upon priority in exploring outer space than upon our wisdom in managing the space in which we live."

This is not a new problem, but it has become and is becoming more and more intensified. The noted botanist, Professor Paul B. Sears of Yale University said, in the course of his presidential address to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, that more attention must be paid to the matter.

With the almost certain prospect of the population doubling in less than half a century, said Dr. Sears, it must be kept in mind that though the national space of the U.S. is vast it is not infinite! It is, of course, limited both in area and quality. Yet each individual is making growing demands, moving faster and farther "by a factor of at least ten."

What Dr. Sears says of the United States can be said of many other countries — in fact, all countries in the world — in proportion. The problem is indeed, as he claims, one "without precedent in all geological history."

It will require skill and insight to achieve reasonably satisfactory solution. The economic world is still in a state of idiotic imbalance in some particulars. Canada, for instance, has more wheat on its hands or in its elevators and storage barns than it knows what to do with. Other countrias have far less than enough. People in some countries, mainly because of taste prejudices, won't eat wheat products! Some even refuse, with suicidal obstinacy, to touch certain kinds of rice!

So, obviously, education as well as the sheer mechanics of more equitable distribution have to be considered, as does production. If the world's population keeps advancing by leaps and bounds despite the admonitions of the geneticists and the birth-control experts, this planet will become dangerously overcrowded. It may be at this moment. And, as yet, there is no prospect of colonizing the moon, or any of our sister planets, by way of obtaining relief.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

So You Think You Have Arthritis?

Incidentally, unintentionally, without malice aforethought, Dr. William Osler himself cured ten million Yankee snobs of chronic rheumatism with a stroke of his mighty pen, you might say, when he wrote, in his famous Practice of Medicine in the chapter on chrnoic rheumatism:

"This affection commonly comes on insidiously in persons who have passed the middle period of life.

It is most common among the poor——"

Here we go again. "Common," "poor" — it was humiliating!

"——Among the poor, particularly washerwomen——"

Great guns! It's a good thing Dr. Osler wasn't a health columnist!

"—washerwomen, day-laborers, and those whose occupation exposes them to cold and damp."

Osler's book has been called the doctor's bible — that is, a book regarded as authoritative, or a preeminent work of literature.

I never met Dr. Osler and maybe I don't know what he was driving at; but from all I can learn from today's medical books and medical journals, I believe the Oslerian concept of chronic joint disability (called rheumatism in his day) was nearer the truth than that of any of medical authority who calls chronic joint disability "arthritis"

In the section on morbid anatomy (pathology) of chronic rheumatism, Osler describes physical degeneration of joint tissues; —only he doesn't spell it out.

That's what chronic joint disability is, whether you call it chronic rheumatism or chronic arthritis, in the great majority of instances. In a few instances, joint disability lasting more than a year is due to sprain or strain, or loose cartilage or other effect of severe, or trifling injury. Inflammation and infection of the joint seldom lasts more than a year and therefore is not chronic.

As Osler said, chronic rheumatism "commonly comes on insidiously in persons who have passed the middle period of life." So do all the other manifestations of nutritional deficiency — deficiency through the years from childhood up to and including your bedtime snack tonight.

If inflammation or infection of the joints were present it would be fair to call the affection "arthr-itis" — a Greek-Latin word meaning literally joint inflammation.

Osler might as well have said that arteriosclerosis and-or slow heart muscle failure (C V D, cardio - vascular degeneration) comes on insidiously in persons who have passed the middle period of life, and that it is "most common among the poor" etc. etc., "whose occupation exposes them to cold and damp." Whose occuption doesn't?

The poor old gentleman — he turned up his toes at seventy —was inculcated with the cold and dampness phobia early in life and never shook it off through all eight editions of his book. In the later editions he made some quixotic gestures. Of pneumonia, he sighed, cold has for years been regarded as an important etiological factor ($5 word for cause). The frequent occurrence of an initial chill has been one reason for this wide-spread belief . . . we see the disease occur either promptly after a wetting or a chilling due to some unusual exposure . . . cold is now regarded simply as a factor in lowering resistence . . .

Internal remedies are of little service, said Dr. Osler in the section on treatment of chronic rheumatism

Neither aspirin nor any of the widely publicized "miracle drugs" has an curative effect on arthritis. Neither does diet, said the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, in 1957.

Osler did mention one thing that the Foundation solicitors evidently deem unworthy. He said: "It is important to maintain the digestive functions and to keep the general health at a high standard."

There'll probably never be another Osler. But what a boon it would be for people with chronic joint disability if a doctor with Osler's medical wisdom and newer knowledge of nutrition would write a textbook of Practice that would go through eight editions!

Yardstick For Aircraft

Stratford Beacon-Herald

The yardstick by which the modern aircraft's tremendous earning capacity is measured is "passenger miles per hour." That is why British civil aviation circles are looking forward to maintaining their jet-age prestige with the Vickers V.C.-10, due to enter service with United Kingdom Air Lines in 1963. It will carry 147 passengers, at about 600 miles per hour. Multiply these figures and you have 88,200 passenger miles per hour as its capacity.

By contrast, it would require 294 automobiles, each carrying five persons at sixty miles per hour, to equal the V.C.-10's passenger miles per hour capacity.

More than twenty years ago, the Handley Page 42, one of the largest airliners then in service, carried thirty-eight passengers at about 100 miles per hour, representing 3,800 passenger miles per hour. It would have taken Twenty-three H.P.42s to equal the capacity of one V.C.-10.

Compared with the V.C.-10's 88,200 passenger miles per hour capacity, that of the United States D.C.-8, soon to make its appearance, is 70,725, and that of the D.C.-3, the old two-engine workhorse of the airways, is but 3,790.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WITHOUT IT WE FAIL

The word "humility" has a long history. Whether in Sanskrit, Greek, Latin, or English the word means the same thing — "on the ground." The humble person is the one who has got down on the ground. He has bowed down. He has prostrated himself before something.

None of us like the idea of bowing down before another person, and our unwillingness to do so has occasioned most of these noble revolutions in which brave men laid down their lives in defense of freedom. But if we are wise, we do bow down before ideas and ideals. Ideas and ideals are powerful realities, and we never really understand an idea nor achieve an ideal until we have enough humility in us to understand what the idea is trying to tell us, or what the ideal is requiring of us by way of sacrifice and adaptation, and promising us. Only the truly humble learn. Only those who really bow down to the earth — down to the "humus," for thus is the word derived.

Great men like Washington, Lincoln, and Lee were conspicuous for their humility. Jesus said of Himself that He was meek and lowly of heart. And His word to His followers was: "Whosoever shall exult himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted."

212 Residents In County Home At Present Time

Hastings county council Thursday endorsed a resolution from the Ontario Association of Managers of Homes for the Aged calling for an amendment in the disabled pensions act which would allow such persons to retain their pensions when admitted to homes for the aged or other institutions.

At the present time pensions received by disabled persons are cut off by the government when they are admitted to homes for the aged.

This, it was stated, caused hard feelings among the inmates, with old age pensioners being allowed to retain part of their pensions for spending money, while the disabled person receives nothing.

The matter was brought up by Reeve Charles Long of Tyendinaga, who, as member of the County Home for the Aged Committee, said the Ontario Association was seeking support from county councils for their resolution.

Reeve A. G. Wilson as chairman of the county home committee read the committee report which showed there were 212 residents in the county home of which 49 were from the city of Belleville. During 1957 there had been 43 new admissions to the home, 12 of these from the city.

Thirty-one residents of the home had died in 1957, 13 of these being city residents.

During the year there had been a daily average of 197 residents in the home. The home infirmary had given care to an average of 47 patients each day of the year.

Reeve Wilson noted that a complete financial report for last year would be given at the next session of county council.

Clerk-treasurer Erle S. Denyes reminded reeves that the county was entitled to its share of grants received by the municipalities in lieu of taxes on federal government properties. Some of the municipalities had already been forwarding this money, he said.

SPOKE FOR EMPLOYEES

During the morning session of council Mr. Harold Mace, director of the Ontario Civil Service Association, addressed county council on behalf of county jail employees.

Mr. Mace asked council to consider the bringing of jail employee salaries more in line with those paid at reform institutions. He did not suggest that salaries be raised immediately to this standard, but that the county work gradually toward that goal.

He noted that jail salaries in Western Ontario were generally higher than they were in Eastern Ontario.

He also noted that the incorporation of county jails with the department of reform school was being urged by his associations and although it was felt the idea was very acceptable, as yet there had been no concerted move toward this goal.

Standardization of jail employees' pay scale and hours of work would speed this move if it were made, he said.

Other requests made by Mr. Mace were that fees for members of his association be deducted from employees pay and that the present cost of living bonus be included in the salary.

Mr. Mace compared salaries of jail employees in Hastings with those paid in neighboring counties.

Council considered a motion for grants of $100 to the various county public libraries with the exception of those at Faraday and Paudash and at S.S. No. 11 Sidney, which will receive $20 each. The motion was referred to ways and means.

Also referred to ways and means was a grant request for $1,000 for the Bancroft Red Cross Hospital.

$375,000 Budget Approved by County Council

PICTON — A budget of $375,000 for estimated road expenditures in Prince Edward County this year, was approved yesterday by county council. This represents an increase of $70,000 over last year and entails an addition of 2.9 mills on the tax rate.

Road engineer R. B. Allison presented a budget calling for expenditure of $425,000 while councillors wanted to keep items on the list, they were not willing to vote the amount required. After long discussion, the $375,000 figure was agreed upon. Reduction was made by striking out $8,000 for new machinery and $42,000 for construction.

CAST TIE VOTE

Frank Easton, who was chairman of a meeting of ratepayers of S.S. 13, Hallowell, at West Lake, was twice called upon to break a vote when the matter of a new school was being decided.

Fifty-two ratepayers were entitled to vote and all were present. First motion was to "build a one-room addition to the present school." Following a tie vote Mr. Easton cast a negative vote.

Then the second motion, "to build a new two-room school on a new site," resulted in a tie vote. Mr. Easton cast an affirmative vote to carry the plan.

Another meeting is being held to decide the site of the new school, but meanwhile, those opposed are trying to stop the new school being built.

Sunday School Lesson

Sins Against Brotherhood

By ROY L. SMITH

Few sins offended Jesus more seriously than sins against brotherhood. It was for the purpose of making emphatic the claims of our common humanity that he told the story of the Good Samaritan, and it was as a protest against snobbishness and unbrotherly attitudes that he told the story of the prodigal son.

CHURCH AS A FELLOWSHIP

The conspicuous quality in the life of the early Church which commended it to the mind and the conscience of that ancient day, was the fact that the Christians stood by one another.

A saying grew up among the people who watched the Christians, which was later coined into an epigram: "See how these Christians love one another."

> The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for January 26: "Organization of the Church", Acts 6:1-7; 20:16-38; Romans 12:3-8; I Timothy 3; 5:17-22.

No small part of the strength of the Mormon Church of modern times appears in the fact that they have been able to maintain much of this spirit of brotherhood. As one Mormon leader once put the matter; "If there is a Mormon anywhere in trouble, we are all in trouble."

And the vast organization among the Mormons, which is devised for the purpose of providing care for their unfortunates, is one of the most effective pieces of propaganda the Church has.

BY THE KITCHEN DOOR

A humble woman with a radiant face stood up before a large group of church women to lead their "devotional service." It was quite evident that she was not a trained public speaker, and it was equally evident that she was very nervous.

Face to face with the women who knew her as a faithful performer of plain duties, she said, "I guess I came into the church by way of the kitchen door, for most of my services have been rendered there. I have cooked, washed dishes, and waited on tables to the best of my ability and the glory of God for almost 40 years."

And who is to say that she will not find the words "well done" written down after her name in one of God's books? A room well swept and clean, made so as a part of one's devotion to his Lord, can be almost sacramental.

It is one of the glories of the Church that it is able to use any honest and useful skill with which any person is endowed.

YOU ARE THE CHURCH

A young man—a skilled mechanic—was driving a visiting clergyman from his home town 50 miles across the country to another city. Enroute they passed a huge factory, consisting of perhaps 20 buildings scattered over several hundred acres.

"Do you see that red brick building, over there behind this gray stone one?" he asked. "I work on the second floor, on the south side. There are 74 of us in that department and so far as I know I am the only one in all that crowd that ever goes to church or tries to live a Christian life.

"Sometimes I have to remind myself that I am, so far as that department is concerned, all there is of the Christian Church. If I do not do good work, then the Church has failed so far as those men are concerned. If I cannot be relied upon, then the Church is undependable. If I am careless, then some poor unfortunate devil may have to pay for the Church's carelessness.

"It is pretty serious business being the Church in the midst of 74 other people."

Men's Club Plans Bowling Tournament

The regular meeting of Christ Church Men's Club was held Tuesday evening.

The meeting was opened by prayer, led by president Don Creswell. The minutes were read by Alf Francis, and treasurer, Doug. York, read his report.

The president welcomed the new members and hoped they would be able to attend future meetings.

On February 4th a carpet bowling tournament is to be held in the new parish hall.

It was decided that a Brotherhood banquet be held in April. The speaker for the evening will be decided on by the executive.

After the meeting, games were played and refreshments were served.

Women's Institutes

TWEED — CHAPMAN W.I.

TWEED — The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. William Keitly, Colborne Street, January 21st, with Mrs. Burton, acting secretary for the meeting. Twenty-one members and three visitors were present.

All correspondence was duly attended to and the members agreed to send $10 to the Provincial Board in aid of the F. W. I. C. O.

There is a "Pullover Drive" being sponsored by the head office in Toronto, and pullovers, sweaters and cardigans are wanted for this drive for bales for Korea, ranging in age from 3 to 15 years. These were requested from any members who could and would donate.

A cooking and apron sale will be held by the Institute on February 15th, either in Ed. Way's garage show rooms, or if this is not available, in the township hall at Hungerford.

GARDEN CLUB LEADERS

Garden Club leaders were appointed and Mrs. Doris Lawrenson was named as leader with Mrs. Isobel Martin as assistant. The Garden Club is affiliated with the 4-H Club, and the reason for the early appointment of leaders is so that seeds can be looked after in the proper time.

Further discussion took place regarding used layette clothes which must be in good shape and clean to be sent to Arabia. The layette will consist of 4 diapers, 2 nighties, 2 jackets, 2 shirts or vests, 1 binder, 4 safety pins, 1 bath towel and 1 bar of toilet soap. Should any member not have a complete layette, bring it along to the next meeting and the articles will be sorted by the members and packed in suitable layette bundles and sent to the needy.

The literature which came through to the Institute states that the Arabians are in drastic circumstances in regard to infants' clothes, in fact they are at present using ordinary newspapers for diapers for the babes.

Mrs. Stanley Webb, who is the Health convener and an ex-nurse, was the leader for the meeting, and read an interesting and educational paper on the use and misuse of tranquilizers.

Mrs. Clarence Graham gave an interesting reading also at this time, entitled: "A Garden Story for Rural Leaders". Another enjoyable reading was by Mrs. Burton Coulter, entitled, "Man's Best Medicine".

Mrs. Webb gave an excellent and inspiring talk on elderly citizens.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Mitchell Rannie, on the third Tuesday in February.

"WHAT ARE YOU DOING THIS EVENING, LILIAN?"

"Well, I'm going to soak up a lot of information, education, entertainment and relaxation, at the same time."

"My goodness! Where are you going for all that."

"I'm not GOING—I'm staying . . . staying at home for it."

"What's this . . . some private tutor coming to your house?"

"In a way, yes. Although this is a public tutor . . . it's the Toronto Daily Star. I'm tired, and I get the best relaxation from a good session with the Star."

"I see what you mean . . . you get information in the Star's complete coverage of the news—in words and the marvellous Picture pages."

"And I get education in all the subjects a woman wants to be well-informed about . . . fashions, cooking, home management, movies."

"Well, I take the Star also. I too get a lift from all those things. And I learn a lot from the Star's brilliant contributors."

"I see you and I feel alike about the value of the Toronto Daily Star."

St. Margaret's Evening Guild Elects Officers

The annual meeting of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Evening Guild was held at the rectory on Monday with the rector, the Reverend L. Arthur Page, presiding.

The reports were read showing that the Guild has had a most successful year, and the officers for 1958 are as follows: honorary president, Mrs. L. A. Page; president, Mrs. G. Montford; vice-president, Mrs. Elliott; recording secretary, Mrs. F. Platt; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. Todd; treasurer, Mrs. S. Sillitoe; group leaders: Mrs. Woodcock, Mrs. P. Pickering, Mrs. W. Roblin and Mrs. R. Bailey.

The regular meeting followed the installation of officers, with the president, Mrs. G. Montford, in the chair.

Correspondence included a letter from UNICEF committee in Toronto announcing the results of the Canada-wide shell-out for UNICEF campaign. On Junior Magazine, (CBC), a cheque for over $70,000 will be given to a UNICEF representative from New York. The presentation will be made by a youngster from Montreal on behalf of the children across the country.

Mrs. Montford outlined plans for the coming year and introduced Mr. J. Ritchie, people's warden, who spoke on the important part the ladies of the church will be taking in the February canvass. She also outlined briefly the duties involved.

After the rector closed the meeting, a social time followed with refreshments served by the hostess, Mrs. L. A. Page, assisted by Mrs. J. Ritchie.

Energetic Club Plans for Future Events

The Energetic Club of Holloway St. United Church held its regular meeting on Wednesday evening.

Those taking part in the devotional period were: Ray Herbert, Elgin Moynes, Cam Hitchon and Bill Campbell, using "Generosity" as the theme.

Plans were made to attend the dance in February, which is being sponsored by the Young Married Couples and Young Adult Clubs of the Belleville Presbytery.

A committee has been formed to plan for the Energetic Club reunion to be held in the late spring.

It was decided that the next meeting, on February 12, be considered "Nursery Night" — with as many toys, used or new, as possible to be brought in for the church nursery, which is sponsored by the Energetic Club.

Refreshments were served by the members of the executive.

Work of Homemakers Praised At Red Cross Meeting

During the past year a total of 467 children in 226 homes were cared for by the Homemakers' Service, committee chairman, Mrs. Allen H. Ketcheson, announced in a report submitted at the annual meeting of the Belleville branch of the Canadian Red Cross Monday night.

The majority of cases were repeaters, maternity cases, or homes in which the mother or children were ill.

Twenty-five families were supplied with used clothing and baby clothes; and baby food, contributed by the Gerber Co., was given to five infants and one invalid.

The supervisor, Mrs. J. A. Buchanan, made a total of 611 calls and spoke at pre-natal classes given by the Public Health nurses.

Mrs. Ketcheson reported the Homemakers' Service recently celebrated its tenth anniversary with a special party.

During the party, Miss Josephine Tickel, Red Cross secretary in 1948, gave a brief review of the history of this service, which was organized 10 years ago by the late Morley Duff and vice-president, Leo B. Riggs. The service then consisted of the supervisor, Mrs. Buchanan, and two homemakers. It now has 10 homemakers, five of whom have qualified for Homemaker pins.

Over the past ten years the service has handled an estimated total of 1,719 cases, and cared for 3,459 children. This work was carried out by 35 homemakers, nine of whom qualified for pins. The supervisor made a total of 5601 calls and held 111 educational meetings for homemakers.

The service is designed to serve all local citizens when sickness strikes, and is particularly available to families with children. It is given free of charge to those who are not able to pay the regular fee. All others are required to pay all or part of the fee depending on financial circumstances.

This past year the Red Cross Loan Cupboard has helped 132 persons, committee chairman Mrs. Allen H. Ketcheson, reported at the annual meeting of the Belleville branch of the Red Cross Monday night.

Beds, wheel chairs, walkers, cradles, crutches, and sheets, were among the numerous items loaned to families in Campbellford, Deseronto, Madoc, Marmora, Thurlow, Trenton, Tweed, Picton and Shannonville, as well as in Belleville and the immediate district.

Three new wheel chairs and a hospital bed were among the items purchased by the committee this year.

The committee chairman in her report extended thanks to Miss Dorothy Connor, V. O. N., Miss Draycott and Miss Williams, of CARS, also Mrs. Thomas Holland, and Mr. and Mrs. Art Bridge.

Twenty-eight persons are taking the Home Nursing class directed by Mrs. D. Muirhead, it was announced at the annual meeting of the local branch of the Red Cross Monday night.

The classes, which began in October, are expected to be completed in February. Because of the popularity of these classes, another course will commence next September.

Civil defence has been incorporated into the course this year along with the home nursing techniques.

John Knox Group Elects 1958 Officers

The John Knox group of the Women's Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, formerly under the leadership of Mrs. W. N. Ponton, held their meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gordon Robertson, William Street.

The officers elected for the ensuing year were:

President, Mrs. Gordon Robertson; vice-president, Mrs. H. McElhiney; treasurer, Mrs. J. Marshall; assistant, Mrs. A. Williamson; secretary, Mrs. Chadwick; assistant Mrs. C. E. Argue.

The hostess served refreshments.

St. Anne's C.W.L. Plans Coming Events

The January meeting of St. Anne's C.W.L., Point Anne subdivision, was held recently in the school. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. L. Bradshaw.

Mrs. B. Whalen reported three cards had been mailed to sick members. It was moved and carried that the league convene an apron, home bake sale and euchre to be held in March.

The meeting was adjourned by Mrs. A. Genereux, and closed with prayer by Mrs. Bradshaw, after which progressive euchre was played, followed by refreshments.

Accountancy Said Fine Field For Women

CALGARY (CP)—Eileen Lundie, first woman to become a chartered accountant in Calgary, says she is not too happy about being the only woman in a predominantly masculine field.

Miss Lundie received her degree recently when the Alberta Institute of Chartered Accountants held its annual presentation of certificates.

"Not that I don't like being an accountant," she said. "I love the work. But I've been dying for some female company. You have no idea how much you tire of listening to nothing but male conversation.

"Sometimes I'm just dying to have a girl at the next desk who will gossip about fashions and the latest hair-styles."

LONG TRAINING

How did she happen to choose commerce for a career?

Miss Lundie admitted she was rather good at mathematics when she was in school at Lacombe, Alta. In fact, she made 100 per cent in her senior matriculation trigonometry examination paper.

"I loved math and science," she added. "When I graduated a local firm of accountants asked if I would be interested in articling with them. I thought it was a wonderful idea."

Miss Lundie explained that becoming a charted accountant is one way of obtaining a degree without going to university.

"There are two ways of becoming a chartered accountant. You can take a three-year course at university and then article for two years or you can go straight into an office and article for five years, writing three different sets of examinations."

She chose the latter method.

Enthusiastic about accountancy as a career for girls, Miss Lundie said "there are loads of opportunities and if you choose carefully there are many positions which girls can fill every bit as competently as men."

She found little prejudice against women employees wherever she worked but admitted that some firms "just won't hire a girl. They've never done it and they don't intend to begin."

The Experts Say

Homemade Pea Soup Sure Hit, Easy to Prepare

By MARY FRAN BURKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Every good cook usually has her own specialty and to some it means making their own soup. One thing to remember is to fit the type of soup to the meal you are planning.

For a hearty dinner start off with a thin, clear soup such as consomme or a beef bouillon. On the other hand for a light supper or luncheon, the thicker, more filling, soups such as chowders, cream or vegetable soups are more suitable.

Homemade pea soup is sure to be a hit with your family and for the beginner is easy to make. The recipe calls for 2 qts. cold water. Add a ham bone, 2 cups green split peas, 2 stalks of celery cut fine, 1 onion chopped, ¼ tsp dried thyme, 1 bay leaf, salt and pepper to taste.

Cook until peas are soft. Force through coarse sieve and return to heat. Bring to a boil and serve with croutons.

TRY VICHYSOISSE

If you are one of the lucky homemakers with an electric blender in your kitchen you'll have no trouble convincing your husband you're the cook he's always dreamed about. Serve some creme Vichysoisse for a refreshing change.

Vichysoisse—the original is a creation of the celebrated Diat of the Ritz—is made by blending onions, leeks and potatoes with condensed cream of chicken soup and light cream until it's satin smooth. No one flavor dominates.

Vichysoisse is served ice chilled with a garnish of chopped parsley or chives. The recipe calls for 2-3 cup thinly sliced leeks, 1-3 cup thinly sliced onions, 1 tbsp. butter or margarine, 2 cups thinly sliced potatoes, 2 cups water, 1 can cream of chicken soup, undiluted, ½ cup of light cream, 1 cup of milk, 1 tsp. salt, and dash of pepper.

Cook leeks and onions in butter until soft. Add potatoes and water, simmer, covered, 20 minutes longer or until potatoes are soft. Add soup, simmer, covered, 10 minutes. Force through a fine sieve. Add remaining ingredients, blend well. Chill at least four hours.

OYSTER STEW RECIPE

The call "soup's on" is especially welcome during cold winter days and oyster stew as soup fare is highly recommended.

Why not try this oyster stew recipe — 2 tbsp. butter, large pinch paprika, dash of tabasco sauce, good dash of Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper to taste, 32 oysters, a cup of thin cream, 2 cups rich milk and butter.

Put butter, paprika, tabasco, Worcestershire, salt, pepper and oysters in top of double boiler. Heat over boiling water until the edges of the oysters begin to curl. Then add milk and cream.

When it is hot ladle into warm soup bowls into which you have put a portion of butter. Serve at once, with salted oyster crackers

Soroptimists To Hold Joint Meeting

Miss Lavinia Grace Nicholls, of Toronto, treasurer of Soroptimist International Association, and past president of the American Federation will be the guest speaker at the inter-club dinner meeting of the Soroptomist International Clubs of Belleville, Peterborough and Oshawa meeting in Cobourg on Saturday, 25th. Her topic will be, "What is the Soroptimist International Association?"

Miss Nicholls is vice-president and managing director of the Toronto Mutual Life Insurance Company, also a member of the Executive Committee of the Canadian Life Officers' Association; the Women's Canadian Club, the Toronto Field Naturalists' Club and others.

Belleville Soroptimists have had a busy season. One of the Club's activities has been the presentation of an automatic washer and drier for the new Receiving Home for the C.A.S. which will be opened in the near future at 73 Highland Avenue.

Tops for Winter

By TRACY ADRIAN

A tweed coat has few geographical limits. For instance, this black and white tweed might live in the country, visit the city or go travelling abroad.

Cut straight, it incorporates this year's added easiness at the back by means of a long, flat panel accented with two ebony buttons. It is completely lined in a snug pile fabric of modified acrylic fibre that provides warmth without weight. The front is Empire in feeling, with a graceful shawl collar.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mildred T. — We should send Phyllis away for a year.

Gilbert T. — She always ducks out of her responsibilities.

* * *

Mildred T. — My husband and I have been married for 18 years — yet we have never gotten along from the first day. We probably should have separated, but we decided to stay together for the children's sake. Yet I wonder if it was the right thing.

Our daughter, Phyllis, is now 17 and terribly unhappy at home. At times I feel she actually hates us both. When she is angry, she always throws it up to us that we should have been divorced.

I would now like Phyllis to spend a year with my sister. My sister's children are grown up and married and she is rather lonesome. It would do us all good to get rid of some of the tensions in our home.

* * *

Gilbert T. — This is typical of my wife. If anything is too much trouble, she tries to duck out on her responsibilities. When Phyllis was a baby, she always had this same sister coming over to help her — even though any normal woman is able to care for her own child.

Phyllis is now at an age when she needs a mother's supervision. My wife can't handle her. Phyllis has no respect and disobeys all the time. So Mildred figures she'll just ship her off.

Well, it just happens that this sister of Mildred's is a lot like her. She thinks she wants Phyllis now, but if any problems arise, she won't want to be bothered. She'd think nothing of going away for the weekend and leaving Phyllis alone.

* * *

The Council: A year's visit in a happy home might give Phyllis a pleasant respite and help her toward a happier general outlook. However, if Gilbert is giving a truthful picture of his sister-in-law, this home would hardly be the one for her.

In any case, since they have other children, Mildred and Gilbert cannot afford to take a short-sighted view of this problem. The younger children will soon reach the age when they will clearly reflect the bitterness that corrodes the family life.

Mildred and Gilbert should recognize that their decision to "stay together for the children's sake" has been halfhearted. Such a decision involves more than remaining together under one roof. The decision needs to be implemented by the emotional force of love if the goal is the creation of a happy home for children.

Mildred and Gilbert should try to see that there can be many forms of love, but none will withstand a constant onslaught of bitterness and recriminations. They should recognize that their common desire to create a home for their children represents at least one powerful love bond between them. They need to feed this bond with mutual respect and consideration. It would undoubtedly grow if given the proper nourishment.

Once they have helped themselves, Mildred and Gilbert will be in a better position to help Phyllis and their younger children.

Women's Institutes

PINE GROVE W.I.

MARSH HILL — The members of Pine Grove Women's Institute met for their January meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Campbell, with 12 members, two visitors and two children present

The president, Mrs. Allyn Finkle, presided and opened the meeting with a reading, "Recipe For A New Year."

The correspondence was read and dealt with. During the business it was decided to have a social evening on January 23 with the 7th line ladies as a committee.

The standing committee ocnveners reported. Current events, prepared by Mrs. Charles Mayell, were read by Mrs. Farley Lindenfield.

Mrs Harry Coulter, convener of community activities and public relations and also district president, was in charge of the program and gave a full report of the first national convention of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada. This convention was held at the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa.

Mrs. Finkle thanked Mrs. Coulter for her address and sharing her experience at the convention with the Institute members. She also conducted two contests.

Refreshments were served by the lunch committee.

Women's Activities

UNITED CHURCH W.M.S.

FRANKFORD — The W.M.S. of Frankford United Church met at the home of Mrs. P. E. Bonisteel, last Thursday afternoon. The eeting opened with Mrs. Fred Charlesworth, presiding. The thought for the day was on "prayer".

Mrs. J. A. Lott took charge of the worship service and read the poem, "The Master Face to Face".

Mrs. Charlesworth gave a welcome to all, and the secretary, Mrs. Reid, gave her report. Mrs. Madill gave the treasurer's report, the annual report. The allocation exceeded last year's by $50.

The business was discussed. The World's Day of Prayer will be held in Frankford United Church on February 21.

Mrs. P. E. Bonisteel conducted the program. Mrs. G. Spencer read the Scripture from Philippians 2 and Mrs. Bonisteel commented on the same.

Mrs. J. M. Dafoe gave an inspiring address, "The New Year", opening with a poem, "Comfort for the New Year".

CENTENARY UNITED CHURCH

The annual congregational meeting was held in Centenary United Church hall on January 20th at 8 o'clock.

Mr. R. Percival conducted the meeting. The present membership of 101 showed a gain of seven over the preceding year. The reports of all organizations were given, showing a successful year both spiritually and materially. During the year an "Every Member Visitation" was completed in connection with the Sector plan. The Sunday School held a Vacation School under the leadership of Mr. R. Percival during the summer, which was successful. The total givings from the church and all organizations for all purposes were approximately $6366, of this, $1325 was for missions.

Mr. R. Edmondson and Mr. E. Ray thanked Mr. Percival for the leadership he had given during the past three years as student minister, and wished him and Mrs. Percival happiness and success in their work in the years to come. Mr. Percival replied, saying how he had enjoyed his ministry at Centenary and thanked the members for their co-operation. The guidance and help he had received from Rev. A. C. McCallum, supervising minister, had been a real blessing to him.

Mr. Percival closed the meeting with prayer.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour was spent at the close of the meeting.

The meeting adjourned and closed with prayer.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

THE POLITE GIRL SAYS "THANK YOU"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

If a boy holds a door open for a girl, or helps her on with her coat, things like that, is it really necessary for her to thank him?
– Rita

You don't think so? Well, you should think so. Open those pretty lips of yours and say a pretty "Thank you" to the boy who does any courtesy for you, large or small. That's polite, right.

CORRECT FORM OF NAME FOR RECENTLY-DIVORCED WOMAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:
